THE MANUFACTURE OF PAINTINGS BY THE "OLD MASTERS."

There is one class of picture-dealers and picture-makers whom this beautiful process of chromo-lithography will seriously injure. I mean those who make and sell those landscapes which are offered at the New York ferries for five dollars a pair, frames and all; also those who sell at auction "splendid oil paintings collected by a well-known connoisseur recently deceased." Some of these fine days I am informed by one who has done it, a German artist whom poverty and love of the English language compelled to the English language, comes to a few months to misuse his brush in this way, are executed a dozen at a time, and are paid for by the dozen. Twelve canvas are set up in a large garret room, the painter, with paint pot in one hand and brush in the other, goes his rounds; putting in all the skies; next perhaps, putting in the trees; and finally the grass; then, his cows, sheep, and children and a few cows, sheep, and children and so on. A good hand can execute a very fair dozen in a week, for which, in these times, he may get as much as twenty dollars. Before the war, the established price for a good article of an old master was twelve dollars a dozen, and his own paint.

The principal manufactory in the United States of this description of ware is in a large loud and noisy street of a city which must not be named. It is styled by its proprietor "The American Art Gallery for the Encouragement of Art and Young Artists," but, among the unhappy young men who earn a sorry livelihood by plying brush therein, the establishment is known as "The Slaughter-House," and its proprietor as "The Butcher." This man of blood is an auctioneer in a street that has become common with the illustrious orator and statesman whose name it bears, wherein in needy circumstances can either purchase or buy indispensable garments. It is now his boast that he is the great patron of the fine arts in America, and his ways of patronizing art are unique. He will have pictures painted by any artist whose necessities are urgent, and he will keep as part of his stock in trade. In a room partitioned off from the "American Art Gallery" just mentioned, he has a number of "hands" multiplying copies of these pictures as fast as they can dash on the paint. These "hands" he pays weekly wages which average less than the wages of laborers, accordingly as they practice a dexterity in making copies that is truly remarkable. Behind these, he has outdoor hands, who, like tailors, take their work home and do it by the piece. The pictures are offered for sale in the Gallery; but as they depreciate rapidly, the proprietor holds an auction every few weeks, either of the Old Masters or Great Living Artists. These auctions take place by turns, in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, and San Francisco. The Germans, my German artist says, are the patrons of the "American Art Gallery for the Encouragement of Art and Young Artists," the sales in San Francisco being the most frequent and profitable. Even to Australia, on the other side of the globe, consignments of these precious works are sent for the Art Gallery in the nameless city. The prices offered at the auction sales are freely advertised and declared to be enormous. Paintings by native artists from the "American Gallery for the Encouragement of Art and Young Artists." The frame, of course, an item of the first importance in the art of picture. The butcher manufactures his own frames, and takes care they shall be splendid. This is probably the secret of his success; for what is more dear to the heart of man and woman than a gorgeous parlour? This amiable trait turns in the breast of every true artist, and it is this which creates the demand for splendid gilt frames with some people to them that looks a little like a picture frame. PARTON.

London, England, during the past week the inspectors of markets and slaughter-houses have condemned 236,953lbs, or 118 tons, of human food, consisting of 1,000 sheep and lambs, 141 calves, 825 quarters of beef, and 4,118 joints, besides 10 casks of tongues, 1001bs of sausages, 2 goats, 29 deer, 4 quarters of venison, and 2,349 heads of game and poultry. In Billingsgate Market the fish-merchants and Fishmongers' Company have condemned 102,630 fish, besides 51 bushels of periwinkles, 1,777 bushels of whelks and mussels, 1,497 gallons of shrimps, 677 of whitebait, 1,560lbs of cockles, and 7 tons of dried codfish. In the course of the year nineteen persons were convicted of having sent diseased meat to London markets, and they have been fined from 20s to £40 each. In four cases the penalty was imprisonment for periods from fourteen days to three months.

TRUE LOVE.—A dear old lady keeps a school where young ladies are "finished." Among the pupils of these damsels range from 14 to 18. I asked her if she was not often troubled by her pupils falling in love. She replied unreservedly, "I have to contend with no greater difficulty. In a place like this, where we cannot walk in the garden without meeting half-a-dozen officers and flâneurs, it seems almost impossible to prevent flirtations of all sorts. I spare no pains or arts to guard against and counteract this; but the moment my only plan, when I see the tender passion has been developed, is to crush it in the bud."—"What do you mean?"—"Well, you will smile when I tell you; but the receipt is the antithesis of romance. It is the use of senna tea."—"Senna tea?"—"Yes, senna tea.—Whenever I perceive, as I do very often, that one of my young ladies has fallen (as she fancies) into love, I immediately make her a decoction of senna tea, standing by to see that she does not leave the dregs. This I always attended with success. The effect is always gives in after the first few doses; but usually it takes two or three weeks to complete the cure. I had one obstinate and protracted case that lasted a fortnight and I was firm to my plan, and I said it succeeded. You may depend upon it, that, as a cure for a school girl's love, there is nothing like senna

Frank Nye and Daniel Jones, commission merchants, and members of the Chicago, Ill. Board of Trade, were arrested in that city for swindling in the purchase and sale of oats, and taken before Justice De Wolf, where they were held in $2,000 bail each, which they were unable to give, and were therefore imprisoned.

THE MARQUIS OF BUTE SHOT IN EFFIGY.—On the Marquis's coming of age, there was a large distribution among the tenantry in Rothesay of lithographed portraits of his lordship. When the news of their lord's perversion reached the island, many of the portraits were taken from their frames and others hung upside down. But one doughty descendant of a covenanting house removed the portrait from the wall on which it had been hung, and placed it on a tree on his farmyard. He then loaded a fowling piece, and deliberately gring, shivered the unfortunate representation of the nobleman into a thousand fragments.

A Down Town Merchant,

Having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home, and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favour of homœopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still worse; and while contemplating another sleepless night the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and said nothing. That night all hands slept well, and the little fellow awoke in the morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practised upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering, crying babies, and restless nights have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet failed to relieve the baby, and overcome the prejudices of the mother. 25 cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Be sure and call for

having the fac-simile of "Curtis & Perkins" on the outside wrapper. All others are base imitations.

VERY NATURAL.—When a person has proved an article and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it is intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtful reputation, or concerning which he knows nothing. We are led to make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and truly valuable horse medicine known as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other; many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as a condition medicine, or for any complaint affecting the wind of horses. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

TWO QUESTIONS EASILY ANSWERED.—Why should men wear beards? Because they are a great protection to the throat and lungs, and add much to their personal appearance. Why should we use "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers?" Because when used for coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, hoarseness, &c, they act like a charm. Ministers and lawyers use them, physicians recommend them, and singers and public speakers say they are the very best medicine in existence for the cure of such complaints. Sold by all medicine dealers at 25 cts per box.

A CASE OF TWENTY YEARS' STANDING.

Philadelphia, Penn., June 25, 1867.

H. T. Helmbold, Druggist:

Dear Sir—I have been a sufferer for upward of twenty years with gravel, bladder and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu. I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised remedies, and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of buchu, cubebs, and juniper berries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and, with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary; and therefore concluded to defer, and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months.

I have not used any now for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste or odour, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.

EFFECT OF ADVERTISING.—It is amusing at times to observe the stores of the merchants who don't advertise; to see the anxious proprietors looking into the streets and see the people go by, wondering why they don't come in, while the stores of their neighbours who do advertise are thronged with customers. Some people will learn by observation, others will not.—Daily Palladium.

GUNN'S DERBY CONDITION POWDERS FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.

THIS Preparation, long and favourably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as lung fever, glanders, yellow water, heaves, coughs, distemper, founder, loss of appetite and vital energy. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite, gives a smooth and glossy skin, and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of cows this Preparation is invaluable. It increases the quantity and improves the quality of the milk, gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.
