RETURN OF THE ALABAMA. TREATY.

Washington, April 13.—The only speech on the Senate to-day on the Johnson-Clarendon Treaty, for the settlement of claims, was by Mr Sumner, and occupied two hours in delivery. Mr Sumner contended that instead of removing the ground that instead of removing grievances, it left nothing but grievances, and therefore could not be accepted as a settlement of the pending differences between the two nations. It offered no semblance of compensation, and was not be for the interests of humanity that the treaty should be ratified. Examining it from beginning to end, he showed it was merely for the settlement of individual claims on account, so that the sufferers by the misrule of England may counterbalance the British blockade runners. The case against England was elaborately stated, including the British proclamation of belligerency, and permitting the building, equipping of privateers in British ports, which had the effect of prolonging the war for two years. British and British supplies did their work; especially it failed in the purpose, and Lee succumbed. He spoke of the labor losses, not only by the destruction of shipping, which was comparatively trifling, in the destruction of the American commerce, the falling off in our exports of cotton, with due allowance for abnormal history, and the diversion of war: all of which the treaty were considered. The British privateer, he said, was a bold venture, involving the British Government, and should be made to respond in damages to the individuals who have suffered, as well as to the national government for the common good of all the people. The speech was a review of the points of the speech from reliable sources. Mr Sumner, of the circumstances, estimates it at about $110,000,000. When he resumed his seat, several Senators expressed their views in support of the speech; among them, Senators Stewart, Thurman, Morton, Warner, Fessenden and Chandler. The galleries were thrown open, so the public could be open to the public. Mr Morton, with others, expressed their satisfaction at the temperate and instructive speech delivered by Mr Sumner. They were sure the American people would stand by the interesting and important discussion. The Senate rejected the motion being opposed to it; and on Mr McCrery, Democrat, in its favor. The Senate unanimously removed the injunction of secrecy from only one part of the proceedings, the speech of Mr Sumner which will be published.

Washington, April 12.—This morning Mr Blanchard was found dead in his house in this city. The usual inmates, consisting of his wife and two girls, fled, and he is involved in mystery. All the doors and windows of the house were fastened from the inside except one from which the two young girls escaped. Blanchard's body was found in a brass kettle, and bore marks of a pistol ball. Nothing is known of the matter except that the neighbours heard a disturbance at 3 o'clock yesterday morning and the report of a pistol, when a man was seen out of the house and all the noise ceased.

Philadelphia, April 13.—Mrs Twitchell repeats a statement to the press in which she states that she knows not how or by whom the murder of her mother was committed, but that when she visited her mother in the prison, he implored her to clear herself guilty in order that his life might be spared.

Boston, April 13.—The crew of the Mary Celestine have been released. The authorities are well aware of the movements of the reported exhibition under General Banks.

New York, April 14.—The steamship Scotia arrived this morning from Liverpool.

General Sherman in a letter to the Tribune, says: At the time of Johnston's surrender, I drew up the terms with Mr Lincoln's consent. Brickenridge had nothing to do with them more than to discuss their meaning, and he knew they only applied to the troops. He forthwith proceeded to Washington, and, to escape from the country, a course which Mr Lincoln wished that Mr Davis should have succeeded in effecting. He, as all the other leading Southern men, against whom public indignation was turned with a feeling far more bitter against General Lee, Johnston and other purely military men.

Washington, April 14.—Mr Motley, our Minister to the Court of St. James, is expected to receive his credentials immediately, and it is expected that the matter of his instructions will be the subject of a cabinet meeting as soon as the Senate adjourns. The positive position the Senate has taken on the Alabama claims will be backed up by the President, and there are high expectations regarding his instructions to Mr Motley on this particular subject.

New York, April 13.—The Bank of the State of New York (this city) was yesterday swindled out of $26,000 by a forged gold check on Jay, Cooke & Co.

Milwaukee, April 13.—A despatch from Houghton, Michigan, dated the 12th, says:—At one o'clock yesterday morning, a fire broke out in a French saloon in Hancock, Michigan, which resulted in the almost complete destruction of the village—every store, business place, saloon, &c., except the post office, Gilson's tailor shop, and the millinery store near the Masonic Hall, being destroyed, together with about fifty private dwellings. The principal buildings saved were the Masonic and St Patrick's Hall, the Methodist and Catholic churches and schools, and a few buildings adjoining, lying west of them, and the warehouses, buildings and docks under the bluff on the lake shore. The distance burned over is about sixty-five acres, comprising six entire blocks, and containing one hundred and ten occupied buildings, besides the usual number of barns, &c. The loss will be not far from half a million of dollars, and the insurance covers about one hundred thousand. Over two hundred families are left homeless, or have lost a large portion of their effects. A meeting of the citizens of the county will be held to-day, to make suitable provision for the destitute, and to raise a fund for their relief—many of whom are in a pitiful condition.

EFFECT OF ADVERTISING.—It is amusing at times to observe the stores of the merchants who don't advertise; to see the anxious proprietors looking into the streets and see the people go by, wondering why they don't come in, while the stores of their neighbours who do advertise are thronged with customers. Some people will learn by observation, others will not.—Daily Palladium.
