UNITED STATES AND CUBA.

No doubt that an expedition of a filibuster sailed from this port on Sunday as stated in our issue (New York) of yesterday, and there is little doubt that its destination was Cuba, as fully as our reliable informant could at the time, the facts of the case were stated at the time, the facts of the departure of the steamers. We are enabled now to give a more circumstantial account of the movement.

The recent enlistments of men for this expedition have been going on in this city for some days past, and one or two drilling places have been open for the purpose of drilling the recruits. A recruiting station in Brooklyn is said to have existed at Brooklyn, under the care and supervision of an officer of the Union army, who served, it is said, during the rebellion he served under Sheridan in the Valley, and that during the last two months this officer has recruited about 450 men for the expedition which sailed on the Sunday morning of this force, and perhaps more.

The vigilance of the authorities was directed toward preventing the management of the wrong ship. Reports were circulated to the effect that the steamer Arago was bound for the West Indies with warlike stores, and that she carried about 300 men together with an ample cargo of munitions of war. The new United States District Attorney, General Francis C. Barlow, ordered his subordinates to inquire into the matter, and it was ascertained that the Arago was detained at the Custom-house for St. Thomas. On Friday last, and that she subsequently anchored at Gravesend Bay, on Long Island coast, nine miles distant from the city, going from thence to sea the same afternoon, instead of the following morning as announced in some of the journals. Her pilot was found by the revenue officer and he stoutly contradicted the statement that there were men on board the steamer, pronouncing the story in every particular. He was corroborated by another pilot, who was a witness to the departure of the vessel.

Captains Tankree and Philip, belonging to the Atlantic Submarine Wrecking Company, are mentioned in the reports as having conveyed the troops on board the steamer. Captain Hazard, of the former gentleman, visited last evening by our reporter, gave a new and authentic version of the story of the expedition. He says that on Sunday morning up the Bay on Tuesday morning when he was hailed by Mr Dodge of the Wrecking Company, from whom he was told to go to the foot of Canal-st, North River, and receive a number of passengers. He accordingly did so, and about seventy-five men on the steamer on his arrival. They had no baggage, and were apparently very anxious to be off. The most of them talked and behaved in a manner calculated to excite suspicion. After they came on board the steamer, he was acted as their leader and ordered the Captain to put them on board the steamer Pierrot, which was lying off Governor's Island. On the arrival of the latter vessel, a large assemblage of dark-complexioned men were seen on her upper deck. About 125 of them were brought there by the tugboat from the foot of Eighth-street, East River. The steamtug Martha was also said to have conveyed men on board, including the leaders of the expedition, who were seen lying alongside the steamer Captain Hazard. The commander, Captain George Fletcher, in conversation with Captain Hazard, divulged the existence of a large cargo of ammunition in the hold of his vessel. He said that they were obtained on Governor's Island, and that he had received by his vessel on Thursday morning lying at Atlantic Basin, where at that time. Captain Hazard thinks his information as reliable.

The purpose of the expedition is represented by General Domingo de Goisouria, who has passed his whole life to struggles for independence, besides engaging in filibustering movements. In 1851 he was against the Spaniards under Lopez, and afterward participated with Walker in his raid on Nicaragua. He is said to be a man of medium height, with long grey beard, and very piercing eyes. After the Pierrot had left the men from the tugboat she weighed anchor and stood out to sea. It is intimated to Captain Hazard that he would land her passengers along the Cuban coast, and that he would subsequently unite with them. He was not made cognizant of the fact, however, until it was too late to give to the authorities here. The Arago, it is alleged, is owned by Mr Tinston & Co., and is regularly plying between this city, Havana, New Orleans and Galveston. The Arago, which is now at Galveston, is believed to be off her way to join a Peruvian squadron which is now at New Orleans. She was chartered by the North American Steamship Company, but was sold by the 16th of April to parties unknown to the Company giving a bill of sale.

Madrid, May 5.—The Spanish Minister at this country has repeatedly, within the last four or five weeks, called the attention of the State Department to the fact that vessels with guns and material of war have left United States ports under clearances, their ultimate destination being a secure bay or harbour in the island of Cuba. The American agents of the insurrection appear to have continued their operations with the utmost freedom, and up this time there has not been a single vessel aware, the slightest infraction of the neutral law. The reports that large vessels have either sailed or will sail in a few days are very greatly magnified. A few days ago, Colonel Roberts, the Minister of the Spanish authorities called on Secretary Fish and handed him a list of eight small vessels which recently left New York with arms and ammunition. Colonel Roberts, "I know, sir, that I cannot complain of this, as these vessels have cleared from New York ports, where they hoist the English flag and watch a chance to slip out of port and land their cargoes. I merely call this list to assure that I am not deceived. In a few days I hear of either the landing of these vessels or their capture by our gunboats." Much has been talked much more on the subject, but at present there is no reason to apprehend any entanglement between the United States and Spain. A gentleman in high official position here expressed the opinion to-night that, on an average, about one vessel a week leaves New York for Nassau, but the resources at the command of the revolutionary agents do not enable them to accomplish any more than this. There is not the slightest doubt that the United States authorities are anxious to maintain a strict neutrality, and will call the full force of the government if necessary into operation to prevent a violation of the laws. No statute of the United States has been broken so far, and consequently no complaint has been made to the Executive. That the Cubans are hard pressed for money may be judged from another fact. Some weeks ago a prominent rifle manufacturer, a New-England man, was given a large order by the insurgent agents for breech-loading rifles. The order was promptly filled, the arms were packed in cases, but the manufacturers refuse to deliver them until their full value is paid. No information whatever, official or unofficial, has been received at the State department to-day relative to Cuban affairs.

The steamer St. George, recently wrecked near Barrington, has gone to pieces.

The result of the deliberations of the Chicago Board of Trade relative to what should be done to remedy the evils arising from the heating of corn in elevators, was the adoption of a resolution that, during the months of April, May, and June, the chief inspector of grain should "examine thoroughly into the condition of all the grain in store in the various elevators at least once a week, and oftener at times when grain is rapidly damaging."

A private letter from Rome, written, says the London Weekly Register, by one likely to be well informed on the subject, says that on the meeting of the Œcumenical Council in December next, one, and one only, political question will be discussed. This will be an endeavour on the part of the Holy Father, as the head of the United Church, to persuade the different nations of Europe to disarm their present enormous and costly armies and fleets, and submit their differences to arbitration. Non-Catholic as well as Catholic Powers will be urged not to break the peace, and to give a guarantee or promise that they will not do so. The Holy Father is reported to have said, that of the many felicitations he received on the anniversary of his jubilee, none gave so much pleasure as the unexpected courtesy of the Queen of England, who, although differing from Catholics in matters of faith, has by this simple act bound more firmly than ever in loyalty her many Catholic subjects.

The Pall Mall Gazette points out what an immense advantage it would be to Great Britain if a railroad were constructed from Ottawa to the Pacific through British Territory. The Pall Mall Gazette says: As this line would be in connection with the Grand Trunk and the Intercolonial, Halifax on the Atlantic would be placed in direct communication with a Pacific port, and merchandize might thus be forwarded through British territory between England and China or Japan. That this railway when made (and we have nothing to say about it as a railway scheme) would prove a formidable competitor with the line through the United States, has been asserted with great show of reason. Its cost has to be counted and its difficulties to be disposed of by the constructors and proprietors of the line. What concerns others is the fact that such a railway would shorten the distance between Liverpool and the East by 700 miles, as compared with the route through the United States.

Lewis Lane, who was executed at Pittsburg, Pa., on Thursday, may be called the Bluebeard of modern times. He had been married six times, and every one of his wives died under suspicious circumstances. For the murder of the last he was convicted, and has now paid the penalty of his crime. He was remarkably reticent throughout the whole period of his imprisonment, and indeed up to the hour of execution. As the bell struck the hour of noon, Sheriff Cluly entered the cell and bound the prisoner's arms, Lane meanwhile talking pleasantly to him. The prisoner, attended by the sheriff and the priests, then proceeded to the scaffold. About fifty people had been admitted to the yard. At the time of the execution rain was falling heavily. Lane approached the gallows with firm step and ascended the stairs unsupported. On the scaffold he recited a prayer in concert with the priests. The sheriff then asked him if he had anything to say. He answered, "Nothing whatever." The rope was then placed about his neck, and he shook hands with the sheriff and priests, bidding them good by. The cap was then thrown over his head and he was left alone. The trigger was then touched by the sheriff, but owing to the dampness the weight did not fall. The sheriff ran and pushed the weight, and instantly the trap fell and Lane was suspended. He fell three feet, and his neck was broken. He died instantly, and there was but little muscular contraction. The body hung half an hour, and was then placed in a gaol, where it still remains.

The returns from the various townships of Ontario, in reply to the circular of the Minister of Agriculture, continue to arrive, and exhibit a very large demand for labour throughout the country. From fifty-five of these, of which an abstract is before us, we learn that in these localities alone eleven thousand and fifteen could find employment. Perhaps some of these returns may be over-stated, while some of them are quite as likely to be put too low. We are afraid, for instance, that the demand for labourers is not so brisk in the township of Culross as to require 1,614, besides a large number of mechanics. This number is exceptionally large, and we suspect a mistake somewhere. It is very evident, however, that the demand for labourers on farms especially will be much larger than can be supplied. One thing farmers ought to see to without delay. In nineteen cases out of twenty they have no houses to put married workmen into, and it is absurd to ask for labourers from the emigration office, and when men with wives and children are sent to them, have no place to put them into. Cottages with small gardens, like the ploughmen's houses in Britain, are greatly need everywhere. Leaving out altogether the exceptionally large demand of 400 servant girls for one township, we find that in these fifty townships, upwards of 2,000 girls could find employment at remunerative wages, viz., from $3 to $5 per month.—Globe.

Work will be commenced in a few days for the construction of a new lighthouse, and the establishment of a new light at the entrance of the Oswego Harbour. The light will probably be what is called "a flash"—constantly visible with brilliant flashes at intervals of half a minute. There will be a beacon light on the end of the new pier, which is to run out into the lake four hundred feet from the lighthouse. The contract for the pier is let, and the work will be completed by the 1st of September next.

The Baltimore Commercial remarks that it is found by a careful investigation into the amount of last year's crops, and their selling prices, that the South retains about $200,000,000 gold from them. It is known that there is little debt there, the general crash having cleared away everything down to the foundation, and economy of expenditures having been substituted for extravagance.

VERY NATURAL.—When a person has proved an article and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it is intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtful reputation, or concerning which he knows nothing. We are led to make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and truly valuable horse medicine known as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other; many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as a condition medicine, or for any complaint affecting the wind of horses. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. TWO QUESTIONS EASILY ANSWERED.—Why should men wear beards? Because they are a great protection to the throat and lungs, and add much to their personal appearance. Why should we use "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers?" Because when used for coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, hoarseness, &c., they act like a charm. Ministers and lawyers use them, physicians recommend them, and singers and public speakers say they are the very best medicine in existence for the cure of such complaints. TWO TABLESPOONFULS of the Extract of Sarsaparilla, added to a pint of water, is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoctions as usually made.

AN INTERESTING LETTER is published in the Medico-Chirurgical Review, on the subject of the Extract of Sarsaparilla in certain affections by Benjamin Travers, F.R.S., &c. Speaking of those diseases, and diseases arising from the excess of mercury, he states that no remedy is equal to the Extract of Sarsaparilla; its power is extraordinary, more so than any other drug I am acquainted with. It is, in the strictest sense, a tonic, with this invaluable attribute, that it is applicable to a state of the system so sunken, and yet so irritable, as renders other substances of the tonic class unavailable or injurious.

EFFECT OF ADVERTISING.—It is amusing at times to observe the stores of the merchants who don't advertise; to see the anxious proprietors looking into the streets and see the people go by, wondering why they don't come in, while the stores of their neighbours who do advertise are thronged with customers. Some people will learn by observation, others will not.—Daily Palladium.
