CABLE NEWS.

London, June 2.—In the House of Commons this evening, in response to an inquiry as to the Government policy toward the Colonies, Mr Monsell, Under Secretary for the Colonies, Department, replied that he declined to enter on the general question of the Colonial policy of the Government. He intimated that part of the policy was to throw the cost of defence on each Colony. Measures to this effect had been partially taken, and would be extended next year. There is no doubt that the arrangement for the cession of the Hudson's Bay and Indian Territory would receive the support of the Canadian Government. The question was not one of purchase only, but of the development of colonization and civilization, which had hitherto been neglected. If the scheme were successful, the Dominion would be able to extend from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific, and that all the interests of British Columbia would be kept in connection with those of the Dominion, and every facility would be given to them.

Colonel Northcote, member for North Devon, thought that the Canadians were able to decide for themselves what course they would take in the matter than to the advice of the Government. He believed that this question would be satisfactorily settled.

Mr Bury regarded Canada as the highway to the Indies and the East. It had been said and written about the extension of the British possessions with the United States. He ridiculed this idea. He thought by such a course the Colonies had nothing to lose and nothing to gain.

Mr Adderly, member for North Staffordshire, and formerly Under Secretary for the Colonial department, regarded the argument as detailed and explained by Government as eminently satisfactory. If it were be generally disapproved of by the Government guarantees, ye the House in favour of this.

London, June 2.—In the House of Commons last night, Mr Seely, member for Nottingham, made some remarks on Ocean Postage. He urged that in future, contracts for the mails to the United States be for no longer a time than three years, and payment for the service be regulated by the amount of mails carried. He approved ocean penny postage, and hoped a treaty would be entered into with the Minister for the establishment of that purpose.

Lord Stanley of Harrington, Postmaster-General, defended the late mail contracts made by the government. Although he was not satisfied with the sentiments of Mr Bury, he was opposed to his proposals. If carried into effect, would lead to delay in the service, and the disinclination on the part of the Steamship Companies to compete with each other. If the present contracts would be given to a fixed subsidy; but was altogether doubtful of the success of any negotiation for the establishment of a penny postage across the Atlantic. At the conclusion of the Postmaster-General's reply the question was dropped.

Lord Stanley moved that a Special Committee be nominated to examine into the treatment of imprisoned Irish political prisoners.

Mr Chichester, Chief Secretary for Ireland, said that the complaints made of the treatment of these prisoners were exaggerated. He thought political prisoners before trial should be held under the control of the Government officers, and not in county gaols.

Extract from Messrs Gray and Maclean, condemning the present system of imprisoning prisoners in confinement, was divided on the motion and refused to support the Committee by a vote of 106 to 57.

Madrid, June 2, reverting to the correspondence between the English and American Commissions on the Alabama Claims, &c., says although we were well aware of the wishes and desire for a good understanding which characterized two successive British Governments, we know the lengths to which conciliation was actually carried, and how many of the concessions, it was their own propositions, were acts, which the Americans rejected through their Senate. When we remember the exacting and critical spirit contrasted with the conceding temper of Spain, and come to consider that all the concessions published was insufficient to prevent the rejection of the treaty, we despair of the success of any negotiations in which Spain maintains due regard for her own dignity and honour.

Madrid, June 2.—The Constituent Cortes have finally adopted the new constitution by a vote of 214 affirmatives and 55 negatives. After the vote was declared, the tribunes, amid much enthusiasm, announced that the Republicans, though opposed to some clauses of the Constitution which provided for the establishment of a monarchy, would support and follow them in the action made by the Republicans. The standing army in Spain be reduced from 35,000 to 25,000 was lost by a vote of 138 against 56.

Senor Topete informed the Cortes that political prisoners from Cuba were now on their way to Puerto Rico; but they would soon be transported to the Canaries.

Madrid, June 2.—It is officially announced that the Queen's birthday, the 10th of July, is to be celebrated at Madrid.

Senor O'Donnell while speaking in the Senate against the proposed reduction of the army, was seized with apoplexy and carried from the chamber.

Congress is engaged in signing the constitution which will be promulgated on the 6th inst.
