SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 19.

☞ SEE FIRST PAGE.

The House of Commons has opposed any increase to the salaries of the Warden and officers of the Kingston Penitentiary. M. Masson's resolution, which was carried, sets out that the salary of the Warden, besides lodging, fuel and light, to which he is entitled, should be $2,000 only, in lieu of $2,600—this officer to receive no other advantage or compensation whatsoever unless the same be deducted from his salary. The salary of the Deputy Warden should be $1000, in lieu of $1400. The salary of the Surgeon, or medical attendant, $1000, in lieu of $1200, and the salary of the Accountant $875 in lieu of $1000.

The Finance Minister in laying over the banking resolutions till next session, made another explicit declaration of the intention of the government to spare no pains to give the country a safe and uniform currency, and it is probable that when the question next comes up the same provisions as to currency will almost substantially remain. The objection that has been made to Mr Rose's scheme in Upper Canada has been on account of the restrictions which it would impose upon the issue of circulation. If his measure can be modified so as to meet the claims of Upper Canadian bankers by providing a wider limit to circulation, the strongest opposition that has been encountered will be modified and Ontario will be joined to the other provinces in accepting a banking and currency law adapted to the entire Dominion. From the numerous admissions of willingness to submit to regulations intended for the protection of the noteholder, the Finance Minister may count upon the command of support from the banking and commercial interests of Ontario in the event of a concession being made to their views and requirements.

Another triumph of the British constitutional system of representative government—another triumph of the good sense, characteristic of the ruling classes, which knows how to yield to demands which it would be foolish if not dangerous to resist—is proclaimed in the intelligence of today, which, recounting at satisfying length the turn and features of the grand historical debate, chronicles the great fact of the passage of the Irish Church bill to its second reading in the House of Lords. At three o'clock this Saturday morning, after repeatedly adjourned and long protracted debates, and amidst the heightened interest of spectators, including Royalty and its scions and younger nobles and gentry in the House, and waited upon by vast and eager crowds in the streets of the neighbourhood, the conflict of opinion culminated. The House divided and recorded a majority of thirty-three for Mr Gladstone's bill. The House of Lords at once became the theatre of a scene exceedingly rare in its precincts. Ordinarily there is no excitement on a division in the House of Lords. The House is calm and stately, preserving a quiet dignity throughout its entire proceedings, which are only now and then interjected with a mark of approval or dissent. But the Liberal majority in the House could not but give way to their feelings on this momentous occasion. They raised a cheer, which, caught up by the spectators and echoed to the streets, was swelled by the voice of the populace glorying in this triumph of opinion over power. For it is the fact that the predetermined opposition of the all-powerful Conservative party in the House of Lords has been overcome by the voice of argument, inducing it to weigh well the situation and future prospect, that the glory of this triumph consists. A cause which can exert such an influence must needs be right and good; and though the feeling of partizanship in regard to the question is removed from the British subjects in the colonies, yet as we in Canada are placed en rapport on this important event by the telegraph and the journals, our people cannot fail to have their interests and sympathy enlisted, and will join in the hearty cheer sent up at the early morning hour in London streets, and give vent to their satisfaction that the parliamentary machinery of the United Kingdom is fairly reflexive of national opinion and adequate to meet all demands that are exacted of it in the name of progress, justice, order, and good government.

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Friday, June 18.—In the House of commons additional estimates were brought down and concurrence was asked in those relating to the militia reported in committee yesterday. After full explanations the items were agreed to.

A number of bills were read a third time.

Hon Mr Rose said he was there to move the House into committee again on the vote respecting the salaries of the Warden and other officers of the Penitentiary at Kingston The Government felt that they owed a respectful acquiescence to the feelings expressed by the House last night that the salaries of these officers should be reduced, and he therefore proposed to go into Committee of the Whole with a view of reducing the amount for the service by $1,325, which was the aggregate amount of the increase.

Hon. Mr Smith asked explanations about the vote of $5,200, two years' salary as a gratuity to the retiring Warden of Kingston Penitentiary. If this gentleman had been an officer of the Province of Canada, why should not his retiring allowance be charged to that Province?

Hon. Mr Rose said the retiring Warden had rendered 25 or 30 years' faithful service, and had now retired in consequence of old age and infirmity. No one would say that he did not merit some allowance, and it was given in this form because there was no provision for pensions for retiring public officers.

Mr Mackenzie, in reply to Hon. Mr Smith's remark, said that already the complication of accounts between the several Provinces was bad enough, but it would be worse if payments like this were charged to the Province in which the officer had rendered service. He thought it better it should be charged to the Dominion, representing the Province on which the chief burden of such payments would probably fall.

The House then went into Committee of supply, Mr Street in the chair.

The first item in the Supplementary Estimates, Miscellaneous Justice, $3,000, being moved; in reply to Mr Mackenzie,

Hon. Mr Rose said a fee of $5,000 had been paid to Mr O'Reilly as counsel in the McGee trial besides the other expenses, amounting to about $5 000 more, connected with the trial, which appeared in the papers laid before the House. This did not include all the expenses, as some of the accounts had still to be adjusted.

The item was agreed to.

The item of $1,460,000 for opening of the North West territory was agreed to, and also other items, including one of $1,450 gratuity to officers of the House whose services were dispensed with last session.

Concurrence having been taken in the items respecting Penitentiaries etc, the House adjourned at 1:20 a.m.

We are requested to say that the death of the mother of Mr Daniel Macarow, announced in the Whig of this morning, is incorrect. The announcement was made in consequence of the receipt of a false telegram.

Dr. Maclean, formerly of this city, has been appointed one of the delegates to represent the American National Medical Association at the British Medical Association which meets at Leeds in August.

LACROSSE MATCH.—The smokers and non-smokers of the Kingston Lacrosse Club had another trial for superiority yesterday afternoon, which ended in a dispute, making the fifth time that they have endeavoured to play out a game and failed. In previous games this has occurred on account of the rain intervening. The first game yesterday was won in about six minutes by the smokers, who also took the second game. The anti-blasts then put forth their strength and won the third game, and in the fourth the wrangle ensued. The non-smokers claimed that they had put the ball through the goal, which was denied by their opponents, and as there were no umpires, no decision could be arrived at, and so the play was abandoned. We do not presume to say who had the right of the question, but as the game if given to the non-smokers would have made an even thing of it, we think the smokers might have given way and allowed the issue to be settled by the fifth game. It should be mentioned that the play was very good, and afforded some capital practice. There were only eight players aside instead of the usual twelve.

SHIPPING NEWS.—The schr. Denmark, with timber, from Bay city, arrived this morning at Garden Island. She reported having passed the wreck of the Fanny Campbell at Bar Point, and at the time a steamer was alongside her. The Wellington steam tug passed the port this morning with a raft of square timber for A. C. Thompson, of Quebec, containing 100,000 feet. The schr. Tecumseth arrived at Henderson's wharf this morning from Kincardine with 10,600 bush wheat. The prop. Brantford, with wheat for Montreal, and the schr. Jessie Drummond, with 325 tons pig iron for Chicago, leave Henderson's wharf this evening. The prop. Indian went up yesterday afternoon. The tug Mary Ann left Switt's wharf for Ottawa with two barges with gen. cargoes. The schr. Juliet from Chicago with wheat, arrived at the M. T. Company's wharf this morning. The tug Glide arrived to-day from Montreal with two of the M. T. Company's barges, and will leave again this evening with four barges with a united cargo of 55,950 bush wheat. The Fride of America has completed her discharge. St. Lawrence, the steamer St. Helen and the prop. Dominion with 300 bags of salt, passed up this afternoon, and the steamer Osprey passed down. Wind variable.

THE SAILOR'S STRIKE.—The majority of the unattached sailors in port this morning formed themselves into a combination to obtain higher wages, and were very soon joined by most of the crews of the various vessels in the harbour. They insist that the present rate, $25 per month, is insufficient, and demand one dollar a day Canadian, or its equivalent in American currency. The captains of the various vessels grumble greatly, and declare they will anchor sooner than accede to the demand, but a general impression prevails that in the end the strike will succeed, as it will be impossible to obtain crews outside the combination. A sailor's strike is a novelty in Kingston, a circumstance of the kind not having occurred for very many years. The present one appears to be nearly universal. Some captains claim, however, that their crews have been induced to join by intimidation.

The Army and Navy Gazette says that captain Healy, 16th Regiment, lately on the staff in Canada, has been appointed Brigade-major in Dublin, in succession to Capt. Beazley, 83rd Regiment.

THE APPLICATION OF THE INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY LOAN.

In the House of Commons on Thursday, on Mr Rose moving the House into committee of supply, Mr Holton called attention to the discussion in the British House of Commons on the 28th of May last concerning the application of the Intercolonial railway loan to the payment of the floating debt, in which the under-secretary for the colonies had said that the matter was under the serious consideration of the government. He wished to know whether this appropriation had been made without the consent of the Imperial government.

Sir John A. Macdonald said he could quite understand why the hon. member should object to the policy of the government, but he did not think that the statement of a subordinate officer of the Imperial government should be brought up as an accusation against a fair and honourable management of the Intercolonial railroad fund. The question raised in the Imperial parliament should not have been answered without referring to this government, as it was an unauthorized statement of a subordinate officer.

Mr Holton—"Unauthorized?" It was a statement deliberately made by the under-secretary, speaking on behalf of the government.

Sir John A. Macdonald did not hesitate to resent that statement, and would be prepared when the papers came down to show that everything had been done in a manner which would vindicate the honour and credit of the country.

Mr Blake said the question was—did the government obtain the assent of the Imperial government before putting the loan to such a use?

Sir John A. Macdonald said they had no necessity to ask it.

Mr Blake said then he agreed with the imputation implied in the answer of the under-secretary.

Sir John A. Macdonald said the gentlemen opposite were attacking the credit of the country. He denied that the Imperial government had any right to be consulted in the matter. The Imperial government had not claimed that right. All that they had asked had been done when the selection of the route and provision for the sinking fund had been made satisfactory. As to the statement of the under-secretary he had no hesitation in characterizing it as unwarranted and unauthorized, and the government had taken their own way to resent it. The money had been invested in securities bearing interest, with every regard to the credit of the country.

Mr Jones thought the money had been applied to a good use.

Mr Morris contended the credit of the country could not be compromised by the investment of the money when there was perfect security that it would be forthcoming when required.

Mr Rose did not intend to say a word on this matter, but since discussion had been pressed so far he would tell the hon. gentleman that the government had now $9,600,000 in the hands of their bankers He put to the hon. member for Chateauguay whether if he as a minister of finance had gone to England to negotiate that loan he would have been willing to accept the Imperial guarantee on condition that he would not be allowed to expend the money?

Mr Holton—No, most decidedly not.

Mr Rose—Then that is the whole case.

Mr Holton—No, no.

Mr Rose—The loan had been applied in the interests of this country, but the government had always placed the honour of the country before any mere financial gain, and this transaction would not only bear the fullest scrutiny, but show to honourable members on both sides that the honour of the country had been duly guarded. As soon as their attention had been called to this ill-judged discussion in the Imperial parliament the government had lost no time in taking measures to bring the subject under the notice of the Imperial government, and he believed the under-secretary would apologize to the high-spirited people of this country for the unfortunate statement made in the House. (Hear, hear.) He desired hon. members to suspend their judgment until a full statement was brought down.

IMMIGRANTS FOR THE WEST.—The steamer Passport arrived at Swift's wharf yesterday afternoon, having on board 400 Norwegian immigrants for the Western States. They were all clean and well dressed, and of intelligent appearance, and among them were families evidently of a better class than the ordinary immigrant. During the stay of the steamer they strolled through the streets of the city, and appeared to derive much amusement frym their inspection. They certainly compared favourably with a camp of gypsies who had come as far as Kingston in the steamer, and who disembarked their waggons, carts, dogs and children, a dirty careless looking lot, ready to trade horses, break in dogs, or anything else short of work.

The U.S. Marshal at New York has arrested and held to trial several members of the Cuban junta for violating the neutrality laws.

We see by the London Times of the 15th ult., that Canadian sixes have again advanced, and were then quoted at 105 to 107.

The Army and Navy Gazette received this morning says:—"We should not be surprised to find further considerable reductions in our colonial garrisons carried out in the course of next year." This determination is in accordance, we suppose, with the intimations conveyed to the Governor-General by Lord Granville.

The Globe reported the Rev. Mr Currie to have said in Synod that Bishops stood in the place of Christ to them. The question was asked if the report was correct. Mr Currie defended his position by quoting Polycarp. Professor Wilson denounced the assertion as rank Popery, and a lively scene ensued.

The magisterial inquiry respecting the conduct of the constabulary in the late riots in Derry, terminated a few days ago. The magistrates agreed to receive information against eight of the constables, and send them for trial at the next Assizes. In the meantime, they would be admitted to bail their own recognizances.

The Rev. Canon Balch, Secretary of the Synod, has received from the Rev. Canon Oxenden, formal notification of his acceptance of the office of Bishop of Montreal and Metropolitan of Canada. In a private letter to Dr. Balch, the Bishop elect says that he expects to leave England for Montreal about the middle of August.

Some of the American papers appear to have been in great glee over the adoption of the resolution in the Nova Scotia House of Assembly to test the legality of Confederation with Canada, and exulted over the prospect that as Canada had been "seized by the idea of annexation," the Dominion would soon have a separate nationality. If those jubilant journals had only waited another day they might have seen that the confederation resolution was rescinded by a larger majority than that in its favour on the previous day.

On Saturday afternoon, May 29, there was launched from Messrs R. Napier & Son's building yard at Govan a twin-screw armour-clad frigate for the Royal Navy, named the Invincible. Her dimensions are—Length between perpendiculars, 280 feet; extreme depth, 54 feet; depth moulded, 36 feet. Her burden is 3,774 9-94th tons o.m., and is to be fitted with twin screw engines of 800 horse-power collectively. The armament is intended to consist of ten 12½ ton guns, and four 64 pounders, six of the former being placed on the main deck, and the remaining four, with the 64 pounders, on the upper deck.

The Spanish Government has demanded from the French Government the extradition of one of its bishops, who has been diverting himself by going about the country with a handsome lad, whom he called his nephew, swindling the inn-keepers in all directions. The ecclesiastical couple stayed for some time at Logrono. The nephew paid violent court to mine hostess, and the good bishop bestowed his episcopal blessing on the happy pair, and blessed their union; but after they had defrauded her of all her hoardings they decamped with the proceeds, fled to France, where they are leading a merry life upon their plunder.

FARMERS' MARKET.

Kingston, June 19.

There was a well filled market this morning, and all kinds of market produce were present in profusion. The produce of the garden was well represented by all kinds of early vegetables, and plants in pots and cut flowers for bouquets, gave the market a very gay appearance. The first instalment of new potatoes made their appearance this morning. They were raised by Mr Kelley, of the Gore, and realized 25 cents per quart. Field strawberries were also present, for which a fabulous price was asked, 3 pints fetching fifty cents. A very large amount of wool of the new clips in market, and the dealers in the article had a busy time of it.

MEAT—Very good mutton and lamb was offered at last week's quotations, and some rather superior veal realized prices slightly in advance of last week. Beef still maintains its price, and none was offered to-day in open market.

POULTRY—Fowls are coming in rather more freely, but prices are still high, 60 cents per pair being readily obtained for good heavy birds. One or two pairs of ducks were shown, and 75 cents asked, but buyers were shy.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Butter was present in large quantities, and prices ranged from 15c. to 18c to parties purchasing retail, with a trifle lower figure to the buyer of quantities.

CHEESE—None.

VEGETABLES—A tolerable supply of potatoes at old figures. Lettuce, spring onions, rhubarb, and other spring vegetables, an abundant supply, and at prices to suit all parties, regulated by size of the bunch. Cucumbers made their first appearance to-day, and some very fair specimens were exhibited, and realized from 12½c. each.

WOOL.—A large quantity in market, for which dealers offered from 30c. to 32c., but there is evidently a downward tendency in the market. A good deal of that in market to-day failed to realize the highest price on account of the condition in which it was brought in, being dirty, and in many instances badly "cotted." We are aware that the season has been backward, and the weather cold for sheep washing, but still, however, farmers do not take as much pains as they might in respect to the cleaning of wool, and sustain a serious loss in consequence. We therefore draw the attention of farmers to the matter.

COAL—The strike among the Scranton Colliers has had a tendency to raise the price of coal, and there is no present prospect of a decline.

HAY—In small demand, and very little arriving.

GRAIN—No demand for oats. Buckwheat in slight request for seed: other grains quiet.

Mr Macdougall stated in the House last night that it was the intention of the government to send out a surveyor into the Northwest for the purpose of ascertaining whether it would be practicable to construct a railway through the territory. This announcement will be hailed with delight by the people of Ontario, who look forward with much anxiety to the speedy development of the resources of the newly-acquired possessions in the northwest.
