TELEGRAPH.

CABLE NEWS.

London, June 22.—The official newspaper publishes Mr Pigey's financial scheme has been modified, as before reported. It is widely modified, and again present Parliament. The Government is determined to abolish the forced currency.

June 21.—In the House of Lords the Earl of Shaftesbury gave notice of an amendment to the Bill for the disestablishment of the Irish Church to the effect: "that the surplus church revenues should be a fund from which to relieve the Irish peasantry."

June 22.—Ismail Pasha, Viceroy of Egypt, arrived in London to-day. He is lodged at the Queen at Buckingham Palace. Rooms have been fitted up for his residence. A series of brilliant fetes has been given in his honour and will take place during his residence in this country. The Viceroy was met at the railway station by the Prince of Wales, and escorted by a large procession, and proceeded by carriages to Buckingham Palace. The crowd of people crowded the streets enthusiastically cheered the Pasha.

Theodorus, of Abyssinia, the late King Theodorus, of Abyssinia, who has been at school here, is now in India, as the climate of England is unfavourable to his health.

TRADE AND COMMERCIAL.

London, June 23, p.m.—Consols for money 93⅛; Bonds 80¼; Stock market firm.

Liverpool, June 23, p.m.—Cotton active; sales 12,000 bales. California wheat (western) 9s 3d; Cheese 70s; Flour 28s.

Havre, June 23.—Cotton active on spot 146 francs.

Press Despatches.

Washington, June 22.—A party of four persons, with holding officers, commissioners now being raised for service. Parties were arrested here last night by United States Marshal and lodged in jail.

Ex-Senator John Bowen has been arrested in jail at Milford, Pennsylvania, for his party who placed obstructions on the track of the Erie railway causing the terrible disaster at Carr's Rock, in 1868. He confesses his guilt.

Washington, June 23.—The Herald's Washington says Ex-Minister Webb had a long interview yesterday with Secretary Fish on the Spanish question. He denounces the action there, and says they have done more for the United States than Spain thinks that we ought to be soundly thrashing in consequence.

A special from Washington special says it is understood that the President fully endorses the views pursued by Mr Webb. It appears he is simply carrying out the instructions of Mr Seward. It is presumed the Spanish government will make an apology to our government on the arrival of Mr Webb's successor.

A Washington special says it is stated that the increase of the public debt of Canada will appear in the statement of the minister.

General Dix, as minister to France, did not altogether avoid the toadyism which seems to fasten itself on most Americans in foreign countries. Just before he left Paris he was dined by some Americans, and made a speech in which he gave Napoleon and Eugenie a large amount of praise beyond that which might have been called for as a matter of courtesy. "We are invited," he said, "to participate most liberally—far more liberally than at any other court in Europe—in the hospitalities of the palace. I have myself, during the two years and a half of my service here, presented to their imperial majesties more than 300 of our fellow citizens of both sexes; and a much larger number, presented in former years, have during the same period shared the same courtesies." This sounds very singular, coming from General Dix. It is the most trivial matter with which he has had to do, though of course it has given him a deal of trouble, and he ought to be ashamed to mention it in such a manner. A woman might have made the remark, and it would have been partially proper; but for a minister to assert, in plain words or in substance, that the emperor was "very good" to receive 300 American citizens is undiluted flunkeyism. We have no doubt that the 300 were immense bores, and so was the emperor at their reception—as all people are on formal occasions. But it is a mutual arrangement in which neither party is entitled to especial thanks. It would be a good idea, indeed, if receptions on the part of leading men could be entirely done away with, and something substituted for them which would require neither search nor humiliation on one side or the other. —Rochester Chronicle.

The Sultan has conferred the title of Pasha on Sir E. Baker, as a proof of the interest he takes in the success of Sir Samuel's African expedition.

We regret to learn that the Hon. M. Coles, one of the delegates from Prince Edward Island to the historic Quebec Convention, is insane, and is now confined in the St. John Asylum.

The Cobden Club offers a medal for another prize essay on the subject, "Free Trade in its Relations to the Colonies and Dependencies of Great Britain."

The cholera has broken out with incredible force among the troops at Nuevitas and other points on the coast, and is already marching with fearful strides toward the interior. The Havana journals keep this fact secret.

Some American ladies behaved in such a free and easy manner at a court ball in Dresden, Saxony, that the official paper apologizes for it, and says that steps have been taken to prevent a repetition of the offence.

The ancient military monarchy of Austria is teaching the nations how fast it is possible for "an old dog" to "learn new tricks." The civil authorities now are forbidden to enforce the sentence of military courts, and the military authorities are prohibited from meddling with citizens, except in matters strictly within their own purview. Indeed, the advancement of Austria from heavy-handed despotism toward real national and individual liberty, since the "sharp, short and decisive fight" with Prussia, has been and is one of the most wonderful phenomena of this age of wonders.

The wine and brandy product of California is at least 8,000,000 gallons. France, which has a less area of good vineyard land than California, produces an average of 600,000,000 gallons yearly of wine and spirits, worth about $160,000,000 at the place of production. About one-third of this product is exported, representing a value of from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000. It is quite probable that the wine product of California inside of ten years will equal in value the present gold product (say $25,000,000), and that it will rise in time, when the State is thickly populated, to a yearly value of $60,000,000 or $80,000,000 at least.

FLOWERS IN THE TROPICS.—It is a very common but mistaken notion that rich and gorgeous flowers are a conspicuous feature of tropical landscapes. So far is this from being true that they are quite rare. The tropics produce abundant masses of greenery. Of tenin Brazil, or in the most luxuriant forests and jungles of the old world, scarce a single brilliant blossom will be seen in a long walk. Even the famous orchids generally have green blossoms, and those which are such splended ornaments of our conservatories are quite rare. There are no such brilliant effects of masses of colour as are to be seen so abundantly in the apple-trees of temperate climes. In fact, a very large portion of the most showy cultivated flowers, like the lilies of Japan, are from countries within the temperate zones.

John Marks, a soldier who was shot by a comrade, Danforth Clemons, at Fort Ontario, Oswego, on Thursday morning, died the same night. The ball passed through the right lung, making a fearful wound and breaking the shoulder-blade as it passed out of the body, and the hemorrhage did not cease until death took place. Clemons is in close confinement and Col. Silvey has sent to the commander of the department for instructions in regard to the disposition of the case. It is likely he will be tried by court martial, as the crime was committed on a military reservation and outside the jurisdiction of civil law. Marks was an Englishman, and it is not known that he has any relatives living in this country, but it is understood that his mother lives in London, England.
