CABLE NEWS.

London, June 30.—Last evening the Commons went into committee on the Church bill and discussed the question almost the entire session.

Earl of Carnarvon moved a substitute for the words "one thousand eight hundred and seventy two" in the 13th clause of 1871—as a date of the disestablishment of the Irish Church.

A discussion ensued, and at length the House divided and the amendment was lost as follows:—For the motion, 130; against it, 171.

Clauses Nos. 2 to 12 inclusive were agreed to without discussion, after which the House adjourned.

London, June 30—In the House of Commons last night Mr Moore called attention to the imprisonment of the Fenian prisoners, and moved a resolution that the government should institute a public inquiry into the subject of penal discipline and treatment of prisoners, to inquire how political prisoners should be regarded as a separate class, and to consider how far the severity of the past punishment may be regarded as a reasonable ground for the reconsideration of their cases. Mr Moore said he believed the majority of the House sympathized with the Fenians, who were willing to submit to the existing laws, and were contented to "bear the ills rather than fly to others they knew not of;" but no class was content with the present state of affairs. He condemned the harsh treatment of prisoners both before and after trial, and asked for a public inquiry thereinto.

Mr Bruce, Home Secretary, was not prepared to defend the treatment of the Fenians, but said that in general the law was adequate to deal with political prisoners. The charges of cruelty were, however, exaggerated. At present their treatment was as lenient as possible. They were separated from other prisoners and were not compelled to do anything degrading or subversive of humiliation.

Mr Gladstone defended the conduct of the government respecting Fenianism. He said members of the government endeavored to make political capital by appealing to the passions of those who had suffered. He hoped the time would come when such discussions would cease, and that political prisoners remain in prison.

The House then divided on the first part of the resolution, which was carried by a vote of 51 to 171.

Mr Moore then admitted the general sympathy of the Irish with Fenianism, but said that harm would result if the government did not show clemency and released those prisoners.

The latter part of the resolution was then withdrawn. The House adjourned at 2:40 a.m.

Mr Bright, speaking this morning, commenting on a speech made in the House of Commons last night, says: "The main condition of the government is the effect of the release of the Fenian prisoners. It must be remembered that all of them were guilty in an inferior degree, and have been set free. Only the prime active agents remain—all of them have been sentenced to long periods of imprisonment, of which a small portion has been endured. The misery brought upon their families and society, and the injury to the prosperity of Ireland which they had caused, made their release. It justice required their detention, men who deliberately engaged in some cases executed murder, would be set free, while others whose offences were as nothing in comparison, would be left in slavery. A distinction between political and other offences cannot be made in the case of men who with intelligence and no prospect of success based their design with treachery and murder. There was nothing connected with the murders committed or attempted in Manchester which would give the perpetrators the dignity of insurgents.

London, June 30.—John Bright and Mr Forster have resigned their seats in the Reform club in consequence of the failure of the committee to elect an honorary member a gentleman whom they had proposed.

Berlin, June 30.—Count Von Bismarck has left his estates at Varsieur, where he will remain until October, to recruit his health. He has been temporarily relieved from his duties as President of the Council, but will continue to transact business of the federal Chancellorship.

London, June 30.—In the House of Commons last night the Home Secretary, Mr Bruce, replying to the demonstration extended on the 12th of July, said that the processions were always productive of disorder and ought to be prevented. He said the House that the government was determined to enforce the laws against them and prevent any breach of the peace.

Madrid, July 1.—A steamer from the West Africa reports the arrival of a steamer at Fernando Po with 250 prisoners from Havana. The prisoners say that they were badly treated by the officers, and especially by the volunteers who guard over them.

Madrid, July 1.—Mr Burlingame will take his Embassy to Stockholm, where he will remain one month, on the way to St. Petersburg.

The party in the Corps Legislatif intend to introduce a motion declaring the confidence which exists for satisfying the public by granting to the public a more liberal ministration in the direction of affairs.

The question of seventy elections has been decided by the Corps without discussion.

Madrid, July 1.—The Chamber of Deputies passed a bill providing for the augmentation of taxes.

Madrid, July 1.—The Cortes to-day passed the revenue budget, and authorized the government to extend such sums of money as may be necessary for the public services for the next three months.

During the debate Admiral Topete said he was willing to allow private parties to carry on the work in the public arsenals if any were willing to undertake it.

Senor Zeoulla declared that the political revolution was an accomplished fact, but the economical revolution remains to be achieved.

London, July 1.—In the House of Lords to-night the consideration of the Irish Church bill was resumed in committee. Clauses 11, 12, 13, and 14 were agreed to without amendment, except as to the date, when the property of the Church shall pass into the hands of commissioners, which was from January 1871 to January 1st 1872.

It was promised on the part of the government that an additional clause should be framed providing that the Irish Bishops may retain their seats in the House of Lords.

The Bishop of Peterborro moved an amendment that all compensation be paid without deduction therefrom of the income tax which was adopted by a vote of 95 to 50.

Clauses 15, 16, 17, and 18 were then agreed to, and the consideration of clauses 19, 20, 21, and 22 was postponed.

Lord Carnarvon's amendment, fixing the commutation of life interests at fourteen years' purchase was adopted.

The visit of the Viceroy of Egypt has terminated. His Highness left this morning for the continent.

Moville, Ireland, July 1.—The steamship Columbia, from New York, for Glasgow, has arrived.

Liverpool, July 1.—At the races to-day the Liverpool Cup was won by Mr Bowes b. c. Spy and the Stamford Plate by Patrician.

New York Press Despatches.

New York, July 2.—The steamer Salana, from Liverpool, has arrived.

When the Cuban expedition was captured yesterday Colonel Ryan and some 200 men were on shore at Gardiner's Island, and have not been taken into custody up to this hour.

A correspondent of the Tribune corrects an impression conveyed by a recent cable telegram that the fourteen English artizans entertained at a banquet in London, prior to their departure for Cornell University, were to be educated at that institution. This is not the purpose of the emigrants. They are brought here to work on the University buildings at the suggestion of Mrs Cornell, who, hearing of the suffering among the mechanics in London, and knowing that workmen were scarce, suggested to her husband to ask some of the London artizans to come to Ithaca. Amongst these artizans are five masons, six carpenters, one plasterer, and two bricklayers.
