New York, March 24.—The Herald's Annapolis special says:—

The latest despatches received here from the Mediterranean squadron under Admiral Farragut are of an important character.

Advices from Venezuela state that Gen. Theodoros, who has been driven from his outposts and surrounding his troops, has entrenched himself in his palatial fortress at Magdala, and he has now ten thousand men, including the newly made works and the Royal headquarters.

Gen. Napier is reported fully prepared and confident of victory. The Palace and fortress are built of stone, as well as the earthworks at Magdala, which are flanked by chasms of rock. The works and town are prepared for the use of the royal-

A British detachment was still reconnoitering near Lake Ashangee, under, it is said, the command of General Napier. The troops are in a very bad condition, and transportation is difficult.

London, March 24.—Mr Gladstone's resolutions on Church Reform in Ireland are substantially as follows:—

That in the opinion of this House the Irish Church should cease to exist as an Establishment, due regard being had, so far as may be, to personal interests and the security of property.

That no personal rights should be disturbed, and that the commission on the Irish Church should limit its operations to matters of immediate necessity and the consideration of Parliament upon the whole subject.

That a petition should be presented to the Queen, praying that the Irish patronage of Ireland be placed at the disposal of Parliament.

Mr Hunt, after they had been read, Mr Disraeli asked if the government would be ready to take the consideration of the resolutions proposed by the end of the month, and if not, when the debate on the subject would commence on the 60th of May.
