The Florence Nightingale of Nursery.

The following is an extract from a letter written by the Rev. C. Z. Weiser, to the Lutheran Reformed Messenger, at Chambersburg, Pa.

A Benefactress.

Just open the door for her, and Mrs Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the Nursery. Of this we are sure. She will teach our "Susy" to say "A Thousand Mrs Winslow," for helping her to escape the griping, colicking, and restlessness. We confirm every word set forth in the prospectus. It performs precisely what it promises to perform, every part of it—soothing, healing. Away with your "Cordial" "Paregoric" "Laudanum," and every other "Stupefier" by which the babe is drugged into stupidity and rendered dull and idiotic for life.

We have never seen Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup only through the preparation of her "Soothing Syrup for children teething." If we had the power, we would make her, as she is, a public benefactress and saviour to the Infant Race. 25 cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Be sure and call for

"Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup."

Having the fac-simile of "Curtis & Perkins" on the outside wrapper. All others are counterfeits.

A "Cough," "cold," or Irritation of the Throat.

If allowed to progress, results in incurable pulmonary and Bronchial affections, often incurable.

Brown's Bronchial Troches

Reach directly the affected parts, and give most instant relief. In Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh they are beneficial. Obtain only the genuine Brown's Bronchial Troches, which proved their efficacy by a test of many years. Among testimonials attesting their efficacy are letters from—

E. H. Chapin, D. D., New York.
Henry Ward Beecher, Brooklyn.
N. P. Willis, New York.
Hon. C. A. Phelps, Pres. Mass. Senate.
Dr. G. F. Bigelow, Boston.
Prof. Edwd. North, Clinton, N. Y.

Surgeons in the army, and others of note.

Sold everywhere at 25 cents per box.

DR. PHILLIPS ON TREATMENT OF CONSUMPTION,

LETTER NO. XXV

TO THE EDITOR OF DAILY NEWS.

SIR, — Before taking up the treatment of consumption by inhalation, it will probably be advisable to say a few words on the effects of climate, acting as it does, more especially through the lungs.

It has long been the custom to advise a change of climate in every case of consumption, without regard either to the stage of the disease or the condition of the patient. This is very cruel in all cases. If the patient be in circumstances not allowing him to make the change, it will harrass his mind with anxious longings when he most needs repose; and if he have the means, it is too often the case that he merely goes abroad to find a foreign grave! Taken from his home and the associations of his nearest connections, who would have soothed his sufferings by a ready anticipation of all his wants, he finds himself a stranger in a strange land, surrounded by persons to whom his fate is a matter of indifference, and who administer to him only for hire, what would have been cheerfully performed at home for affection. If change of climate did, even in a rare instance, cure the disease in the early stages, (which I very much doubt) it could not do so after it has become fairly developed. If a person be predisposed to consumption, a permanent residence in a less changeable climate than this may ward off the disease; but merely spending a winter occasionally in a warm climate is of little or no benefit. After the disease has become considerably advanced it is worse than useless to expatriate the sufferer, for it too commonly only hastens the end, and he discovers, after a long and tedious journey, that instead of finding the Earthly Paradise sought for, where he will forget his cares, and where the balmy air will heal his lungs and give him new life and vigor, he has merely been sent to foreign lands, away from home and friends, to die among strangers.

Dr. Forbes, who spent several years at one of the principal resorts of consumptives, tells us, that "in no single instance of well marked consumption among those sent there, did he witness a cure, or even a temporary arrestation, which could be attributed to the effects of climate;" and his experience is corroborated by that of other eminent authorities on the subject. Why then will medical men recommend change of climate as the only hope, when, as we have just seen, in the great majority of cases it only serves to hasten his doom?

If change of climate be decided on, the most favorable for the consumptively inclined are, the East Indies, Cape of Good Hope, and Australia: and then he should make up his mind to remain there permanently: a winter or two will not cure.

Treatment by Inhalation of Medicated Vapors.

Inhalation is performed in two different ways: one by medicating the air of the room in which the patient remains for a longer or shorter time; the other by using the inhaling instrument, a convenient form of which was figured and described in a former letter.

The next question you will probably ask is — "What medicine shall we inhale?" If you will recall to your mind what was said in a previous letter on the causes of consumption, you will have no difficulty in answering at once oxygen. We have seen that tubercles are caused by an excess of carbon in the blood, that this carbon is burned off in the lungs by uniting with oxygen; hence why should we not supply that which nature so unmistakeably calls for? But pure undiluted oxygen gas has been found by far too powerful an agent to be inhaled for a length of time without a deleterious influence; and hence it becomes necessary that it be diluted with some less powerful agents. We take advantage of this, and combine some of those volatile remedies which experience has taught us exercise a beneficial effect on the diseased lungs.

Those which we use for consumption are divided into four classes: 1. the expectorant, which assist in removing the mucus and diseased matter from the lungs; 2. anodyne, to soothe the inflamed and irritated membrane; 3. astringent, to diminish excessive secretion; and 4. alterative, to change the action of the diseased membrane. But the blood is impure, and contains tubercular matter: what can be done to remedy this? Remove it by inhalation. We have seen that the impurity in the blood is a carbonaceous one: and nature possesses the peculiar faculty of uniting oxygen and carbon in the lungs and throwing off the combination as carbonic acid. Carbon is present in the blood in excess, as an impurity, and in order to remove it we supply an excess of oxygen to the lungs, which, unless the vital powers of nature be too much exhausted, will combine the two and remove them as before mentioned.

We have also seen that the lungs possess great powers of absorption, and we derive great advantage from it in the removal of tubercles from other organs of the body. A portion of the inhaled medicines is absorbed into the blood and circulates with it to distant parts of the body, thus acting not only as a local medication, or direct application to the disease in the lungs; but also as an indirect one to other parts of the body: hence it is very unjust to say that inhalation will prove unsatisfactory because it is a local application only, and does not reach the disease in other parts of the system.

Inhalation, by acting directly on the parts affected, not only promotes the cure of the disease, but also, from the commencement, adds greatly to the comfort of the patient by relieving his more troublesome symptoms. The cough is relieved by the expectoration of the offending mucus; the shortness of the breath vanishes on the removal of the local obstruction; hectic fever and night sweats disappear with the alleviation of the pulmonary irritation; and spitting of blood and loss of flesh cease at once when the blood is properly purified. Thus this method of treatment not only affords a reasonable hope of cure, but also immediate relief from the distressing symptoms which so greatly annoy the patient.

(To be continued in my next letter.)

Your obedient servant,

M. PHILLIPS, M.D.,
Physician for Diseases of the Throat and Lungs
No. 70 Bay Street, Toronto.

DR PHILLIPS will be at the Burnett House, for consultation, on FRIDAY, the 10th instant, from 9 to 4 p.m.

PAIN KILLER!

THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE OF THE AGE.

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS!

OUR FIRST PHYSICIANS USE AND RECOMMEND ITS USE.

IT ENJOYS THE LARGEST SALE OF ANY PROPRIETARY MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

THE PAIN KILLER

Has been favourably known for more than thirty years, during which time we HAVE RECEIVED THOUSANDS OF TESTIMONIALS, showing this Medicine to be an almost NEVER FAILING REMEDY for diseases caused by or attendant upon—Sudden Colds, Coughs, Fever and Ague, Headache, Bilious Fever, Pains in the Side, Back and Loins, as well as in the Joints and Limbs; Neuralgic and Rheumatic Pains in any part of the System, Toothache and Pains in the Head and Face.

AS A BLOOD PURIFIER AND TONIC FOR THE STOMACH,

It seldom fails to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Liver Complaint, Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Kidney Complaints, Sick Headache, Piles, Asthma or Phthisic, Ringworms, Boils, Felons, Whitlows, Old Sores, Swelled Joints, and General Debility of the System.

IT IS ALSO A PROMPT AND SURE REMEDY

For Cramp or Pain in the Stomach, Painters' Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer Complaint, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Scalds, Burns, Sprains, Bruises, Frost Bites, Chilblains, as well as the Stings of Insects, and the Bites of Poisonous Insects and Venomous Reptiles.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

It has been tested in every variety of climate, and by almost every nation known to civilization, and is the almost constant companion and inestimable friend of the Missionary, and no traveller should be without it. Like every other good thing, the Pain Killer has been extensively counterfeited; which, (while it is an acknowledgment on the part of the counterfeiters of its real worth) is a serious hindrance to its usefulness as the deceived purchaser estimates the value of the Pain Killer by the base compound he has purchased for the genuine article.

Purchasers should be careful and not allow the dealer to sell them worthless imitations, on which they realize a larger profit, but take only the Pain Killer and see that it is the genuine, bearing the signature of Perry Davis and Son upon the label.

The Pain Killer is sold at wholesale by Druggists and Medicine Dealers, and Commission Merchants in the principal cities, and retailed by Apothecaries, Grocers, and at Variety Shops generally throughout the world.
