CABLE NEWS.

London, April 24 (evening.) The attempt assassination of Prince Alfred by the man Purrell has produced the most pro found sentiment from one end of the nation the other. The press teems with denun tions of the assassin and among the peo ple with whom the Prince was a great favorite, the crime forms the great topic conversation.

London, April 25.—Further particulars show that the culprit who attempted to as sinate Prince Alfred is an Irishman named Purrell, known to be a Fenian. The Prince was shot in the back, and the ball was not extracted for two days. The wound is serious and painful, but the Prince is doing well. The affair took place at Sidney on the 12th of March.

London, April 25.—Earl Kimberly has resigned his company.

London, April 25.—Count Bismarck says the appointed Governor of the Hudson Bay Company, that the loss of the federal debt will not at once put an end to the furlough of the ships and fortifications. The reduction of the army to a peace footing will commence on the 1st of May.

London, April 26, evening.—The following intelligence has been received from Abyssinia.

A battle was fought on Good Friday be fore Daghla, between the British troops commanded by General Napier, and the Abyssinian forces, under the command of King Theodorus. The latter were de feated and retreated into the town. Their loss in killed and wounded was very heavy. On the Monday following, all his pre parations having been completed, General Napier ordered an assault upon Magdala, and the town and citadel were carried by storm. King Theodorus was slain. A large number of his warriors were killed, wounded and taken prisoners, and the ca pital remained in the possession of the British forces.

The loss of the British in killed and wounded was small.

All the British captives were found in the fortress, alive and well, and were set free. General Napier's instant return to the coast is expected.

New York, April 27.—The Herald's spe cial, dated Magdala, April 14th, gives the following details of the capture of the Great fortress.

A truce which had been agreed on be tween General Napier and King Theodorus terminated early this morning, and imme diately after its termination the King, not having surrendered the captives, General Napier placed himself at the head of the first and second brigades of his army, and moved up the hill towards the fortress as fast as possible.

This portion of the strong works, built, and commanded to General Napier by the chiefs in command, after a brisk attack, in which the Africans were defeated.

Theodorus, observing the English advance and its first fruits, retreated into the interior of the Magdala works, on the plain, having first planted five of his guns on the base.

When General Napier came in sight with his brigades, the King's Artillerymen open ed on the advance with three guns in pref erence of Theodorus. The British replied immediately, with their 12-pounder Arm strong and 7-inch mountain mortar-rocket guns, throwing rockets into the place.

After enduring this fire a short time King Theodore abandoned his guns, and still retreating inwards barricaded the gate ports, and commenced a fire of musket from behind his gates and wall defences. The Abyssinians, evincing no signs of surrender, General Napier halted his advance and commenced the bombardment of their works.

The bombardment continued three hours when it terminated, the British Command er ordered an assault, which was made in fine style. The King's works were carried after a vigorous resistance on the part of the enemy.

Theodorus lost during the engagement 50 killed and 200 wounded. The English had 15 wounded.

After the works were taken, Theodorus was found dead by English soldiers on en tering the centre of his stronghold. He was shot through the head. Some persons say he was killed during one of the battles, others that he committed suicide when he saw the fortunes of the day against him. The King's body was recognised by the captives when released. The two Princes were taken prisoners. Several European prisoners were set free.

Inside of the fortress of Magdala presented an extraordinary and splendid spectacle, glowing almost with barbaric splendours. The British troops took it at once. They found four pieces of solid gold, twenty thousand dollars in silver, thousands of ounces, several lots of very rich jewels, and numerous other articles of great value. General Napier takes by his victory 180 guns, 50,000 stand of small arms, 2 mortars, 10,000 spears, and many articles of war equipment.

The liberated British captives will start for home on the 14th of April.

General Napier's army will reorganize, and return to India and England at once.

Advices from General Napier's head-quarters in Magdala, without date, are also received. They state that the Europeans lately held captives there, numbering sixty souls, including men women and children, were already en route to Zoula for home, and that the entire force of King Theodorus' army had either been killed, wounded or captured.

New York, April 27.—The Herald's special dated Zoula, 18th April, says the very latest reports from Magdala represent that 14,000 native troops had laid down their arms to General Napier, and that Theodorus had 500 soldiers killed and 1,500 wounded in the late engagement.

London, April 26.—A despatch from Sydney, New South Wales, dated March 31st, states that Prince Alfred was recovering from the effects of his wound.

The Count de Stackelburg, present Minister of Russia at Vienna, has been appointed to succeed the Baron de Budberg, as Russian Ambassador at Paris.

London, April 25, evening.—The examination of the alleged Clerkenwell conspirators was continued to day. Test mony for the defense was taken and the Attorney General summoned for the prosecution.

Paris, April 26.—In consequence of the recent troubles in Japan and the outrages committed there on French seamen, the French fleet in the Japanese waters is to be augmented, and orders to that effect have been issued from the Ministry of Marine. Many American Naval officers are expected to be present at the opening of the International Marine exhibition at Havre.

Southampton, April 26.—The steamer Saxonia, from New York, has arrived.
