FORMER WESTERN MOVIE CAPITAL NOW TOP TOURIST ATTRACTION

In the year 1910, Congress passed a law that made the town of Tombstone, Arizona, the center of the Western movie industry. It was here that the great Western movie stars of the day, such as Tom Mix, Harry Carey, and others, made their famous pictures. The town of Tombstone, which was once a small frontier town, has become a great tourist attraction. It is now one of the most popular places in the Southwest for tourists to visit. The town has many interesting places to see, such as the Old Tombstone Hotel, the Old Tombstone Jail, and the Old Tombstone Courthouse. It is a great place to see the way of life of the old West.
