MOTHERS, READ THIS!
Holloway's Worm Lozenges
ARE a certain and safe remedy for Worms in Children and Adults. As it is well-known and melancholy fact that one great source of death among children is from Worms, parents cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of parents the necessity of closely watching their children. By so doing and understanding the symptoms and true cause of the disease thousands of children might be saved from premature graves.
SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.—The following are a few of the very numerous symptoms of Worms which are caused by Worms: a deranged appetite, emaciated extremities, offensive breath, frequent picking at the nose, grinding the teeth during sleep, hardness of the belly, frequent slimy stools, and sometimes convulsive fits, pain in the head and stomach, nausea, faintings, tremblings, cold sweats, depression of spirits, frightful dreams, and a gradual wasting away of flesh.
They are palatable and not to be refused by the child—drive out the worms thoroughly without pain, and completely cleanse the stomach, thereby doing away with the necessity of administering Castor Oil or other unpleasant medicinal articles—as in the use of other Worm Medicines.
☞ Each Box contains the full directions for use of NORTHROP & LYMAN, Newcastle, C. W., who are the sole proprietors.
N. B.—Ask for Holloway's Worm Lozenges ☞ and take no other. Sold by all Druggists in Kingston and all Medicine dealers.

ROYAL VISIT TO IRELAND.

Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, attended by General Sir Dyas Guilmour, Major Grey, Mr Fisher, the Earl of Carmarthen, and the Duke of Teck, left Marlborough House on Tuesday last two o'clock on Tuesday April 14, and proceeded to the London and North-Western Station, Euston-square. The Duke of Teck and the Prince of Teck were at the station a few minutes before the arrival of the Royal Princess. The special train for the illustrious company and their Royal saloon carriages and first-class carriages. The train left the station at three o'clock, and reached Chester at 7.36. The Royal party were received with enthusiastic cheers, by the 19th Royal Irish playing the National Anthem. On the train being ready, the Mayor of Chester presented an address to their Royal Highnesses. This address was not read, nor did the Prince make a courteous acknowledgment of it being delivered, it having been stated that the reply should be after presented to the Mayor and Corporation of Chester. The Royal party proceeded to the Queen's Hotel, where dinner was ordered. Besides the Royal Family, those present at the dinner were the Bishop of Chester, the Dean, the Mayor, Mr Gladstone, with her daughter, H. Glynne, was on the Prince's left hand. The Prince hearing of this at the table, sent Mrs Gladstone a message. Mrs Gladstone joined the party, sitting on the Prince's right, then remembering that the Prince was a county, asked for his health, and the Sheriff of Chester was called to the Royal party, and drank in attendance. Before the departure of the Duke of Cambridge, with the Bishop and Mayor, proposed the health of the Earl and Countess of Chester. The Princess laughed, apparently at the unfamiliar title. The Prince warmly of the behaviour of the people, and especially thanked the Mayor said the next time he visited Chester, with more notice, he would meet a reception worthy of his reception. There was great excitement in the Royal party off again. They passed through a large party of ladies assembled in the hall of the Hotel. Outside the crowd was so dense as to block up the entrance to the hotel, from who their Highnesses received an enthusiastic cheer as they appeared at the window facing the building. The Royal party resumed their journey at 8.30 and reached Holyhead Pier at 10.43. Great enthusiasm was displayed at the stations along the line, the towns being illuminated. The Royal Princess embarked at once on the Victoria and Albert, and sailed for Ireland.

The city of Dublin assumed a festive appearance to welcome the Prince and Princess. The streets were completely hung with flags of the brightest colours; and appeared in front of all the buildings, and all the appropriate bunting of rejoicing were conspicuously displayed. Dame street presented a brilliant appearance. The principal banners were inscriptions, "Welcome, Prince and Princess of Wales!" and "God Save Queen." A house decorated with flags displayed in huge letters the "Welcome, as Dazes in our Welcome across the broad thoroughfare Grafton street was a scroll, "Bless for ever those who relied on Erin's honour and Erin's pride!" The "Victoria and Albert" reached the harbour as nine o'clock the guns were manned and a salute fired. From the earliest hour Kingstown was crowded wherever the landing could be seen, not only by persons who had come from Dublin by the first trains, but by every fifteen minutes from six o'clock, but by large numbers of rustics in costume indicated that they had come far, possibly through the greater part of the night, to greet the Royal visitors. The Pier was thronged as early eight o'clock, a great number taking up a position on the sea-face of the battery on the mouth of the harbour. From that point the view of the bay was magnificent. The morning was perfectly fine to the sight of the dispersing sea fog, the Minotaur frigate, the other ships not far from shore. The Dublin shores were thickly covered with people, and through the fleet, which was all dressed, every mast being a mass of varied flags. Numerous boats were scattered over the bay. The Royal Yacht, dressed per-, the Dublin Pilot boat, the Admiralty yacht, the Holyhead mail-boat, vied each other in decoration. Beyond these, looking toward the spectator fixed his eye on the bright stub ship in banners, the Royal standard crowned by a Union-jack, and several new public flags. The Royal party had a beautiful view as the long-expected "Victoria and Albert" came in sight, and the harbour, where she was the fleet lay in the offing. The Commissioners went on board the yacht directly, and presented an address to their Royal Highnesses. A dove was presented as a token of loyalty. At half-past eleven the "Victoria and Albert" weighed anchor, and towards the quay, and at twelve o'clock moored safely alongside. The Royal party, with the Marchioness of Ely and the staff, Lord Strathnairn, the Lord Chancellor of Ireland were in waiting to receive the Royal party. A guard of Grenadier Guards was drawn up on the spot where the disembarkation was to take place. As soon as the gangway was lowered the Lord-Lieutenant went over it, followed by his Royal Highness shaking hands with the Royal and illustrious visitors. Shortly after twelve o'clock the Prince of Wales, escorted by the Marchioness of Abercorn, walked on shore. The Marchioness of Abercorn, followed immediately, by the Marchioness and the Prince of Teck. As their Royal Highnesses set foot upon the Irish shore a Royal salute was fired forth; the yards were manned, and the crews of the Grenadiers, and the band of the Grenadiers, playing the Danish March in honour of St. Patrick's Day in the morning," struck up "God save the Queen;" and there was a burst of the most cordial cheering from the brilliant crowd assembled near. Twenty five young ladies in white presented the Princess with a bouquet formed to represent the colours of the Danish flag. The point where this incident occurred was the ancient boundary of the city of Dublin. The Lord-Lieutenant, as representative of her Majesty the Queen, entered the first of the carriages and headed the procession. The Prince and Princess of Wales, with the Duke of Cambridge and the Prince of Teck, occupied a barouche which followed the carriage of the Lord-Lieutenant. The Princess looked remarkably well. Her Royal Highness was dressed in a puce-coloured tabinet dress, and wore a white bonnet adorned with pink roses. A great flotilla of steamers and yachts—among which the Cunard steamer Tarifa was conspicuous—occupied the harbour, and, with their fluttering bunting, as well as by the ringing cheers that came from the men in their rigging and on their crowded decks, gave an indescribable animation to the scene.

The Royal cortege, preceded by a troop of Lancers, began to move at half-past twelve. The barouche in which the Prince and Princess of Wales rode was escorted by a troop of the 10th Royal Hussars, the

The Florence Nightingale of the Nursery.

The following is an extract from a letter written by the Rev. C. Z. Weiser, to the German Reformed Messenger, at Chambersburg, Penn.:

A Benefactress.

Just open the door for her, and Mrs Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the Nursery. Of this we are sure, that we will teach our "Susy" to say "A Blessing on Mrs Winslow," for helping her to survive and escape the griping, colicking, and teething siege We confirm every word set forth in the Prospectus. It performs precisely what it professes to perform, every part of it—nothing less. Away with your "Cordial" "Paregoric" "Drops" "Laudanum," and every other "Narcotic," by which the babe is drugged into stupidity and rendered dull and idiotic for life.

We have never seen Mrs Winslow—know her only through the preparation of her "Soothing Syrup for children teething." If we had the power, we would make her, as she is, a physical saviour to the Infant Race. 25 cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Be sure and call for

"Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup,"

Having the fac-simile of "Curtis & Perkins" on the outside wrapper. All others are base imitations.

TESTIMONIAL.

From Sig. Carlo Mora. Professor of Music, Kingston:

HAVING had ample opportunity of testing Mr Reyner & Son's Tuning and Repairing of Pianofortes, &c., since I have been in Kingston, I heartily recommend them to all those having Instruments to tune or repair, and would further advise those that have Instruments that are not in good order, to give them a call at once, as delay will only occasion more work and money when it is done.

SIG. CARLO MORA,
Professor of Music,
Kingston.

FROM MR RIDDELL.

MR REYNER has recently re-covered the Hammers of the Pianoforte used in my family with the new improved patent leather, and otherwise repaired it. He has also tuned it, and it is altogether much improved, the quality of the tone being greatly better than before the instrument was put into his hands. I shall certainly continue to keep the piano under his charge for the future.
