from survey results, which showed a definite desire of the people of McHenry for a service of this nature.

A preliminary investigation has shown that many of the teachers in the local school district are qualified to instruct at this level, but, in order to participate in a program offering actual college accreditation, must first be affiliated with an accepted college or university. This affiliation would insure the universal acceptance of credits earned from the local program in any major university, for it would require the sponsoring institution to officially lend it's accrediting power to the local instructors throughout the program, thereby making it a form of extension of the university's usual evening courses.

This is the manner in which the Jaycees Community Development Committee would prefer to organize such a program.

As tentatively planned, the courses would be open to all qualified persons.

Also planned, is a further investigation by the Jaycees in order to determine the proposed curriculum for the program.

A project such as this has enormous possibilities.
