CABLE NEWS.

London, May 8.—The Times of this morning has official intelligence from Abyssinia. The British expedition in Abyssinia. The advance are dated at Talanta, April 21st. It is now expected to start for the Red Sea with its entire army about the end of May. The city of Magdala, the late Theodore's palace, was burnt by the British forces.

London, May 8.—Gen. Nagle and the other British prisoners who were captured by the Jacmel packet Erin's Hope, on her voyage, and imprisoned, have been released from confinement, having given the authorities the pledges. They celebrated their freedom this afternoon by calling on George Peabody, who is in gaol in this city.

London, May 8.—Official despatches have been received at the India office from Gen. Napier at Talanta, Abyssinia, on the 21st. After the capture of Magdala the guns and mortars, belonging to the Abyssinian monarch, were destroyed and the fortress razed completely. Gen. Napier says that the Queen and the heir apparent to the throne are in camp. The march from the Red Sea coast during which the troops were well and the army has come up with the advance guard of the morning forces.

London, May 8.—The case of George F. Train before the bankruptcy court here. In reply to questions put to him he said he had no property himself; he had no control over that pertaining to his wife. He was recommitted for further examination.

New York, May 8.—The Herald's special from Abyssinia gives the following details of the capture of Magdala:—As soon as the English advance came in view the Abyssinian enemy stood forth in battle array as if in response to the signal. Theodorus opened at once with mortars on General Napier. The British replied with the same. The gun fire from the Abyssinians having continued a short time twenty thousand five hundred warriors broke up with loud shouts of joy and rent the air with chanting national songs of triumph, and rushed with great ardour down the heights from the palace fortress, and upon the British light batteries gallantly. General Napier's men stood firm, and the Abyssinians were repulsed, having 700 killed, including two prominent chiefs, besides losing the engagement.

The action of King Theodorus' officers was injudicious, and the courage of his soldiers evident. Aware of his heavy loss Theodorus forwarded a flag of truce to General Napier inquiring on what terms the English would negotiate a peace. General Napier replied in the name of the Queen that his terms were unconditional surrender. Theodorus said he would never accept such arbitrary terms; seeing even in defeat, he would prefer to fight on. In conclusion the King requested General Napier to take the British prisoners he would hand over to him, saying when they had all been received. The King refused positively surrender himself, and the conference was broken off.

The fortress was consequently stormed by the English a few days afterwards. During the hottest moment of the fighting the British assault, and, when driven from the standpoint, Theodorus attempted to rally on three separate occasions, and rendered perfectly furious by his defeat.

The released captives say they saw one hundred native prisoners killed by King Theodore on the 9th of April.

Theodorus was buried in the Church at Magdala, official respect being shown to his remains.

The young Prince Theodorus will be educated in England and educated.

Kassa, the friendly Chief who aided the British army in its march through Abyssinia, will be duly crowned King of Abyssinia, thus introducing a new dynasty.

New York Press Despatches.

Honolulu, May 7.—The Honolulu Press of the Bulletin, gives details of the disturbances, showing that the excitement to all the islands of the group, but no damage is known to have occurred except around Mauna Loa. Extensive land-slides accompanied the eruption, destroying life and property. The summit and side of a hill 1,000 feet high, were thrown a thousand feet out of trees, and landed in the lake below. The gases that issued from the lava destroyed both vegetable and animal life. Bottomless fissures opened in the ground, breaking out in four places from the sea, and throwing up a column of lava a mile wide. A column of water has burst from the ocean where the earth eruption occurred. The cone of the volcano is about 1,000 to 1,500 feet high, and is now joined to the mainland by a stream of lava. The base of the volcano is about 30 miles in circumference. At least half a million dollars' worth of property is destroyed. The King of the Sandwich Islands has issued a proclamation for the relief of sufferers. Many visitors had gone from Honolulu. The worst is thought to be over, but the lava flow continues. It is a grand spectacle.

New York, May 9, 3 p.m.—The steamers Deutschland, from Bremen, and Erin, from Liverpool, have arrived.

A new fashion is announced in Paris. Ladies carry their parasol umbrellas hitched to their sides like swords; which confers on them—especially if they wear hats and plumes, and high boots with high heels—a military appearance.

A late fashionable wedding at Toronto, attended with great pomp and circumstance, is said to have turned out extremely unfortunate. The distinguished groom is discovered to be a bogus Italian Count, with neither money nor character, and worse than all else, having a previous wife and children living neglected and in poverty. The unfortunate bride has returned to her home, after being robbed of what money and valuables she carried with her on the bridal tour.

During the past few weeks emigration through Queenstown has increased to a very considerable extent, and notwithstanding that the price of the passage tickets is raised every week, the rush still continues. In the beginning of the month of March the fare for steerage passage was £4; since then it has gradually increased, and now it has been fixed at seven guineas. There is at present a very extensive emigration going on from Norway, Sweden, Belgium, and Holland, and it is the filling of the steamers by these people at Liverpool that helps to make the fares so high.—Cork Examiner.

Mr Eyre, ex-governor of Jamaica, on Wednesday appeared at the Bow-street police court, London, to answer a charge of misconduct in his official capacity, but the magistrate refused to hear the case, on the ground that he had no jurisdiction.

The papers on "The Best Means of bringing Nonconformists into Union with the Church," read in October at the Church Congress, have resulted in a meeting of influential clergymen and laymen from different parts of the country at Wolverhampton. On the 15th and 16th inst. after a long and interesting discussion, it was decided that an association be formed to promote the reunion of Christians at home on the basis of the National Church. The interest excited by this meeting has encouraged the committee to arrange for a further meeting to be held in London, in the month of May, for the formal organization of the movement.—Morning Herald.
