Prince of Wales and the Duke of Cambridge; after which two proctors invested the Lord-Lieutenant with the scarlet robes of a doctor of laws, and handed him the cap. They then conducted his Excellency to the Vice Chancellor (who had assumed the chair), and the latter, taking his Excellency by the hand, admitted him with the usual form of the degree of LL.D., Honoris Causa, amidst loud cheering. The same form was observed in conferring the degree upon the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Cambridge, and the ceremony was accompanied in each case with hearty cheering. The Vice-Chancellor made an address to the Prince of Wales.—The Lord Chief Justice (the Right Hon J. Whiteside) then rose and said:—"Mr Provost, I have the honour, on behalf of the committee of subscribers to the statue of Edmund Burke, to announce to you that their work is finished, and they now desire to transfer to you, and through you to the governing body of the University, for the safe custody and preservation, the statue of one who was its brightest ornament. Highest on the roll of subscribers to this work from the beginning was the name of her most gracious Majesty the Queen (applause). And on that roll also appears the name of the illustrious Prince who is here to-day to do honour to the memory of a great Irishman (applause). The occasion is auspicious. It is also national, for we meet to render homage to our countryman, who was a statesman, a philosopher, and a patriot.—The Very Rev. the Provost then briefly thanked the Prince of Wales, on behalf of the college, for having honoured the occasion with his presence.—A procession of members of the University having gathered round the platform, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Cambridge, and the Lord Lieutenant went upon it, and as soon as the cheers had subsided the Prince said, "I command the statue to be uncovered." The covering was then withdrawn from the statue amid enthusiastic cheers, and the crowd gazed for the first time upon a fitting memorial of an illustrious Irishman, erected in the scene of his early studies and his first literary efforts. The figure is of bronze, about ten feet high, and remarkable for dignity and power of expression.

After leaving Trinity College the Prince of Wales and the Lord Lieutenant proceeded to the Royal Irish Academy House, Dawson street. They were received at the entrance by the president, the Rev. Dr. Todd, Sir Wm. Wilde, and other members of the council, and conducted through the several departments of the building. The Prince of Wales visited the Catholic University shortly before five o'clock. His Royal Highness was received at the entrance by Cardinal Cullen, the Lord Mayor, and others. Having remained for some time in the building, through which he was conducted by Cardinal Cullen, the Prince of Wales returned to the Castle. His presence had been eagerly expected by an immense and fashionable assemblage at the cattle show of the Royal Dublin Society in Kildare street. In a short time his Royal Highness and the Princess, with the Lord Lieutenant and the Marchioness of Abercorn, once more entered their carriages and drove to the Royal Dublin Society House, where they were enthusiastically received. They remained at the cattle show from half-past five until half-past six o'clock. The show was one of the best ever held under the auspices of the society. The shorthorn stock was exceedingly good, the sheep were more numerous than usual, and almost all the leading manufacturers of the agricultural implements in England and Ireland were well represented. At night the Royal Dublin Society held a conversazione which was attended by nearly 2,000 ladies and gentlemen, and was honoured by the presence of the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Lord Lieutenant, and the Marchioness of Abercorn.

On Wednesday the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Cambridge were sworn in as members of her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council in Ireland. The Prince of Wales paid a visit at twelve o'clock to the Royal College of Surgeons. The Prince was conducted to the Albert Hall, erected in memory of the Prince Consort. In this hall over the president's chair, is a marble bust of Prince Albert, by Theed, placed there with the express sanction of the Queen. The Prince expressed his admiration of the hall, and his gratification at seeing the memory of his father so perpetuated. He was then conducted through the museums and the library. The Prince of Wales also visited the Duke of Leinster at Carton, Maynooth, and he afterwards visited Maynooth College. At night there was a grand ball in the Exhibition Palace. About 4,000 persons were present. The Prince and Princess of Wales, the Lord Lieutenant, and the Marchioness of Abercorn attended. The building was beautifully lighted, having gas mottoes of Welcome in Celtic and Danish, with the Prince's plumes, shamrocks, and the Rose and Thistle. Every pillar was surrounded with trophies of arms and flags, and the dais for the Royal guests was richly decorated. The Princess wore a blue satin dress with Irish lace, trimmed with bouquets of silver shamrocks and pink roses, and a diadem of diamonds. The Prince and Princess were heartily cheered whilst passing through the building to the dais. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of Cambridge dined with Lord Strathnairn in the great hall of the Royal Hospital. The health of both the illustrious guests was proposed and druuk with loyal enthusiasm. The Prince in reply said the reception the Princess and himself had met with in Ireland had been all they could expect or wish. The Duke of Cambridge spoke in high commendation of the discipline of the Irish forces. So long, he said, as the forces of Great Britain were in such excellent order they need fear nothing.

On Thursday the Prince and Princess, with their Excellencies the Lord Lieutenant and the Marchioness of Abercorn, Prince Teck, and a numerous suite, visited Powerscourt. They arrived in Bray at 10 minutes past 2. A large concourse of the townspeople awaited the arrival of the train. Lord Meath, as chairman of the Town Commissioners, presented an address to the Prince. The town was decorated with flags and arches. The Royal party drove off in seven carriagas to Powerscourt. It rained heavily during the day, but in a few minutes after they left the station the weather cleared up, and the afternoon was fine. After lunching at Lord Powerscourt's they returned by the line to Harcourt street, and arrived in town at 20 minutes to 8 o'clock.

The Prince and Princess of Wales left Dublin and embarked at Kingstown on board the royal yacht on Friday evening, April 24. After the embarkation a Royal salute was fired, the fleet was illuminated, and the Lord Lieutenant was entertained at a sumptuous banquet on board the Royal yacht. The visit has been one of unalloyed delight, and the enthusiasm of the people, renewed upon every occasion, will no doubt induce another visit at no distant period.

Another New York humbug has been exploded. It was called the "Juvenile Guardian Society," and has been in supposed existence for about ten years, with alleged schools in different parts of the city, a university, three industrial schools, half a dozen mission schools, and as many more Sabbath schools—all of which, upon investigation, proved to be perfect myths. For the past ten years the State had actually donated $10,000 a year for its support, and that sum had been drawn annually by one man, he professing to be doing an immense amount of good with it for poor youth. The whole thing has proved to be an unmitigated swindle. There are no such schools as he represents, no missions, and no university. The affair is severely commented upon by the press.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: Ball-goers, beware! A contemporary announces the importation from America of a large consignment of "Petroleum Champagne," a liquid even more deleterious to the consumer than the abominable compound known as "Ball Champagne," by which so many young constitutions are annually destroyed in Belgravia and Mayfair. The British Medical Journal tells us that "from the fiery benzone a sparkling, bubbling, foaming wine is now produced, "delighting the eye, tickling the palate, and gladdening the heart" of the unwary dancer who swallows it, but who, ere twenty-four hours have elapsed, deplores with corrugated lip, parched palate, and scourged vitals, the barbarous economy of the ball-giver who has thus lured her young guests to their destruction. Why is it that people, who would shrink from poisoning their friends at dinner with bad wine, think that no wine can be too poisonous to be drunk at a ball? Again we say, "Ball-goers, beware! Petroleum champagne is in the market at 18s. a dozen, and Lady —— has announced her first ball for the season!"

CAUTION.

THE perfection and cheapness of the American (Waltham) watch have given it such a wide-world celebrity that unscrupulous dealers years ago imitated its style and pirated its trade marks. Irresponsible dealers are occasionally found who furtively trade upon the popularity of the American watch by selling a base imitation under the name of the genuine article.

It is hardly necessary to state that such watches are worthless as time-keepers, and when bought for the genuine are calculated to injure the high reputation which our watches have attained. The several grades of the American watch (except the lowest grade marked Home Watch Co.) are guaranteed by special certificate bearing the number of the watch and the signature of the Treasurer of the Company, R. E. ROBBINS. The purchaser should in all cases require one of these certificates, which is furnished to all dealers in the genuine watches.

The following are the trade marks on the several grades of our manufacture:—

AMERICAN WATCH CO.
APPLETON, TRACY & CO.
WALTHAM WATCH CO.
P. S. BARTLETT.
WM. ELLERY.
HOME WATCH CO.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD CO.
Office of the General Superintendent,
Altona, Pa., 15th Dec., 1866.

GENTLEMEN—The watches manufactured by you have been in use on this Railroad for several years by our engine men, to whom we furnish watches as part of our equipment. There are some THREE HUNDRED OF THEM CARRIED ON OUR LINE, and we consider them GOOD and RELIABLE TIME-KEEPERS. Indeed I have great satisfaction in saying YOUR WATCHES GIVE US LESS TROUBLE and have worn and do wear much longer without repairs than any watches we have ever had in use on this road. As you are aware we formerly trusted to those of English manufacture, of acknowledged good reputation, but as a class they never keep time as correctly, nor have they done as good service as yours.

In these statements I am sustained by my predecessor, Mr Lewis, whose experience extended over a series of years.

Respectfully,

EDWARD H. WILLIAMS,
General Superintendent.

American Watch Co., Waltham.

NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD.
Locomotive Dep't Western Division,
Rochester, Dec. 24, 1866.

GENTLEMEN—I have no hesitation in saying that I believe the great majority of locomotive engineers have found by experience that WALTHAM WATCHES ARE THE MOST SATISFACTORY of any for their uses. They RUN WITH THE GREATEST ACCURACY AND STEADINESS, notwithstanding the roughe iding of an engine; and as I have NEVER KNOWN ONE TO WEAR OUT, they must be durable. I hope to see the time when railway companies will generally adopt your watches, and furnish them to all engineers and conductors. In my opinion it would greatly tend to promote regularity and safety.

Yours respectfully,

CHARLES WILSON,
G. Chief Engineer.

MURDER AND SUICIDE IN NEW YORK.

This infelicity resulted in a double murder, yesterday afternoon in Willett street, causing great excitement among the residents of the neighbourhood, and adding another chapter to the history of crime in this city. About 4½ o'clock the reports of a pistol discharged in 121 Willett street were heard, and almost immediately afterward a little girl came running out of the house and proceeded to the Police Station and Precinct Police Station and Capt. Ullman and Detective McCullagh. A man was killing his wife at the number in Willett street. These officers went to the place, where they found the woman lying in the passage-way at the head of the stairs, on the fourth floor, bleeding from a pistol wound in the breast. As soon as the murderer learned that officers were in the house, he made a rush as if to jump from the window, apparently changing his mind, put the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and before he could be prevented, fired, thereby the contents of two of the chambers, the weapon being self-cocked, he instantly dropped dead.

Information gathered from the neighbors, and those who were acquainted with the family, it appears that the man, who was Joseph Krimetzky, was a native of Bohemia, aged about 36 years, and for some time past been jealous of a young man named Joseph Devorsky, who, it is asserted, was intimate with his wife. Unable to restrain his anger, he frequently absented himself from home; but, determined to punish the supposed destroyer of his domestic peace, he yesterday endeavored to invoke the aid of the law, and complained to both his wife and Devorsky with intent to conduct. The case was brought before the Police Market Court, but as there was not sufficient evidence upon which to convict of any criminal offence, the parties were discharged. This result, seems to have inflamed the rage of Krimetzky, and he determined to take the law into his own hands, for on leaving the court he immediately proceeded to purchase the revolver with which the tragedy was done, and returned apparently a new one, bearing the number, 11,025, on the lock. He returned for his residence, where, it is supposed, he found his wife busy making a dress, as the partially finished garment was on the table in the room where the murder was committed. As soon as he entered high words between them were heard by the neighbours, followed shortly after by the reports of the pistol and a scream from the woman, who rushed into the passage way to escape the threatened death, and soon fell exhausted on the floor at the head of the stairs, where she was found by the police. On examination it was discovered that one of the balls—a heavy kind of slug—had entered her breast, just above the nipple, and about a few inches lower down, under the left breast. The upper wound bled internally, and the lower one externally.

It could not be ascertained how long the unfortunate had been married, or whether the marriage took place in this country or Europe. The wife's age was supposed to be about 42 years. The name under which she was known among her friends was Josephine—a singularity, indeed, when it is considered that both of the men concerned in this domestic trouble are known as Krimetzky. Krimetzky was a cigar maker, and occupied a room adjoining the room in which the tragedy was committed. On his work-bench were a number of freshly made cigars, and some of them in the process of manufacture. Joseph Devorsky is also a cigar maker, but whether engaged in business with the deceased, either as a partner or workman, could not be ascertained. The bullet which took the life of Krimetzky entered the roof of the mouth, and passed out behind the right ear, thus causing instant death; but the missile with which the woman was killed rem
