IMPORTANT FENIAN ARREST.

Dublin, May 5.—This morning, on the arrival of the Liverpool steamer, it was boarded by two detectives, who made a search amongst the passengers, and arrested a military man. The prisoner, who gave his name as Michael Gorman, was brought to the Lower Castle-yard to await examination. Whilst in detention the officers made a rigourous search of the prisoner's garments, and discovered sewed up between the linings a variety of documents, which evinced that the prisoner was an emissary from the foreign branches of the Fenian organization. He was brought before Colonel Lake at midday, and privately examined, the result of which was that he was sent on remand to Richmond Bridewell.

A GORGEOUS PRAYER BOOK.

The young Prince Imperial had a gorgeous prayer book for use at his first communion. It is a splendid manuscript, which an artist, the most renowned penman in France, has written from beginning to end with that prodigious patience so remarkable in the missals of monks in the Middle Ages. It is ornamented all through with drawings and emblazoned vignettes in the style of the sixteenth century. The book contains one hundred and twenty-five pages, of which thirty are truly remarkable—one especially, the title page. In the centre of every capital rises or curls a leaf, a flower, or a bird; the gold which is laid on certain squares is either very lustrous, dim, or dotted, and appears to be an incrustation rather than applied. An idea can be conveyed of the persevering labour spent on the work when it is remembered that the Prince's name being Louis Eugene Napoleon, the capital beginning the word "Livre" contains in the down-stroke an N, in which are again the letters of his initials, L and E. The first page beginning the service of mass is encircled with a tree bearing gold leaves, among which azure pennons float. It is bound in blue morocco, coarsely grained, snapped by two Gothic crosses, and there will be a plain silver cross on the upper cover. The leaves outside will remain white, and are now being studded with diminutive golden crosses.

A MODERN TOURNAMENT.

The correspondent of the London Daily News thus describes the "jousting" at Florence in honour of the nuptials in that city of Prince Humbert and the Princess Margaret: "The amphitheatre was covered over by curtains, or by a kind of many-coloured velarium. These curtains had been put up to protect the spectators from the sun's scorching rays; but the velarium served a very different purpose—that of a defence against the rain, which would have made a sad havoc with dresses and bonnets but for its presence. The curtains, converging to the centre, formed a species of very graceful cupola. The amphitheatre had been constructed on the model of the old Roman one at Verona, with 30 successive galleries, the lowest 4 metres and the highest 25 metres from the ground. A hundred Doric pillars with gilt capitals were placed at equal distances around the uppermost gallery, each pillar having in its centre a shield with the armorial bearings of the 100 Italian cities. All round the first lower gallery there ran a flower parterre two metres broad, while the basement of the gallery itself was richly decorated with trophies of arms. The royal tent, formed of rich crimson velvet, supported by light and elegant gilt pillars, occupied that part of the amphitheatre looking towards Via di Po. It was richly decorated internally, and at the same time some fine old tapestry had been brought out and hung along the three divisions of the gallery especially apportioned to the royal party. Just before the royal tent was a gigantic bonquet, which transmitted its fragrance over the whole amphitheatre. Long before the hour appointed for beginning the carousal, all the galleries were thronged with spectators, eagerly awaiting the arrival of the Royal party. At 3 o'clock precisely the striking up by the bands of the Royal march, followed by the cheers of thirty thousand spectators, announced the arrival of the royal party. They were welcomed with shouts of "Viva il Re!" "Viva gli Sposi!" "Viva l'Italia!" It was some time before they could take their seats, from the necessity of saluting at every moment the people. But at length the King took his seat in the centre, with the Queen of Portugal, Princess Clotilde, Prince Napoleon, the Duchess of Genoa, Prince Carignano, and the boy Prince of Portugal, on his right hand, and on his left the Princess Margaret, the Crown Prince of Prussia, the Prince Humbert. Behind the royal spectators were the generals and high personages connected with the court, all standing. Then the trumpeters, richly and picturesquely dressed, announced by their notes that the three troops of knights, representing Italian, Spanish, and Flemish chivalry, were about to advance. The Italian body was led on by Count Marazzani, and was dressed in blue velvet doublets and caps of the same material and colour. The Spaniards, headed by the Marquis Bagnasco, were attired in violet doublets and short cloaks; whilst the Flemish, wearing red satin doublets, and green satin cloaks richly embroidered in gold, were commanded by the Chevalier Langobenbia. Prince Adedeo, as chief of the carrousel, was dressed in a richly embroidered light red jacket, with a white plume. He rode a fine grey horse, which he managed very well. But the brother of the Princess Margaret, the young Duke of Genoa, who is just fifteen, and who was dressed in violet satin with white stripes, attracted much attention. Prince Amadeo and he were the first to begin the feats of dexterity-passing their swords through the ring when at full gallop, &c., which excited much more interest than the evolutions of horsemanship made en masse by the three troops. One performance excited much interest and amusement. In the centre of the amphitheatre were suspended large drums. The cavaliers as they rode past them cut them open with their swords, releasing from their confinement flights of birds with ribbons and billets attached to their necks and tails, which immediately flew over the whole amphitheatre. The cheering was loudly renewed on the departure as on the entrance of the royal party.

Extensive defalcations in the Toronto Custom House are reported.

The Phare de la Loire says that of all the passengers and sailors who perished by the wreck of the Queen of the South but one body has yet been recovered. A sailor, Pattison, who escaped bound to a plank, saw the captain's wife, a lady passenger and their children, who were all provided with safety belts, floating for a long time. The lady, he particularly remarked, kept her head well above water. But he supposes that they were all dashed to pieces against rocks.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL.

DR. DE JONGH'S Oil is convincingly proved by an overwhelming weight of medical testimony, and by the practical test of successful experience for twenty years in all parts of the world, to be, beyond all question, the purest, the most efficacious, the most palatable, and, from its rapid curative effects, the most economical of all kinds.

Hence the universal celebrity of Dr. de Jongh's Oil, and the unparalleled demand for this unrivalled preparation.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

SIR HENRY MARSH, BART., M.D.,
Physician in Ordinary to the Queen in Ireland.

"I have frequently prescribed Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil. I consider it to be a very pure oil, not likely to create disgust, and a therapeutic agent of great value."

DR. EDWARD SMITH, F.R.S.,
Medical Officer to the Poor Law Board of Great Britain.

"We think it a great advantage that there is one kind of Cod Liver Oil which is universally admitted to be genuine—the Light-Brown Oil supplied by Dr. de Jongh. It has long been our practice, when prescribing the oil, to recommend this kind, since, amidst so much variety and uncertainty, we have confidence in its genuineness."—(Extract from "Consumption: its Early and Remediable Stages.")

DR. LANKESTER, F.R.S.,
Coroner for Central Middlesex.

"I consider that the purity of this oil is secured in its preparation, by the personal attention of so good a chemist and intelligent a physician as Dr. de Jongh, who has also written the best medical treatise on the oil with which I am acquainted. Hence, I deem the Cod Liver Oil sold under his guarantee to be preferable to any other kind as regards genuineness and medical efficacy."

DR. LETHEBY,
Medical Officer of Health, and Chief Analyst to the City of London.

"In all cases I have found Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil possessing the same set of properties, among which the presence of cholaic compounds, and of iodine in a state of organic combination, are the most remarkable. It is, I believe, universally acknowledged that this oil has great therapeutic power; and from my investigations, I have no doubt of its being a pure and unadulterated article."

DR. BARLOW, F.R.S.,
Senior Physician to Guy's Hospital.

"I have frequently recommended persons consulting me to make use of Dr. de Jongh's Cod Liver Oil. I have been well satisfied with its effects, and believe it to be a very pure oil, well fitted for those cases in which the use of that substance is indicated."

DR. GRANVILLE, F.R.S.,
Author of the "Spas of Germany."

"Dr. Granville has found that Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil produces the desired effect in a shorter time than other kinds, and that it does not cause the nausea and indigestion too often consequent on the administration of the pale oil."

EDWIN CANTON, ESQ., F.R.C.S.,
Surgeon to Charing-cross Hospital.

"For several years past I have been in the habit of prescribing Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil, and find it to be much more efficacious than other varieties of the same medicine which I have also employed with a view to test their relative superiority."

THE perfection and cheapness of the American (Waltham) watch have given it such a wide-world celebrity that unscrupulous dealers years ago imitated its style and pirated its trade marks. Irresponsible dealers are occasionally found who furtively trade upon the popularity of the American watch by selling a base imitation under the name of the genuine article.

It is hardly necessary to state that such watches are worthless as time-keepers, and when bought for the genuine are calculated to injure the high reputation which our watches have attained. The several grades of the American watch (except the lowest grade marked Home Watch Co.) are guaranteed by special certificate bearing the number of the watch and the signature of the Treasurer of the Company, R. E. ROBBINS. The purchaser should in all cases require one of these certificates, which is furnished to all dealers in the genuine watches.

NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD,
Locomotive Dep't Western Division,
Rochester, Dec. 24, 1866.

GENTLEMEN—I have no hesitation in saying that I believe the great majority of locomotive engineers have found by experience that WALTHAM WATCHES ARE THE MOST SATISFACTORY of any for their uses. They RUN WITH THE GREATEST ACCURACY AND STEADINESS, notwithstanding the roughriding of an engine; and as I have NEVER KNOWN ONE TO WEAR OUT, they must be durable. I hope to see the time when railway companies will generally adopt your watches, and furnish them to all engineers and conductors. In my opinion it would greatly tend to promote regularity and safety.

Yours respectfully,
CHARLES WILSON,
G. Chief Engineer,
