PUBLIC SALE!

of 40 DUROC BRED SOWS & GILTS at

Lindenhurst Farm

Lake Villa, Ill.

Feb. 9, 1923 at 1 p. m.

These sows are tops from THE MOST PROMINENT DUROC HERD IN NORTHERN ILLINOIS. The show herd from Lindenhurst, composed of animals selected from the breeding herd, won 68 prizes at this season's largest shows, and hogs bred at Lindenhurst and sold from the herd won 13 prizes for their owners, making a total of 81 prizes for LINDENHURST BRED DUROC for the year. Among these prizes were 29 firsts and championships, a record made by no other herd in Northern Illinois this season. Included in this sale will be several of the show herd. Taking these sows as a whole they comprise the most valuable lot of bred sows ever offered at auction in this section.

28 Sows sell bred to LINDENHURST SENSATION, a fall boar that has won the distinction of being the largest Duroc of his age in Illinois and the largest son for his age that his twice world's grand champion sire, Great Orion Sensation ever sired. He was the highest priced pig Mr. Kern sold last spring and the top pig in the entire fall crop by Great Orion Sensation. This boar was first, Junior Champion and Grand Champion at this year's shows. 1 head will sell bred to Walt's Pathmarker, a prize winning son of the 1920 World's Grand Champion, Pathmarker.

This is an opportunity to buy the very best in breeding that can be offered in Durocs. Each one is registered and all have been immuned against cholera. Write for catalog containing further information, a post card will bring it.

N. G. Kraschel, Auctioneer.

LUMBER CO. VS. NORAGER

Case Heard at Woodstock on Wednesday of Last Week

[Wednesday's Woodstock Daily]

One of the youngest members of the McHenry county bar, A. H. Pouse, of McHenry, was pitted against the veteran legal war-horse, V. S. Lumley, Wednesday in a case between the Wilbur Lumber company and Mrs. Chris Norager. Mr. Pouse represented the plaintiff and Mr. Lumley the defendant.

The company is endeavoring to compel Mrs. Norager to settle for lumber, coal, etc., bought by her husband, who formerly conducted the Orchard Beach hotel, near McHenry.

A jury listened to the evidence presented and arguments by the opposing counsel Wednesday forenoon and retired to the jury room just before the noon recess.

This case was originally against Chris Norager and wife, but Chris, sometime last year, left his place of residence and is reported to be somewhere in Russia.

From the evidence it seems that Norager and his wife were living apart, she in Chicago and Chris in McHenry. They were evidently on friendly terms, however, and the plaintiff claims that the goods purchased by the husband constituted family expense, therefore the wife should be held liable, according to the reading of the law.

The defense argued that the wife is not liable for such an account, that the plaintiff is only trying to collect from Mrs. Norager because her husband has left the country and she is the only one left to sue.

The jury returned a compromise verdict, Mrs. Norager to pay a part of the amount claimed by the lumber company.

INJUNCTION IS VIOLATED

$100 Fine Assessed Against Jacob Weingart For Contempt of Court

[Friday's Woodstock Daily]

Jacob Weingart, who resides near Johnsburg, had a hearing before Judge Shurtleff Thursday in circuit court, being charged with the violation of an injunction issued by the judge, which prohibited Mr. Weingart from using a certain road except for certain purposes.

Mr. Weingart purchased a lot near the Johnsburg bridge, upon which he built a summer home. The lot was bought from John A. Miller, who recently asked that Mr. Weingart be restrained from using a road running thru the subdivision except to get to and from the said lot. A temporary injunction was issued which was later made permanent.

Mr. Weingart was accused of using the road to haul stuff from his farm and admitted going thru a number of times to take his milk to Ringwood, but claimed that he also had business in connection with the work done on the lot.

D. R. Joslyn, Sr., appeared as attorney for Mr. Miller and V. S. Lumley represented Mr. Weingart.

Judge Shurtleff ruled that Weingart was guilty of contempt of court and assessed a fine of $100. Atty. Lumley made application for an appeal to the higher court.

ADDITIONAL EXCHANGES

Atty. James F. Casey, one of Woodstock's oldest as well as most able lawyers, has received his appointment as master in chancery in the McHenry county circuit court, the appointment having been made by Judge Edward D. Shurtleff last Thursday. The new appointee succeeds Atty. A. J. Mullen.

Charles Clore of Grayslake fell the victim of a serious accident at a railroad crossing near that village last Thursday afternoon when he was struck by a passenger train. He received a compound fracture of the left elbow, fracture of both hands, a broken left leg and several fractured ribs. He was rushed to the Lake County General hospital at Waukegan, where 'tis said he has a good chance for his life.

Only the heroic efforts of Mrs. Michael Malloy saved her four children from being burned to death in a fire which destroyed the family home near Libertyville late last Thursday afternoon. The mother discovered the house in flames while she was engaged in feeding chickens in the basement of the home. Rushing up stairs she succeeded in dragging the four little ones from the burning structure. The home, together with its entire contents, including clothing, was destroyed.

ADDITIONAL PERSONAL

H. G. Saal of Chicago passed the week end at his place at Pistakee Bay.

Lewis Stoffel of West Chicago was a Sunday guest in the home of his mother, Mrs. Wm. Stoffel.

Thos. Frisby of Chicago spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Frisby, south of town.

Ray Page was a Chicago visitor last Tuesday evening, where he saw Eddie Cantor in "Make It Snappy" at the Apollo theatre.

Earl Gorman was a Rockford visitor Tuesday.

Clinton E. Martin attended the automobile show in Chicago Tuesday.
