THAT GREAT FRAUD.

Some of the Democratic organ grinders are still recklessly talking about "the great fraud of 1876," though their Convention at Cincinnati in effect confessed that the cry was false and hypocrite by throwing overboard the alleged victims, Tilden and Hendricks.
The sum and substance of the real fraud of 1876, after the election, was just this:

When the Democratic leaders came to review the situation after the returns were in, they found that Mr.
Hayes was elected unless they could accomplish one of the following things 1. Induce the returning boards of Louisiana and Florida (one or both) to disregard flagrant acts of fraud and violence, disregard their oaths and the requirements of the State law, and count the tainted returns just as they stood.

2. Induce the Returning Board of South Carolina to pursue the opposite policy, and make a pretext for counting out precincts enough to elect Tilden.

3. Induce one of the Republican electors in Oregon to recognize Cronin instead of Watts, and thus organize with Cronin an electoral college which would cast one vote for Tilden.

They attempted all three tasks at the same time. The means they resorted to in all three enterprises was the same, namely, bribery. The translation of the famous cipher dispatches by the New York Tribune exposed the whole iniquitous proceeding.

The Milwaukee Sentinel hits the peg squarely when it says that, if General Grant keeps on saying such good things and writing such good letters, he will "find himself stronger in the affections and confidence of the Republican party than he ever was before; and that is saying a great deal. He is throwing the full weight of his character and prestige in the balance, and the general effect it will have in the campaign cannot fail to be very considerable. He has won friends from among those who would not have been his friends if he had been nominated.
He is showing himself in a new light, and adding a new phase to a character which will stand among the most illustrious in history. Instead of inclining on past and distant honors, he has the courage and manhood to run the risk of making enemies by utterances upon subjects upon which the people differ.

Murder will out. It was thirteen years ago, a brother of Mr. Geo.
Clark, of our neighboring town of Mayfield, while traveling in Missouri, was murdered by a man who was riding with him. The murderer was arrested but broke jail and escaped. From that time all trace of him has been lost until last month, when the Sheriff of the county in Missouri in which he had been arrested, got tracks of him in Livingston County in this State. He went there and had him again arrested, and he is now in jail in Missouri for trial. For twelve years he has lived on his farm there under the name of J. H. Watkins. His real name is Henry Patterson. He at once admitted his guilt; said he had never enjoyed a moment's peace since the murder was committed, and that it was a relief to him to be arrested and to feel that he was to expiate his crime.—Sycamore Republican.

If you are thinking of running a railroad, reader, don't do it; it is mighty expensive business and will keep a man as busy as an extravagant wife would. Here is one item that shows, of itself. The superintendent of the oil and fuel department of the C. & Q. Road, at Aurora, during the month of August, gave out 5,230 tons of coal, 250 cords of wood, 23,251 gallons engine oil, 2,820 gallons lard oil, 4,087 gallons kerosene, 7,295 pounds tallow, and 3,914 pounds of waste. And as far as using fuel was concerned, August was not a very cold month either.
Think of that expense, oh, reckless man, contemplating engaging in the railroad business, and pause! Though you may think to the contrary, it will be impossible for you to tow through on a capital of one dollar and a half.

Brick Pomeroy, who is now publishing the Great West at Denver, has some opinions as to General Garfield which his quondam Democratic friends might heed with profit. Brick says in his paper: "The less the Democrats have to say about Garfield's dishonesty the more sense they will exhibit. He took the back pay, but handed it back into the Treasury of the United States.
We do not believe him dishonest, or that he has ever pocketed pennies of political perquisites where his assaiants have stolen dollars, either from the public or their private friends. If the Democrats, or others, selected leaders with as clean a record as Garfield, they would do well."

Behind Garfield stand the men who fought for national unity and have consistently labored for national prosperity and power and defended the national honor. Behind Hancock stand the men who fought to destroy the union, who sold a debt of $2,756,431.
571-43 upon the country and who sought national dishonor and disgrace. Honest, patriotic citizens can not hesitate in deciding which to support.

GOOD FOR GRANT.

The following characteristic letter was written by General Grant to General Logan, in response to an invitation extended to the ex-President to preside at a Garfield and Arthur meeting to be held in New York:

MANITOW SPRINGS, Col. Aug. 12th.

MY DEAR GEN. LOGAN—I left this place two weeks ago for an extended tour through the San Luis Park and Gunnison country, and hence have only just received your letter of the 28th of July.

I will be going east the latter part of September, and will gladly attend any meeting intended to further the success of the ticket headed by Garfield and Arthur.

I agree with you that it will not do to be beaten now. We should never be beaten until every man who counts or represents those who count in the enumeration to give representation in the electoral college, can cast his vote just as he pleases, and can have it counted just as he cast it. Yours truly, U. S. GRANT.

The passenger earnings of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway for the past year, aggregate nearly four million dollars. A railroad company must have to employ nearly as many book-keepers and accountants as the average country newspaper publisher.
The only consolation for us newspaper publishers is, that if the railroad companies do gather in nearly as much cash, their business is a good deal more dangerous. Come to think of it, though, we are not so sure of this. If a man is to be mutilated we are not so sure whether it makes much difference whether it is done by iron wheels or by the strong fists and big feet of the man who comes in to see the editor about some little flippant item—and flouts him. Talk as you will, this is a hard-hearted, lonesome old world—sometimes.—Ex.

VALUABLE FACTS FROM A SAFE SOURCE

The affairs of this country have become so extended that it is only by a carefully prepared synopsis in the form of figures that one can really hope to understand what is really going on.
Hon. A. R. Spoford, the Librarian of Congress, is the only man who has facilities at his command for collecting complete national statistics, and he does it with the greatest care and accuracy. His latest issue, "The American Treasury of Facts," has been sent us by Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co., proprietary of the valuable Warner Safe Remedies. This book is a miniature cyclopedia in itself, containing in addition to a vast amount of national matter, about all of value that has transpired in this country during the past year, and reflects credit upon the compiler, as well as upon the enterprise of Messrs. Warner & Co. in selecting it.

Jim Wood, the Irish Hoosier and coal-miner, who is making some pungent campaign speeches for the Republicans in Indiana, told the following pointed story in a speech recently apropos to the bloody shirt discussion:

"Then they say that the fellows talk of the bloody shirt all the time. They remind me of the boy and the dog.
The boy was going along the road, and he happened to have a pitchfork with him, and he met a savage dog, and he happened to be holding the sharp end of the pitchfork toward the dog. His old grandfather called out to him, 'Whr, what do you have the sharp end of the pitchfork toward the dog for?' and the boy said, 'Because the dog had his sharp end toward me.' If they don't like hearing about the bloody shirt, they shouldn't have turned their sharp edge toward us."
