"Our Carpet Bag."

Titles.—A King! is a high sounding title; but history proves that, of the two, that of Beggar is not the least to be envied. "All is not gold that glitters," and the poor beggar is something more than a worm, though he be compelled to crawl through life.

Youth and Age.—Youth may sow wild pleasantly as he travels along the Road to Ruin; but old age will surely bring him to account, with many a cutting reminder, in the shape of lumbago, and "the rheumatics."

"Short reckonings make long friends."—That can't be true, ma, for here's papa six feet three in his socks, and he owes twenty thousand pounds."

"Do take your breakfast, that's a dear!—(Aside) what in the world coming yet with those precocities! that child can't live long, I'm aheard!"

Hydrophobia.—"Ma, has aunt Sally got the hydrophoby? She says she has a great dread of the water."

"Yes, my dear, she came nearly being drowned once."

"Oh! that's Hydrophoby is it?"

An old merchant in Baltimore said the other day, that a man might as well think of being elected President of the United States, without his name being in the papers, as to be known and successful in business without advertising.

That old merchant knew a thing or two.—There is a small merchant in this city, who neither advertises, nor subscribes to a paper; and the natural consequence is, that his shop is literally deserted. Some days, however, he sells about four pence worth—three farthings per diem being the greatest increase on that sum.

"Mister, have you seen a yaller dog going along here, about a year, year and a half, or two years old?"

"Yes," replied the chapper, supposing the Yankee was quizzing him, "yes I saw a yaller dog going along here, about a year and a half, or two years old, about an hour, an hour and a half, or two hours ago, and you will find him about a mile, and a half, or two miles ahead, with a tail about an inch and a half, or two inches long."

"Hold on! that will do, stranger! I could date you ash into one about a foot, a foot and a half, or two feet."

A blacksmith who had been advised to bring a suit in court for slander, replied that he could go into his shop and hammer out a better character than all the courts in Christendom could give him.

An Irishman called on a lady and gentleman, in whose employ he was for the purpose of getting some tea and tobacco.

"I had a drame last night, your honor, said he to the gentleman.

"What was it, Pat?"

"Why, I dreamed that yer honor made me a present of a ping of tobaccy, and her ladyship there—heaven bless her!—gave me some tay for the good wife.

"Ah Pat dreams go by contraries, you know."

"Faith, and they may be that,' said Pat, without the least hesitation: 'so yer ladyship is to give the tobaccy and yer honor the tay?'

How to warm.—"Well, John have you made that bureau shine well?" "Yes, I guess it don't look bad, but 'twas a tarnal job though. I couldn't get at it in another way, and I took the fireplane, and peel'd the skin'd back all off on't!"

Opinions of the Press.—The New York Tribune, one day last week, published the opinions of some thirty different papers, published in various parts of the country, and all respectable, all of which speak of the new female costume in the highest terms."

Dunning Advertisement.—A Kentucky Editor advertises as follows:—

"Wanted at this office, a bull dog of any color except pumpkin and milk, of respectable size, small nose, cropped ears, abbreviated continuation, and bad disposition—who can come when called with a raw beef stake, and will bite the man who spits tobacco juice on the stove, and steals the exchanges.

Notice to Undertakers.—A Mr. Campbell, who has lately paid a visit to "the gold mines of Maine," says, in a letter to a Boston paper, that "gold is scattered all along over the north-east part of Maine, but probably searching for it would prove ruinous to the undertaker." No doubt of it. Making coffins is a much better business.

The Horse that saw the Elephant.—A very remarkable case of the effects of fright upon a horse, (says the Norwich Aurora,) occurred in Franklin a short time since. A horse belonging to Mr. Joseph Palmer was grazing in the yard near the fence, when the elephants belonging to the menagerie recently in this city were passing along. The horse did not observe them till they were quite close to him, when looking up and seeing the huge animals, he started back in a fright ran to the opposite side of the yard, stood for a moment quivering, and then dropped dead. He was literally frightened to death.

The Fool's Refuge.—There was a certain nobleman says Bishop Hall, who kept a fool to whom he one day gave a staff with a charge to keep it till he should meet with one who was a bigger fool than himself.

Not many years after the nobleman fell sick even unto death. The fool coming to see him, he sick lord said unto him;

"I must shortly, leave you.'

'And whither art thou going,' enquired the fool.

'Into another world replied his lordship.

"And when will you come back?"—within a month?'

"No.'

'Within a year?'

'No.'

'When then?'

'Never?'

'Never?' said the fool, and what provision hast thou made for thy entertainment there, whither thou goest?'

'None at all.'

'?' said the fool, 'none at all!—Here take my staff; for with all my folly, I am not guilty of any such folly as this.'

The Dreams.—The Chronicle of Western Literature tells the following story of a certain Colonel. It may be old, but it is good:

The Colonel, during a short sojourn in Vicksburg, met there some hot-blooded Southerner, with a spirit as fiery as his own. They quarrelled—a challenge was passed and accepted, and the next rising sun was to witness one, if not both of their dead bodies drenched in blood to wash out wounded honor. During the night the Colonel said he heard a boat coming up the river, and it struck him as he heard the boat puffing and blowing "that discretion was the better part of valor." So he took his trunk upon his shoulder, and stepped, in the dead of the night, very quietly out of the hotel; as he neared the boat, whom should he see but his antagonist at the bar before him just going on board.

He returned as he had gone out; and was on the ground next morning with his second, waiting with disappointed wrath for his antagonist, and published him as an absconding scoundrel.

THE FARMER'S GUIDE TO SCIENTIFIC AND PRACTICAL AGRICULTURE.

BY HENRY STEPHENS, F.R.S.E., of Edinburgh, the celebrated author of the "Book of the Farm," and PROF. NORTON of Yale College, New Haven; now complete in 20 Numbers. It embraces every subject of importance connected with Agriculture in all its various branches, both Theoretical and Practical—"Science, in as far as it has, up to the present time, been made available to Practice by Experiment, will be treated in its relation to every operation or process in the course of the seasons." The work is arranged under four distinct heads, representing the seasons, beginning with Winter and ending with Autumn. The following are among the many subjects treated of in the first and second seasons, including the Introductory, viz:

INITIATORY.

On the best of the existing Methods for acquiring a thorough knowledge of Practical Husbandry.
On the difficulties to be encountered in learning Practical Husbandry, and on the Means of overcoming them.
On the different kinds of Farming.
On the Persons required to Combine and Execute the Labor of the Farm.
On the Branches of Science most applicable to Agriculture.
On the Institutions of Education best suited to Agricultural Students.
On the evils attending the neglect of Land Owners and others to learn practical Agriculture.
On observing the details and recording the facts of Farming by the Agricultural Student.

PRACTICE—WINTER.

On the Treatment of Farm-horses in Winter.
On the treatment of the Farmer's Saddle and Harness Horse in Winter.
On the Fattening of Swine in Winter.
On the treatment of Fowls in Winter.
On the Rationale of the Feeding of Animals
On the Threshing and Winnowing of Grain.
On the Accommodation of the Grain Crops in the Standing
On the Forging of Ploughshills in Winter
On the Forming of Composts in Winter.
On Liquid Manure.
On Seaweed as Manure.
On Gauging or Gluging the Soil.

PRACTICE—SPRING.

Summary of the Field Operations, and of the Weather in Spring.
On the Calving of Cows.
On the Milking of Cows.
On the Rearing of Calves.
On the Sowing of Spring Wheat.
On Drilling up the Land.
On the Sowing of Beans.
On the Sowing of Peas.
On the Sowing of Tares.
On the Rolling of Land.
On the Sowing of Oats.
On the Laudling of Grass.
On Cross-ploughing Land.
On Ribbing Land for the Seed-Furrow.
On the Sowing of Grass-Seeds.
On the Sowing of Barley.
On the Turning of Ploughills.
On the Planting of Potatoes.
On Paring and Burning the Surface.

The Work embraces many important operations not included in the ordinary routine of farming, such as "Judging of Land,"—"Stocking of a Farm," "Improvement of the Soil," &c., &c.

The contributions by Prof. Norton, add greatly to the value of the work, by adapting it to the Soil, Climate, Growth, &c., of our own country; and the united labors of two such distinguished men, have made this work one of the most complete and valuable to the American Farmer, ever issued from the press.

☞ The work contains some 18 or 20 engravings on steel, and more than 600 wood engravings, in the highest style of the art. It is handsomely printed on fine paper.

ICE! ICE!! ICE!!!

THE Subscriber presumes it enough to enable any parties to make ICE, in any climate, with but little expense or trouble.—The process is simple, and can be accomplished by the most limited understanding, so as to produce from even warm water, in the hottest climate, a pure ice, equal in every essential to that formed by natural causes. The luxury of always having at one's will, in the heat of Summer, a pure and delicious ice, will readily be conceived; and its advantages, in cases of sickness cannot be too greatly prized. By this same process, warm water can be rendered delightfully cold in about 3 minutes, and ice creams, with many other luxuries, can be made in from 10 to 20 minutes.

The following notice of this great discovery is taken from the New York Sun:

"A Real Luxury.—Dr. James S. Wilmington produces, by an artificial process, pure and solid ice, from warm water, in the heat of summer, in less than half an hour.—And he can render a barrel of water as cold as ice itself in a very few minutes. This discovery must be of immense value to all living South.

TERMS.—This receipt, which contains full instructions for making ice & ice creams, cooling water, and numerous other useful matters, will be forwarded to order for Two Dollars, by addressing Dr. Jas. S. Wilmington, 192 Nassau street, N. Y.

☞ One Agent only will be appointed in each county, and those securing the Agency must forward $20, for which they will receive 32 copies of the pamphlet, containing full instructions.

Steamboat Express Train leaves Ogdensburgh at 3 P. M., on the arrival of the accommodation Boat from Kingston; arrives at Rouse's Point at midnight. Leaves Rouse's Point at 7 P. M., on the arrival of the Train from New York, Boston and Montreal; arrives at Ogdensburgh at 12½ o'clock P. M.

By this Train passengers are carried through from Boston to Ogdensburgh (400 miles) in One Day.

Fare from Ogdensburgh to Montreal $3
" " " Boston $5
" " " New York $7

No Charge for conveyance of baggage from the Steamboats to the Cars, or from the Cars to the Steamboats, on this Route.

Arrangements are now being made for a Through Ticket to Rutland from Ogdensburgh to New York, via the Valley of the Connecticut River, by which passengers can reach New York in one day from Rouse's Point—the western terminus of the Ogdensburgh Railroad.

A new and complete route is now open to the Travelling Public, by which passengers destined to Boston or New York or Montreal, can have an opportunity of passing through a portion of the country, heretofore shut out from the Travelling world of proper Railway connection from Lake Ontario to the sea-board. This connection is now formed by the completion of the Ogdensburgh Railroad, (118 miles), and two Lines of Rail from Lake Champlain to New York and Boston. (For a more particular description of all these routes see advertisement in another column.)

As a new Route to and from Montreal, and from Canada West to Boston and New York, the Ogdensburgh Railroad will in humanities, possess many objects of interest to Canadians at this time, more especially to those who are interested in the enterprises now making to give Canada West the advantages arising from a parallel arranged on one of Railway communication between Lake Huron, Lake Erie, Lake Ontario and the Atlantic Cities of the United States.

By taking the steamers at Hamilton, Toronto, and the Canadian Ports on Lake Ontario, traffic can be conveyed to Kingston, Brockville or Prescott. At Kingston, the United States Steamers touch, en route to Ogdensburgh, connecting with the British Line from Hamilton. A Ferry Boat plies between Prescott and Ogdensburgh daily.

Travellers desirous of examining the original Railways in the United States, may have an opportunity (in taking the Train at Ogdensburgh in the evening), of viewing the Ogdensburgh Station Grounds, (60 acres in extent,) the Dock, 4,100 feet in length, the Freight and Passenger Houses, the Grain Warehouse and Steam Elevators now in progress of construction, the Engine Houses and Machine Shops, and leave in the 10 o'clock, A. M., Train, which arrives at Rouse's Point, for dinner at 3 o'clock, P. M. The Steamboats bound north, are detained from Rouse's Point, take their departure at 7 o'clock, P. M.; thus giving Travellers four hours to examine the Fort Montgomery, 1200 feet long by 164 feet wide, built on a pier in Lake Champlain; the Machine Shops, Car Houses, Engine Houses and the Bridge, now commencing on the Vermont and New York side of the Lake.

The 8 o'clock, P. M., Train will always wait for the evening Boats from Kingston.

Parties on pleasure, during the summer months, of visiting the Falls of Niagara, and the Saguenay Rivers, if proceeding to Boston or New York, will view some of the most magnificent Mountain, Lake and River Scenery in any part of America, when from Ogdensburgh, passing through Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, the Valley of the Connecticut River, and the Rhode Hudson.

The Ogdensburgh Rails ad Company, anticipating that being the most Central to the Atlantic Sea-Board to Canada West, as the most direct, expeditious and economical, invite the attention of all interested in the Commercial and General prosperity of this important section of the British North American Colonies, to an early and careful examination of all the facilities offered by the Road and its connections, when it will be found that them have in view the most rapid and favorable channels through which to develope the Canadian trade.
