TO ADVERTISERS.

The expense of advertising in a Daily Paper is very much greater than that of advertising in a Weekly or Semi-Weekly; it can, however, be only honored by previous agreement; but in order to ensure this acceptance, it is imperatively necessary to pay each insertion as they are handed in. In no single case will any abatement of the advertising tariff be allowed, unless pre-payment is made.

REFORM AND PROGRESS.

At this time when a General Election is about to occur; when men are to be chosen to whom the destinies of Canada are to be entrusted for the four years to come; it may not be amiss to enquire into the cause of the opposition still given to Reform and Progress.

There are two classes of men in this province who have in all ages been the great obstacles to reform and progress, and it is hard to say which has done the most harm, for they have in fact played into one another's hands. The one class are Tories who fear reform, because it may lead to mischievous changes; and the other are the Republicans, who, for the very same reason, desire it. Of course it is not to be expected that any reformer or progressionist will or can shut his eyes to the sequel of his policy, to the tendencies it will stimulate, or the new range of possibilities it will bring in; but when a man recommends a liberal measure on the express ground that it may lead to a dissolution of society, or the satisfaction of his own vindictive feelings, he is in fact co-operating with those craven spirits, who stigmatize all reform as revolution. The result of their joint endeavours is that reform is often hatched or delayed, and left at last to be done under evil auspices. As we understand the rationale of political reform, it is a simple appeal to the good sense of the people, and to the eternal principles of equity and truth. The man who has something to surrender, and the man who has something to gain, meet on this common ground—that they will appeal to the people and abide the consequences. It is a common appeal, not a factious invocation. The contending parties do not severally prescribe to the umpire how it shall exercise the power they agree to confer. Indeed, it has happened even this—it has confusedly happened since Responsible Government was conceded, that the people vaguely admitted to liberty, used it much more gently and discreetly than had been expected, and, as we now see, this moderation is the best possible argument for a further extension of the privileges. But if the higher classes risk much by political reform, they are entitled also to the chance of results unexpectedly favorable to their interests and order. It is, then, a species of uncertainty, and an actual distrust of the people, to pretend an appeal to the people, and yet dictate to it what its verdict shall be—that is the use it shall make of its new powers.

The reader accustomed to the English journals, will readily perceive that we have been perusing the London Times, and quoting its opinions. Granted. The same principles of policy, and the same reasoning, apply equally to Great Britain and to Canada. The same cuckoo cry against Reform, was heard at home prior to the passing of the Reform Act, and the same cry is heard again, now that Lord John Russell proposes to extend the Franchise throughout the British Isles. That cry is somewhat raised in Canada at the present hour, and the object is the same—to deprive the people of the power they should legitimately exercise at the Polls, and to re-propagate the reign of that miracle now happily got rid of.

THE REJECTED OF HALDIMAND.

The ex-Attorney of the Penitentiary was yesterday afternoon observed taking his final and unobtrusive departure by the Magnet; no flourish of trumpets heralded his departure, alas! no. Silence—solemn, expressive silence, 'brooded o'er the deep' and George departed alone in his glory.

Clad in sombre black, emblematical of his fallen hopes, he has departed, giving way to other and better men; his pet scheme has failed—miserably failed, to the serious injury of unsuspecting parties—hundreds of operatives have been driven out of Kingston by his views, and now what do we see? Any given quantity of ships, who, for the last two years have been sewing away for bare life, left in the lurch; their work advertised to the winds; utterly unfitted by Saipam for any other employment, they offer a pretty picture of the 'Reformatory System.'

It is vaunted—grounds not known, but supposed to be mechanical, that after his election the Globe will explode in a lecture on Prison discipline, Bible Societies, namesake-ism, &c. Some of the recent earthquakes give strength to the rumor. The truth is, our globular friend got hold of a needle warranted not to 'cut in the eye,' and taking a telescopic view of said eye, he arrived at the conclusion that even the thread wouldn't hook. Wanting to be an M.P., whether or not, he has moved his mark, and stands, the butt of all parties. In pity for the man's isolated position, we will in the meantime leave him to pursue his triumphs, although we may hap, on some future occasion, may admonister a gentle nudge to the poor man's vanity—however, on second thoughts, lest will do the job, and save the Whig the trouble.

THE WRIT ON KENNETH MACKENZIE.—Mr Mackenzie, at the Prentonac meeting, alluding to the inquiry act, said he looked at it as mainly serviceable to "and sharks" a species of critter which he then attempted to describe. The Whig, or rather its correspondent 'Nepanee'—all the same—says:—"The genuine impudence of a member of the 'black brigade' applying the term 'shark' to any person is characteristic of him who used it!" Take that from a friend, Kenneth.—News of Thursday.

NOTE.—The words quoted have relation to the Editor of the News himself, who made the impudent allusion, and not to Mr. Kenneth Mackenzie. Such disingenuousness is characteristic of this vile print.

THE QUARTER'S REVENUE OF GREAT BRITAIN.

(From the London Observer, Oct. 5.)

The official returns of the quarter's revenue will be made up on Friday evening next, the 10th inst.

Although not yet quite complete, enough is known to enable us to state that the returns for the current quarter will continue to present a most favorable result.

In spite of all the remission of taxation, the present quarter will show an increase over the corresponding quarter of last year.

With such a greatly diminished expenditure as the late reductions have produced, the surplus revenue from receipts, which notwithstanding all reductions, still keep up their accustomed amount, promises to be even greater in the next financial year than it has been in the year 1850 or 1851.

There will be a falling off in the stamps of about £ 60,000, which is less than the loss calculated on the reduction of stamp duties and which the Chancellor of the Exchequer estimated at £300,000 a year.

There will also be a very small comparative deficiency in the item of taxes. All the items are good, and will more than cover the deficiency above stated.

The Customs will show an actual increase over the October quarter of last year, amounting to something near £30,000, notwithstanding the reductions that have come into operation during the year on the import duties upon sugar, coffee, timber, &c., and that, on the quarter just ended, the 5s per quarter duty upon corn yielded less than usual.

The excise, too, is eminently satisfactory, and will show an increase of about the same amount as the Customs. This is even a greater test than the other. Some of the new abolished break duties were collected in the October quarter of last year. The increase is chiefly observable in those articles, the consumption of which betokens a substantial accession to the comforts of our working population.

The property and income tax is also better, and indicates a complete recovery from the falling off observable in the last quarter.

The Post Office, too, will show a considerable and substantial increase.

In fine, the finances of the country are in a most favorable and prosperous condition on all their branches.

The returns of the Board of Trade, which were issued on Saturday, are equally satisfactory and conclusive.

SEARCH FOR SIR JOHN FRANKLIN.

A communication, dated at Gloucester, on Friday evening, states that on Sunday last as a lady, living at Wootton Lodge, near this city, was at dinner, she observed a small balloon descend in the garden, and went out the gardener to see what it was. The gardener brought it to his master, and it proved to be a small balloon, filled with gas, to the car of which was attached a card bearing the following description:—"Ether. Hte W. inc., 71 deg. lat., September 24, 1851. Blocked up." Of course it was supposed that this was a practical joke of some person, and Mrs. Russell, the lady alluded to, took no further notice of it, though next day she casually mentioned it to her friends. Some of them, on examining the balloon, thought the matter of sufficient importance to make further inquiries, and, consequently, a communication of the fact was made to the admiralty board, who immediately replied to it by express telegraph and requested the balloon to be sent up to London.

This, of course, was done, and the next day the admiralty sent down Capt. Beechy, R.N., to Gloucester, to make further inquiries, accompanied by an intent officer of the admiralty, and yesterday and to-day these officers are making further inquiries on the spot, and collecting the evidence to send up to London. The admiralty officers have examined the balloon, and declare it to be, in fact, a real government balloon, of the same kind as those intended to the Erebus before she left England. These balloons are of a peculiar shape, and are never sold to the public. The following letter, which was issued by the secretary of the admiralty, proves that the above is only a month old:—"October 11, 1851.—A balloon having appeared in the Times of this day, have circumstances, Friday evening, wherein it is stated that had a card of the description of the balloon been found at that place, we are authorized to state in order to prevent misapprehension, that no balloons were supplied to those ships.—N. B. The balloon found at Gloucester is not of a pattern in shape, but is of a description commonly supplied to the public."

AGRICULTURAL PROSPECTS IN IRELAND.

Mr John Lamb, the Quaker correspondent of the Northern Whig, in his last report of an extended tour, makes the following remarks: The principal reapers in some parts of Leinster and Munster seemed to be old persons of both sexes, and young boys. The strong young men and women are drained out of the country; the few that are left resort to the rich man's own fields, which is now obliged to pay, in money wages, 1s to 1s 2d. per day for a man's hard work, which is thought to be exorbitant wages. In my opinion, emigration will continue to go on and increase, until men are fairly paid for their labor. Strong young farm servants better their condition more than any other class who go to America; and I have heard, this journey, of more than one case, where such persons have sent over £5 to a fellow servant, no relative, to enable him to go out, trusting to his honor to repay him in America. As to what these people are doing for their relatives, it is almost incredible.—Any person who has for several years travelled the west, must be greatly struck with the change in the garden culture of the cottier and small farmer, particularly in the county of Galway, since the first potatoe blight.—Formerly there was next to nothing in their gardens but potatoes: this year there was only a small portion of ground divided to early ones, the rest to cabbages, parsnips, turnips, carrots and onions; but the most important increase is in parsnips, which I was very glad to see, as the potatoes are likely to be very uncertain this year. I observed very many large fields of potatoes untouched, and others with only a ridge or two dug out; there is such an extent of land under them, that if they had held good this year, it would have revived the spirits of the farming interests in the west wonderfully, and, as they say, "put the country on its legs again." English, Scotch, and Ulster farmers are scattering themselves over the south and west wonderfully. I hear of them more or less in most of the counties.

CURIOUS FREAK.—Among the arrivals at Plymouth on Saturday, was a skiff of about 22 feet in length, three feet in breadth, and about the same depth, in which an eccentric and adventurous individual had started from London a fortnight previous, and had rowed all the distance to Plymouth, skirting the coast, and taking shelter each night in that harbour to which he happened to be the nearest. The boat was supplied with a pair of sculls and small square sail, which, from the manner in which it was set, could only be serviceable when the wind was fair, or nearly so. Rumour states it to be in consequence of a bet, but no information could be obtained from the man himself, who left Plymouth by land for the north of Devon, having arranged to his skill to be taken round to Newport, from whence, no doubt, he will start on a similar voyage of inspection on the Welch coast.—Shipping Gazette.

POSTAGE ON NEWSPAPERS.

During the last few weeks, several numbers of the British American advanced to subscribers in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were returned to this office, marked "postage not paid." As they have no post mark, and as we were not aware of any existing rule or regulation which required the prepayment of postage on newspapers sent to any of the British Provinces, the writer of this addressed a letter on the subject to the Postmaster-General, and received the subjoined reply, which we publish for the benefit of any of our contemporaries who may be similarly circumstanced.

"POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
"Quebec, 14th October, 1851.

"Sir,—In answer to your letter of the 7th instant, I beg to say that the postage on newspapers for the Lower Provinces must be prepaid in Canada.

"In New Brunswick there is no postage on newspapers, so that the Canadian postage must be collected in this Province. Your paper has been returned to you from the Quebec Office.

"I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
"W. H. GRIFFIN, Secretary.

THE "BLACK SWAN." (Miss Greenfield) gave her first Concert at Buffalo on Wednesday evening. The Express of that city says: Jenny Lind has never drawn a better house as to character, than that which bore evident satisfaction to the unheralded and almost unknown African Nightingale. Certainly she is something for her, not not all. She has much, very great merit, and with cultivation (instruction) she will rank among the very first vocalists of the age. She has a voice of great sweetness, a power, with a wide range from the lowest to highest notes than we have ever listened to; flexibility, to put roulades, and her control of it is beyond example for a new and untaught vocalist. Her performance was received with marked appreciation and applause, from those who knew what to applaud.

We understand that Mr. Beaudry having declared himself a candidate for the suffrages of the citizens of Montreal to represent them in Parliament, Mr. Louis Perrault has also come forward, to oppose him, on the French Canadian interest. Mr. Perrault is, we are given to understand, not by any means adverse to the interests of Mr. Young or Mr. Holmes, but merely comes forward to neutralize the influence of Mr. Beaudry, whom he opposes on public grounds.—Montreal Herald.

FIRST FALL OF SNOW.—Yesterday morning, for the first time this season, the ground was covered with snow; but, owing to the mildness of the weather, it did not long remain. Last evening the weather cleared up, and during the night there was a sharp frost. This morning, another fall of snow has taken place, covering the ground to the depth of about two inches. Several sleighs have made their appearance to-day—their reign is not likely to last.—Quebec October 25.

Another shocking accident occurred on the 17th inst., in the village of Port Stanley. Two small girls were taking home a gun that had been borrowed from a neighbor, they were met by two boys, one a son of Dr. Duncombe, and the other a son of Mr. Paine, contractor in Port Stanley. Young Dancoh asked for the gun, got it, and immediately fired it off, lacerating in a dreadful manner Paine's arm, below the shoulder. Medical aid was obtained, and on the day following the accident, Drs. Burgess and Going amputated the limb close to the body. The child is seven years of age, and is now doing well.

A FEMALE PEDESTRIAN.—A Miss Cushman, at St. Louis, Missouri, has undertaken to walk a mile an hour for five hundred consecutive hours. She commenced at six P. M. on Friday, the 10th instant, and during her first twenty-four hours her quickest mile was performed in fourteen minutes, her slowest in nineteen minutes and twelve seconds, and the rest at various periods between. She is said to be gratified as well as a rapid walker. While on duty she is dressed in full Bloomer costume, consisting of pink silk dress, pink trousers, and bonnet crowned with cherry-colored ribbon. Large crowds were drawn together to witness this novel spectacle.

A curious item of news from the Cologne Gazette, in relation to a proposition in a cabinet council, at Madrid, for the sale of Cuba to England, will challenge particular attention.

Austria, it appears, has actually moved an army to the frontiers of Turkey—for what object it is not known, but supposed to be at the set of Indignation against the Sublime Porte for the release of the Hungarians. It is probable that it will amount to nothing more.

The great Exhibition was to be wound up officially, with the most imposing ceremonials on the 15th, and the building was forthwith to be taken down. We understand that Mr. Webster, now in this city, has received official notice of the awards of the premiums.

Hill, the informer, who was dreadfully burned in having high wines poured on his clothes and then set fire to, which unfortunately at the time of its occurrence, died in the Montreal General Hospital, on Wednesday last, in the greatest agony. He leaves a wife and three children.—Montreal Gazette, Oct 24th.

Why is a hog the most extraordinary animal in creation? Because you first kill him, and then cure him.

There are 30 newspapers published in Scotland, Of these only 11 appear, from this return, to have a circulation amounting to 3000, while 32 are under 1000, and 12 under 500.

HEAVY DAMAGES.—The Jury in the case of Jas. Hooker against Edmund Weckerly, Philadelphia, for the seduction of his daughter, rendered a verdict on Tuesday last, for $3,000 damages.

We are informed, that a prisoner, who was on his way to the Provincial Penitentiary, at Kingston, C. W., under sentence of the courts from this district, made his escape on the way, while in charge with several others.—Quebec Gazette.
