'De omnibus rebus et quibusdam aliis.'

"Oh who can hold a fire in his hand
By thinking of the frosty Caucasus,
Or wallow naked 'mid December's snows,
With bare remembrance of the Summer's heat?"

The weather makes one too lazy to look into Shakspere to see whether the above is correct—this quoting by memory is never right. An Editor's leaving his easy chair for a few days is no such mighty matter as to be chronicled specially—it is an affair of monthly occurrence—but in this particular instance it is convenient, to jot down a few items that might not be introduced so advantageously; and to do this pleasantly, the editorial 'we' shall be dropped, and when it is necessary to be egotistical, the pronoun I will be used.

The Crops between Kingston and Niagara Falls are truly splendid; a Railroad rarely runs through the best lands, and therefore if what was seen along the route was good, how much better must the crops in favored localities be. The Fall Wheat, the Barley, the Corn, the Potatoes never looked better. The Hay was nearly all cut, but did not appear to be over abundant, and I saw but little Rye. The country within ten miles of Toronto is very poor, far worse than the stony ridges near Kingston, but with the exception of these, and a tract of land near the River Trent, scarcely an acre is to be found incapable of maintaining its man. Goldsmith talks of every rood, but in Canada every acre is more appropriate. This year's harvest when gathered in will pay Canada's debts, that is, the people's debts, and it is to be hoped that a Day of General Thanksgiving will be proclaimed for a truly Bountiful Harvest, unlike the mockery of 1867, when folks were called upon to thank the Almighty, for a benefit He had not vouchsafed to grant.

Toronto is hourly becoming a city of magnificence, not quite so great or so fast as Montreal, but treading on its heels. The shops are large and well filled, and the wholesale stores many. Its merchants are just now kicking up a mighty fuss about United States Silver, out of which the Money Brokers are making a good thing. Taking advantage of the panic among the Retailers, they have raised the discount to six per cent., while in Kingston and other places it is still but four per cent. Walking the streets, in some shops notice is stuck up 'Silver taken at Par,' in others at 'Ten per cent. discount,' while in the great majority the Silver is received at a graduated scale, varying from 4 to 10 per cent., according to the size of the coin. This 'Silver Nuisance,' in my humble opinion, is no nuisance, but a positive benefit to the community, though it may incommode some traders. Shop-keepers have always the power to price their goods, and knowing how they expect to be paid, it is their own fault if they lose. The 'Silver Nuisance,' from its very commencement, has ever made money plentiful in Canada; those who had it in their pockets were more ready to part with it than if deposited at the Banks, or folded up in the shape of Bills in their wallets. The abundance of Silver saved the Province from a fearful monetary crisis, and it has done and continues to do more real good than harm. 'Great cry and little wool.'

Toronto possesses two First Class Hotels that would not discredit the metropolis of the British Empire, nay, it would surprise me to learn that London has two as handsome and commodious in every particular. 'The Queen's' and the Rossin House, the first kept by Capt. Thomas Dick, of steamboat notoriety, and the other by Mr. Sheard, of the Clifton House, Niagara Falls. They are both elegantly furnished, the rooms airy and filled with every possible convenience. The cuisine in both is well attended to, and the waiters vie with the another in attention to the guests. To illustrate the expense in fitting these rival Hotels for the reception of the travelling public, there is in the Dining Room of the Rossin House a Grand Piano Forte of the Steinway make, that cost Mr. Sheard $1,100 in gold, the most beautiful and best toned instrument in Canada. I am happy to add that both these Hotels are well appreciated and kept generally full, though from 'Auld Lang Syne,' the Queen's takes the preference. There are dozens of other good hotels in Toronto, but these are the only ones I visited.

No one could possibly visit Toronto at a time when the Premier of Canada and the Premier of Ontario were both in consultation, without talking politics, the chief topic of which was the Governorship of Ontario. The choice of Mr. Howland is neither a happy nor a popular choice, tho' everybody in Toronto respects him and believes that he will make an impartial and prudent Lieutenant Governor. One matter I got my mind disabused of, and that was the belief that Dr. Sandfield Macdonald had been promised or desired the coveted post of honor. We have reason to know that no such promise was ever made to him; and we have reason to know also, that under his present circumstances Mr. Sandfield Macdonald could not possibly accept the dignity. This belief arose from the ill-natured remarks of the Globe, and the injudicious defence and eulogy of the Telegraph, the so-called organ of the Ontario Premier. The causes why Mr. Sandfield Macdonald could not accept the Lt.-Governorship are—1st. The task he undertook of forming and leading the Administration of the new Government of the Province is but half accomplished—were he to retire, his personal influence with the Grits in Parliament would be lost, and a change of ministers, all Grits, would be the consequence. Moreover, he would break faith with the Dominion Cabinet, who rely on his endeavors to restore the Province to a state of political happiness. 2nd. Were he to be Lieut.-Governor for five years, he could not return to the Bar at the expiration of that term, but must thereafter live on his own private means, which are not sufficiently strong to allow of such a retirement, with so large a family to introduce to the world as he has the happiness to possess; and his eldest son is about to be called to the Bar, and he must be a little experienced ere he be left to manage his well established business at Cornwall. Five years hence he may take the Lieut.-Governorship, or go on the Bench, but meanwhile he has his work cut out before him, and he has both industry and good will to do it.

Letter from Rye Beach.

THE SEASON ON THE SEA SHORE—FASHIONABLE RESORTS—THE EASTERN RAILROAD, ETC., ETC.

Rye Beach, N.H., July 10.

The season opened here on the 1st inst., and already there are strong proofs of one of the most crowded and exciting seasons that has been experienced here in many years. Gen. Franklin Pierce, ex-President, and other distinguished individuals have taken cottages for the summer in this vicinity, which will make gay times on the sea shore this season. The fashionable summer resorts all along on the line of the East rn Railroad, such as Nahant, Lynn, Swampscott, Newburyport, Hampton, &c., &c., will be crowded this season. There never seemed to be so great a demand for rooms as now. The secret of this great influx in these localities seems to be the exceedingly low price of board which is asked by the various hotels this season. The Ocean House has undergone extensive repairs and improvements, besides refurnishing, decorating and painting, during the past winter, and now presents a very inviting appearance, and like the Ocean House at Newport, R.I., it is unexceptionable in every department. The weather is cool and pleasant.

Yours, &c.,

ALONZO.

The Orange Pic-Nic at Battersea.

The above event came off on Monday according to announcement in a beautiful grove near Battersea, and was a complete success, being patronized by all classes. The following Lodges were on the ground: Battersea, Sunbury, Inverary and Glenburnie—averaging about 40 members each—with the fife and drum accompaniment, and the ladies (who are the life and soul of all movements) graced the Pic-Nic with their presence. After lunch, short addresses were given by J. M. Fair, Esq., Deputy Reeve of Kingston, John Spring, Esq., Rev. Mr. Martin, Episcopal, Rev. Mr. Loch, Wesleyan, Sergt.-Major Barclay, of the 47th Batt., Mr. Tolan, Reeve of Storrington, Messrs. Wright and Shannon. After spending an agreeable day, in which all appeared to enjoy themselves, a large party adjourned to a spacious room, where they kept up the festivities to a late hour.—[Com.

THE HEAT.—At Toronto on Monday the mercury reached 100° in the shade; at Belleville, the Intelligencer says, as high as 102°; at Ottawa 104°; at Montreal 96°; and in New York over 100 degrees. Yesterday the heat in Kingston was stifling. Human endurance was put to a severe test, and the general remark was, surely the extraordinary heated term will come to an end soon. What a blessing a cool shower would be.

☞ Joseph Dion and John Deery have played a billiard match, 500 points, the former winning by 13 points after a keen contest.

COUP DE SOLEIL.—Three cases have come to our knowledge of men, during the past few excessive hot days, experiencing strokes of the sun, and in the case of one of them, the attack has proved fatal. On Saturday, a man by the name of Thos. Patrick, while loading hay for Mr. D. Donoghue, Pittsburg, was struck by the sun; and during the procession of the Orangemen yesterday two men, Spencer and Gillespie, both of Portsmouth, while participating in the celebration, received strokes of the sun. The first is likely to recover, but the latter unfortunately died. He had exerted himself to reach the city to join the Procession, and after the parade through the city, complained of exhaustion and suddenly dropped down insensible. In a short time he died. He had been but a short time in this country. His funeral took place on the afternoon, his remains being followed to Wardsdon Cemetery by a large number of the Orangemen.

The cook of the R. M. steamer Passport, which arrived here yesterday morning from Toronto, died on board the steamer from the effects of over heat, when the boat was at or near Port Hope the previous evening. His name was Brown. The body was put off at Port Hope for burial.

An observance of the following rules will be found of service:—

A great preventive to sun stroke is temperance, and avoiding, as much as possible, exposure to intense heat; the keeping of regular hours, taking one's regular meals, and shunning all excesses. There are two forms in which people are affected by excessive heat. The first generally occurs after undue exertion, and is marked by faintness or inability to move. The pulse is feeble and the skin cool and moist. In such cases relief is afforded by removing the person to a cool, shady place, applying cold water or ice to the head, and administering brandy and ice water, or other stimulant which will set the nervous system right again. In the more fatal form of sun stroke the patient falls suddenly to the ground, but skin hot and dry, his breathing short, and sometimes convulsions set in. If not promptly administered, death will immediately ensue. In this case the party should be removed to a cool place, the crowd kept back, his clothing should be stripped off and his whole body rubbed with ice from head to foot, and pieces of ice kept under each armpit. This treatment should be persevered in until the arrival of a doctor, or until it is evident that the patient is past recovery.

The Great Heat.

Montreal, July 14.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the season here. The thermometer marked 90° in the shade. Several more deaths occurred from the intense heat. A ship carpenter, named Doudridge, was found by the police lying insensible, and died shortly after. On Saturday afternoon, a detachment of the 16th and 100th regiments started from this city to march to Chambly, about 15 miles off; when four miles from Chambly private Glennon, of the 100th, dropped down dead from the excessive heat. Two others had to be carried in, but subsequently recovered.

One Joseph Labelle died suddenly yesterday, after drinking eight glasses of whiskey. The total number of deaths last week was 146.

New York, July 14.

The heat yesterday was the most intense that has been felt in New York for 14 years. Two persons died of sunstroke; thirty-seven persons were taken to Bellevue Hospital, three of whom died at 4 p.m. The thermometer stood at 97.

Port Hope Cavalry—Dissatisfaction.

Port Hope, July 11.

Colonel Smart's troop, numbering 47 men and three officers, returned from Coburg this morning and were received by a general turnout of the 46th Battalion and inhabitants, headed by the band of the 46th. The greatest dissatisfaction is evinced by the inhabitants and volunteers of this neighbourhood at the remarks made at the inspection of the Calvary yesterday and the volunteers here this morning by Lieut.-Colonel Jarvis. The matter is to be submitted to the Government at once.

SIMULTANEOUS RIFLE MATCH BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN, AUSTRALIA AND CANADA.—The great rifle match between the Volunteers of Great Britain, Australia and the Dominion of Canada, which was commenced on Whit Monday, 1st of June, on the simultaneous principle, was brought to a close having lasted just 18 days. Volunteers from all parts of Great Britain took part in it, and nearly every day during its continuance their ranges in and about London were engaged for the purpose of the competition. The contest is known as the "Any Bore Simultaneous Rifle Match," and the present is the third or fourth occasion on which it has been held. Nearly all the scores of the Volunteers in Great Britain have been sent in, and on the receipt of the others from Australia and Canada the result of the match will be announced.

Some of the Russian papers are not a little alarmed at the proportion of Polish officers in the Russian army. They still amount to one-sevenths of the whole number.

There was recently in London an auction sale of ecclesiastical vestments such as are worn in ritualistic services. The sale was attended by a great many of the clergy, and good prices were realized.

How It Goes Down South.

At the ratification meeting held in New York, incident to the nominations of Horatio Seymour and Frank Blair as candidates of the Democratic party for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency, General Wade Hampton made the following statement:—

"And now, gentlemen, you of the North do not know, you cannot conceive the condition of the Southern States. (A voice—"My God, I can.") I am glad that you can. But I will only state a few facts, for it is a theme upon which I dare not trust myself to speak. In the Legislature of South Carolina, composed of one hundred and fifty six members, from whose halls used to go as high intellect as ever came to the halls of Congress—of those one hundred and fifty-six members there are nearly, if not quite now, one hundred negroes. (Hisses and cries of 'shame.') The whole of the taxes that these negroes have paid does not amount to seven hundred dollars. (Laughter.) Of that above five hundred dollars has been paid by one or two conservative members, and of the two hundred dollars that is paid by the negroes and 'carpet baggers,' half of it is under execution. (Renewed laughter.) Well, that Legislature, composed in that way, has the right to levy a tax on South Carolina to the amount of two millions and a quarter of dollars. Now, gentlemen, if that state of things goes on, what will be the result? You know it yourselves, that in a few years from this time there will not be a white man, woman or child in South Carolina."

It is hardly to be wondered at that the "reconstruction policy" of the radical party, which has led to such results, is growing distasteful even at the North.

THE EXCURSION TO THE BOYS.—It will be seen, by reference to our advertising columns, that the Excursion of the St. Vincent Society will positively take place on Monday next notwithstanding all rumors of postponement.

The Old Flag, or a New One.

The question has been mooted whether it would be advisable to establish a new national flag.

Some ask for a banner—a gay thing, a bauble,
A vain innovation, a novel design,
Emblazoned and bright with heraldic devices
Of silk-woven beavers, of maple and pine;
To float from the hills of our youthful Dominion,
To rally around when the foe may be near,
'Mid war's bloody tumult, or peaceful serenities,
To fight for, and die for, to love and revere.

But who can forget the old standard of England,
The time-honored banner of hoary renown?
Oh! shall it be said that we dare to disownit,
Or haul the proud trophy of centuries down?
No! Canada's sons will be loyal and valiant,
Though dark be the future, and danger be near,
The flag of our fathers is ours and our children's,
To fight for, and die for, to love and revere.

Long, long, has it thrown its protection around us,
Our foes are its foes, on the land or the wave;
Our friends are its friends, from the poles to the tropics,
The dread of the tyrant, the boon of the slave;
Our enemies threaten, but vain is their boasting,
We scorn the menaces they think we shall fear,
We point to the flag that we and our children
Will fight for, will die for, will love and revere.
