FROM HALIFAX.

SIR JOHN AND PARTY—THE CRISIS OVER—FUTURE POLICY AND THE SITUATION.

(From the Globe.)

Halifax, August 11.

Sir John and party left by special train at ten o'clock. Mr. Macdougall accompanied them as far as Picton, but remains in the Province, looking after railway matters.

In the Assembly to-day, Attorney-General Wilkes moved the resolution which he proposed yesterday.

Mr. Blanchard said he would not make any observations calculated to provoke discussion. It was hard to contend against such an army as he saw around him. His opinion on the great question of Confederation was unchanged, but he would not enter on a struggle which must prove useless. He advised them to give attention to the business of the country.

The resolution was then adopted without debate or division, and the House soon after adjourned.

The Local Government is puzzled over the question of the policy to be proposed. Attorney General Wilkes is said to be engaged drafting resolutions and a dispatch in reply to the Duke of Buckingham. It is understood that they will be stiff, and declare anxiety to be out of the Union in strong language.

Unionists regard the triumph of the moderate men in the Convention as the turning point in the contest, and feel hopeful that popular feeling will now begin to subside. Some extreme Repealers appear to take the same view, and regard the failure to adopt revolutionary measures as probably fatal to their cause. They fear that before a reply can be had from England, and before another crisis like that just passed can arise, the people will be tired of agitation, and be ready to accept the situation.

West York Election.

This election has ended in the defeat of Mr. Bell. We can hardly say that the result was entirely unexpected, though, as political considerations entered into the contest in only a very small degree, there was some reason to have hoped that Mr. Bell, who is unquestionably the better man of the two, would have been elected. Instead of this, he has been defeated by some 400 votes.

The utmost apathy was manifested in the election. Although there are nearly 3,000 votes in the Riding, there were only about one-third of the number cast. There was nothing to awaken enthusiasm but personal preference, and the electors do not seem to have looked upon this consideration as sufficient to bring them out in any very large numbers.

The following is the state of the poll in West York at the close of the second day:

Fenian Meeting.—The Irishmen of this city who favor Ireland's Freedom and Independence, will hold a meeting at the City Hall, on Wednesday evening next. There are to be suggestions and propositions advanced on that occasion which will be discussed and acted upon, that should interest all who love their mother country, and desire her immediate emancipation from the unjust tyranny under which she has been enslaved for hundreds of years.—Syracuse Courier.

The Heat in England.—In England the temperature seems to have risen quite as high as in Canada, causing a perfect revolution in some industries,—such as iron-working, in which a considerable degree of heat is the natural condition of things. In the shell-foundry department, at Woolwich, it was found necessary to do the work at night instead of by day. The thermometer at the Wimbledon rifle-shooting marked, one day, 128° in the sun, and 101° in the shade. A great many fires, attributable to the heat of the sun, occurred in London.

Another Daring Bond Robbery.

$40,000 STOLEN FROM THE STAR INSURANCE COMPANY.

One of the boldest bond robberies ever committed in this city occurred on Thursday afternoon, at the office of the Star Insurance Company, No. 96 Broadway. At the time named Mr. Moses M. Bradley, the secretary of the Company was counting some five-twenty bonds, when a young man entered and inquired for Mr. Abbott, a real estate agent who has desk room in the office. The secretary told the man to go to the rear of the room, and at the same time, turned round to show him the desk. As he did so the thief seized a bundle of five-twenty bonds, representing $40,000, from the counter and rushed into the street, pursued by the secretary. The thief, however, was out of sight in an instant, and all trace of him lost.

The bonds were new 1865's. Their numbers are printed in our advertising columns. The company announce that their surplus is still nearly $45,000, or over twenty per cent. of their capital, and that the loss will not impair their standing or credit. The matter has been placed in the hands of the detective police. The company offer a reward of five thousand dollars for the recovery of the bonds.—N. Y. Post.

Murder Case at Murray Bay.

Murray Bay, Aug. 8.

The name of the man arrested on the charge of murder is Eugene Poitras, and the name of the victim is Ouellette. Last September Poitras left St. Anne des Monts for Moisie River with Ouellette in his boat, and June last Ouellette's corpse was found buried on Way Island, about twenty miles above Moisie River, and all his effects were in Poitras' possession—gun, coat, mitts, boots, &c. Poitras says he left Ouellette in company with three persons who were going to Moisie, and that Ouellette had given him his effects, and eight dollars on account of the boat in which they had crossed. A preliminary inquest took place at Romouski, and Ouellette has been sent here to await his trial in December next.

The Coroner is gone down with two physicians for examination of the corpse.

The accused man is about 50 years old, quite good-looking, and belongs to a good family.

☞ Great excitement has been created at the Cape of Good Hope by the rumoured discovery of rich deposits of gold on the Zimbesi river, beyond the Transvaal republic. It is said that gold in heavy veins imbedded in white auriferous quartz has been found in thirty different localities, and that there are immense surface strata rich in gold, the one twenty-two miles broad and the other sixty miles long, with parallel veins and width of from two to three miles.

Quebec Shipping.—More sailing vessels have arrived at Quebec this year, up to the present time, than in 1867. Outward bound vessels are detained by icebergs in the lower St. Lawrence, and several have been obliged to put back in consequence. Very few vessels are reported in the river below Quebec.

Is it a Murder?—The Hamilton Times says several members of the city police force have been engaged for two or three days past making inquiries concerning a brutal affray which occurred on the afternoon of Monday last, in the vicinity of Beasley's Hollow, in the western suburbs. The person who was attacked by the gang infesting that locality is described as having been a young man of respectable appearance, and finely dressed in black. The police have not yet succeeded in obtaining any clue to his whereabouts, and if not killed, as apprehended by those who witnessed the assault, he must be terribly mutilated about the head and face, from the kicking and blows from stones he received. Two women have been arrested who admit having been present when the first attack was made on the young man, but refuse to give any further information of the affair. One of the soldiers who took part in the assault, it is also reported, has not returned to quarters since. The police have further ascertained that a notorious female named Jessie Fisher, who is believed to have been the one who struck the party assaulted with a stone tied up in a handkerchief, since Monday has visited a house on the Dundas road, and offered a black broadcloth coat for sale. The circumstance gives rise to a serious suspicion, and it is to be hoped that the police will not relax their efforts until this matter is fully investigated. The fact is clear that some person has been unwarrantably assaulted and shockingly beaten, and it is remarkable that nothing has been heard of him since.

Young Woman Drowned.—The Napanee Standard says: "On Sunday, the 2nd instant, an accident occurred on the Hay Bay, near the Town Hall, South Fredericksburgh, by which a young woman named Esther O. Pringle was drowned. It appears that the young woman in company with two boys, aged seven and fourteen respectively, were strolling along the shore and came upon a boat, which they launched and got into for a sail. The only means they had for propelling the boat was a piece of rail, and with this they got out some distance before they discovered the boat was leaking badly. They started to return to the shore with all possible haste, but it soon became evident that before they could reach land the boat would be full of water. When they reached the weeds the deceased thought the water was shallow and that she could wade to shore, and jumped out into about ten feet of water, and was followed by the youngest boy. The other boy seeing their danger also jumped out to endeavor to them. He gave the boy the piece of rail, but could do nothing for the unfortunate girl, and clung to the boat to save himself. Two men swam out from the shore and rescued the youngest boy, and another came from an island near by picked up the other boy and the body of the young woman. It required great exertions to bring the youngest boy to consciousness, and the girl was beyond the hope of recovery. The deceased was the youngest daughter of Joseph Pringle, of Hungerford."

The Cattle Plague in the West.

An alarming disease has broken out among the cattle in the Western States. The earliest complaint comes from Indiana and Illinois, where the losses are already said to be very great. As the cause of the plague is said to be the importation of Texas cattle, no doubt the track of the plague must be a lengthy one on the plains. Texas droves commenced arriving about the first of May, and as they stopped a many places to graze, the native cattle had ample opportunity to contract a disease, which for fatality is said to challenge the rinderpest. Wherever the native stock grazed after the departure of the Texas cattle, death ensued usually in about five days.

In one county in Illinois, a writer shows that $10,000 worth of cattle had been skinned in fifteen days at the early outbreak of the pest, and it was spreading with such fearful rapidity that all medicines were abandoned. It chiefly attacked milch cows, and among them not a single instance of recovery was noted. It would seem to be a malignant fever, similar, as some assert, to typhus in the human being. In some communities, the people have been suddenly deprived of milk and butter. Vigilance committees are forming in the interior villages, and threatening to kill every Texas head that comes within miles of the neighbourhood. At Kankakee, in Illinois, where the disease is raging, and indignation meeting was held last week, and the owner of a large Texas herd was threatened with its destruction if not removed immediately. The owner assured the committee that removal was then too late to abate the disease, and pacified the people by guaranteeing to make good the loss of all cattle which should die of the disease in that neighborhood.

A commission of medical men, appointed by the Pork Packers' Association of Chicago, have visited the points where the Texas fever has appeared, and will issue a carefully prepared report. The state that intense excitement exists in the afflicted localities, and vigilance committees are preventing the landing of cattle from boats or cars, or their passage through the country in droves.

The panic has reached Chicago, and the newspapers there say these is no further occasion for secrecy. The deaded fever had found its way into the stock yards, by means of a cow from the infected district, on Monday last, and the cattle dealers and public are in great anxiety. There are in the stock yards about 5,000 heads of native cattle, and some four thousand head of Texas stock are herded outside. The fever had begun to spread and several cases of death occurred in the early part of the week among cattle belonging to residents in the vicinity of the Texas herds the authorities of Chicago are using every means to prevent butchers from buying any suspicious meat, and a thorough city inspection is demanded to prevent a frightful addition to the mortality list. Even in the provisioning of vessels, which might carry portions of the infected meat to distant ports, the precautions could not be too stringent.

The stock yard drovers are offering to sell at ruinous prices, but cannot find eastern buyers. The plague will effectually stop the shipping north of Texas cattle for some time to come, and will perhaps force eastern consumers to other markets than Chicago for a supply. We see by our exchanges already an increasing activity among American buyers in Canada, which may be partially caused by the hesitation to purchase any more cattle from the west until the cattle plague panic subsides.

Our Government should take immediate steps to prevent cattle being imported from the Western States into Canada until the pestilence has disappeared.—Globe.

United States Debt.

A statement of the public debt of the United States on the 31st of July has been published. From this it appears that the total debt bearing interest in coin is $2,088,371,800; and bearing interest in currency, $84,604,890. Besides this there is a debt $15,099,176, on bonds matured, but not yet presented for redemption, and which therefore have no interest, and $32,210,000 debt on bonds issued to to the several Pacific Railway companies, the interest on which is payable by the companies. The debt bearing no interest, that is, greenbacks, amounts to $410,302,891. The whole debt is therefore $2,635,588,756, from which coin and currency in the Treasury amounting together to $110,054,276 are to be deducted, leaving the actual debt $2,523,534,838. As compared with the statement at the end of of the previous month there has been an increase of the indebtedness to the amount of $13,388,593.

Ritualism and Romanism.—Our ritualistic and tractarian friends will be interested to hear of Dr. Pusey's confession to Roman Catholicism. They are accustomed to avow that the High Anglican party squints any way but towards Rome. They confidently assure us that they are leading us all back to a purer and nobler Protestantism. And it may be so. But why, then, these constantly recurring, apostolic leaps from the Anglican to the Roman side of the ecclesiastical fence? Is it not puzzling to the simple minded? The question is, in a measure, outside our domain; but if Dr. Pusey has really gone—as the French journal, Liberte, avers—the event invites some notice.—Telegraph.

La Crosse Match.—This morning the "Wide Awakes," of Brockville, arrive to play the promised match with the Kingston La Crosse Club. The ball will be faced for at two o'clock this afternoon on Batriefield Commons. An exciting match may be expected, as each Club will exert themselves to the utmost to win the day. The Clubs are believed to be well matched.

Cricket at Grafton.—Yesterday morning at 2 o'clock an eleven of the Kingston Cricket Club left for Grafton to play a match, as arranged, with the Club of that place same day. To-day a match will be played on the same ground with the Cobourg Club. Unfortunately very few of the "crack" players of the Club were enabled to leave the city at this time, and the team is not so strong as the friends of the Club would wish. The two Clubs they are required to meet will prove strong opponents.

Having been punished upon two occasions for getting drunk, by the forfeit of his good conduct marks, he became disgusted with the service, and formed his determination to desert. He expressed sorrow for his conduct, and, of course, hoped that the authorities would deal leniently with him.

The Silver Movement.—There is a report afloat to the effect that a merchant of this city "got over" the silver bond, by taking ten per cent. off the amount of some goods, when the buyer refused to accede to the discount charges and had left the store, thereby inducing the sale.
