The County Election.

Things are going on very quietly in the County of Frontenac, where Mr. Calvin is having it all his own way. He has been holding Meetings in the Townships of Kingston and Storrington all this week, at which good Conservative Speeches are made by himself and his political friends. Mr. Britton attends these Meetings, and usually addresses the Electors in opposition to the views of Mr. Calvin and his friends, but he has not as yet declared himself a Candidate. He is probably feeling his way.

It is but bare justice to Mr. Calvin to reiterate that he has come out on the Conservative Ticket, and boldly announces Conservative opinions. He is therefore the Conservative Candidate, and is deserving of Conservative support.

Mr. Ferris, the Senior Director of the Penitentiary, under the act of last session, has been appointed Chairman of the Board.

It is expected that there will be some change in the boundaries of the military districts.

Isthmus of Darien

CANAL TO CONNECT THE GREAT OCEANS.

The success attending M. Lesseps's labours in the making of the Suez Canal, has apparently led the President of the United States to take some steps towards the object of a canal across the Isthmus of Darien.

At a recent interview between the President and new accredited Minister (Gen. Acosta,) of Columbia, the former pointed out the practicability of such a work, mentioned that the Isthmus was only 54 miles wide, and that the highest elevation to cut into was only 40 feet. He gave the opinion that a canal could be made in two years, and requested the Columbian Minister to say to this government that China, Japan and India, are as desirous for this canal are as the people of the people of the western hemisphere. This project, which is not all new, has probably been again laid before the attention of the President by Minister Burlingham, of the Chinese Embassy. The canal would, indeed, be of great advantage to the United States. The Trade of China and Japan would be led to the very doors of the Republic; and New Orleans would profit greatly by it.

The Dominion would also derive benefit from a Darien canal. Teas would come in one-third of the time to Montreal than they do now—the rounding of the Cape being obviated. In the travel between the eastern and western hemispheres there would also be some advantage, though not quiet so much as in freights, for the Panama Railway carries (and soon the Union Pacific will carry) passengers across the Isthmus. The advantage in travel would be non-transhipment on the seaboard. The canal would also benefit the trade of the United States by opening the way to the Pacific islands. Already there is a large trade, in sugar chiefly, between the Hawaiian group and the Pacific States. This trade would, if a canal were made, go through to the markets of the Northwest. To encourage this new trade, Congress, at last session, passed a bill exempting Hawaiian sugar from import duty, which act made that sugar very cheap in the Pacific States; and, if the exemption were continued the sugar would undersell the Cuban and Porto Rico—in the even of the Darien Canal being made.

The effect, then of a canal being made across the Isthmus would be to lead the Chinese, Japanese and Pacific traders to the ports of the United States. The work would be to this hemisphere what the Suez Canal is to the eastern; and the American government shows its usual intilligence in calling the attention of Central America to the utility of such a canal.—Gazette.

The Contest in Japan

A NEW DEVELOPMENT.

The Civil war in Japan assumes a new phase. It was commenced in the name of the Mikado by certain ambitious princes who were anxious to overthrow the Tycoon. The Mikado is a boy whose name has been urged by the disaffected Daimos for the purpose of carrying out their plans. It has been at length discovered, however that this method of working a puppet will not succeed, and the boy Mikado has been set aside in favor of his uncle, a man, able, and perhaps ambitious, to carry on affairs in his own way. This may change the conditions of the war very considerably, and lead to new complications. The contest is between the rival princes, in which one party endeavoured to use the name of the Mikado for its own purposes. The new spiritual ruler, instead of being the servant, may determine to be the master. In that case a failure of some of the hopes upon which this attempted revolution was based may be a final result. From the number of battles fought, and the success of the Northern Princes, who are friends of the ex-Tycoon, it is yet a matter of doubt whether the cause of the latter may not be successful. In that case there will be room for speculation as to whether the abolition of the office of Mikado may not follow. The Japanese are becoming so well instructed in the habits and systems in use among mankind that it is not likely that they can be much longer deceived by stories that any one whom they know to be mortal is a descendant of the gods.

KLEPTOMANIA.—The Globe says:—A married lady moving in respectable circles of Toronto society, was on Saturday detected in the act of abstracting an article of considerable value from the establishment of a large dry goods firm in the city. Subsequent inquiries have resulted in the revelation that the unfortunate woman, who is the victim of a mania for shop-lifting, has been from time to time pursuing that practice until quite a quantity of goods of various descriptions had been collected by her. The abstracted articles have, of course, been returned to the owners, and the affair settled in that way. The adroitness with which the goods must have been made away with is a peculiar concomitant connected with the case.

BREAKFAST.—A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT.—The Civil Service Gazette has the following:—"There are very few simple articles of food which can boast of so many valuable and important dietary properties as cocoa. While acting on the nerves as a gentle stimulant, it provides the body with some of the purest elements of nutrition, and at the same time corrects and invigorates the action of the digestive organs. These beneficial effects depend in a great measure upon the manner of its preparation, but of late years such close attention has been given to the growth and treatment of cocoa, that there is no difficulty in securing it with every useful quality fully developed. The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homœopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist. Far and wide the reputation of Epps's Cocoa has spread by the simple force of its own extraordinary merits. Medical men of all shades of opinion have agreed in recommending it as the safest and most beneficial article of diet for persons of weak constitutions. This superiority of a particular mode of preparation over all others is a remarkable proof of the great results to be obtained from little causes. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."

WORTH A TRIAL.—A farmer in Megantic, Quebec, informs the Witness that he sowed wheat on the 11th May, and, when it was about ten inches high, sprinkled wood-ashes over it, which had such an effect on its growth that he was enabled to harvest it in three months: He believes that if ashes were generally applied to wheat, and perhaps other grain, it would be beneficial to their healthy growth, and cause them to ripen earlier than usual.

There are those who profess to believe that the city railroad companies will speedily become bankrupt in consequence of the introduction of velocipedes, and that horses will soon become rare curiosities.

Taking the Veil in the Church of England.

A correspondent of the Church News sends the following:—Last week a young novice took the white veil, and entered upon her duties as a cloistered nun of the Benedictine order. The chapel of the convent was very full, the event exciting great interest among the members of the third order of the congregation. A procession entered the choir, and the priest commenced the communion service of the Church of England, which was performed with every adjunct of imposing beauty which primitive ritual could lend to the celebration of the divine mysteries. After the chanting of the creed the young lady who was to receive the veil was led to the outer chapel, accompanied by her bridesmaids. The postulant was dressed with bridal veil and wreath, entirely in white; the little girls who attended her wearing white dresses over blue skirts. Having been publicly questioned by the Father Superior, certain psalms and anthems were sung; the novice's habit, scapular, girdle, and sandals, wimple and cloak, having been solemnly blessed, the habit was delivered to the bridesmaids. The Superior then sitting on his seat before the altar in full robes as Father of the Order, the acolytes having spread a towel over his knees, delivered to him a pair of scissors, whereupon the young novice was brought forward, and while the novice's hymn, "Farewell, thou world of sorrow," was being sung by the sisters, her long black hair was all cut off, the tresses falling on the ground around her. Her ornaments being taken off, she herself threw them on the ground, in token of having renounced the vanities of the world. She was then led by two sisters to put aside her white dress, and soon return habited in the Benedictine frock.—The whole habit was then placed upon her by the Superior, while appropriate prayers and blessings were used. Lastly, after the binder and wimple were placed on the head, the white veil was solemnly blessed and incensed, and then placed over the head. She was immediately led by the Mother Prioress to her stall in the choir, holding a lighted taper in her hand, until her communion. Having taken the three vows, for one year, the service concluded by the choir singing the anthem, 'Wise virgin, take your lamp and come, the bridegroom cometh, He calleth for thee.' The novice then rose and went forward to the altar-steps, holding her lighted taper, and, while she was receiving the sacrament, the choir curtain fell, and neither she nor the other sisters were seen any more. The other week a nun took the black veil in this house. The ceremonies on that occasion were still more striking and solemn. The Feltham nuns are entirely enclosed; they never go out; they only see visitors at a grating in the convent-parlor, and then their faces are covered. They observe the strict Benedictine rule, and recite the ancient Benedictine office. As their numbers increase it is hoped to establish the Perpetual Adoration; at present only a few hours a day are devoted to this purpose. During the watch, each nun wears a large flowing crimson veil over the veil of her Order. We also are informed that the nuns hope to receive pupils as soon as the requisite arrangements can be made. This house is the only strictly cloistered convent in the Church of England in which the life of Mary, who chose the 'better part,' is altogether led. May the perpetual prayers and intercessions of these good sisters be of great blessing to our English Church! Their prayers are to be especially and frequently offered for the approaching council at Rome, that the Pope may have the boldness to make it œcumenical by inviting the Anglican and Eastern Bishops to attend, and that so the outward divisions of Catholic Christendom may be healed by him who is indeed the balm of Gilead.

A Good Move.

PROVISION FOR OUR LUNATIC POPULATION.

The common gaols are at last to be relieved from the burden of supporting an indigent class of lunatics. The move now taken has been repeatedly urged by the Press and Grand Juries. The Toronto Telegraph says:—

It is doubtless very generally known that, from one delay and another in the enlargement of the Lunatic Asylum Buildings here, a considerable number of our lunatic population have either to be left to the care of relatives, or have to by provided for (in an indifferent way) be being placed in the common jails. Nearly every jail in the Province contains two or three of these unfortunates. Of course even under the most favoring circumstances, they cannot be properly taken care of in such a place; and Dr. Workman, straitened as he has been for many years, cannot possibly meet more than a fraction of the applications made to him. The Attorney General has had his attention directed to this painful state of things, and we are happy to say that, as the result of a correspondence with the Ottawa Government, he has made arrangement for the accommodation of nearly a hundred lunatic patients at the Rockwood Asylum. They will, of course, be kept separate from the convict lunatics, and in Dr. Litchfield's hands they will have humane and kind treatment.—The arrangement will, probably, be only temporary. And as such, we have no doubt, it will prove a great benefit and blessing. The Attorney General will order the transfers of the patients from the jails to the Kingston Asylum, to be made at the earliest possible date.

A WONDERFUL CLOCK.—Some time ago a singular story was told of an ingenious youth, who, while in prison at Paris, constructed a watch of straw, which would keep good time for several hours. Now we hear of a more wonderful tale of an Austrian, imprisoned for several years past, who has made an astonishingly complete and accurate astronomical clock from the kneaded crumbs of his rye bread rations. It indicates the seconds, minutes, hours, days and the months of the year. Yet everything about it is made from bread crumbs, excepting the dial hands, which are of wood, and the figures of the dial fashioned from the fragments of straw obtained from the prisoner's pallet. Even the key used for its monthly winding is of rye crumb. The only instrument employed in making it was a wretched pocket-knife worth a few cents. The skillful workman having served out his time, is now turning an honest penny by exhibiting this marvel of skill.
