THE SYDENHAM ASSAULT CASE—FATAL RESULT.

The unfortunate man Collins, who was so brutally beaten in the village of Sydenham on the 17th inst., died about two o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, from the injuries received. He was insensible from the time he was found until the hour of his death, and never gave any statement as to who his murderers were, but there is no doubt, from the facts of the case, that the parties whom the police suspect, and are endeavoring to arrest, are guilty of the assault, as there appears to have been an ill feeling between them and Collins for some time. The known circumstances of the case are against them. They have so far effectually evaded arrest.

There is some doubt as to the implication of the prisoner Sylvester, charged with the assault before the police magistrate on Wednesday morning, and he will likely be discharged after the inquest, which was opened yesterday at Sydenham by Mr. Coroner Shaw, has been closed. The deceased, Archibald Collins, was a person widely known and respected by the farmers of the County, and a strong sympathy has been shown for himself and his family, and a still stronger feeling against the persons who perpetrated the brutal assault.

A man named John Sampson was last week arrested at Prescott as a deserter from H. M. 100th Regiment. The prisoner denied the charge, but his identity was proved beyond doubt. The prisoner was handed over to Capt. Wilson, commandant at Fort Wellington, and subsequently sent under escort to his regiment at Montreal.

An aged farmer, by the name of John Scopp, living in Waterloo County, committed suicide by blowing his brains out with a shot gun. Deceased had just taken his breakfast, when he became afflicted suddenly with an attack of suicidal mania, for he took his gun from its resting place, and placing the muzzle in his mouth deliberately consummated the act.

Messrs. Wetmore and Beckwith, of the New Brunswick Cabinet, now at Ottawa are pressing the Government to assume the International Contract Company's Railway in New Brunswick as part of the Intercolonial Railway. If this is done, the sum of over $30,000 aid given to the Company by New Brunswick, would, of course, be refunded to that Province.

Mr. Justice Fisher, lately appointed to a seat on the bench of the Superior Court, New Brunswick, opened the Circuit Court at Fredericton in an able address to the Grand Jury. He dwelt in glorious and eloquent terms on the subject of the Confederation of these Provinces, and of the magnificent future that lies before the Dominion of Canada, as the result of the Union lately accomplished, and the larger one which is soon to embrace the whole of British North America.

SPANNING NIAGARA.—The new Suspension Bridge at Niagara Falls is so nearly completed that people crossed on Thursday. On Friday a party of gentlemen passed over on a neighborly call on Messrs. Bromley & Shears, and also Mr. McKeefer, the engineer of the Bridge. A few boards constitute the roadway at present. The engineer says he shall require about a month to place the bridge in passable condition for the general public.

The bridge is 1268 feet 4 inches from centre to centre of towers, and 190 feet above the water. It is the largest suspension bridge yet constructed, and seems substantial for all the purposes of a foot and carriage bridge. Magnificent views of the falls, river, the lower suspension bridge, and the neighborhood may be had from the new bridge.

Barn Struck by Lightning.

Picton, Oct. 28.

A barn belonging to Mr. Elisha Van Blaricum, about three miles from Picton, was struck by lightning last night and burned, along with the adjoining shed and out-buildings. The contents of the barn and sheds consisted of a large quantity of hay, several hundred bushels of grain of all kinds, sleighs, waggons, carts, harness, and a valuable team of horses. Loss about $1,500.

ROAST DONKEY.—An English paper says: Everybody who has eaten roast donkey has pronounced it excellent. In flavour it is said to resemble turkey, though the color is considerably darker. The accomplished gourmet is aware what animal it is that contributes most largely to the composition of the best sausages in the world—Lyons sausages. The animal in question is a very clean feeder, cheap, hardy, and subsists easily at little cost; and it seems within possibility that donkeys may be reared on the poorest commons, not only as beasts of burden for the use of the poor, but as a luxurious addition to the banquets of the rich; and, since France, Austria, Russia, Belgium, Denmark and other countries have taken to hippophagy, the donkey may be expected in successful invasion of the United Kingdom in a new character.

A LIZARD FOUND IN A WOMAN'S STOMACH.—The North Wellington Times says:—On Monday last we were shown a phial containing a living lizard, which, it is supposed, has been in a woman's stomach for nearly two years. Dr. Middleton, of Elora, had been attending a married woman for about eighteen months she was troubled with a gnawing sensation in the stomach, and sometimes a jumping palpitation there, her appetite was irregular, at times totally gone. Tonics and other medicines were given, but they afforded no relief. On Sunday last a live lizard passed away. It is needless to say that the woman got immediate relief and is now rapidly improving in health. The lizard is about four inches long, and exactly like those seen in Canadian swamps, beautifully spotted with black on an orange ground, and when we saw it was active and lively. How the reptile got into the woman's stomach is a mystery, but a still greater mystery is how it lived there so long.

WHAT PARISIANS EAT.—Nothing is lost in Paris. So says the Revue des Deux Mondes, in the large lyceums and schools boys are very wasteful; they throw away half the bread they get for lunch, tread upon it, kick it in the gutter, ink it, &c. None of these fragments are lost; the servants sell them to dealers who are called boulangers en vieux, and turn their acquisition to good account. They first pick out all the tolerable pieces, which they heat in an oven and then rasp clean; thus prepared, these bits reappear in the market in the shape of toast for soup. Most of the croutons, cut into lozenges and served on the tables of the rich with spinach, have no other origin. As for the dirty crumbs and refuse left after the picking, they are pounded in a mortar and sold to butchers as chapelure, with which they cover their cutlets and knuckles of ham. The really nibby remainder, what is too bad even for chapelure is blackened over a fire, pounded, and then laid up with honey aromatized with a few drops of essence of peperment; this is sold as an opiate for the toothache.

MONSTROUS CRUELTY.—During last summer curiosity seekers were informed by placards that within a certain building on Broadway, New York, the last freak of nature could be seen in the shape of a living, moving, but headless rooster, and crowds were attracted, among them reputable physicians, who pronounced the bird a bona fide freak of nature. One Wilcox, however, turned up on Thursday last, and by affidavit obtained the arrest of Richardson, the headless rooster exhibitor, who is under bail to answer to the charge. The statement of the prosecutor is, that Richardson is guilty of cruelty to a common domestic, generally known as a rooster, by cutting off its bill, or beak, piercing out and destroying both its eyes, taking a portion of its brain out, pulling the feathers from its head and neck, and then skinning the same, after which the skin was so drawn up as to make said rooster appear headless. According to Wilcox, Richardson was in the common practice of performing this operation upon roosters, which were sold for the purpose of public exhibitions, and that the unfortunate fowls, after undergoing the operation, lived in great pain and torture for periods ranging from one week to two months. This tendency of the semi decapitated birds to speedy death went to the emolument of the manufacturer, as it was averred that he was always in arrears of his orders for the monstrosity.

The Riot at New Orleans.

A REGULAR SKIRMISH—NINE CASUALTIES.

New Orleans, Oct. 25.

The origin of the disturbance of last night is difficult to discover. A number of clubs, both negro and white, were parading the streets at various parts of the city. The Picayune states that the negro clubs abused and insulted a Democratic club marching in their rear, and that the first shot fired came from a colored club, wounding slightly a white man named Richardson. A general fight began on Canal street, in which many shots were fired. The fight continued along three blocks, when the negroes fled. Two negroes were killed between Baronne and Dryades, and on Canal street one was dangerously wounded, and a negro boy was crushed to death under foot. Another negro was killed on the corner of Canal and Basin streets, and one or two further out on Canal. About midnight scattered firing was heard in all directions. No white men were killed on Canal street, but several were wounded and taken home by their friends. A white man was shot and killed while standing quietly near the negro club room. Another white man was killed and horribly hacked with an axe or hatchet on Melpomene street by negroes. One white man was accidently killed by his own friends on St. Charles street. Coroner Rosch held eight inquests this morning on three whites and five blacks. Another negro is reported dead, making nine fatal casualties. The white men killed were each of them over a mile distant from the first disturbance when struck down. The disturbance began about 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock Canal street was crowded with excited whites, who dispersed quietly when a squadron of cavalry appeared on the scene. The stores on the corner of Baronne and Canal streets are marked by bullets, as if a skirmish had taken place.

On Tuesday, October 20th, Mr. Bowers, of Hungerford, about 26 years old, while hunting for a skunk in a brush heap, had his gun discharged, lodging its contents in his side. He lived about two hours, when he died. He leaves a wife and one child.

The Brantford Expositor says:—"A cow died of delirium tremens in town on Saturday last. She had eaten some cherries which had been service in the bottom of a whiskey barrel. Some hogs were also fuddled." This is the last case of beastly intoxication on record.

Baron de Camin, who is preaching in Hamilton against Popery, appears in the robes he wore when Chief Inquisitor, and which had been blessed by two Popes. The reverend gentleman is of an illustrious house, being, as he states, the son of the distinguished French General Massena, and a first cousin of General Beauregard, of the late Confederate Army, and is also possessed of extensive estates.

A by-law of the village of Brampton makes it imperative on apothecaries and druggists in that town to take out a tavern license before they can sell wines or spirits. A few days since one firm was fined $20 for selling a bottle of wine to a boy who asked it in their shop, stating that the Reeve, Mr. Elliott, was ill and required it.

A single death occurred in Beverley township on Saturday, caused by the amusement of boys with a blacksmith's bellows, not set up for use. On Tuesday evening the Rev. J. Wild, Professor in Albert College, Belleville, delivered a lecture on 'Babel,' in Straithroy. The Dispatch says he advanced arguments to prove that Adam was not a whiteman but a red, and that the Indians, along with the Jews, were the true descendants of Noah, the latter being the elect, and the former the non-elect. As for ourselves, the whitemen, we were only the descendants of Japhet, who was not a true son of Noah.

The London Free Press says the portraits of public men already drawn by the Toronto Globe would occupy a conspicuous compartment in a Newgate gallery of rogues. To complete the series with a masterpiece Mr. Brown ought now to paint himself.

General Breckenridge made a neat little speech at an agricultural dinner in Niagara last week, and was enthusiastically received. He said he had lived nearly four years within the British Empire, and everywhere he had met with respect and courtesy—nobody had intruded upon him or offered him unasked advice, or meddled with his affairs. He had wished to live retired, and his retirement was respected in Canada. Whatever the future might bring forth, he would always be grateful for, and seek to repay the obligations he felt for shelter and protection he had enjoyed under the British flag.

Economy.

As a sample of Chesse Paring economy we print the following notice which has just reached us:—

"Legislative Assembly,
Toronto, 2nd October, 1868.

Please to send one copy of your Newspaper to this House, during the three months of each year in which there is a session only, and commencing one week prior to the Session, after which send your account.

JOHN NOTMAN,
Assistant Clerk."

We beg respectfully to decline sending the Recorder for the "three months of each year in which there is a session only." Last year the paper was returned when the session closed, and we then stated that we could not afford to take a trip to Toronto for the purpose of collecting fifty cents, and would refuse to send the paper if again ordered, unless for the whole year.—Brockville Recorder.

 It is certainly a most contemptible mode of doing business, for the trouble of getting the miserable pay is vexatious, judging from past experience. The evil might be remedied by the Clerk sending the money when the paper is ordered.

SCALP OF AN INDIAN CHIEF.—We were shown yesterday a portion of the scalp of Medicine Wolf, one of the chiefs of the Cheyenne tribe of Indians, who was killed by Curry's band of scouts near Fort Hayes, about two weeks ago. Curry had with him one hundred and fifty men, and fought the Indians at intervals for three days, losing five men. Both parties dug holes with their hunting knives on the level prairie, the Indians rather having the advantage in the use of arrows, which they fired so directed that they would fall perpendicularly on the scouts in showers. Medicine Wolf had forty scalps, which he wore for a necklace. All were those of white people—some taken from grey headed men and women, and some very small children. The scalp was sent here to be made into a vest chain for one of the party who killed the chief.—Kansas City (Mo.) Times.

MURDERERS—The judges who condemned Mrs. Surratt to death. Revelations have lately been made and just published in the New York World which must convince every impartial mind that Mrs. Surratt was not only not aware of the plot to assassinate Mr. Lincoln, but even of the plot to abduct him. Such infamy as attaches to the judges and prosecutors of Mrs. Surratt and John Surratt is not found in the history of the most infamous state prosecutions in the most turbulent European eras. Witnesses were not only bribed to give such evidence as would insure Mrs. and John Surratt's condemnation, but were threatened by the judges with imprisonment and death if they refused.—Cincinnati Telegraph.

A BULLOCK IN A BEDROOM.—An amusing occurrence took place in Bridlesmithgate, Nottingham. Three bullocks were being driven along the street to market, when one of them entered shop of a staymaker, walked up the stairs into a bedroom, and actually mounted the bed. The beast, on regaining the floor, sent its horns through a looking glass, and also smashed all the crockery in the room. A neighbor hearing of the occurrence, went up stairs for the purpose of clearing the rooms of its occupant, but was quickly pitched to the bottom, fortunately without sustaining any injury. The driver and two policemen then went up, and the animal was ultimately got out into the street without further damage.

REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE.—A child belonging to a soldier of the 40th Regiment named Keane, stationed at Aldershot, had been missing from its parents for ten days. The wife of a pensioner living in a house close by dreamt that the child was buried in a certain sand pit. The woman communicated her dream to her husband who went to the pit, and after digging the sand away, found the body of the lost child. There can be no doubt that the child must have been at play in the pit, when the bank fell in and killed him.

A CRIMEAN TOMB VIOLATED.—During the war in the Crimea, Alessandre La Marmora, brother of the present General, died, as may be remembered, of cholera, and was buried at Balaklava. Some Tartars, it appears, have violated the tomb, stripped the body of the jewelry on it, and carried off the sword of the deceased, the hilt of which was ornamented with precious stones. The representative of Italy at Constantinople, Commander Bertinatti, immediately claimed from Gen. Ignatieff satisfaction for this outrage, and the cabinet of Florence has, on its part, demanded at St. Petersburg the exemplary punishment of the perpetrators of this offence.

A MONSTER SNAKE.—A Californian, Kellar by name, describes an immense snake he found in Butte County. The head was as large as a milk pan, with eyes as large as apples. Mr. Kellar saw only about twenty feet of his body, but is under the impression that the snake must be forty feet in length. His track across the road and through the grass and tubs showed that he must be about two feet through the body. He was distant from Mr. Kellar only about some thirty or forty feet when he raised his head. Mr. Kellar did not fire at the snake, but returned to his home as rapidly as circumstances would permit.

Death of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The cable despatches announce the death of his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Charles Thos. Langley, D.D., at the advanced age of 74. He was the son of the Recorder of Rochester, and was educated at Oxford, where he distinguished himself as a first class in classics. He was afterwards head master of Harrow School, in which post he remained till 1836, when he was appointed the first Bishop of Ripon. He was translated to Durham in 1856, and on the death of Archbishop Musgrave, in 1860, to York. In 1862, on the death of Archbishop Sumner, Dr. Langley was appointed to the See of Canterbury. He was Primate of all England, and among the other honors he possessed was that of Patron of King's College, Nova Scotia. His death leaves another valuable piece of patronage at the disposal of Mr. Disraeli, as the See is of the annual value of £15,000, and the Archbishop is the Patron of 177 Bishops.—Leader.

ALABAMA CLAIMS.

THE REPORTED AGREEMENT DISCREDITED.

Washington, Oct. 29.

The cable despatch purporting to give the basis of the proposed settlement of the Alabama claims with England is regarded as mere speculation. The President has received no intimation of any such arrangement agreed to by Mr. Reverdy Johnson, and he doubts its truth for the reason that had anything of the kind occurred, he would have been advised of it before it could have reached the ears of the news gatherers of England. Whether the President favors the idea of mixed commission or not, is a point on which his excellency maintains a rigid reserve. In private letters received from Minister Johnson, not a word is found about any such proposal. The views expressed privately by Mr. Johnson before his departure would likewise seem inconsistent with the idea of a commission of any kind. In a recent letter he shows some disappointment at the tardiness of the negotiations, but nevertheless speaks hopefully of a successful issue.

RECEPTION OF THE PARIS CREW.

St. John, Oct. 27.

The Paris boat's crew arrived this evening from Springfield, and had a most enthusiastic reception. The city was nearly covered with flags, and almost the entire population turned out to witness their arrival. Every window along the line of route was filled with ladies, and for a time business was almost entirely suspended. The volunteer artillery turned out in uniform, and fired a salute as the steamer came up to the wharf.

The subscription lists for the two thousand dollar testimonial was filled yesterday.

Sacrilegious.

CHURCHES BROKEN INTO AND ROBBED.

Wellington Square, Oct. 27.

On Monday night some sacrilegious rascals broke into the Temperance Hall, and broke open the Sunday school library desk, scattering the books around the hall, and carried off a small box containing the voluntary contributions of the scholars. They then went to the Presbyterian church, broke into the vestry, and carried off some towels. Thence they proceeded to the Roman Catholic church, but it is not known yet what they carried off.

GUELPH.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE DR. PARKER.

Guelph, Oct. 27.

The remains of Dr. Parker were interred this afternoon, in the presence of a large concourse of people. There were friends present from all parts of the country. Among those who followed the remains were Mr. McFarlane, M. P., Stratford; Mr. Stirton, M. P. Hon. John Sandfield Macdonald, and other gentlemen did not arrive until after the funeral, the train being delayed. During the afternoon all business was suspended; bells were tolled and flags were at half mast. The corporation attended as a body. The procession was a very long one, and sorrow was universal.

Fenian Bombast.

The following balderdash appears in the New York papers of Monday:

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Fenian Brotherhood was held yesterday afternoon at the headquarters of the Order, No. 10 West Fourth street, at which the President, General O'Neill, presided. The business of the meeting was of a nature not to be made public, but is understood to have relation to the purchase of several steamers and war material, the negotiations for some of which had previously been completed. The organization is active and vigorous, notwithstanding the comparative quiet that has attended its operations.

CAUGHNAWAGA.—The Caughnawaga Indians, we learn, have expelled the 'pale faces' from their settlement. They have long been annoyed by French Canadians coming into their village, keeping little grog-shops contrary to law, stealing wood from the lands of the Indians, and attempting to 'squat' on their reserves. Last week the Indians gave them notice to quit—a notice which was pretty generally obeyed. A few whites still remain, but these are threatened with forcible expulsion if they do not at once pack up and leave.—Montreal News.

BREAKFAST.—A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT.—The Civil Service Gazette has the following:—"There are very few simple articles of food which can boast of so many valuable and important dietary properties as cocoa. While acting on the nerves as a gentle stimulant, it provides the body with some of the purest elements of nutrition, and at the same time corrects and invigorates the action of the digestive organs. These beneficial effects depend in a great measure upon the manner of its preparation, but of late years close attention has been given to the growth and treatment of cocoa, that there is no difficulty in securing it with every useful quality fully developed. The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homœopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalists. Far and wide the reputation of Epp's Cocoa has spread by the simple force of its own extraordinary merits. Medical men of all shades of opinion have agreed in recommending it as the safest and most beneficial article of diet for persons of weak constitutions. This superiority of a particular mode of preparation over all others is a remarkable proof of the great results to be obtained from little causes. By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtile Maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame. 11naw13

AN EFFECTUAL REMEDY.—The Japanese officials have adopted a very effective method of silencing all opposition to a recent large issue of paper money in that country. They cut off the heads of those who utter any complaint about the currency, and this quiets the grumbling of the party thus treated, throws a wholesome awe and respect for the Government and its currency over his friends and associates. Suppose our American friends try this plan.

This certifies that I have for several years used Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer in my family, in several of those cases for which it is recommended, and find it a very useful family medicine.

"Unquestionably the best sustained work of the kind in the World."

HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

CRITICAL NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

The most popular Monthly in the World.—New York Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellences of Harper's Magazine—a journal with a monthly circulation of about 170,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the culture of the American People; and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each Number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood cuts; and it combines in itself the cheap monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trubner's Guide to American Literature, London.

We cannot account for its success only by the simple fact that it meets precisely the popular taste, furnishing a variety of pleasing and instructive reading for all.—Zion's Herald, Boston.
