LITERARY NOTES

The complete novel of the March "New Lippincott" is significantly named "The Shadow of a Man." It is by E. W. Hornung, who has made a new success with each new story. "The Shadow of a Man" will doubtless win him fresh laurels, for it is compact, clear-cut, and thrilling, with a love romance that runs through it and binds together the threads of romance. The heroine is a daring rider, who discovers an old convict in a maze of the "bush," and this solves a mystery which clears her lover. Seldom has "Lippincott" put forth a story so fully realizing its promise of a brief complete novel with living interest in every word.

With the March "New Lippincott" begins the long-promised yet timely series of papers by Stephen Crane on "The Great Battles of the World." The first paper is devoted to the "Brief Campaign of New Orleans," which happens to bear with marked significance on the Boer-British war, yet takes its place simply as a keen and engaging study of a world event of the first importance, especially to us Americans. Mr. Crane has rarely used his mother-tongue with greater charm than in this brief paper.

The series of "Mormon Stories" now running in the "New Lippincott" continues in the March number with "The Grandmother's Story," narrating the pathetic adventures of a Quaker dame who travelled with her family from the East and espoused Mormonism. Notwithstanding all its consequences to her beloved daughter, she held to the faith with devout perseverance. The Congressional investigation lately closed gives keen point to the revelations in the form of fiction of Mrs. J. K. Hudson, of Topeka, Kansas, author of these stories.

The moment is ripe for such a paper as "The Canadian Tommy Atkins," by Percie W. Hart, in the March "New Lippincott." It reveals the inner methods of the Colonial war machine which Britain is now working to its utmost. The author has had especial privileges for observation, and writes by the book.

For brevity and point it would be hard to find a more captivating short story than "In Galleria," by Mrs. Jesse Van Zile Belden. It appears in the March "New Lippincott."

The poetry of the March "New Lippincott" is strong in two directions,—war and music. John Ingham contributes a pair of noble sonnets on "Beethoven," and a new Western genius named Herman Scheffner gives "The Song of the Slaughtered." The author comes from California, whence came Markham.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at Julia A. Story's Drug Store.

Lighthouses and Lifeboats of Old.

A search of the record of that venerable corporation, Trinity house, London, shows that it is just 390 years since the first lighthouse was erected at Lowestoft, and this is noted as the first regular lighthouse on the coasts of Great Britain. The next lighthouse to be erected was at Winterton, in 1616. Lowestoft has had, moreover, the unique distinction of possessing the first lifeboat. It was in 1809, just 200 years after the first lighthouse was built there, that the first lifeboat was dispatched on her initial errand of mercy from Lowestoft.

He Fooled The Surgeons.

All doctors told Renick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the World. Surest pile cure on Earth. 25c a box, at Julia A. Story's Drug Store.

Short on Legs.

The volunteer in the Philippines wrote home to the old man as follows:

"Father, I need $50 immediately. Lost another leg in the battle yesterday."

And this was the reply he received from the old man:

"James: As this is the fourth leg you've lost, according to your letters, you ought to be accustomed to it by this time. Try to wobble along on any other legs you may have left. That's all I can say to you."—Atlanta Constitution.

A. R. De Fluent, editor of the Journal, Doylestown, Ohio, suffered for a number of years from rheumatism in his right shoulder and side. He said: "My right arm at times was entirely useless. I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and was surprised to receive relief almost immediately. The Pain Balm has been a constant companion of mine ever since and it never fails." For sale by Julia A. Story.
