They have arranged for the immediate discussion in the Chambers of such questions as the Œcumenical Council, Commerce and Domestic Policy.

The Judges at Montreal reversed the former judgment of their colleague in the Caldwell case, and decided that the warrant issued by Judge Coursol, at Montreal, could not be enforced in Ontario, consequently the accused was illegally in custody, and must be discharged. It is understood that $150,000 has already been paid for the lease of Samana, over which the United States now has jurisdiction. There is no doubt that the President will send to the Senate, probably on Monday, a secret message with a treaty for the annexation of San Domingo. The sum it is proposed to give is $1,500,000 for the public buildings, that being the entire expense of the transaction. The country is to be annexed as a Territory and not as a State.

MONTREAL.

Ball at Prince Arthur's Residence.

Montreal, Jan. 7.

Last night Prince Arthur gave a ball at his residence, Rosemount. The gathering was a gay and fashionable one. A ball room has lately been added to the residence and it was very beautifully decorated, whilst the portico at the principal entrance to the house was enclosed with British flags. The ball was opened by his Royal Highness and the Hon. Mrs. Glyn in a quadrille and at a later hour Lady Wyndham was conducted by his Royal Highness to the supper room, which was radiant with the richest plate and costliest china.

At about ten o'clock this forenoon a fire broke out in a small eating-house in Little St. Antoine street, but the flames were extinguished without it being found necessary to couple the hose, which was quickly on the spot.

There has been a perceptible rise in the water in the river since this morning and the opening between the Victoria bridge and opposite the Bonsecours market is all that remains to be frozen.

St. Paul's Church Sunday School, G. T. R. Depot.

The annual festival in connection with the above School took place in the Dining Room at the G. T. Depot on Friday evening, and was a very decided success, between two and three hundred persons being present, including the children of the Sunday School. The Rev. Jno. A. Mulock, the esteemed Pastor of St. Paul's Church, occupied the chair, and opened the proceedings with a brief address. Beside him on the platform were Mayor Robinson, Messrs. John Elliott, John McIntyre, Barrister, Nelson, Harmer, Young, &c., &c. The young people connected with the School recited some amusing dialogues—after which a grace was sung by Mr. Reyner, and tea and coffee, with an abundance of fruit cake, were handed round, and had ample justice done to them. Mr. John McIntyre being called upon, then gave an eloquent and instructive address of some length, which was cordially received. Some music by the children, led by Mr. Reyner, followed. More dialogues were spoken, and then a very pretty song—"You've been a friend to me"—was sweetly sung by Miss Preston, and was, of course, warmly encored. Another song was sung with great taste and feeling by Miss Harriet Reyner, and after "Good night" had been given by Mr. Reyner, the Rev. Mr. Mulock expressed his acknowledgment to Mr. Beaufort for his kindness in lending the Dining Room, and to several other ladies and gentlemen for their kind and valuable assistance. Mr. Spriggs read the annual report which gave a flattering account of the progress of the School, and after a verse of the national anthem had been sung, the audience separated, greatly pleased with the evening's entertainment. It is but justice to say that the congregation of St. Paul's Church are under a debt of gratitude to Mr. T. C. Wilson, the respected Superintendent of the School, for its successful management, and to Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs, for their valuable assistance. Mrs. Davis, with her usual liberality, placed her sleighs at the service of the party for their conveyance to and from the depot, and they were well patronized.

ANOTHER STOWE-BYRON LEIGH SCANDAL.

Mrs. Stowe is certainly warranted in asking for a "fair hearing" from the press, although we believe that the minds of "the men of the press" and of the public are not only pretty well made up as to the merits of the Byron controversy, but also altogether tired of it. In this connection we may allude to the announcement of another new book—"Medora Leigh: A diary and autobiography" - to be edited by Charles Mackay and published by Bently, of London. The veteran publisher recently telegraphed to Mrs. Stowe an urgent request that she would postpone the publication of her book until she should have an opportunity of correcting her impression and learning the origin of the slanderous charge of incest brought against Lord Byron and his half-sister, the Hon. Mrs. Leigh. Medora Leigh was the fourth daughter of Mrs. Leigh. At the age of fifteen, while living with her elder sister, the wife of "the scoundrel" Trevanion, she was seduced by her sister's husband, who, after separating from his wife, carried Medora to the south of France. There the seducer and his victim lived together for several years before, in order to retain his hold upon her, Trevanion invented and told her the horrible story that Lord Byron was her father. This story Medora communicated in a repreachful letter to her mother, who never replied to it. Lady Byron subsequenrly heard of the story, hunted up Medora and brought her home, but afterwards, in one of her freaks, sent her away. Such, according to this "Diary and Autobiography," which, brief and meagre as it is, Mr. Lentley believes to be authentic, is the story which terrified Lady Byron and which, repeated by Mrs. Stowe, has scandalized the world. Perhaps Mrs. Stowe will tell us something more about Medora Leigh in her forthcoming volume.—N. Y. Herald.

OTTAWA.

INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY CONTRACTS—NOVA SCOTIA RAILWAYS—FROST.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.

The Privy Council have had under consideration for some days the progress of work on the Intercolonial railway. Some of the contracts have not been carried out effectively, while with all the others considerable progress has been made.

The Railway Commissioners meet today and will then probably adjourn. Commissioner McLellan is not expected here before the 20th.

Mr. Weir, engaged in the scheme of silver exportation, had an interview with the Finance Minister yesterday, who expressed a favorable opinion of the utility of his undertaking.

Mr. Superintendent Carvell has had several interviews with the Minister of Public Works on the subject of the management of the Nova Scotia Railways, about which considerable agitation prevails in that province. It is believed that Mr. Carwell's policy will be substantially endorsed by the government.

There is a hard frost to-day, which has been looked for by the lumbering interest with some anxiety. Work will now proceed vigorously.

It is understood now that the Hon. Mr. McDougall will remain some days at Toronto before proceeding to the capital.

Mr. Sutton, of the firm of Sutton, Angus & Co. of the Intercolonial railway, and Mr. Elliot, arrived here to-day.

It is generally believed that the first four sections of the railway will be let out at contract again by the commissioners.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT, AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.—Some time back a gentleman residing at Wortham, in Norfolk, England, named Balls, on returning from Harleston Market, fell from his horse, and sustained a serious illness in consequence, that all his hair came off. He was perfectly bald. His friend, the Rev. Mr. Daniel, offered him a wig as a temporary substitute; and, in the meantime, he tried very fortunately the effects of Rowlands' Macassar Oil. What was the consequence? Part of a bottle produced the re-growth of a thick and luxuriant head of hair, with (what the fitter original growth had not) a beautiful tendency to curl. This is a very striking instance of efficacy from the fact of the debility which preceded the restoration. To be obtained of the principal Chemists and Storekeepers throughout the country. 7

Kingston Penitentiary.

SPIRITUAL WELFARE OF THE CONVICTS.

The editor of the Church Herald, an organ of Toronto (Anglican) diocese, has visited the Penitentiary, and some of his impressions are given in this week's issue. They are very flattering to Mr. Mulrane, the acting chaplain:

KINGSTON PENITENTIARY.—During a recent short visit we made at Kingston, we called at the Penitentiary and made some enquiries in the different wards and of the officers of the establishment, and it was evidenced to us that within the past few months a great change has been effected in the religious condition of the convicts, of whom there are upwards of six hundred. This appears to have been brought about by the adoption of a regular system of bible classes, confirmation and baptism classes and more especially by regular and frequent visits to every convict in his cell. The acting chaplain, upon being appointed in May last, saw the great field presented in the Penitentiary for missionary labour, and he began by undertaking to read the daily prayers every morning at 6.30 which had been previously allowed to be read by a guard. He then established a weekly Bible class for the female convicts. This has been a source of comfort and a means of sympathy to some of the most unhappy women, some of whom have outworn year by year in slow monotony of prison life the season of childhood, womanhood and age; some now in extreme youth have the same and prospect before them. Of the former class the unhappy Grace Marks is an example; of the latter a young girl, Elizabeth Jones, of modest and engaging manners and of the same extreme youth—fifteen is her age—she was Grace Marks, when twenty-six years ago she first passed the portals of the Penitentiary. These poor creatures seem to take pleasure in the weekly visit of their chaplain, and in the Bible class, which consists of reading a chapter, talking over it and prayer.

Similar Bible classes have been established for the male convicts—one class for each of the large workshops in the prison chapel. In all cases the class is concluded with extempore prayer, together with a selection from the Prayer Book; and the men are further visited in their cells at night when they are alone, and able to converse freely with their chaplain.

On the appointment of the new Warden, Mr. Ferris, permission was obtained to introduce music into the Sunday service in the Prison Chapel. With the voluntary assistance of Mr. Parnell, of the Canada Churchman, and of Mrs. Piern, the matron of the female prison, a convict choir was formed. This privilege was gladly caught at by the good conduct convicts who practise one night in the week. The Choral Litany is chanted with a strange power and earnestness which astonished as much as it pleased the Bishop of the Diocese when he lately visited the prison to hold a Confirmation. The general result of the musical services—which are all of the simplest kind, has been to win to the Sunday services a degree of attention unknown before. While a selection of stirring and awakening hymns is made at Confirmation for Hymns, Ancient and Modern.

Efforts too have been made by the present acting Chaplain to make the Chapel more like a Church than a room in a prison; texts of a comforting nature, the great promises of the Gospel, have been handsomely painted in red and black on scrolls around each window. The congregation is by no means limited to Church people but convicts, voluntarily, of the Methodist, Presbyterian, and many other denominations, have heartily co-operated to the Bible classes, Choral Litany, daily services, and other missionary work. To all which what Christian will not wish God-speed.

Remarkable Case.

The Trial of the Gurney & Overend's case, which after a six days sitting, resulted in a verdict of acquittal is thus noticed in the Times:—

It is difficult, says the Times, to describe the scene which ensued when the verdict of not guilty was pronounced. Immediately the most enthusiastic cheers burst from the crowded audience, which it was in vain endeavoured to prevent. In vain the Lord Chief Justice held up his hand, and the officers of the court shouted for silence. The cheers drowned all other sound, and became each moment louder and louder, until they became almost deafening in effect. Peal after peal of cheers succeeded, and the whole scene was one of the wildest excitement. The cheers were caught by the vast crowd without, waiting for the verdict, and the echoes of their cheers seemed to arouse fresh enthusiasm in the audience, and they broke out into cheers louder than before. Meanwhile, the scene in court was most impressive. The effect of the verdict upon the defendants and their friends was almost electrical. Some started to their feet and shook each other's hands warmly, and utterred exclamations of joy and delight, which, however, were inaudible amid the thunder of those frantic cheers which drowned all other sounds. Some seemed overwhelmed with emotion, and more than one burst into tears. The leading counsel present, the Solicitor General and Sir J. Karslake, had their hands seized and warmly pressed by their great adherents, and all this being observed by the vast crowd—all upstanding and cheering—only added to the excitement, and elicited still louder bursts of cheering. At last the violent excitement so far calmed down that the cheers ceased, only to be renewed outside, however, when the defendants appeared; and they then received an ovation strangely contrasting with the howls of execration which were heard at the Mansion House when, amid much popular excitement, they were committed.

The Coming of Prince Arthur.

One of the Prince of Wales's younger brothers is expected at Washington on a visit to Gen. Grant, and the snobs of the Dents are already beginning to lay themselves out for the reception of this new victim of universal Jenkins. It is whispered at the same time in fogy-circles that the mere sight of a live Prince will be equivalent to the settlement of the Alabama claims, and that immediately after his arrival several dignitaries will bow down before the juvenile Highness, and make simple apologies for their rash speeches and despatches.

The Prince of Wales, moreover, did not pretend to come as a royal Prince, but as Baron Renfrew, and though this could not prevent him from figuring in all the grandeur of royalty, Her Majesty's desire was that he should depart himself modestly, and without encouraging the tuft-hunters among the richer and more subservient portion of the American population. In the case of Prince Arthur no such precaution seems to have been taken. His coming is trumpeted forth as that of a full-fledged representative of English royalty, to the great delight of the flunkyism at Washington city, and its Pompernickel legations. And so let them make the most of it.—N. Y. Sun.

Notes.

The Toronto Telegraph in a leading article hints that there are Dominion Senators who are quite old enough to resign and says it is a standing grievance that Roman Catholics are unrepresented in the Senate.

The Times is happy to learn that the Rev. Mr. Ryan, the priest who described the "tumbling" of landlords on the Tipperary hustings, has been suspended, and that the Bishop of Waterford has also suspended the Rev. W. Mooney for writing a threatening letter to Colonel Chartier's agent.

The New York Herald wickedly says:—In the Winnipeg rebellion there is a fine chance for a great deal of blather and a homœpathic proportion of fighting; consequently the Fenians take a hand in it. This is a fine notion on the part of the great strategists who command the invincible forces of the Irish republic.

The Telegraph Operator's Strike says the New York Herald, is assuming formidable dimensions. The Western Union offices are almost deserted, and as this company have exclusive wires in many directions the business of the public must suffer in consequence. This is in part the result of allowing so large a monopoly to exist. If the government owned the lines there would be no strikes, for the wages would be just.

Traupmann, the Paris murderer, still manifests great indifference to his position. He admits that he derived little profit from the murders—a few thousand francs only. "I wanted the money," he said, "to construct a new weaving loom, which would have been the commencement of my fortune; I should have invented other machines, and then I should have travelled, and there is not a corner of the earth that I would not have visited." He made to his fellow prisoners the remark, "I shall not be executed, as I possess the means of committing suicide which no one could prevent me from employing; I am sure of escaping any watch that may be set on me."

The Spanish and Cuban war in New York is getting hot. The Spanish Consul and Senor De Canso, editor of a Spanish paper, have received anonymous notifications that they are to be assassinated. Meanwhile there are reports of the successful departure of another expedition for Cuba with plenty of arms and powder.

The Provisional Government organized in Paraguay are said to be busy reversing the acts of the late President-Dictator. They have abolished slavery, declared Lopez an outlaw, and done away with the monopolies Lopez had established. The son of Lopez, now at Washington, however, denies that his father is a fugitive.

A spirited piece of cable telegraphing has just been undertaken by the London Pall Mall Gazette. The Pall Mall has received a message of 1,131 words, consisting of extracts from Mrs. Stowe's new contribution to the unclean subject she has lately forced upon public opinion.

That Salnave has been finally disposed of by his assailants is pretty clear from the telegrams; but how is not so plain. One report says that he fired the magazine of Fort Pelvin, and blew himself and fourteen sons to pieces.

EXTRAORDINARY TRIAL AND CONVICTION.—An extraordinary trial was recently concluded in Berlin. It was that of young Boland, who attempted to kill a Roman Catholic priest by shooting him in the cathedral, while performing divine service. Boland, who is a boy of eighteen years only, had his head full of Rarey, Compte, and the philosophers, and conceived the idea that it was a duty to emancipate mankind from the thraldom of priestcraft, by slaughtering the clergymen. His first attempt ended in failure and incarceration. Upon the trial, the new martyr of philosophy informed the Judge that "there is no God—Nature is a self-supporting machine." The Judge took a different view of the matter, and sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment, with hard labor. Before departing from the court room Boland remarked that his opinions upon shooting clergymen had been somewhat modified, as there were too many of them extant to make it an object for him to go into business.

THE LATE NEW YORK TRAGEDY.—The terrible love tragedy in Elizabeth street, New York, has created general interest. Fresh revelations were made, and it is now evident that the cause of the murder and suicide was the fear of the murderer that he would soon be deprived of the means of continuing illicit intimacy with his victim. The parties were school teachers in Brooklyn, E.D., the man Bauman acting a principal of the same school in which Miss McNamara, or Mrs. Allemejo, as she should be called, was an assistant. Bauman has a wife living, who informed the reporter on Monday that her husband was a good man until the school mistress won his affections from her. Mrs. Allemejo was the divorced wife of a dissolute Spaniard. The intimacy which terminated so tragically had existed about five months.

MURDERED FOR OFFERING TO MARRY.—Five Jews, named Moses Schneider, Mayer Brecher, Abraham Moses Schneider, Joseph Landau, and Moses Feldmann, have just been tried for the murder of Abraham Feldmann, son of the latter, at Tarnopol, in Galicia. It appears that the deceased had made an offer of marriage to a Christian girl, and that she had accepted him on his promising to become a Christian also. Having heard of this promise, the accused met assembled in the house of Moses Feldmann, and warmly upbraided young Feldmann for his apostacy. The latter, however, remained obstinate, and during the altercation, the father threw a sling rope round his neck, and pulled at it with the other men until his son was strangled. Hannah Feldmann, the mother of the deceased, who was absent at the time, showed much grief at the death of her son, but was soon pacified by her husband representing the murder as a religious sacrifice, and passed the rest of the evening with him in prayer. The case was clearly proved against the defendants, Moses Feldmann and Mayer Brecher were sentenced to be hanged, and the other three to ten years' imprisonment with hard labor.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favorite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homœopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the trade only in ½lb., ¼lb. and ⅛lb. packets, labelled—JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.
