SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT 24, 1870.

Coroner's Inquest. — Yesterday, Dr. Barker held an Inquest in the County Jail on the body of Robt. Scott, a Vagrant, who died on the day previous, from disease of the Brain. The deceased had been ill all the time he had been in Jail, (two months and upwards,) having been discharged from the Hospital as incurable. The poor man was properly attended to, but the Jail was not the proper place to send him to, and yet, for cases of his kind, there is no other place. The Verdict was "Natural Death from Disease of the Brain."

Cricket.—Should the weather prove fine, of which there is no great promise at this writing, a return match between the Kingston Cricket Club and Mechanics Club, will be played this afternoon on the Cricket Field. Wickets to be pitched at one o'clock. As this is the last match of the season, probably, some interest is attached to it.

The Japs.—These funny fellows with unpronounceable names, will give one of their celebrated entertainments in the city to-night. In Toronto, Hamilton, London, and all the western towns of Canada crowded audiences have attended their performances. No doubt a similar reception awaits them here.

The Last Fire.—The loss by the fire on Wednesday evening in Mr. Thos. Campbell's stable, is closely estimated at $150.

St. George's Cathedral.—Prof. Smith has not relinquished the charge of the organ of St. George's; indeed a special effort would, in the face of such a probability, be made to retain him. Prof Desrochers, of Quebec, is coming here, it is believed, to the organ of St. Mary's Cathedral, on probation, not to St. George's.

The C. N. Co's Steamers.—The steamer Spartan passed down yesterday morning in good time. The Magnet, which ought to have arrived from Montreal at four in the afternoon, was telegraphed only at Cornwall yesterday morning, and was due at 3 a.m. to-day. This evening the express steamer Abyssinian passed up, and makes the concluding trip of that branch of the line this season. She lies up at once at Charlotte. The boats will now keep the North Shore route altogether.

Professor Fleck.—Mr. Fleck is winning golden opinions from the denizens of the Forest City. The 7th Battalion Band, of which Prof. Fleck is leader and instructor, was very highly praised for its proficiency in the late camp of western volunteers. There were seven bands in camp, but the 7th eclipsed them all. Prof. Fleck had all seven under training for "Marching past," and was personally complimented by Col. Ross, Adjutant-General.

Regatta.—The Quebec yachts which are expected to enter in the Regatta next week to compete for the honors of champion of Lake Ontario, with the Ida, Gorilla, John Powers, and Rivet, are the Blackhawk, Shannon and Dauntless.

Beefsteaks Again.—A murder has taken place in Memphis because a man couldn't find a bone in a porter house steak. Bullets flew around an eating house, and a doctor let daylight through a Sheriff. Nice place.

Arrival Out.—Steamships St. Patrick and North American, at Quebec; arrived home, India, Brittania and Ottawa.

POLICE COURT, FRIDAY.

Before the P.M.:

Business is very dull, and there were no prisoners before the Court this morning.

Thomas Courtney alias Ray complained against one Hattie Conley alias Corney, a hard looking justificate, for assaulting him, and asked the court to bind her over to keep the peace.

It is said that an improper liason has existed between the parties, and the introduction of another dulcima has been the cause of the rumpus. The defendant was discharged on promising to behave herself for the future, and leave the place.

Accidents.—On Wednesday afternoon, a boy named Jackson, about 14 years old had been driving his father's team into town, from Cataraqui. While passing along Sydenham Street, and in attempting to remedy a fault in the harness, he fell forward over the whiffletrees to the ground. A wheel passed over his body, and as the waggon was heavily laden with sand, inflicted severe internal injuries. He is under medical care, and removed from danger.

At the fire on Wednesday night, while the firemen and neighbors were working to prevent Mr. Campbell's house from catching, the axe in the hands of one of the party flew and struck another on the head, inflicting an ugly scalp wound.

Three boys, not over ten years of age, were paddling about in the slip at the foot of Princess Street. One of them fell in the water, of course, and sunk twice before he was taken out. His exhausted state required speedy attention and simple restoratives, but in an hour or so he was quite well again.

Readings.—Prof. A. Melville Bell will on Tuesday night give a reading in the City Hall, of subjects selected from the writings of Scottish authors. This gentleman's reputation as an elocutionist and public reader has been established for a number of years in the United Kingdom, where his readings have been numerous. The Dublin Express thus speaks of his readings in that city: "His powers of elocution cannot be surpassed, and his rendering of the different characters which he undertook to delineate was always most life like.

The Genial.—Yesterday afternoon the rain fell lightly, but light as it was it proved to be a most welcome visitant. The country has continued to suffer from drought and the ground was so hard and dry in the beginning of the week that those farmers who attempted to open their fall ploughing had to abandon it.

WAR TOPICS.

The last suspension of payment by the Bank of France occurred on the 10th of March, 1848, just after the dethronement of Louis Philippe and the declaration of a Republic.

The railroad which passes Toul is the only one by which artillery for the siege of Paris can be forwarded from Germany. The resistance of Toul, therefore, so long as it lasts, will, unless the Prussians make a railroad round that fort, prevent the regular mode of attack on the fortifications of Paris.

Valdtome, late Minister of Interior, while returning to his department with his family under safe conduct from Gambetta, was set upon the populace in Aubervelliers and again at Ravan and very badly used and in danger of being killed.

Versailles, the once proud seat of the Grand Monarque, now the headquarters of the King of Prussia, is upon the side of Paris farthest from Germany, thus proving that that city is completely surrounded and all its communications cut. We can, therefore, get no news from it except such as the Prussians may allow to pass through their lines.

A Prussian officer belonging to a battalion of Rifles, describing the battle of Rezonville, states that his regiment went into action a thousand strong and came out with less than four hundred. The battalion which met with this melancholy fall was one of the finest in the Prussian army—the men were crack shots and the officers belonged to the cream of Berlin Society. The Infantry guards which fought alongside the rifles suffered even heavier losses.

Importing Death.

A CHOLERA CORPSE HIDDEN IN A CARGO OF SUGAR—A HIDEOUS STORY.

The revenue authorities of New York, having reason to believe that smuggling operations have been carried on to a considerable extent, detailed several special officers for service in the lower bay. They went on board the brig H. G. Berry; then anchored in the Horse Shoe, near Sandy Hook. Mr. Fileau and his assistants, on nearing the vessel, noted a sickening stench, which was explained to them when they boarded the brig. Inquiring for the captain, they were informed that he had gone on shore with the pilot on four of his men. He then asked to see the vessel's manifest, but the mate said that the captain had locked it up, taking the key with him. At length the mate informed him that four of the crew had been taken down by yellow fever. He added that the body of the captain was then in the lower hold of the brig. Discrediting the story, the officers prosecuted a search, and descending to the lower hold, they found there, in contact with the cargo of sugar, the box containing the decomposed corpse of the captain. The officers filed an affidavit setting forth the facts as related above.

Miscellaneous.

Mlle. Nilsson was robbed of a diamond ornament worth $2,000 while being dragged to her hotel in New York in her carriage by enthusiastic Swedes.

Our 'devil' says it makes his heart bleed to see so many women with "switches" laid over their backs.

A physician writes, asking a renewal of a note which he owes, giving as a reason therefor: "We are in a horrible crisis. There is not a sick man in the district."

The steam power employed in the United States is equal to 130,000,000 of men, but that of Great Britain is vastly greater, being equal to 400,000,000 of men.

Horace Greeley has improved a $5,000 farm in Connecticut to such an extent in a very brief time that he was enabled to sell it last week for $3,650. It is said that his profits in the transaction will be devoted to charitable objects.

A Kentucky man has been unable to speak for two months in consequence of a sunstroke, and writes that he could have borne his misfortune with equanimity, not to say gratitude, if he had only had his wife as a companion in the accident.

The success of Mr. Mechi in liquefying all manures and applying them in a liquid state by means of carts, to all crops, affords the most conclusive proof in favor of surface manuring. Against all theories and old practices his heavy crops declare with irresistable logic. Though it is not possible for all farmers to adopt this practice—yet they can adopt the next best system—that of spreading the manure, letting the rains liquefy and carry into the soil a large portion of it.

Election Costs.—The privilege of writing M.P. after your name appears to remain a very costly one, notwithstanding all the various acts which have been passed to abate its expense. In a recent election in Suffolk the expense of Lord Mahon—eldest son of Earl Stanhope, the historian—amounted to $3,390; whilst those of his opponent, who was unsuccessful, were £2,931. Candidates are compelled to make an official return of their costs and charges. Under the mysterious heading of "agency expenses" Lord Mahon paid £740, and Sir S. Adair £450. A handsome price for perfect purity to pay.

Another Fatal Accident on Mont Blanc.

A correspondent of the London Times furnishes details of another fatal accident to a party of tourists on Mont Blanc, on Tuesday, the 2nd inst.:

The party in question consisted of Mr. Marke, of W[illegible] Liskeard, Mrs. Marke, his wife; a young lady, her friend, and three guides. They left Chamounix on Monday, the 1st, about midday, with two guides and arrived without accident at the Hotel de Grands Mulets at 8 p. m. The route was remarkable easy and free from dangers, and the weather was splendid. Here they slept, and at 3:30 the next morning, having added to their party the third guide, they started on their upward journey. Bitter having safely traversed the Great and Little Plateau, they gained the summit of one corridor about 10 a. m. At this spot, as there was a considerable breeze, the ladies, with tow of the guides, halted while Mr. Marke, with the two other guides, went up higher to see if the weather would permit them to continue their ascent. They promised to return in ten or fifteen minutes. The ladies beginning to feel cold, their guide, contrary to the injunctions of Mr. Marke and the express orders of his fellow guides, started off with them on their return home. They were all three connected by a rope, Mrs. Marke, unfortunately, at the same time also leaning on the arm of the guide, her friend following a few steps behind. Scarcely had they gone one hundred yards when Mrs. Marke and the guide suddenly disappeared into a crevasse, which was covered with a thin crust of frozen snow. Providentially for her friend, the rope, being rotten, broke, and she remained half dead with fear, but in safety, close to the upper edge of the chasm. Mr. Marke and the guides, hearing cries of distress, rushed down in all haste, and in less than five minutes had reached as near as they could with safety the edge of the crevasse. They looked down and shouted as loud as they could. The silence of grave was their only answer. Death had overtaken their companions—instantaneous, without doubt, painless.

Pruning.—The month of September is the best time in all the year to prune fruit and shade trees. A wound made at this time of year will not bleed, but will harden and remain sound, even if the new growth of wood does not cover it. The spring of the is the worst of all times for pruning; the is then running, and it keeps the surface exposed by the cutting in just the condition for decay; and if the wound is a large one a rotten hole in the tree is the result.

The involuntary muscles are those which control the Stomach, Liver, Lungs, Heart, etc.; they are influenced directly by the mind, so that close study, anxiety, grief, irritation, secret excesses, and a host of other excitants acting directly on the brain, disturb the nervous system, and prevent the muscular action in these organs necessary to sustain life. Here lies the great cause of Dyspepsia, Headache, Jaundice, Impoverished Blood, Irregularities, Languor, Debility, Bronchitis, Consumption, &c., &c. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, by its potent and salutary effects on the nervous system, seems the best adapted to cure weakness or debility of those organs.
