PLEASANT PREDICAMENT.—Friday evening, between the hours of seven and eight o'clock, a young lady in this city concluded it would be pleasant to pass the evening with a lady friend, who resided near by, so out she started, with many anticipations of the pleasant chit-chat she was to have on arriving at said friend's house. The "walk of life" is very uncertain anywhere, and it proved so with the person in question. Thinking only of the pleasant time she would have, she failed to notice a street drain in her path, just excavated, which the days rain had filled. A single misstep, and down she went into the watter and mud, with her head out only just far enough to breathe. Not wishing to create any unnecessary excitement, she remained stuck in mud until one of our oldest citizens passing by, lent a helping hand and resculed her from her unpleasant situation.

RETURNED HOME.—We welcome the return home, safe and sound, of John Carruthers, Esq., and hope he has been successful in negociating the Bonds of the Kingston & Madoc Railway.

REV. MR. STEPHENSON'S LECTURE.—Our advertisement columns this morning contain the announcement of the Rev. Mr. Stephenson's lecture on "Anglo-American Literature and Protestantism," to be delivered in the Victoria Music Hall, Princess Street, on Friday evening next. Doubtless, many of those who heard Mr. Stephenson on "Luther and his Times," last year, will embrace the present opportunity of hearing so eloquent a lecturer.

THE DEVIL AMONG THE SAILORS.—There was a big row among the bargemen at Richardson's wharf, on Friday evening, which necessitated the calling out of the entire police force to preserve the majesty of the law. Two or three poor devils were arrested and brought before Mr. Creighton, who quickly disposed of the matter, by fining one of the lads $5 and costs, and discharging the other two.

"Bread Cast upon the Waters." If the Great Providence has not literally cast bread upon the waters. He has planted the elements of wholesome nourishment on the rocks, in the shape of the Sea Moss, from which the Sea Moss Farine is made. This new article has everywhere won "golden opinions of all sorts of people," and the housekeepers of the land generally regard it in the double light of a stable necessary and a delicious luxury; for while its use lessens the expense of living, the exquisite dishes prepared from it can not be obtained even at an extravagant cost, from any other source. Scientific Committees, hotel keepers, professional cooks, ladies who superintend their own kitchens, physicians, nurses, dyspeptics and invalids of every class bear witness of these facts. To this mass of indorsements we unhesitatingly add our own; and without fear of contradiction say that the blanc mange, puddings, custards, &c., are the most delicious we have ever tasted. 232

CANADA.

Mr. J. Gordon Brown, of the Globe, has returned to Toronto from Europe.

In gathering their abundant harvests the New Brunswick farmers are now blessed with unusually fine weather.

Mr. Kingsford's tender for the Grenville Canal repairs is finally accepted, his sureties having been approved of.

The appointment of Hon. Messrs. Richie and McCulley to the Nova Scotian Bench makes two vacancies in the Senate.

There is a great scarcity of game in the Ottawa district. It is attributed to the wanton acts of strange hunters last year. Over sixty deer were killed last September in six days; now, one cannot be had.

Refined New Brunswick offers an additional attraction to her Provincial Exhibition in the shape of monster concerts, after the manner of Boston and Gillmore, in which all the talents will be arrayed, all the sweet singers and amateur musicians of the Province.

The Town Council of Peterboro' have decided in favour of granting a $40,000 bonus to the Peterboro' & Haliburton Railway, and a by-law to that effect is to be submitted to the rate payers on the 27th of October. There is said to be excellent prospects of its being adopted.

The Adjutant-General has returned from his tour of inspection in the eastern townships. He has visited altogether six brigade camps, and inspected twenty-three battalions of infantry, ten troops of cavalry, and five batteries of artillery. The system of forming brigade camps seems to have proved entirely successful.

The comfort of the Canadian Volunteers will, it is said, be affected to some extent by the present war in Europe. The English tailors are all employed in making clothing for the combatants, and the consequence is that the orders of the Canadian Government cannot be supplied as soon as required.

A FREE-SHOOTER'S DISGUISE.—A somewhat novel affair took place at one of the outposts near Metz on the 6th September. It is recorded by the correspondent of the Telegraph, who witnessed the occurrence. An old woman was seen by a Prussian double sentry of the 33rd Regiment engaged in an orchard picking up sticks. As her occupation was harmless, their attention was naturally drawn away to a serious engagement going on in the vineyards. Suddenly the old woman took refuge behind a tree, disengaged a carbine from her petticotes, and, taking aim at the nearest Prussian sentry, wounded him severely. The action, however, had not been so quiet, but that his comerade saw it, and, raising his rifle to his shoulder, he fired at and killed the supposed woman. He had just time to advance and discover a French tirailleur so disguised when the advance of the French compelled him to retire, taking his wounded comrade with him.

The Horrors of War.

From among the many striking and eloquent objugations of the English newspaper correspondents, against the demoniac spirit of war, called forth from personally witnessing the various phases of misery inflicted upon our fellow mortals in the present contest, we select a brief abstract from the graphic pen of the correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, writing from Metz. We are sure the majority of our readers will concur in the sentiments uttered, which are no less rational than just:—

"Only one degree less wretched than the spectacle of the butchery of the field of battle, or the slower but not less sure sacrifice of life in hospital through the diseases which war engenders, is the sight of the prisoners who are captured in the strife, and who are compelled individually to suffer the miseries incurred by collective wickedness. The great criminals, the desperate schemers and adventurers who have set this throat-cutting machine in motion, escape; or, if a ball penetrates to their headquarters, and they fall, their end is called a 'glorious' one, their tombs are rung with laurels, their adulators forgetting how much hyssop they have made others drink, and how many willows are growing above obscure sepulchres; and their names go down to posterity, glowing with that radiance of triumphant lies, which ordinarily passes by the name of Fame. But here are numbers of poor devils who have never done Europe or each other any harm—who know nothing about the causes of the war, and would be puzzled to tell you what the contending parties are fighting for—but who, against their inclination, their will, and their closest interests, are made contending parties, and who, if they escape being shot or slabbed in fight, are liable to be taken prisoners, marched into a far and strange country, and clapped up in gaol as though they had been detected in stealing spoons or pocket handkerchiefs. I wish that some one of our philosophic writers would have the courage to maintain the apparently paradoxical, but perhaps sound, doctrine that it would be, in the end, far more humane to deny quarter altogether, and to slaughter your foe outright when you had overcome him, than to subject him to the lingering misery which is in most cases the fate of a prisoner of war. When the brains are out, the man, as a rule, will die; once killed, he can give no more trouble to you or to anybody else; and he has no right logically to complain of being knocked on the head, since it was for that purpose, and for none other, that he entered the army. This is more undeniably the case now than it was formerly; for, in the days of Brown Bess and unrifled cannon, war was but a random and haphazard game. Taking aim was a thing not much thought of, and there was some encouragement in the dictum that a soldier might fire away his own weight in lead before a bullet from his musket took effect on the enemy, and vice versa. But in this era of "arms of precision," long ranges, rifled ordnance, and mitrailleuses, murder has become a science, and mutilation an art calmly and deliberately pursued. It, then, we can pick off a particular man, or decimate a particular battalion at three or at six hundred yards distance, why hesitate to beat a man's brains out, or to run him through the stomach when we have gotten him down, with our heel upon his throat? The hippophagists, I see, are urging on the authorities the expediency of eating the horses which fall in this campaign. I do conscientiously believe that an important step towards the discouragement of the Warlike Idea might be made if the contending parties could only agree to eat the corpses of the slain. For it is obviously only through the direct refusal of the majority of a nation to be led to slaughter in order to gratify the ambition of a few unscrupulous adventurers, that war ever can or will be abolished. If brigade after brigade and division after division would only have the strength of mind to set up a shout of "We won't kill the people who have never done us any harm," General Bombastes Furioso might vapour about "glory" until he was dead-hoist, and King Artaxomines might invoke the "God of Battles"—the God of Contagious Diseases, or the God of Explosions at Gas Works and Firework Manufactories will be invoked next—until everybody laughed at him or shut him up in a madhouse or bound him over to keep the peace, and war would become impossible. Unfortunately, the rank and file, being mentally but a feeble folk, are destitute of the solidarity of opinion necessary to coerce the Furiosos and the Artaxomines, and so war goes on, and the rank and file are slaughtered like sheep. Still something might be done if the Rulers of Europe would only agree upon a convention for mutual anthropophagy. Let us throw off the mask at once, and acknowledge ourselves cannibals, and depend upon it the rank and file would think twice ere they rushed to the front crying "Gloire" and "Patria." For a man, I take it, has an intuitive dislike to the contigency of being eaten.

The Minister of Public Works has been waited on by a deputation relative to the Carillon Canal. The gentlemen advised the construction of a dam across the Ottawa and Ow l Lock. The recommendation will be immediately attended to.

Another case of Bronchitis Cured.—I was persuaded to try Fellow' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites for Bronchitis, from which I had suffered much. I have used only three bottles and my health is now better than it has been for years; there is a general demand for it from all parts.

Yours respectfully, W. J. Nelson.

NEW INSURANCE COMPANY.—The Agricultural Insurance (Fire) Company of Watertown, N. Y., has complied with the requirements of the Canadian Statute, relative to Foreign Insurance Companies transacting business in this country, and deposited $54,500 in U. S. bonds in the hands of the Receiver General of the Dominion. The "Agricultural" stands at the head of the ninety-four Insurance Companies of the State of New York, and its stock is worth double of any other company in the State. The assets of the company are $498,894, and the net surplus $207,028. Each share of $100 of the stock is worth $307.03, which shows that the affairs of the Company are in a healthy state.

Mr. Henry Cline is the General Agent for Canada, and his office is in J. C. Clarke & Co's Exchange Office, Corner of Ontario and Clarence Streets, Kingston.

MARAVILLA COCOA.—For Breakfast.—The Globe says "Various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Cocoas, but we doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Messrs. Tayler Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Maravilla' Cocoa. Adapting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which supersedes every other Cocoa in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroma, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocoa above all others. For homœopaths and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage." Sold in packets only by all Grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor Brothers' Original Homœopathic Cocoa and Soluble Chocolate. Steam Mills—Brick Lane, London. 1

The French say the Prussian losses since the war began and particularly at the investment of Paris, have been so immense that the German authorities have taken care to conceal the facts from the newspapers.

There is a still considerable insubordination in the French army. The officers are unable to prevent disorder and violence among the raw and undisciplined soldiers. Severe example shave been made.

Dr. Russell, in one of his letters, describes the rattling of the mitrailleuses as sounding like a great putting up of iron shutters, and in another as "the growling of the mitrailleuses like the angry cry of some beast of pray."

The crew of the American ship Elizabeth Hamilton, which left Antwerp a few days ago from New York, became mutinous. The second officer was mortally wounded in attempting to subdue it. The vessel immediately put back to Antwerp, and the ringleaders were turned over to the police.
