IMMIGRATION.—The public of Kingston will not, we trust, forget the Lecture of the Rev. Father Nugent in the the City Hall this evening. The philanthopic object is truly deserving of their countenance and support.

DISMASTED.—The schooner Queen of the Lakes has been dismasted on Lake Erie, and towed into Buffalo. She was insured in the Provincial; and underwriters have gone to ascertain the damage.

RETURNING.—Col. Jarvis, commandant at Fort Garry, and Capt. Herchmer, both of the 1st Ontario Battalion, have left Fort Garry, on their return to Canada and their homes in Kingston. They will be here in a few days, and the friends and relations of our volunteers will be anxious to learn from them of the welfare of the Kingston company. Col. Jarvis proceeds to New York on legal business. His absence from Fort Garry at this critical moment is regretted; an officer of experience is certainly required there at the head of the volunteers.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.—The walk in the centre of the Market Square has been levelled and widened, so as to accommodate those parties who find it so very rough, narrow and slippery every night just about eleven o'clock.

THE MARKET on Saturday was the largest yet this season, the waggons filling the square and surrounding the block to the gore on Wellington Street. The city is excellently supplied. What would Paris now give for our market?

THE JAPS.—The Cornwall Gazette's virtuous indignation has been aroused at the Japanese Troupe appearing there with only half its performers, though the full troupe was announced. The other half had gone off travelling in another direction. It calls it a constructive fraud. Yes.

PROGRESS.—The Dominion Telegraph Company have commenced building their lines from Toronto West, taking in all the principal towns on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway. They are also stringing a second wire from Montreal to Toronto via Ottawa, the Kingston section of which is completed, and purpose putting up another wire between Toronto and Buffalo. Their line from Hamilton to London will be open for business in a day or two.

BENEFITS OF ADVERTISING.—On Friday a member of the legal fraternity advertised the loss of a fine white cow. In less than two hours from the issue of the paper, a boy was enquiring his way to the Barrister's residence. He had in charge the identical white cow. There's nothing like advertising.

CONFIRMATIONS.—At St. James' Church, Perth, on Sunday last, the Bishop of Ontario administered the rite of Confirmation to fifty two persons—twenty-four males and twenty-eight females—chiefly from among the younger members, who afterwards partook of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. The earnest and practical address of the Bishop to the newly confirmed was attentively listened to by nearly 900 persons. His Lordship held Confirmations in other Churches in the neighborhood, and every where the Church was shewn to be in a state of advancement and prosperity.

L'ORIGNAL ASSIZES.—The L'Orignale assizes open today before the Chief Justice of Common Pleas. Mr. O'Reilly, Q.C., attends, having been retained by the defendant in the case of the Attorney General against the Registrar of the County. Mr. Justice Galt was still detained at the Picton assizes on Saturday, and the Belleville Assizes did not consequently open at the appointed time on Friday. Mr. O'Reilly will therefore have time to return there and conduct the Crown business.

POLICE COURT, SATURDAY.

Before the P. M.:

There was only one drunk on the docket this morning.

Alexander Kennedy, an honest, good-natured looking old fellow, who resides in the country, and invariably gets on the "bum" when he comes to town.

Magistrate—"You are charged with being drunk."

No answer.

The Magistrate, in a loud voice, repeated the salutation.

Serg't Major Robb—"He is very hard of hearing, your worship, and perhaps I can fetch him."

The Serg't Major's stentorian voice was then brought into requisition and old Alick was soon made to hear.

The prisoner didn't deny the soft impeachment, but apologized and gave as an excuse for getting drunk, that the fellow at the head of the Water Works had shut off the water on Fridays, just after dinner, and, being one of those who eat salt herrings on Friday, he was obliged to quench his thirst with whiskey.

The Magistrate demurred to the plea and Alick was salted again to the tune of $2.

LEGEND OF LORRAINE.—The Lorraine peasant loves to narrate the story of the "Woman of Stenay," who offered a barrel of wine to a detachment of Austrians, saying: "You are thirsty, friends, drink; you are welcome to all my store," drinking, as she spoke, a cupful in their honor. The soldiers accepted with pleasure, and in a few minutes four hundred men were writhing on the ground in agony. Then the "Woman of Steynay" rose, and, with her dying gasp, shrieked out, "You are all poisoned! Vive la France!" fell back a corpse. This is the legend of Lorraine, and the memory of its heroine is reverted to by the peasantry as highly as that of Charlotte Corday.

OVER THREE THOUSAND PERSONS KILLED—CHINESE OFFICIAL REPORTS.

(Bombay Correspondence London Times.)

The Roman Catholic Bishop at Batang, on the confines of Thibet, China, and Burmah, sends to India a terrible account of an earthquake in that region, affecting an area of 180 by 90 miles. The event occurred on the 11th of April, and his last letter is dated the 30th of May. Considering that the missionaries there can communicate only by Singhai, the transit of the letters has been rapid. Last year, it may be remembered, there was a very destructive earthquake in the, in one sense, adjoining British district of Cachar. A shock at five in the morning and a stronger shock at noon were followed at sunset by an earthquake which levelled the whole town and killed or bruised half the population. The missionaries escaped to their garden, and only one of their servants perished. The large and splendid Loma serai, inhabited by three thousand Lamas, fell with a crash. The Chinese official reports, which Dr. Chauveau tells us are a little exaggerated, estimate the loss of human life at 413 Lama priests, 57 soldiers, and 2,812 "common people." A series of earthquake shocks were felt as far as Pangmontang, the place at which Mr T. T. Cooper met Seer Suggut Sing, the Nepaulese Ambassador, in 1868. The village and many others are destroyed, and so many of the authorities and the soldiers have been buried under the ruins of their houses that "robbers, like wild beasts, run everywhere." To conclude in the bishop's own words, "The imperial highway from Pekin to Lhassa seems, and is said to be now, totally impracticable near Kong-dze-im by the fall of a mountain and the sudden upheaving of a new one."

The Liberal of Namur tells the following story:

A French captain in disguise, who had escaped from Sedan, was making a frugal repast in a small cabaret not far from the frontier, when he observed a butcher from Montmedy coming in, and shortly afterwards a Prussian officer. The two entered an adjoining room, but through a crack in the door the French captain saw the Prussian officer taking notes from his book and give to the butcher some gold pieces. The captain wrote a few lines on a slip of paper, paid his bill, and waited at the door of the cabaret until he saw the Prussian officer and the butcher separate and move away in opposite directions. He hurried after the latter and overtook him. "My friend," he said, "I think you come from Montmedy?" "Yes," said the butcher, "I live there and have come to look for cattle; but there are none to be had; the troops have eaten everything." "So that," said the captain "you would not be sorry to make a little money in what is not your regular business. I understand that. Here is a note which I wish to have sent to the commandant of Montmedy. If you will take charge of it I give you the 20 francs, and promise you as much for the reply." The butcher, well pleased, undertook the commission, and handed the note to the commandant as soon as he had reached Montmedy. The commandant read the note, called for a corporal and four men, who conducted the butcher behind one of the rampart walls, whence the sound of firing was speedily heard. The French captain, before proceeding to Paris by way of Lille, watched the proceedings of the Prussian officer, who came regularly twice a day to the place, and waited an hour each time, returning afterwards to Sedan.

PRUSSIAN SOLDIERS.—One who scrutinized the Prussian soldiers closely as he saw them on parade and on the march said:—"They have evidently not yet adopted our new drill—they do not turn out their toes at the reduced angle of 45 degrees nor lightly touch the thigh with the fingers, nor keep the thumb close to the forefinger; they slouch somewhat in the marching, and each man 'changes arms, when he wants relief; but they can accomplish fifteen miles in four hours in heavy marching order, and they run up within 200 yards of a line of Chassepots before they deliver a single shot. Perhaps this will be a hint to the old school at home, and those whose military heart is set upon a fine marching by."

KINDLY TREATED AFTER ALL.—The Empress Eugenie has sent a letter to the Emperor concerning her reception in England. She states that all official recognition of her presence has been postponed at her own request. Nothing could have been tenderer than her treatment. Queen Victoria sent at once a letter offering to pay her a State visit. The Prince of Wales immediately upon her arrival wrote her expressing the kind remembrance entertained by the Princess and himself at their visits to Paris, and of the great kindness displayed to them by her in the Tuileries, and begging to know in what way either the Princess or himself could serve her. The Empress says she is in excellent health and good spirits, as is also the Prince Imperial. Lord Ashburnham has offered her a mansion in Sussex. The Duke of Norfolk, Lord Petry, the Marquis of Lansdowne and many other persons have begged permission to pay their respects to her.

Sold by apothecaries and by F. Cundill & Co., wholesale agents, Montreal. 29.

BABY FARMING.—A telegram from England makes the following rather astonishing statement: "Margaret Waters, having been found guilty of the wilful murder of forty infants, has been sentenced to be hung." The story is not that the woman pleaded "guilty," but she "was found guilty." There must have been therefore, forty distinct indictments and as many separate trials, if this be true. Allowing two days for each trial, the Court must have been occupied for eighty days by Margaret Water's business alone. It is pretty clear, however, that infanticide has become frightfully common in England. Mr. Greenwood, in his "Seven Curses of London," speaks of "Baby farming" as "a mischief of gigantic extent."
