THE COUNTY COURTS ACT.

Much dissatisfaction has been caused by the centralization of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity at Toronto. That city has the advantage of being the legal focus, as it may be called, of the Province. There the Courts sit in Term, there are Osgoode Hall and its magnificent library, which every lawyer in the Province has to assist in keeping up, but which is enjoyed almost exclusively by the members of the profession in Toronto. This state of things has naturally given much reason for grumbling. With a knowledge of this we would have thought that modern legislation would have tended more to decentralization than to a further application to other places of the principle which has unjustly benefitted Toronto so greatly. The Bill before the House proposes to abolish the County Courts as they now exist, and to unite them in twelve groups, of which the Courts of Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, Prince Edward and Hastings shall form one. We fail to see the just reason for this change. We have heard no complaints that the present system was inefficient. On the contrary, we believe that under it, justice is reasonably cheap, speedy and simple. By uniting the Courts as proposed, the only advantage gained will be a change of judges in trying causes, and having the opinion of three or four judges, on points of law argued in term, instead of one as at present. But as a set off to this, the system will be much more cumbrous and expensive. It is proposed to divide each County Court district into circuits, three of which shall be held each year at the County towns. The Bill also provides, that, in addition to these sessions at the county towns, whenever the municipal council of any town or village (not being the county town,) provides suitable accommodation a Court shall be held there, at which the sheriff, clerk, and other officers must be present.

The Bill also contemplates depriving many of the County Clerks of their offices without providing any compensation for the loss. In this (proposed) district there are new four clerks of County Courts. The Act would deprive three of these of their offices and transfer all the business, and emoluments to the lucky fourth. The substitutes which the Bill names for the deposed Clerks are the Division Court Clerks in the several county towns who shall attend the sittings of the Court, and perform all necessary duties. This caps the many absurd provisions of the Bill. With all respect for the Division Court Clerks in county towns no one will contend that they are qualified to act in similar positions in the County Courts. The latter office requires not a little experience and knowledge of the law if its duties are to be properly performed—so that no one but a Barrister should be appointed to it. We cannot now further notice this extraordinary freak of legislation more than to express a hope that it will not become law. If Mr. Hodgins, the promoter of the Bill, had confined himself to consolidating the various Acts relating to the County Courts he would have done a good service to the profession and public. But he has gone further, and attempted to revolutionize the County Court system with crudely drawn and utterly inadequate provisions. If a task of this kind is to be attempted let it be done cautiously and carefully, either by a Commission or Board of Judges and Barristers. In its present shape the Bill is most difficult to understand, as it provides no directions for the working of the new machine. To pass it as it now stands would be, to use a nautical metaphor, like setting a ship afloat on an unknown sea without chart or compass.

The Prince of Wales contemplates a sea voyage as soon as pleasant weather sets in. The royal yachts Victoria and Albert are now being re-fitted for the Prince's convenience, and during the month of April his Royal highness will embark for a cruise in the Mediteranean to the Maderia Islands.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Mr. Vernon Harcourt perhaps better known as "Historicus," is writing a series of letter to the Times urging a retrenchment of public expenditure.

—Mr. Crooks has given notice of a Bill to enable matters to be proven under oath for the purposes of the Legislative Assembly. This will enable Committees of Enquiry, such as that in connection with the Wood slander, to examine witnesses under oath.

—An item recently went the rounds of the press stating that Mr. Gladstone had caused to be excised from the Christmas pantomines everything reflecting upon him and the members of his Cabinet. Mr. Bodham Donne, Examiner of Stage Plays to the Lord Chamberlain denies the truth of the statement, and adds that he treat the manuscripts of the plays as he has been in the habit of treating other manuscripts during the past 14 years, cutting out from them all allusions to personal or personally political questions as well as passages or words, names and phrases likely to give offence on religious or moral grounds.

—Mr. Blake's bill to make further provisions for the election of members to fill vacancies in the Legislative Assembly, will provide for the issue of writs where a member resigns or an election is declared void by the Judges, and there is no Speaker to issue the writs under the present law, as was the case before the opening of the present session. Mr. Blake also has a bill to allow parties to institute suits against the Crown by petition of right. As the law now stands, such suits cannot be instituted except by consent of the Crown.

—A correspondent of the Montreal Witness lets us into the secret of how coal dealers in that city defraud their customers out of their due. The drayman takes a load to the public scales which weighs 2,100 lbs., for which the public weigher gives a ticket. This load, instead of being delivered to the customer, is clandestinely returned to the yard, when a second load is sent to the scales and found to weigh 1,800 lbs. This is then delivered to the purchaser, but the carter takes care to give his victim the ticket for the first load, and thus cheats him out of 300 lbs. The third load is next sent to be weighed and found to be 1,400 lbs. but is delivered to the purchaser with the second ticket for 1,800 lbs. this time cheating him of 400 lbs. &c.

—At a meeting of the book trade in New York recently a brief report of which was telegraphed, Mr. Appleton submitted a draft of a Bill to be laid before Congress. It proposes that no person except an American publisher shall hold a copyright of a foreign book in the United States—he only as the assignee of the author; that the book thus protected shall be in every part manufactured in the United States, and of home-made material; that all foreign editions of such works shall be absolutely excluded from the country; that no dictionary, encyclopædia, or other work in which a number of literary men are engaged, shall be protected; and to obtain any protection the book must be registered in this country and published here within three months after its original publication.

Re-Building Chicago—Further Revelations of Frauds by Tammany—The Governor of Utah's Veto—Senator Sherman—The Revised Tariff.

(Per Dominion Line.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 29.—Mayor Medill has vetoed a resolution by the Council to permit the completion of half finished frame buildings in the fire limits.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—The Times will publish to-morrow seven columns of figures derived from the investigation of the Committee of Seventy, showing in detail the alleged fraudulent transaction of the Department of Public Works when under Tweed's management in the purchase for supplies. It says thousands of dollars were thus obtained from the Bureau of Supplies on fraudulent vouchers approved by Tweed and certified to by his subordinates acting under his orders. The Committee of Seventy have established the fact that supplies furnished to the city from Tweed's department, except in very few instances, were purchased under his personal direction. The total amount of supplies furnished under the executive to be published is $1,666,525.

SALT LAKE, Jan. 29.—In the Council to-day the reading of the Governor's veto on the admission bill was followed by groans and hisses. The members spoke of it with mingled anger and contempt.

The Agriculturalist who at the Oakland Agricultural Fair put in a jar of castor oil for the honey premium, did not get even an honorable mention. The judges report against keeping bees near castor bean plantations.

Senator Sherman is cultivating the German interest. The tariff bill puts Bologna sausage and sour krout on the free list, and by the way the Telegraph had it that "shoemaker's wax, raw, dried or preserved in sugar," would be admitted free.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Letter from Mr. Bright—Strike of Colliers—The Jockey Club and the Germans.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—At a meeting of the electors of Birmingham last night, a letter was read from the Right Hon. John Bright, in which he expressed the hope that he will be able to attend a portion of the forthcoming session of Parliament; he also advises the efforts to decrease the expenditure of the Goat.

A large number of colliers have struck work, and disturbances are apprehended at Blevaron. The military are now under arms.

A motion submitted at last evening's meeting of the Paris Jockey Club, for the exclusion of all Germans, was rejected.

CARBOLIC ACID AND RINDERPEST.—Dr. Hope, in a communication to the British Association, stated the result of certain experiments upon cattle with carbolic acid, during the prevalence of the rinderpest in 1857. Of about 270 cows under his charge, the majority were attacked by the disease; but by injecting a solution of carbolic acid, he was enabled to save one hundred and eleven. Of the remainder, not so dealt with, died, or he had to be slaughtered. For this reason, he argued that the chemical treatment of contagion is much better than the medicinal, both in respect to man and adult animals.

CANADIAN ILLUSTRATED NEWS for January 27th. 10c. Geo. E. Desbarats publisher; E. Stacey, Kingston.

The present number keeps up the deserved popularity of this admirably conducted picture paper. With other beautiful illustrations are given the portraits of Sir Wm. Jenner, Dr. Gull and Dr. Lowe, the Prince's physicians at Sandringham, and of Mme. Albani, the Canadian Prima Donna, who has won such signal successes on the Continental stage, and whose debut before an English audience at Covent Garden Theatre is eagerly anticipated as a musical treat.

HARPER'S BAZAAR for February 3rd. Harper Bros., N. Y. 10c.

HARPER'S MONTHLY for February. Harper Bros., N. Y. $4 per annum.

This is an unusually good number of the best of American monthlies. The amount and quality of the matter which it puts before its hundred thousand readers is a marvel, considering its price. The number before us contains 160 pages of letter press and illustrations. A capital article with the true literary flavor, on the Scott Centenary opens the number. Equally good and attractively written papers on Holland and the Hollanders (continued), Old Books in New York, the Days of Queen Anne and a host of others, grace its pages. The opening chapters of Anthony Trollope's new novel, "The Golden Lion of Grandpere" are also given. No other magazine in the world of its price give its readers so much and so valuable matter.

DEMOREST'S ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY for February. W. Jennings Demorest, N. Y. $3.00 per annum.

The most liberal offers are made to new subscribers and clubs. Demorest's is one of the best, if not the best, conducted of the many Ladies Magazines of America. It gives its readers a large but carefully selected quantity of reading matter, is elegantly illustrated and abounds with all sorts of information about fashions and domestic affairs.

THE SUNDAY AT HOME for January, 15c. London. The Religious Tract Society. Kingston. John Henderson.

This is at once one of the most attractive and instructive of the semi religious monthlies. Its articles are all of the highest tone and cannot but be read with benefit as they undoubtedly will with pleasure.

THE LEISURE HOUR for January, 15c. Same Publishers. Kingston. John Henderson.

The present Number of this Magazine which is eagerly read by lovers of healthy and pure literature all over the English speaking world contains among a very attractive list of contents an article by the Rev. Dr. Wylie on Dr. Dollinger and the New Protest against Rome and a paper by Martin F. Tupper, the Proverbial Philosopher, on the Mystery of Existence. John Timbs the well known compiler and historian also contributes an essay entitled Thirty years of the Reign of Victoria. From these stray samples, the interesting character of this Number may be gathered.

WEDDING BELLS for January, $3, Kingston. John Henderson.

As the name implies Wedding Bells is a Monthly of light and amusing literature. It is choicely illustrated, each Monthly part also containing four fashion plates. The Number under notice contains the commencement of a new story by Miss Annie Thomas, entitled "Without Reproach." The readers of London Society will hardly be reminded that Miss Thomas is the authoress of the brilliant novelette "Played Out."

IMPORTANT PRECEDENT.—The Knickerbocker Life insurance Company, of New York, has just been obliged to pay the amount of a policy upon the life of a man who committed suicide. This is another proof that arbitrary enactments of corporations are binding only so far as they coincide with common sense.

RAILWAY PROSPECTS.—The people of the Maratime Proynces are determined not to be behind with schemes for new railways. Besides those in course of construction, others are projected between Annapolis and Yarmouth, Annapolis and Liverpool, New Glasgow and the Strait of Canso, from the Strait of Canso to Louisburg, and others in Cape Breton. These are all Nova Scotian projects, but New Brunswick is also waking up.

LITERARY SCRIPT & MANIFEST.—Some young scamps have, it appears, been in the habit of gumming the slide at the Post Office in St. John, N.B., thereby causing the written letters to remain where they can be easily picked out, appropriated if they contain valuables, or returned if they are of no use to the boys. With all the tricks on the Post Office, concoted outside and inside, it is not wonderful that letters and remittances should be so frequently lost.

RIOT AT BARCELONA.

MADRID, Jan. 30.—There was a disturbance at Barcelona yesterday, caused by resistance of the people to the payment of excessive duties. A large mob assembled at one of the city, and threatened the custom officers with violence. The police interfered, and some shots were fired. The rioters were dispersed with difficulty, but the city has since been quiet. Little importance is attached to the affair, which is purely local, and a renewal of the trouble is hardly to be expected.

MADRID, Jan. 29—evening.—Trouble is reported at Barcelona. There was a conflict in the streets and the military are now guarding the city.

NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 30.—A large number of spectators in the Senate Chamber were disappointed this morning at not seeing Senator Tweed in his seat. It is said he had sent word to the Committee on Privileges and Elections that it would gratify and accommodate him very much if they would make their investigations in New York city.

The Middlesex County Council passed a resolution offering a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of Riel, the murderer of Thomas Scott. A collateral resolution was to-day adopted, requesting the Ontario and Dominion Governments to offer rewards also to the same end.

Smuggling has been carried on to quite a large extent at Detroit for some time past. The bulk of this business is done by women, who take advantage of the reluctance of the officers to search them to keep up a profitable contraband trade.

The Port Hope Guide tells this good one: Mr. Lancaster, pound-keeper, Hamilton Township, had a little lamb, which went astray some months ago. Afterwards in the discharge of his duty he impounded an innocent sheep, which he subsequently advertised for sale—the costs amounting to about seven dollars. He was somewhat startled and chagrined the other day to discover that the impounded animal was his own lamb. He is certainly an impartial pound-keeper.

One of our oldest Canadians, the Hon. Etienne Mayrand, died at Riviere du Loup, on the 22nd inst., at the patriarchal age of 96 years. Mr. Mayrand was an old Colonel in the Militia and served with the rank of Major in the war of 1812. He was a member of the Special Council under Lord Sydenham, after the troubles of 1837 and 38 he was named a Legislative Councillor under the constitution which succeeded to the Special Council; and always was a conservative in politics.

In the old coaching days of 1834 Charles Dickens was reporter for the Morning Chronicle, and used to make expeditions to and from the country at a thundering pace to take down the speeches of parliament men. "There never was," he wrote, "anybody connected with newspapers who in the same space of time had so much express and postchaise experience as I. I have had to charge for half a dozen breakdowns in half a dozen times as many miles. I have had to charge for the damage of a great coat from the drippings of a blazing wax-candle in writing through the smallest hours of the night in a swift flying carriage and pair. Such being the ordinary results of the pace to which we went at, I have had to charge for broken hats, broken luggage, broken chaises, broken harness, everything but a broken head, which is the only thing they would have grumbled to pay for."

Alabama Claims.

The London Times of the 3rd instant draws attention to the British case on the Alabama claims. It states that the following plea has been made by England: No serious endeavors to intercept or capture either the Alabama, Georgia, Florida or Shenandoah, during the time of their respective cruises, appear to have been made by the United States Government, and the losses inflicted by them would probably have been in a great measure averted had reasonable activity and diligence been exerted by that Government and its officers for that purpose. In conclusion, the Times says:—"We contend generally that England did her best to perform her duties as a neutral; that the allegations of Mr. Adams were invariably attended to and investigated, and in the greater number of cases he was proved to be mistaken; that during the four years of the war no vessel armed for war was procured from British ports; that the Government not only showed due vigilance and activity, as in the seizure of the Alexandra and the two rams, but even overstepped the limits of recognized obligations at great cost to the nation."

In Lafayette, Ind., a young man gave a woman his note for $500 as a balm for wounded honor, and afterwards married her for the purpose of getting possession of the note. He then destroyed the document and left for parts unknown.

It is exactly one hundred years since the "Encyclopædia Britannica" was first issued in Edinburgh. The second issue was in 1776, under the editorship of James Tytler, a Scotch printer, who remained nearly all his life in a state of abject want, caused by his drunken and dissolute habits. Whilst laboring on this work he lodged in the house of a washerwoman, and wrote his articles surrounded by his children, with an inverted wash-tub for his table. In one small mean room, lived the whole of the family, and in the room stood a press, made by Tytler's own hands. He often stood at a case of type composing pages, or condensing matter from a volume lying before him. He commenced, in this way, a periodical called the "Weekly Review," but being unable to support it, it fell into other hands.

A SINGULAR CASE.—A case of death from hydrophobia is puzzling the Chicago doctors. The victim declared in his rational moments that he had never been bitten by a dog. Some cases of this kind, well authenticated, are on record, and have led to the admission by some authorities of a hydrophobia of spontaneous origin. Such cases are, however, very rare, and it is generally supposed that in them the origin of the inoculation has escaped notice. The disease may be propagated by swallowing a very small portion of the saliva of a mad dog, and it is possible the Chicago case may have originated in this way.
