Daily British Whig.

FRIDAY EVEN'G, APRIL 5, 1872.

IN GENERAL.

—Bismarck's pet daughter is sewing frills for her wedding.

—Boston affords a livelihood for very nearly 800 lawyers.

—The centenary of Wordsworth, the poet, will occur April 7.

—The ex-Queen of Hanover has renounced the world and become a nun.

—Seven hundred carpenters in the town of Verviers, Belgium, have struck work.

—A squirrel in a revolver cage runs a sewing machine in the show window of a Saratoga shop.

—It has been said by a lady that church socials are a cross between a Sunday School and funeral.

—There has been less snow fallen the present winter at Mont Blanc than for any time during the last twenty-five years.

—Clarksville, Pike cy., Mo., has a young gent with a hole in his back, and a lady who exclaims, "I did it with my little pistol."

—The expression of sorrow at the death of Prof. Morse is universal, and public bodies of all kinds in the United States are giving it expression.

—Ear trumpets of a wonderful construction, by which sounds can be heard at the distance of a mile, are to be shown at the Vienna Exposition.

—The last sensation at Paris is the discovery of a copy of the Constitution of the French Republic of 1794, bound in the skin of a victim of the guillotine.

—A rash contributor commences a poem of 37 verses with "Hail Gentle Spring!" Now we hope gentle Spring will do nothing of the kind, because she has already been gentle enough without hailing.

—Old Winter no longer reposeth his cocoanut in Miss Spring's lap. She got sick of such fooling and made him "get up and travel." She now, in all her beauty and loveliness, stalks about in the mud.

—It is "the thing" now for newly married couples to make a wedding tour round the world. The Chicago Post thinks it can imagine how exasperating the wife will be to be able to talk about the Deys she has seen at Algiers and the Knights at Malta.

—The ancient Jewish year opened from the 25th of March, and in England it was not until 1752 that the first of January became the initial day of the legal year. In Scotland the change was made in 1600, by decree of James VI. It was effected in France in 1564, in Holland and Protestant Germany in 1700, and in Sweden in 1753.

—The house cleaning season is near at hand. It is the time when "the woman has her own way in the house, while the 'old man' takes his solemn repast from the top of the flour barrel, and in sleeping enjoys the freedom of the interval between his bedroom and the front fence. It is a season of meditation, whitewash, and calm unimpassioned profanity.

—Mr. Joseph Gillott, the English steel-pen manufacturer, who lately died of pleurisy, was the first to use machinery for making steel pens. The present annual production at Mr. Gillott's factory is estimated at 150,000,000, and the number of work people employed 450. He leaves behind him one of the finest art galleries in the country, valued from £80,000 to £100,000.

—The child of the period seems to be bent on suicide. In New York, he steals a few dollars from his father, is racked by remorse, and blows out what brains he has. In Michigan, he robs his employer and hangs himself in his room, after writing a letter all penitence and shame. In Missouri, he is scolded by his mother and draws his father's razor across his throat. In Illinois, the child is feminine, and drowns herself because her twelve-year old gallant has been treated rudely at her home.

Attempted Assassinations

The Pall Mall Gazette states that the record of attempted assassination goes to show that it is rarely successful when even skilled men attempt the lives of great personages. In 1858 Pianori, who was subsequently guillotined, actually seized the bridle of the Emperor's horse in the Champs Elysees, in spite of innumerable police agents in private clothes who constantly accompanied him in his peregrinations, and fired a pistol a bout portant in his face. The muzzle was so close that the shot burned the moustache, but missed its aim, and yet Pianori was reputed one of the best shots in Italy and France, and had practiced constantly for two years. Orsini's bombs were hurled at the Emperor's carriage before the Opera at a distance of four paces, and produced no effect, except that of killing several persons who were standing at a considerable distance from the carriage. The Pole Barezowski's attempt on the life of the Emperor of Russia, which took place in 1866, during the Paris Exhibition, was made under equally favorable circumstances. Barezowski fired almost under the wheels of the Imperial carriage with a six-barrelled revolver; but an equerry-in-ordinary, M. Raimbaldt, perceiving the danger, made his horse rear, and the bullet intended for the Emperor Alexander struck the animal in the chest. Even then the pistol was misdirected, and would have done no harm. Another striking instance to the same effect was presented by young Blind's attempt on the life of Prince Bismarck. Blind was a first-rate marksman—he had won the Wimbledon Cup—and although he discharged the six chambers of his revolvers while grapping with the German Chancellor none of them took effect. There are many more instances of attempted political assassination, admirably contrived, and executed by fearless persons, which have one and all failed on account of momentary emotion when the deed was being attempted.

About Hair

Red hair, some years ago, was not admired; yet now it is almost as much esteemed as yellow, as barbers—we beg pardon, 'crinologists,' as they term themselves nowadays—by means of certain 'charms,' can produce upon it a beautiful golden yellowish sheen, that out-yellows yellow itself. Red hair was always an object of aversion among the ancients. Ages before the time of Judas Iscariot red hair was thought a mark of reprobation. Typhon and Nebuchadnezzar are instances of this, the former who acquired it because he deprived his brother of the sceptre of Egypt, and the latter who bore it in expiation of his atrocities. Even the donkey-tribe suffered from this ill-omened visitation, according to the proverb of 'wicked as a red ass.' Asses of that color were held in such detestation by the Romans, that every year they sacrificed one by hurling it from a high wall. Black hair was not much esteemed by the Romans; but red was detested. Auburn or light brown was thought the most dazzling shade, as pretending intelligence, industry, a peaceful disposition, and a great susceptibility to tender passions. Castor and Pollux had brown hair; so also had Menelaus. The hair worn in estime was such as hung in long curling locks, like that of the celebrated Absalom. Paris, the Athenian, and Achilles and Ajax Telamon had fair locks; such also was the hair of Theseus, the Athenian. The Emperor Augustus, we are told, had been favored by nature with such an abundance of long curling locks, that no barber in Rome could produce anything like a successful imitation of it even. If our fair sex make themselves conspicuous by wearing hair from pagan heads, such as Chinese pigtails, Indian scalps, and Tongataboo chignarries, 'worked up' into Brobdingnagian chignons, the 'girls of creation' scorn the idea. In 1772, though in 1772 the most extreme as the exquisites of the time were dolls, wore a singular adornment to the chignon, only turned upside down, as it were, and the top part was called a 'troupee,' in the play of the 'Modern Husband' we read: 'I meet with nothing but a parcel of tonjet coxcombs, who plaster up their brains upon their periwigs'—alluding to the pomatum with which they were curled. 'Pig-tails were in vogue at one time, although we laugh at the Colonials of the 'flowery kingdom' for wearing them now. In 1772 nothing was thought of a man without that appurtenance; in 1870 the tail was unraveled and hung loose; then was tied and turned up in a knot behind; and toward the end of the century, wigs et id hoc genus went out of fashion.—Belgravia.

"Five minutes for Refreshments." Everybody who has travelled by railroad has heard the above announcement, and has probably suffered from eating too hastily, thereby sowing the seeds of Dyspepsia. It is a comfort to know that the Peruvian Syrup will cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia, as thousands are ready to testify.

The crown of womanly Beauty is an elegant coiffure. As this cannot be obtained without the use of some Hair Gloss or Restorer, even by the most skilful artiste, how much should the ladies feel themselves indebted to the inventor of the Great Hair Dressing of the age, Coco-Glycerine, which nourishes and beautifies the Hair, is deliciously perfumed, and leaves nothing to be desired in a toilet article. Ask for Coco-Glycerine. 14

The public are assured, through the columns of the daily press, that Parsons' Purgative Pills contain no injurious principle, but that they may be administered to children and the most weak and shattered constitutions in small doses, with great certainty.

Dr. A. Johnson, one of the most successful practitioners of his time, invented what is now called Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. The great success of this article in the cure of Bronchitis and all diseases of the throat and lungs, will make the name of Johnson not less favorably, if less widely known, than of Louis Napoleon.

For over twenty years "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers" have maintained their reputation for curing coughs, colds, and pulmonary diseases. Those suffering or threatened with any of the symptoms of bronchitis, or any of the pulmonary complaints, should at once give them a trial. They give almost immediate relief, and if taken in time generally effect a cure. Remember that a common cold or cough if not attended to, is often fertile to that distressing and fatal disease, consumption. Sold by all Druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cents per box.

A Question.—Why will people keep four or five ill-looking sickly horses to do the work that one good horse would perform? If the horse has the heaves, is broken winded, has a cough or cold, or his wind in any way affected; if his appetite is bad, or his digestive organs deranged, has a rough skin or is hide bound, we would in all cases recommend the use of 'Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy'—it never fails to benefit and always removes the disease; it is free from anything that can injure, and may be used at all times with safety. Try it and you will be satisfied. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hart & Co., is on each package. Nurtingale & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

DR. WHEELER'S
Compound Elixir of Phosphates & Calisaya.
There is no diseased condition of the body in which Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya, may not be used with positive benefit. Being a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, it acts physiologically in the same manner as our diet. It perfects Digestion, Assimilation, and the formation of healthy blood. It sustains the vital force by supplying the waste constantly going on, of nerve, and muscle, as the result of mental and physical exertion, enabling mind and body to undergo great labor without fatigue. Its action in building up constitutions broken down with Wasting Chronic Diseases, by fast living and bad habits is truly extraordinary, its effect being immediate in energizing all the organs of the body. Phosphates being absolutely essential to cell formation and the growth of tissues, must for all time be Nature's great restorative and vitalizer. Sold by all druggists at $1.
