S. WOODS.

MR. MACKENZIE'S ENEMIES.

If, as it would seem probable, that the Premier has instructed his Organ-in-chief to make no attempt to defend his policy, as that is indefensible, but to devote all its energies to slandering Mr. Mackenzie, the order is being well obeyed. No pains have been spared to obey instructions. Regardless of truth or decency, petty and malicious attacks have been made upon the member for Lambton with a view of damaging him in the eyes of the electors. The insurance humbug was harped upon until every body was disgusted, and resort had to be had to something else. We were then made acquainted with the damning fact that Mr. Mackenzie is a self-made man. Then he dismissed, so said the organ, a gardener, and the country was asked to rise up in their might and protest against such an inhuman act, which, if it was anybody's, must have been Mr. Mackellar's. Tho' each slander is immediately refuted no retractation is made, but a new one invented with persistent maliciousness.

Mr. Mackenzie, the other day spoke in favor of competitive examinations for the civil service, and the organ with aristocratic disdain inquires what business a self-made man has advocating such a system, and insinuates that an examination would be fatal to him if he were an applicant for office. Such petty meanness is contemptible in any case, but when the attack is made upon the best-informed man in the House it becomes simply ridiculous.

"Well-born, well-dressed and moderately well-taught," says the organ of blue blood, was the statutory qualification less than ten years ago to a fellowship in one of the best colleges at Oxford. We should have been less surprised at Mr. Mackenzie's advocating this compromise—though it was once remarked in our hearing that the party with which he acts could never hope to govern the country till they changed their tailors.

If the writer of the above had a grain of nous he would abstain from such writing as the above. If the cut of the clothes of Mr. Mackenzie and the gentlemen who act with him is made the subject of newspaper comment it is very easily conjectured that their enemies are very hard up for grounds for criticism. The people of Canada do not concern themselves about such trifles. But they do concern themselves about honesty and ability, and integrity, and for that reason Mr. Mackenzie stands so high in public estimation to-day.

Further on the Organ exclaims:

"Now, we have given Mr. Mackenzie's position our best consideration, and unless the key to it is in that suggestion we can only offer one more. "Every unknown thing is of exaggerated importance." We do not quote the terser Latin, because Mr. Mackenzie probably received his appointment in the Isolated Risk Company without a competitive examination."

Here again we have the mean insinuendo and a petty attempt to cast a slur upon Mr. Mackenzie's acquirements. The Isolated Risk Company is dragged into the discussion, of course. We have got so used to that sort of thing that its introduction into an article on Chinese politics would not surprise us. So tender is the writer of Mr. Mackenzie's ignorance of Tacitus that he translates the above out-of-the-place quotation. If the pedant had reflected a moment he might have considered that probably Mr. Gladstone has read the old historian, if Mr. Mackenzie has not, and yet approves of competitive examinations.

GREELEY'S NOMINATION.

Our afternoon telegrams bring word that Mr. Horace Greeley has on the sixth ballot been nominated by the Cincinnati Convention for the Presidency. The movement which has resulted in the nomination of Mr. Greeley was originated by Missouri Republicans last January, and has daily been gaining importance, owing to defections from the Republican ranks, and the indirect sanction of Mr. Charles Sumner and his friends. The principal plank in the platform of the movement is administrative reform. It was thought that Mr. Charles Francis Adams, ex-Minister to England, would have received the nomination as he was negatively popular, and not hampered with party associations. As Democrats are free traders Greeley's selection was considered improbable, as his decided protectionist opinions would render him unpopular with their party. But commercial questions would seem to have been sunk in the desire to secure the man who would be most likely to beat Mr. Grant. Mr. Greeley may be that man, but we are of the opinion that Mr. Adams would have polled a larger vote. However, it's all the same, as neither has any chance for the Presidency.

THE SUPERANNUATION FUND.

The compulsory contribution to this Fund by the employes of the civil service is the cause of much dissatisfaction, as was stated in the House by Mr. Joly, on Wednesday last. The amount deducted, it is claimed, is too large for the purpose required, and a large surplus is in the hands of the Government, which Mr. Joly argued should be returned to those who contributed it, or divided amongst the widows and orphans of civil servants who are dead. The amount deducted yearly is four per cent. on salaries of or exceeding six hundred dollars. The superannuation allowance is payable after ten years service, and the attainment of sixty years of age, or being incapacitated by bodily infirmity from discharging the duties of office. A service of ten years secures ten-fiftieths of the average salary of the last three years of service, and an additional fiftieth is given for each additional year up to thirty-five years. If a clerk entering the service at the age of twenty-five pays four per cent. for thirty-five years on his average salary of say $1,000, he will have contributed $1,400, or $40 a year to the Fund, and be entitled to a superannuation allowance of seven-tenths of his average salary for the last three years of his service, but if he should happen to drop by the way his wife or children receive nothing. This tax bears heavily on many of the civil service officers, as it deprives them of the means which they might otherwise devote to life insurance. A glance at the tables of a life insurance company will show that much more liberal provision for a rainy day could be had by paying the same amount to it instead of into the Government Fund! If the tax is to be retained at all, let the benefits of the Fund be extended to the widow and children. It is manifestly unfair that if a contributor to the Fund die, his wife and children receive nothing out of it.

Those Trees.

(To the Editor of the British Whig.)

"A number of trees have been planted by the Corporation on Barrie street along side the Cricket Field fence. It cannot be intended that any of them shall grow; as the manner they were planted, or stuck in the ground, will prevent any such result. A small hole was made, about eight inches deep, and the roots of the tree crammed into it, the earth was then thrown in and tramped down, very simple process, and if the trees should by chance live it won't be on account of proper planting."

The above paragraph appeared in the WHIG of yesterday, and surprised me not a little, for in my opinion the trees were well planted in every particular. Although the holes may not have been more than eight inches in depth, they certainly were large enough to admit the roots and fibres of the trees without crowding. Your informant cannot be posted in tree planting for if he were he must have known that trees do not require to be deeply placed in the ground to insure their growth. The person who planted the trees—the caretaker of the Park—has been brought up to the business, and understands it thoroughly. As an evidence of his success I beg to refer you to "Park Avenue," planted by him, where not one tree failed through any fault of his, which caused a Rochester nurseryman to remark that "he would guarantee any of his trees to grow that Mr. Alex. McCabe would plant," and I will add my humble testimony in Mr. McCabe's behalf, and assert that there is no more efficient man in his business or one more careful or painstaking.

Yours, &c.,
M. FLANAGAN.

ESCAPE.—Last night Mary Elliott, incarcerated in Napanee Gaol, made her escape, it is believed with the collusion of some one in the Gaoler's or Turnkey's employ. One woman inmate had just been locked in for the night. She saw the person who locked her up assist Mary Elliott to escape. The Napanee constables have been very busy ever since with no success. The prisoner was charged with connection with the Bath abortion case.

TREE PLANTING.—Through the taste and enterprise of Mr. Thos. Robinson, Mr. Thos. Briggs, and other gentlemen the block on Clarence street, opposite the Post Office, is to have a fine row of young trees. We hope they will not be abused by malicious boys.

OTTAWA

THE TREATY BILL BEING PREPARED FOR TO-NIGHT—MR. HOLTON'S MOTION—LIEUT.-GOVERNORSHIP OF MANITOBA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, May 2.—Sir John Macdonald was absent from the House all day yesterday. It is understood that he was drawing up the bill to give effect to the Treaty, which up to this had not been drafted.

Mr. Holton's motion yesterday respecting the appointment of Judge Johnston to the Lieut.-Governorship of Manitoba, was deferred by the standing rules of the House, which prescribe a different class of business on that day after six o'clock. It will come up again on Monday, and if pressed to a vote will undoubtedly be carried. Mr. Holton will not withdraw it unless the Government acknowledge the principles it embodies, and this Mr. Cartier declines to do. He may, however, back down rather than meet the condemnation of the House.

The Government organ here announces this morning that Mr. Archibald will continue in the office of Governor till another appointment is made. Mr. Macdougall has some expectation of getting it. It is between him and Mr. Morris.

If Sir John be not ill he will to-day introduce the Treaty bill, and defend his position. The leading members of the Opposition will probably speak upon it, but the main discussion will be deferred till the second reading.

Sir George E. Cartier was unable to say last night when the bill respecting the readjustment of seats would be introduced.

Members are beginning to see that the session will be longer than was at first anticipated. There has been yet very little of the real work of the session done.

COTEAU LANDING.

New York, May 3.—Mr. Greeley received the first intimation of his nomination from a press despatch, which has been bulletined a few doors from the Tribune. As soon as bystanders read it, they ran to the Tribune office and shouldered Mr. Greeley. He appeared in the Counting Room and the office rang with cheers. He bowed and cries of speech. He would not respond to but passed into his private room and locked himself in. An army of reporters made determined assaults on the door with their knuckles, but he refused to open and be interviewed.

The Convention adjourned at 2.50 p.m.

GARDEN ISLAND.

GARDEN ISLAND, May 3.—The schooners Bermuda, Jennie Rumball and E. W. Rathbun, with staves from Hamilton, arrived to-day. They report large quantities of ice between the Main Ducks and here. NEW YORK, May 3.—A London telegram from Madras reports a fearful hurricane which swept over that city and surrounding districts, destroying to a large extent shipping and other property. The sea beach for miles along Coromandel coast was strewn with wrecks, and many houses in the city were levelled and trees torn up. The storm prevailed in Bay of Bengal, sweeping everything before it. The hurricane appears to have been over a large portion of the western coast, and numerous shipping casualties are reported with heavy loss of life. The damages at Madras were nearly one million pounds sterling.

CANADA AND THE TREATY.

LONDON, May 3.—The Times, discussing the attitude of Canada with regard to the Treaty of Washington, some which censures the conduct of the Home Government in its treatment of the Dominion, and hints that it might be beneficial to the world if England were to absolve Canada from her allegiance to the mother country.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—The Ballot for Presidential Congress stood Adams 230, Turnbull 110; Davis 92½; Greeley 147; Brown 95; Austin 62; Chase 2½; total number of votes 674; necessary to choice 308. No choice made. It is understood that Pennsylvania will go for Greeley as soon as they have satisfied their obligations to Davis, or whenever it is necessary to defeat Adams.

LATER.—Greeley nominated on the 6th ballot.

English Liquor Law.

The liquor law question appears to puzzle our English cousins nearly as much as it has the reformers and legislators of the United States. For several sessions of Parliament this subject has occupied a good share of attention among the lawmakers of Great Britain, and has created no little strife within Parliament and without. Lord Kimberley has introduced in the House of Lords a bill which has been brought forward as a Government measure. This bill is founded on the principle of a regulated monopoly, and ties up the business of liquor selling in no end of red tape. Every new license must pass through three stages before it becomes valid. In counties the granting of a license is to be allowed to the magistrates at Petty Sessions. Then it must be confirmed by the magistrates at Quarter Sessions, and finally it has to be confirmed again by the Secretary of State. In boroughs the process is similar, with some variation in details. Licenses already granted may be renewed under existing arrangements. The hours for opening and closing public houses are regulated by this law, varying according to the size of the place in which they are situated. The police regulations affecting the liquor traffic are to be more stringent than at present, and the penalty for drunkenness is to be more strictly enforced. The general aim of the measure appears to be merely to bring the traffic under closer supervision of the authorities than heretofore.

The Affair of the Season.

The British Columbia Ball, at Ottawa, was without any exaggeration the most brilliant of the season. Nearly a thousand ladies and gentlemen were present, including Lord and Lady Lisgar, Sir John and Lady Macdonald, Sir Geo. Cartier, Hon. Messrs. Langevin, Tilley, Mitchell, Macdougall and Cockburn, Gen. de Raasloff, of Denmark, Col. Robertson Ross and all the Military staff officers in full uniform. Amongst Montrealers were Mr. Brydges, Mr. Lloyd, Col. Harwood, Mr. Walter Shanley and Mr. Thos. White. The Hall was handsomely decorated with flags and evergreens and appropriate mottoes. Of the latter the most prominent were "The West welcomes the East," "Union fait As force," and "Westward the Star of Empire takes its way." The ball was opened by Senator McDonald, of British Columbia, and Lady Lisgar, having for vis-a-vis Lord Lisgar and Lady Macdonald, the side couples were Sir Geo. Cartier and Mrs. Robertson Ross, and Sir John A. Macdonald and Mrs. Tilley. The Governor-General and Lady Lisgar paid a marked compliment to the gallant hosts by remaining till after 2 a.m.

FIRE.—On Friday afternoon last the house of Mr. Clinton Jenkins, formerly of this town, and now residing about two miles north of Odessa, was burned down. Mr. Jenkins was away from home at the time, and as no persons were around who could render assistance, Mrs. Jenkins could only save herself and children, with the clothes that were on them. In addition to the house and furniture, all Mr. Jenkins's seed grain, his mower and reaper, and other farming utensils were burned. Loss $1000; insurance, $600.—Napanee Standard.

—Brigham Young has made his reappearance in public among the saints of Salt Lake city. The prophet is reported to be in very good health and spirits, and has addressed to his people a sort of religio-political deliverance on the general aspect of affairs. He chides backsliders for failing to come down with their tithes at the proper time, and rebukes them for neglect of their duty to the poor. He says the prosecution may go on if its likes, and challenges examination into his conduct.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

FRIDAY.—Several new bills were introduced in the House of Commons yesterday.

Sir G. E. Cartier—To amend the Statutes of Canada.

Hon. Mr. Chauveau—To detach a portion of the parish of St. Felix.

Mr. Harrison—To provide for the collection of criminal statistics.

Mr. Harrison—To provide for the more speedy apprehension of fugitive criminals.

Sir G. E. Cartier—To facilitate an arrangement between debtors and judgment creditors, and to abolish preferences in favour of judgment creditors.

Mr. Holton offered a resolution, setting forth the illegality of the appointment of Judge Johnson as Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba, while he occupied the position of a Judge of the Province of Quebec. Sir George Cartier stated that the Government, seeing that objections had been made to Judge Johnson's appointment, had decided to cancel it, a discussion ensued, the Opposition members condemning the action of the Government in the first place as illegal, and in the second place an acknowledgment of the same by cancelling the appointment.

Mr. Dorion, who spoke for the first time during the session, showed that to say there was no salary attached to the office was a mere quibble. The House had voted $7,000 as a salary for the Lieut.-Governor, and no one could interfere with Mr. Johnson's right to his share of the money so long as he held the office. Mr. Johnson was not only receiving a double salary, but a large sum had been paid him for travelling expenses, his deputy being paid at the same time. The violation of law was therefore glaring and undeniable.

Mr. Blake followed, showing that not last year but in the present year the estimates framed by the Government contained a provision for Mr. Johnston's salary; and he charged them with not only violating the independence of the bench, but also with attacking the constitutional protectional thrown around the office of Lieut.-Governor, who was entitled to be appointed for five years, except upon cause assigned. They could not make any stipulations as to time or salary, as both were fixed by the law. If they could make and unmake judges and Lt.-Governors at pleasure, they could actually hold out a bribe to a judge. The recklessness of this proceeding might well make the country pause before trusting such men with its labors and interests.

Mr. Harrison followed, agreeing on the main point with Mr. Blake, and held that for no purpose should the entire sanctity of the judicial office be interfered with.

Mr. William McDougall agreed generally with Mr. Harrison, but took occasion to spirt a little venom over the the members of the Opposition, raking up the stale pretence that Mr. Blake had himself violated the constitution in Ontario by his own appointment to the office of President of the Council. Mr. Holton had concluded his speech with the assurance that he moved in the matter with no hostile intent; but the Opposition could not allow such principles as Sir G. Cartier had laid down to go unanswered by a vote of the House. Mr. Holton offered to withdraw his motion, if Sir George would withdraw his justification of an illegal and unconstitutional preceeding. Sir George clung to his former position, 6 o'clock was called, and the debate stood over. Had a vote been taken the defeat of the Government would have been certain.

After recess the motion for the House to go into Committee on Mr. Colby's Insolvency Bill led to a rather disorderly discussion, carried on with constant interruptions, and the introduction of points of order. At last a vote was taken on a motion by Mr. Anglin to postpone the Committee for three months. Yeas, 69; Nays, 77. The Committee, however, had only sat a few minutes when a member move it do rise. Then ensued an uproarious scene, as at the call of the chairman members changed sides, a series of struggles to capture or restrain one another ensuing between the hon. gentleman. The motion was declared lost; and then one to report the bill was put and carried.

Mr. Joly moved the House into committee on the resolution respecting the superannuation fees. A debate ensued which lasted till midnight, when the House adjourned.

The WATSON BROTHERS, the fame crowned Aerialists who in the contest at the Grand Assembly of Aerific Talent at Paris, in 1868, for the supremacy in hazardous Gymnastic Feats, won the Three First Prizes, (three costly Gold Medals.)
