Primrose and Violet

Primrose and violet down in the lane,
Trod in our footsteps so lightly of old,
I welcome you out of the earth again,
In your shaded purple and sunlit gold.

Only—if only the warm spring sun
Brought back the dead who died with the flowers
Ye are so many, and she was but one,
Who faded for ever from my earthly bowers.

Closed her blue eyes as the violet slept,
Sank with the primroses into the earth
None could awaken her, loud through they wept
She will not joy in the flowers' new birth

Primrose and violet! mine still in death
Those of your kindred she gave to me here;
Granting my prayer for her youthful faith,
And she had withered before they were sere.

Yet I must live, and must live for the right
It is for her and to see her again
And you—ye shall be where she lies this night,
And die on her dead heart, as I would fain.

RELIGIOUS ITEMS.

Dr. Burton, of the Park street church, Hartford, has had a question-box placed at the entrance of his church, into which honest inquirers are requested to drop their difficulties in writing, that their pastor may reply from the pulpit.

ENGLAND AND ROMAN CATHOLICISM.—Monsignor Capel delivered a lecture recently in St. Saviour's Church, Dublin, in the presence and under the patronage of the Lord Chancellor of Ireland and Lady O'Hagan, on "The gradual conversion of England to the Roman Catholic Church," which conversion, he said, was steadily progressing. This is the same Capel that figures in Disraeli's famous novel, "Lothair."

—At a meeting held in Glasgow on the 4th instant for promoting the religious and social improvement of the people in the densely inhabited localities, it was reported by Mr. Wm. Melvin that the Established Church was now engaged in raising a fund of £20,000 for church extension in the city; the Free Church a similar sum, of which £15,000 had been already subscribed; the United Presbyterians £10,000, besides a sum of £5,000 left by the late Mr. Henderson, of Park, for a church for the masses; and that the Congregationalists had the day before resolved to raise £6,000 for a similar purpose.

—The question of the use of instrumental music in public worship in the congregations of the United Presbyterian Church has again been raised. It is some years since it was before the Supreme Court of the denomination, and since then six or seven congregations in London and other parts of England have introduced organs or harmoniums to assist in the service of song on the Lord's Day. At present there is a resolution prohibiting the use of these instruments, but in consequence of the change which has taken place in the feeling of members in England, the practice to which we have referred has been winked at. Other congregations are anxious to follow in the wake of their brethren, but they feel a delicacy in doing so as long as the prohibitory regulation is unrepealed. To get over this difficulty, the session of Highbury Park Church, at a recent meeting of the London Presbytery, resolved to ask that body to transmit an overture or memorial from them to the Supreme Synod, which meets in Edinburg in May, in favor of the repeal of the Prohibitory Act.

SCHOOL INSPECTION

A correspondent of the New York Sun recently visited a female seminary, and here is his account of it.

The boss school master showed me round and the sweetest lot of lasses I ever saw were those lasses. They beat lasses candy. It was like looking at a great big patch of strawberries, all of 'em sweet, but here and there one of 'em a little bigger than the rest, and somehow I liked the biggest ones best. I told him that I didn't think this could be a good school.

"Says he: "Why?"

Said I: "There are too many misses here for correct lessons."

Then he called up a lovely girl in green merino, with yellow silk string around her neck, and she stepped up to a nice clean blackboard and took a piece of chalk and daubed it up. The boss exclaimed: "What do you think of that?"

I told him that any fool could make white mark on to a blackboard with a piece of chalk. "Give her a piece of charcoal," says I, "and if she makes them white marks with that, then she will be smart."

Then he said it was from memory.

"No?" said I. "You don't say that is from memory; what in thunder is the thing anyhow?" It looked like a specimen of kalsomining.

"Why," said he "that is the map of Asia."

"Drawn by a minor," said I. "That makes it Asia Minor."

Then he asked me what I took it for, and I told him I took it for a skating pond. Then ended the geography exercise and we went to mathematics. The boss told me to given 'em a problem to solve. I did, and I don't think they have solved it. I got up and said

"My dear young ladies, I propose to you the following problem, and I'll give you ten minnes to stick your fingers in your ears and to and fro to solve it. If it takes one hundred years for a hard shell clam to hop one mile on foot, avoirdupois measure, how long will it take a locomotive going forty miles an hour to reach its destination, apothecaries weight?"

They couldn't one of 'em do it. One wanted to know how old the clam was, another where the destination; in fact they wanted me to do the sum for 'em and I got disgusted and left.

OUR CANALS.—The New York Sun has the following remarks on the importance of enlarging the Canadian Canals:—The river St. Lawrence is a natural outlet to the vast extent of rich and productive American territory, and if the Canadians have sufficient wisdom and enterprise to render it accessible to American commerce by an adequate enlargement of the canals connecting it with the lakes, they will reap a rich reward, not only from the receipt of tolls and the advantage of their own carrying trade, but from the increased activity in every branch of business, which will naturally spring up along the pathway of so vast a traffic as can only be attracted to the Dominion by the exercise of a liberal policy.

IN GENERAL.

Lord and Lady Milton have arrived in New York from England.

Rev. N. McDougall, Presbyterian minister of Eldon, purposes emigrating to Manitoba.

Dr. John H. Graham, formerly of St. Francis College, Richmond, P. Q., is a candidate for Richmond and Wolfe, in the House of Commons.

The American Labor Reform League Convention met at Cooper Institute on Sunday. Extremely radical resolutions were read and discussed. Speeches were made in the morning, afternoon and evening sessions in favor of woman's rights, a graduated tax, and associative life, and against interest on money, land monopoly, rich drones, and the payment of the war debt.

The Harpers.

The friendly relations existing between employer and employed in the establishment of the Harper Brothers, New York, is something as remarkable as it is pleasant to reflect upon. The liberality of the house has been met with an appreciative and steadfast service, son succeeding father and brother following brother. Mr. Rosenquest, the manager of the bindery, learned his trade with them; his father was foreman in the department for 35 years. Mr. Farrington, of the paper department, has been with them nearly 52 years, has a son who is also in this service. Mr. Maash, the foreman of the composing room, has been in the employ fifty years; his son 18 years. Mr. Wm. H. Demarest, now chief cashier, was one of their apprentices forty years ago, and was preceded by his brother, Garardus H. Demarest who studied theology and printing together, and is now an active minister of the Universalist Church. One of the last requests of Mr. Wesley Harper, was that Mr. Wm. H. Demarest, among others, should be one of his pall bearers. And as further proof of esteem, it was intimated a short time ago, without any warning to Mr. Demarest, that he had been overworking and needed a rest; a six months' leave of absence was given, and $5,000 added to pay his travelling expenses. Such liberality is the concentrated quintessence of wisdom.

The Blood owes its red color to minute globules which float in that fluid and contain, in a healthy person, a large amount of Iron, which gives vitality to the blood. The Peruvian Syrup supplies the blood with this vital element, and gives strength and vigor to the whole system.

The crown of womanly beauty is an elegant coiffure. As this cannot be obtained without the use of some Hair Gloss or fixateur, even by the most skilful artiste, how much should the ladies feel themselves indebted to the inventor of the Great Hair Dressing of the Age, Coco-Glycerine, which nourishes and beautifies the Hair, is delightfully perfumed, and leaves no stain on the gentleman's waistcoats. Ask for Coco-Glycerine. 14

Chapped hands are very common with those who hands much in water. A few drops of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment rubbed over the hands two or three times a day, will keep them soft and white. Fishermen, sailors, and others will do well to remember this.

Carelessness.—Many persons neglect their horses' health and condition until it is too late, when a trifling expense and no trouble the horse might have been saved if attended to in time. To all who may have occasion to use an article of the kind we would confidently recommend "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy;" it is without doubt the best preparation in use, as thousands who have used it testify. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.
