THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

To-morrow, the 24th inst., will be the Queen's Birthday. The authorities of Kingston, both constituted and otherwise, have resolved upon keeping it as a holiday, according to usual custom. The authorities are undoubtedly right in the matter. In these times, when dynasties are changed at a few hours' notice, and kingdoms are created or wiped out of existence, at the caprice of fortunate Bismarcks or successful Moltkes, it is well to give our loyalty an occasional airing, and to refresh ourselves by a draught from the patriotic stream.

But, what of a celebration? This is a free country, and, therefore, we are left to make celebration just as we please. We are not to be trammelled by being forced to witness a formal celebration, the pomp and parade of the military, a turn-out of the firemen, a carnival of sports, a display of fireworks; but we are permitted to find fun in our own way, if we only can, and it don't rain. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, especially since he values his leisure so much as to go in for the nine hour movement, and the opportunity for recreation will not, therefore, be lost, but the time be thoroughly enjoyed. Pic-nics and excursions will be the order of the day, and Kingston Mills and Wolfe Island will have their many visitors from the city. The steamer Waterlooo makes excursion trips to Cape Vincent, and the Rochester another to Picton. Two more delightful pleasure trips could not be made.

The cricket match between the K.C.C. and the G.T.R.R.C.C. will be opened at 10 a.m., at the cricket field. This will be an interesting match, as the Kingston Club will be opposed by a strong team, and will have to play its very best to win. Many new members are joining the Kingston Club, and this makes up for losses of good players of last year who have removed. The eleven will be as strong as last year's, though it is not yet in practice.

The Concert of the Mendelssohn Club in the evening will be the rarest of enjoyments, and the City Hall will, we are sure, be crowded. Such Troupes do not visit Kingston every day.

WISE LIBERALITY.

Mr. Hitchcock, Massachusetts, has given $50,000 to Andover Theological College and $100,000 to Amherst College.—Exchange.

Though we have little admiration for the American people or institutions yet we cannot blind ourselves to the fact that greater liberality towards seminaries of learning is displayed by the wealthy men of the United States than by those of Canada. This, doubtless, is partially due to the larger fortunes amassed in the United States and the more even distribution of wealth in this country, but this is not the full explanation, for apart from this consideration it cannot be denied that Americans are more liberal with their money for good as well as for evil than Canadians. Churches, Colleges, schools of art, institutions to promote the public good, lyceums and kindred objects are liberally endowed by American generosity. The Cooper Institute, the Astor Library and Girard College are splendid monuments of princely generosity, directed by an intelligent regard for the true welfare of the founders' fellow beings. One can scarcely take up an American Newspaper without finding the record of the liberality of some American to the educational or benevolent institutions of his country. We in Canada can boast of no such liberality, although McGill and Morin Colleges were founded by private benefactors.

The reflections are brought up by a consideration of the condition of Queen's College and the well known wealth of some of our citizens to whom it is not improper to look for aid. As we pointed out recently the financial condition of Queen's College, considering the exceptionally severe trials which she has, in late years, undergone, is on the whole satisfactory and undoubtedly better than when in receipt of the Government grant. Its Chairs are filled by able teachers, it is wisely presided over and facilities for a first class collegiate training are afforded. Still for want of the necessary money its governors are cramped, and unable to make those improvements which from time to time have been and will be sought desirable. In order to lighten the demands now made upon its revenue, Principal Snodgrass a few weeks ago made a proposal of so liberal a character, that had it been offered in the United States, it would not long have remained unaccepted. The proposition was that if any person or number of persons would endow the chair of Chemistry and Natural Science, with at least $25,000, that the occupant of the chair would agree to deliver a course of technological lectures to the artisans of the city. This while conferring a boon upon the city beyond a mere money estimate, would relieve the College Funds of the demands now made upon them by the Chemistry chair, and afford room for the improvements now needed and which may be required from time to time. The proposal is a generous one, which deserves a speedy acceptance by our men of means, and one which, we think, it is but right to keep under public notice. Let some gentleman resolve to be his own executor, and erect a worthy monument to his memory by founding the Chair of chemistry and natural science in Queen's College.

CROWN LANDS IN FRONTENAC.

It having been stated, for the purpose of injuring the Ontario Government, that they had refused to make further Free Grants in this District, we caused inquiries to be made and now learn that the course, but a temporary one, was demanded by prudence and justice. During the administration of Mr. Steppen Richards and Mr. M. C. Cameron, and through their carelessness and mismanagement, many settlers were allowed to locate on Free Grant Land, but no record of the lands having been taken up was made in the Departmental Book. These settlers made improvements but having no settlement papers were liable to be ejected, to their great loss and injury, by any one coming upon the land armed with the necessary documents. These facts became known to the present Commissioner Scott, who saw the dangers to which the settler was exposed by the inefficiency of his predecessors in office, and stopped allotments until a thorough inspection of the Free Grant Districts was made. An Inspector was appointed to go over the Free Grant Lands and report those that were settled upon and those still unoccupied, in order that the grave injustice of ejecting settlers in good faith who had made improvements, might not be done under the cloak of departmental ignorance of the fact that they were on the land. That Inspection has been for some time past, and is still, we believe, carried on. When it is completed and the report of settled and unoccupied lands is made, the Department will resume alloting lands. The wisdom of stopping Free Grants under the circumstance, recited will be at once acknowledged. Instead of being ground for complaint against Commissioner Scott's administration it affords ample proof of his fitness for the post he fills, that he is thoroughly alive to the demands imposed upon him, and that while willing to afford every facility to the uncoming settler he is determined that no injustice will be done to the one who has entered on the land and made improvements in good faith.

RIGHTS OF PASSENGERS.

We learn from an American Telegram that a railway case of general importance has been decided in the New York law courts. The action was brought against the New York Central Railway, for damages for being put off a palace car for refusal to pay extra fare for a drawing room car when the ordinary cars of the drawing room train were full. The Jury were of opinion that the railway authorities acted wrongfully in ejecting the passenger, and awarded him $8,000 damages. The verdict would seem to be founded on common sense, as railway authorities clearly have no right to sell tickets, when their ordinary trains are full, and then refuse admission to the palace car unless upon payment of an extra sum. The fact that these "palace cars" are owned and run by parties other than those controlling the ordinary cars does not, we think, interfere with the correctness of the above decision. Though little attention is paid in our Courts to American precedents, the travelling public of Canada may take it for granted that when the ordinary cars are full they can demand a seat in the Pullman. Such a demand will be upheld at any vote in the Court of Common Sense.

IN MEMORIAM.

The Norwood, (Eng.) Times contains the following notice of the respect paid to the memory of a deeply lamented Kingston gentleman and Queen's College graduate:

"MONUMENT TO THE LATE DR. ALFRED ARMSTRONG.—It will be satisfactory to the patients of the late Dr. Alfred Armstrong, as well as to those who contributed to the monument to be placed to his memory in the Norwood Cemetery, to know that it has been erected, and reflects much credit on the establishment of Mr. Piper. The monument—which is of stone—is in the form of an obelisk, and bears the following inscription:—

"In affectionate remembrance of Alfred Armstrong, M. D., who died December 18th, 1871, aged 27 years.—This monument is erected by the voluntary contributions of all classes in Lower Norwood, as a mark of genuine respect to the memory of one whose noble simplicity, strict integrity, and kindness of character, endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. A staunch friend of the poor, he was beloved and trusted by them for his ever ready sympathy, unobtrusive benevolence, and sound practical advice.—'Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out.'—REV., III, 12c.

"There are few individuals who, after so brief a residence amongst us have passed away so universally respected and regretted. It is not the least gratifying feature in the monument, that it records the fact that this labour of love has been greatly promoted by the voluntary contribution of the pence of the poor, many of whom, we know deprived themselves of more than a meal in order to mark the estimation in which Dr. Armstrong's memory was held amongst them. We could relate incidents of a touching nature in elucidation of his kindness to the poor, but delicacy forbids us to unveil what his family might wish should be only known to their own circle. We believe a photograph has been taken of the Monument, and that a copy will be sent to each contributer, as well as to the nearest relations of the deceased."

ANOTHER STEAMSHIP LOST.

LONDON, May 23.—A despatch from Hastings announces that the North German Lloyd's steamship Baltimore, which arrived at Southampton yesterday, en route from Baltimore for Bremen, and subsequently sailed for her destination, met with a disaster which will probably cause her total loss, at twelve o'clock last night. When Baltimore was off Hastings she came in collision with an unknown steamer and had a hole 18 feet long and 7 feet wide stove in her hull. The water poured in rapidly and extinguished her fires, not, however, before the steamer had been run aground. Coast guards at Hastings soon came to the relief of the distressed vessel, and proceeded rescuing her passengers and crew, and landing them in safety. When the Baltimore went ashore she ran on a rock, and it is probable she will go to pieces.

Bound to Die.

A madman having thrown himself into the river at Waterloo Bridge, London, was rescued by the Thames Police, and taken to King's College Hospital. When about to be brought before the magistrates, he dashed through a window, sat outside, and cut his throat with a piece of glass, threw himself down headlong, and was killed instantaneously.

After four days' anxious and learned debate, the Lower House of Convocation, by a majority of 62 to 7, has determined "the confession of faith, commonly called that of St. Athanasius, should continue to be used in its integrity in the public services of the church."

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

May 22.

The early part of the session was disgraced, by an attempt on the part of Mr. O'Connor, under cover of a motion for correspondence, to prejudice the Reform party in the eyes of the Roman Catholics.

The motion was for correspondence between the Ontario and Dominion Governments on the subject of appointing Queen's Counsel in the former province. As to the question involved in his motion, Mr. O'Connor was fain to admit that he had no complaints as to the selection for the honor conferred of the gentlemen recently appointed Queen's Counsel nor did he state any arguments for assuming that the appointment was illegal.

The Premier then explained that there was no correspondence on the subject, a fact which probably no one knew better than Mr. O'Connor himself. The offender, however, did not escape so easily. Mr. Blake took him in hand, and in the most severe sarcasm, or irony, gave the lesser to understand that Mr. O'Connor himself was really an aspirant, or that honor he professed to complain had been withheld from others.

Col. Gray then resumed the discussion on Mr. Costigan's motion for the disallowance of the New Brunswick School Bill. He discussed the character of the bill, and urged that it did not essentially differ from the statute for which it was substituted.

Mr. Chauveau followed. He contended that the bill, if not unconstitutional, was the next thing to it, and that the spirit if not the letter of the Confederation Act had been contravened. He moved a further amendment, to the effect that an address be presented to the Crown, praying that the British North America Act might be so amended as to ensure to all denominations in the Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick the privileges they enjoyed previous to Confederation.

On the motion of Mr. Smith, the debate was adjourned to Wednesday next.

The adjourned debate on Mr. Bodwell's motion to change the Intercolonial Railway gauge to 3 feet 8½ inches was then resumed by Dr. Tupper, who opposed the change. He was followed by Mr. Shanly, who urged that it was too late now to make the alteration suggested, but pointed out how it might be gradually effected.

On a division, the motion was defeated by yeas, 51; nays, 88.

Mr. Blake then moved the second reading of his bill to provide for the holding of all elections on the same day. He called attention to the practice being already in operation in some of the provinces with the most satisfactory results, and presented other powerful arguments in favor of the proposed reform.

Sir John A. Macdonald replied, relying chiefly on the ground that an election law was passed last year and that it was not desirable to make any further changes before the forthcoming elections. He declared he should oppose all bills making any alterations in the electoral law during the present session.

Mr. Blake said a few words in reply, and demolished the Premier's arguments, and, a division being taken, the six months' hoist moved by Sir John was carried by yeas 81, nays 51. The bill was therefore lost. Mr. Blake then moved the second reading of his Bill to secure the independence of the Senate. He showed that the Senate was free from the popular check imposed by the necessity of election upon the members of the House of Commons. Yet the Government had fairly recognized the necessity for a very stringent law, in respect of the Lower House, which did not apply to the Senate. Sir John A. Macdonald replied declaring, in his usual style, that the attack on the Senate was un-British and uncalled for. After almost screaming himself hoarse in horror at Mr. Blake's proposal to prevent him from corrupting the Senate as well as the House of Commons, Sir John moved the six months' hoist to the Bill.

Mr. Mackenzie then justified by precedent the proposal of Mr. Blake. The question was, should the Government have power to send men to the Upper House when they could not sit in the House of Commons.

The House divided, and the six months' hoist was carried by yeas 91, nays 51, or a majority of 16. The House then adjourned at one o'clock.

The Scott Murder

With reference to the Scott murder case, the London Free Press says:—

"Until a conviction takes place the worst criminal on earth stands before the law an innocent man. Yet we have writers in the chief organ of the Grits denouncing as a 'murderer' one who has never been put on trial."

Yet we have the Free Press, and the men it supports, straining every nerve to prevent the alleged murderer from ever being put on his trial. They will not let him be tried, and then hold that until he has been tried he must be accepted as an innocent man. These Ministerial papers are very tender hearted about Riel, because he shot a man who was in his way; they don't care much about Scott, who was so foolish as to allow himself to be killed rather than be disloyal. These Ontario Tories would not have done so, and they can't see why Scott did.—Hamilton Times.
