THE CAMP.

Those who volunteer for a fortnight of camp life and think that it will be all porter and skittles, are likely to be disappointed. A good many grievances have to be put up with, and self-denial exercised. The fatigues of drill, sentry duty, camp routine and other various calls upon his time make the volunteer lead a busy and active life while under canvas. These, however, are essential to even playing soldier, and should be borne as pleasantly and cheerfully as possible. While this latter is recommended to the soldier those who like to use him for purposes of show should do their duty and see that he is properly housed and clothed. In some cases the soldiers at the Kingston Camp have no uniforms, and in others, no tents sufficient for their accommodation.

This is not creditable to our Militia Department, and shows what we have hitherto urged—that our military affairs are not managed with that care which the well-wishers of our Volunteer system would desire. M. Cartier is a Frenchman, and naturally fond of scenic effect rather than thorough efficiency and perfection of details. He could, we have no doubt, thoroughly appreciate a Grand Review, and keenly enjoy a March Past, while at the same time forgetful of what is required to secure them in perfection. If Volunteers, as a body, are to look well and feel well, they must at least be properly uniformed, and if they are to be healthy and active they should be properly housed. Wellington had a very correct idea of the strength of his men, when he said that it lay in their legs, and had greater faith in good boots than gunpowder. Nothing will make the lessons of camp life fall more heedlessly on the Volunteer than if he, at the outset, becomes conscious of neglect from those whose duty it is to look after his comforts. His comforts must necessarily be few, but he is entitled to a good coat, a good meal and proper sleeping accommodation, and negligence in providing these will naturally make him careless as to his own duty, and lose that soldierly spirit which life under canvas and the association with thousands of his fellows is otherwise calculated to engender.

THE HARBOUR.

Kingston has had to suffer another disappointment at the hands of the Ottawa Government, felt all the more keenly as it was by the invitation of the latter that she sent a deputation to the Capital to ask an appropriation for harbor improvement. It would have looked a shade more regular if we had been allowed to make the first move in the matter. The eager desire of the Government to learn the wants of everybody and to distribute the surplus before they were asked, had a rather suspicious look. But as we are told that it is not the correct thing to look a gift horse in the mouth, and as Kingston has fair, legitimate reasons for asking a share of the public money for the improvement of her harbor, we were glad to see the Government taken at their word and a deputation from the City Council and Board of Trade wait upon the Minister of Public Works to urge our claims in the premises. The deputation impressed upon that Minister the grounds on which they based their claim—that our harbor was the principal transhipping point between Chicago and the sea board, that it was situated upon the great water highway of the country, and that no harbor dues were imposed upon vessels coming to the port. The necessity of these vessels being properly protected during a gale blowing down the lake by a breakwater to be built at the expense of the Dominion was also urged, and the Minister returned a favorable answer, promised to send a government engineer to make the necessary survey and report. Well what has been the upshot of all this? No government surveyor has examined the port, as was promised, and consequently the government are practically in the dark as to the legitimacy of our claims. Notwithstanding this the Government put in the estimates the beggarly sum of $10,000 to be applied to—they of course in the absence of official information know not what. It is said that this grant is not altogether free from the taint of jobbery, but apart from that the folly of appropriating the above sum for the improvement of the harbour is apparent. Having promised to have it examined by a government engineer and be guided by his report, they have done nothing of the kind but blindly appropriate $10,000, when we are certain, that if the Minister of Public Works had given the question the consideration which is deserved and which he promises, a grant of $150,000 or other sum sufficient to build a suitable breakwater would have been made. Places to the West of us with nothing like in importance the claims of Kingston have received large grants for breakwaters and other harbour improvements, but the West has to be conciliated and soothed with Government patronage, while Kingston, which demands the breakwater as a right and not as a favor, has to put up with a trumpery gift of $10,000, the expenditure of which will render no benefit to the harbour or to the country at large, but will be used by one or two friends of the Government for their private advantage.

The disappointment, as we observed above, is all the more keen as it was the Government, not Kingston, first moved in the matter. The former were so elated, over the surplus which by pot-luck they found themselves unexpectedly in possession of, and so anxious to make things pleasant for the elections, that they begged parties to send in their orders, and they would be promptly filled. The first Parliament of Canada is over and the people of Kingston can see how their order has been filled. They must grin and bear it, however, for not another farthing shall they handle for their harbor until it again becomes necessary to conciliate them with generous promises. Other harbors, with not a tithe of Kingston's claims, can be improved at the public expense, but what is the use of expending valuable money in Kingston when it is safe anyway?

THE POPE AND THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT.—The Pope has again shown the aversion with which he regards the Italian Government. The Burmese Embassy on its return from Naples, asked for an audience. His Holiness agreed to grant one on condition that the members of the embassy were not accompanied by Capt. Racchia, because that officer belongs to the Italian Navy. The Burmese refused on these terms to pay their respects to Pius IX., and left Rome for London.

THE CAMP

The third day in camp is the hottest of the season. A circus usually brings rain, but the camp for the last two years has brought heat. Yesterday and to-day is the only warm time we have had so far in 1872. It is not very pleasant weather for fifteen or sixteen men to live in a tent.

The Colborne Troop of Cavalry arrived last night, having marched all the way from home in two days, having perhaps the roughest experience of military life of any corps in camp. The troop numbers 45 men of excellent physique and well mounted; considering their long march, they made a very creditable appearance. They will enjoy their rest to-day, most undoubtedly. The camp is now completed.

SQUAD DRILL is now constant, for two hours before breakfast, two hours before dinner, and two hours in the afternoon. There will require to be a great deal of drilling to wear some of the rough edge off the recruits of the present year, of which the force (which is not what it was) is mostly composed. Company and Battalion drill will, of course, soon begin, as Col. P. Robertson Ross will be here on the 25th (Tuesday) to inspect the camp, when, of course, a review will take place.

LAST NIGHT

in camp, was one of unrest. The hard drill had not then tired the men out and sleep, nature's balmy sweet restorer, was not eagerly sought for by some of the men. Many were up for a night's lark and were playful as kittens if not as harmless as doves. Some parts of the camp were a scene of jollity, and some luckless tents came down over the heads of those who unsuccessfully but very well-intentionally tried to go to sleep. About 1 a.m. even the fun was exhausted, and the camp sunk in peace and rest. But the outrageous whistle of a newly arrived steamer about 4 a.m. again aroused the camp, and the unquiet spirits were at their pranks again. The sound of reveille found all the men awake, and prepared for duty.

MUSKETRY PRACTICE

is regularly going on at the Barriefield Commons Butts. The 16th Prince Edward Battalion has been spotting the target.

A POST OFFICE

was opened at the camp this morning in a tent within the 1st Brigade enclosure by Mr. R. W. Barker, P.O. Inspector. Mr. Hy. Goodfellow, of the Kingston Post Office, is in charge of it, and will, we are certain, discharge the duty most efficiently. We think the convenience of the office will be appreciated. The city is now in easy communication with the encampment, having a frequent mail and two telegraph lines direct to headquarters.

is indulged in freely in the morning by the men. It is one of the many advantages of the camp that there is a safe shore and a clear harbor to bathe in. The sanitary effect of the baths will be good. There is very little sickness in the camp so far, Dr. Strange, Principal Medical officer, has sent one man to hospital to cure him of the measels of which he had more than a few. The general health of the camp is good.

VISITORS

to the camp of an evening when the Bands play, are numerous. An excursion across by water is the popular mode of "doing" the camp, as the nights are now these of charming moonlight.

"MORE TENTS"

is still the cry and the 14th Battalion is still looking forward to the arrival of uniforms. Even none of the usually neatly dressed cavalry are seen to wear sloughy hats and careless attire. Sixteen men to a tent is an actual state of unwholesome affairs in the 46th Battalion. A few men complained of bad coffee, but the blame is likely to be with the cooks.

14TH BATTALION.

Capt. Johnson is Captain of the day, and Ensign Kincaid Subaltern of the day. There is one decided opinion in camp, and that is that Captain Barrow makes a capital orderly officer, with lots of dash to represent the Staff.

ALEXANDRIA BAY

There have been more muscalonge caught this season than for six years before. The steamer Kelley has finally started on her regular trips between the Bay and Cape Vincent.

D. D. DARWIN, M.D.—This celebrated Physician cured J. C. Deveraux of Deafness and a ringing sound in his ears. Also a lady of Palpitation of the Heart. He warrants all cures as permanent. Rooms at Mrs. Spooner's Boarding house, till July 20th. He cures poor people free between 5 and 6 p.m. Office hours from 9 a.m., to 6 p.m.

Cricket Concert.

THE PORT HOPE BAND ENGAGED.

There was a great sale of tickets today and yesterday for this concert, to be given this evening. There is a first class programme of amateur and professional pieces.

The Band of the 46th Port Hope Battalion will be present, a rare treat in itself.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—The first moonlight excursion of the season, that on the str. Pierrepont last evening, was a delightful affair. It was also well patronized. The air was warm, for a change, and the music of Messrs. Montgomery & Scott's Quadrille Band, with the pleasant company, made the few hours spent on the steamer very agreeable.

TEMPERANCE.—The "Father Matthew" movement among the Roman Catholics of Liverpool, initiated a few weeks since by Father Nugent, Roman Catholic chaplain to the borough gaol, is rapidly progressing, and Foottit's Circus, in William Brown-street, in which the weekly entertainments are given, was last Saturday evening crowded to a greater extent than ever. Father Nugent presided, and was supported by Mr. S. G. Rathbone, Mr. James Samuelson, Mr. McArdle, and other public men of the town.

The annual dinner in connection with the Newspaper Press Fund was held in London. The Duke of Argyll presided, and made an interesting speech on the characteristics of the press and press men. Lord Houghton and the Attorney-General for Ireland were also amongst the speakers.

VERY LATEST

NEW YORK, June 21.—Arrived—Strs. Holland from Liverpool, and Washington from Brest.

GENEVA, June 21.—The representatives of Great Britain before the Alabama Claims Arbitration Tribunal have gone to Chamonix, where they will stay until to-morrow. The Americans have not left for Paris, as they intended doing, but remain in this city. It is believed that the reason for this change in programme of movement of the representation is that the supplementary articles to the Treaty of Washington upon totally new basis from the one submitted by Granville are now subject to negotiations between the English and American Governments. Chances for a satisfactory issue from difficulties which now surround the Arbitration are believed to be increasing.

QUEENSTOWN, June 21.—Arrived, steamships Scotia, New York and Hecla from Brest.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—It is reported and believed here that arbitration have arrived at the opinion that the claims of the kind known as indirect claims, are not subjects for award of money damages, and it is understood in view that this declaration American agent and consul will not press further our claims of that character.

London, June 21.—It is now stated that E. Smith, of the Atlanta Boat Club, lost both heats of the Henly sculling match yesterday, instead of one only as was at first supposed.

New York, June 21.—A Columbus, Ohio, despatch says that a large boiler in Ohio Brush and Wire Works exploded this morning, killing and wounding between thirty-five and seventy-five of the prisoners at work in the factory and destroying factory. Twenty-five persons it is reported were killed instantly.

BRIGHTON.

NOMINATION.

Brighton, June 20.—At a large meeting of the reform council of the East Riding of Northumberland, held at Codrington to-day, about fifty members were present, Mr. J. L. Biggar received a unanimous nomination for candidate for the Commons.

PICTON.

RAILWAY PROJECT.

Picton, June 20.—A large, enthusiastic and influential meeting was held here in the court house to-day, to discuss the desirability of building a railroad from this place to some convenient point on the Grand Trunk, and a resolution was carried by a large majority expressing a desire to have the road built.

Boston Peace Jubilee.

GRAND SUCCESS.

BOSTON, Mass, June 20.—There were over fifty thousand persons in the coliseum—thirty thousand being in the auditorium. The first piece was "Gloria," from Mozart's twelfth mass. Leutner's festival Overture followed. Madame Rudersdorff then sang "Let the bright Seraphim" which was greeted with prolonged applause. The Anvil Chorus followed, which, as usual, was received with demonstration of approval. Strauss next led the Chorus in his own Concert Waltz, "A thousand and one nights," carrying the audience by storm. Haydn's chorus, "The Heavens are Telling," followed, and was never better rendered. A fantasia upon the piano, by Wehli, closed the first part of the programme.

The second part was opened by Madame Leutner, who sang "The Magic Flute," and achieved greater triumph than has been accorded her since the opening of the jubilee. At this stage the band Garde Republicanne entered and was greeted with cheers, waving of hats and handkerchiefs and all sorts of friendly demonstrations. As soon as comparative quiet was restored the band under the leadership of Mr. Paulus, unexpectedly struck up Hail Columbia, when a scene of indescribable enthusiasm ensued; cheer after cheer drowned the music. Every one in the house rising and standing on the seats, and several baskets of flowers were sent to the band from the audience. At the conclusion of this demonstration, the organ and bands commenced playing the Marseillaise, when it appeared as if the great mass of humanity had almost become wild, so extravagant were the expressions of delight. The whole chorus orchestra, bands, organ and audience join ed in the French song of freedom. The audience kept on their feet and cheered until they were fairly hoarse. The French band followed with Yankee Doodle and Star Spangled Banner. They retired amid the cheers and plaudits of the audience. Lowell Masons hymn, "Tell us of the Night," was the concluding piece, and was grandly rendered.

SCULPTURE ON WOOD.—A process of mechanical wood carving has been introduced in Paris by Lauteigne. It is adapted to all kinds of wood, the harder the better, and consist in passing the wood through rolls or matrix cylinders, whereby any desired pattern is impressed upon the surface with a delicacy and effect that compare favourably with the work of skilled carvers, and at a cost almost nominal. The process is rapid, as ten superficial feet of finished work can be produced per second. Thus any design for ornamentation with wooden surfaces can be carried out economically, whether in intaglio or in relief.—Mechanics' Magazine.

Kingston vs Brockville

The Cricket match yesterday between Brockville and Kingston, resulted in a glorious victory for the K. C. C., Brockville was well represented, but the Kingston eleven, as a whole, was one of the best we have seen on the ground for years. The time for pitching wickets was sharp ten, but, as usual, it was half-past eleven when the first ball was delivered.

Brockville having won the toss, sent Kingston to the bat, and Hickey and Galloway put in an appearance against the bowling of Sewell and Peden. They made a capital stand, and by their steady play did much to prepare the way for the others. In this innings we noticed some fine batting, Galloway, Grylls and Alexander being prominent, making respectively 10, 9 and 9. Grylls made a fine hit for three, and Alexander, with C. Smith, run the score up fully thirty runs. Jones and Corbett did well, but were rather unfortunate in the first innings. But the laurels of the day were carried of by C. Smith, whose batting (not to speak of his bowling) was the best we have seen for a long time on Kingston ground. In the first innings he carried out his bat for 23 runs, including a 4 and a 3, both clean hits off fast bowling. In his second innings he again distinguished himself, making 30 runs, and all but carried his bat out again. The bowling of Peden and Sewell was excellent, and the fielding generally was good, except the long stopping, which was not up to the mark on either side, but the bad ground, especially at the lower end, is a fair excuse for the number of extras.

Brockville sent the Peden Brothers to the bat, and they commenced scoring with a rapidity that made things look blue for the K.C.C, but they and their three successors disposed of, the wickets went down in short order, and the innings closed for 35, to which W. Peden contributed the highest number, 7. The Brockville Club being one man short, had the services of Dr. Van Allen, one of the best cricketers west of Toronto, but he was unfortunate in both innings.

At the conclusion of the first innings a van was provided to convey the eleven and guests to the British American, where a capital lunch was served. Having done ample justice to the viands the party returned to the ground, and the second innings began.

A change was made in the field of the Brockville Club. Dr. Van Allen took the wicket, and the diminished number of byes shows how well he did his work. Some splendid catches were made by Bann during the day, but the fielding in the second innings of the B.C.C was not up to the mark, and contrasted very unfavorably with the good fielding of the K.C.C. throughout.

In the second innings of the K.C.C. Grylls again distinguished himself, getting 13 by free hitting combined with steady play. The same may be said of Tassie, who, with Corbett, effectually "collared" the bowling, so that a change was necessary. Corbett made some very fine batting, playing very carefully, and making some fine drives. Jones made a good score, playing very steadily. His leg-hit over the fence was loudly and deservedly cheered. The innings closed for 95 runs, leaving 148 runs to be made by the B.C.C. in order to win. Rather disheartened they made the attempt, but were only successful in getting 26 runs, which left the Kingstonians victorious by 121 runs. We must not omit to mention the excellent and effective bowling of Galloway in both innings, but especially the second. Smith bowled in his usual good style, and Bush, for the B.C.C., proved himself worthy when he took Sewell's place in the second innings. The best catches of the day were one left-hand catch by Bann, of Brockville, and two splendid catches by Fuller, of Kington, one of them one of the best we have seen for some time. The fielding of the K. C. C. generally was far superior to that of their opponents. The following is the score:—

CANADIAN SALT.—The reduction of the duty on salt by the American government from 18c. to 8c. per 100 lbs. has already caused a sensible revival in the salt interest of Huron. The new law comes into force on the first of July.

Lennox and Addington

BIRTH.—At Napanee, on the 14th inst., the wife of T. S. Carman, Esq., of a son.

STREET PREACHING.—On Wednesday evening a great crowd assembled at Napanee to hear preaching by the Rev. Mr. Smith, one of the Plymouth Brethren.

APPOINTMENT.—Dr. Ross, of Odessa, has received the appointment of surgeon to the Napanee Troop of Cavalry, and is with them in camp.

PIC-NIC.—Rev. Father Leonard promises to hold another of his grand pic-nics this year, at the Crystal Palace, Napanee, on or about the 10th of July next, the proceeds to be applied to the church fund.—Express.

A SERIOUS JOKE.—A good practical joke, though of a serious character, was practised by some young urchins who were out sailing on the river on Wednesday afternoon last. They had been observed paddling around the river by some parties, who entertained fears for the safety of the youngsters, and finally were lost sight of, and after closely scanning the river, observed the boat, near the shore, bottom upwards. An alarm was immediately given, and the river about to be dragged for their missing bodies, when the young rascals turned up, thinking they had played a good joke. They were taken home, got good thrashings, which served them right.—Napanee Express.

Sad Accident

We find in the Dublin Morning Mail a sad account of a yachting accident which occurred in the Bay of Dublin on Saturday, the 1st inst., by which Mr. Daniel O'Connell, a member of the Irish Bar, and Grandson of the "Liberator," lost his life. The deceased gentleman was a member of the Royal Yacht Club, and had engaged his yacht the "Peri," a little vessel of only six tons burden, in a single handed race, with four others. Although the weather was very stormy and the sea very rough, the boats put out against the opposition of all the experienced yachtsmen in the harbor; and on reaching the Rosbeg buoy, the "Peri" was capsized and sank, her occupant being necessarily unable to make any change in the sails. There was no assistance at hand and Mr. O'Connell was drowned. The other craft made the harbor with great difficulty.

The Toronto Mail involves a heavy loss every week. It commercially is a dead failure, advertising patronage being simply wretched. It is merely a campaign sheet, morally much less respectable than the defunct Toronto Telegraph was.
