"Let Us Have Peas."

They're gone, and but a lingering memory left
Of pleasant odors, redolent of mint,
And all the savory smells that do arise
From water, heated to the boiling point,
And filled with dancing specks of brightest green,
Whose every motion does so joyful seem
That we, perforce, must think they sentient are,
And welcome give to fork that soon will come,
And forthwith carry to cavernous jaws
Their plump and round forms.
Like true philanthropists, who sometimes make
A sacrifice of self, for others' good;
And pleasure gain by abnegation
A chastened memory left, with naught
Dyspeptic
To mar the roseate tints wherein 'tis wrapped
Nothing but that, and empty pods,
Robbed out of their rounded fullness and fading fast,
Into the "sere and yellow leaf"
With all our mundane pleasures thus it is, alas!
Ripeness and beauty to decay soon pass;
We strive the fleeting shadow seize; 'tis past,
And naught but memories, retrospective, last.
So 'tis with each our gifts, in varying degrees;
Life's greatest pleasures—and Spring's earliest peas.

Reception of Mr. Johnston, M.P.

(Montreal Herald.)

Last night a public meeting of members of the order and their friends was held in the Orange Hall, the R. W. Provincial Grand Master for Quebec, Mr. George Smith, presiding. The room was decorated in a very handsome manner, and the room was well filled, notwithstanding the fact of many members being out doing duty at the camps. About half-past eight o'clock Mr. George Smith entered the room, followed by Mr. Johnston, Mr. Clemon, of Ottawa, T. Saunders, M.P.P., E. L. Baird, chairman of the Reception Committee, E. Scott, R. W. Grand Secretary, Joshua Breadner, R. W. Deputy Master, and D. Browne, County Master, Montreal. During the entry of these gentlemen the parties stood on their feet giving rounds of Kentish fire.

The President then introduced

Mr. Johnston to the assembly, who gave a long and able address, in which he reviewed the progress of the order on the other side of the Atlantic, also relating his own experiences in regard to to the repeal of the Party Processions Act. He deprecated Home Rule, as also amnesty to the Fenian prisoners, which he had always opposed. He expressed his gratification at the manner in which he had been received at Quebec; also his reception in Montreal, which would ever be effaced from his memory. During the delivery of his address he was frequently interrupted with cheering.

Mr. E. L. Bond then, on behalf of the Montreal members of the Orange Order and Black Preceptory, presented an address to Mr. Johnston, to which he made a suitable reply.

Mr. Clemon, of Ottawa, spoke of the pleasure it had given him, as one of three delegates from Ottawa to receive Mr. Johnston to be a witness of the esteem in which he was held by the Brethren in Montreal. He said that the growth of the order in Ottawa was largely on the increase. He invited the members in conclusion to visit Ottawa on the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the Orange Hall.

Addresses were then delivered by Messrs. Sanders, M.P.P., E. Scott, E. L. Bond, D. Browne, Joshua Breadner, and James Burke, County Master of Huntingdon.

Three cheers were given for Mr. Johnston, Mr. Clemon, and the volunteers present, the meeting concluding with "God Save the Queen." As they left the Hall the gentlemen present were introduced to Mr. Johnston by Mr. Scott.

Lord Dufferin.

Our new Viceroy, like his two predecessors, is an Irishman. At the banquet given to his Lordship in Belfast, previous to his departure from Ireland, the Catholic Lord Chancellor O'Hagan spoke of the Governor General in the following handsome terms:—

"What was done for Lord Mayo of Dublin you are now doing for Lord Dufferin, under happier circumstances. We have proved there and here that, whether we be Conservatives or Liberals, we can recognize merit where it exists (applause). I am proud to have seen this day, and hereafter. I rejoiced at that sight in Dublin, and rejoice also I in this, independent altogether of the distinction personally conferred upon Lord Dufferin and his eminence and moral goodness; irrespective of all that I am proud of his appointment, because it demonstrates that Irishmen can fight their way in the battle of the world (applause.) It is a great fact—an encouraging fact—a fact that the people of this country ought to fell proud of. He is the third Irishman who have been successive Governor General of Canada (cheers). Mr friend, Lord Monck, a wise and sagacious statesman, proved his title to that eminence in days of difficult and trial. His successor, Lord Lisgar, a man eminent in public service, has been in less trying days in the same position. He was not tried to the same extent. We send now from the province of Ulster a man who, in the long roll of the governors of that country, will, I venture to say and prophecy with the member for Belfast, have his name ranked amongst the highest. Let me add this—and I will trouble you no more with the idle talk—other prophecy to that which was uttered by Mr. Johnston. I have felt a good deal at Lord Dufferin leaving Ireland and leaving the British Islands independently of the feeling which is generated by the loss of one who is a wise counsellor and a dear friend, because I have felt that we were losing more than a private man, more than a country man. He stood in an eminent position in the House of Lords; he stood in an eminent position in connection with the Government of this country. It was only a step from him into the Cabinet; and my hope and trust was that he would, not even with the highest distinction—even with the highest prominence in the way of fortune—have been relegated to any distinct dependancy, but that he would have remained to guard the interest of this country, and guide the counsels of the nation in the House of Lords. Well, he has acted like a spirited man will when called to do his duty in the interests of his country; and he will do it.

In conclusion Lord O'Hagan prophesied that Lord Dufferin will return from Canada confirmed in experience, stamped with the mark of successful administration, an approved statesman, and a man whom no government could do without; and that he would come back to take his place in the highest position in the councils of the nation (loud applause.)

THAT WOLF.—During the brief existence of the Maine liquor law a live showman (not Artemus Ward) made his appearance in ——, with a small, dirty, tattered canvas tent, a half-starved wolf, and a suspicious looking key. The admission fee of ten cents was cheerfully paid by a number of "old sports," who manifested a peculiarly strong desire to see this very common and villainous-looking specimen of the animal kingdom. But the oddest part of the show to the bystanders was that one particularly hard old case had pressed in to "take another look at that wolf" no less than seven times during the afternoon. The secret was at last revealed. After some unsuccessful attempts to start for home, he approached the tent door with an unsteady step, and handling his last dime to the showman(?), hiccoughed, "I b-b-live I'll take one more look at that wolf!"

The Recorder pertinently makes a hit in this way:—"What a great amount of respect the Tory organs have for the real and sincere Reformer." Probe this to the bottom, however, and it will be found that the 'real and sincere Reformer,' in Tory estimation, means the man who supports the Tory Government through a Tory candidate. The moment he expresses himself in opposition to Tory, sayings and doings, from that moment he becomes in Tory eyes, a Grit, a demagogue, and a humbug.—Ontario.

☞ Thousands of people are now carelessly allowing themselves to drift through the preliminary symptoms of consumption under the fatal delusion that they are troubled with nothing but a "slight cold." How necessary is it, then, that a cold should be cared for from its incipiency, and every exertion used to get rid of it. "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers" will stop the hacking cough in a few minutes, and by their influence on the bronchial and pulmonary organs all fears of dangerous results will soon be dissipated—but they must be taken in time. Sold by all Druggists and country dealers. Price 25 cents per box.

Everybody Says So.—That is all who have either used by others; all such, and they are only fit to judge, are unanimous in the opinion that "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy" is superior to anything of the kind heretofore or at present in use for coughs, colds, Thick Wind, and all diseases which affect the wind of horses. As a condition medicine it has no equal; there is nothing in it which can injure a horse whether sick or well—nor need the horse be kept from working while using it; it is just the article which all who own horses require, and which they should have constantly on hand. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.
