Ode to the Heated Term.

Oh for a lodge in a garden of cucumbers!
Oh for an iceberg or two at centre!
Oh for a yale which at midday the dew cumbers!
Oh for a pleasure trip up the Pole!

Oh for a little one-story thermometer,
With nothing but zeroes all ranged in a row!
Oh for a big double-barrelled hydrometer,
To measure this moisture that rolls from my brow!

Oh that this cold world were twenty times colder!
(That's irony red-hot it seemeth to me):
Oh for a turn of its dreaded colder shoulder
Oh what a comfort an ague would be!

Oh for a grotto to typify Heaven,
Scooped in the rock under cataract vast!
Oh for a winter of discontent even!
Oh for wet blankets judiciously cast!

Oh for a soda fount spouting up boldly,
From every hot lamp post against the hot sky!
Oh for a proud maiden to look up on me coldly,
Freezing my soul with a glance of her eye!

Then oh for a draught from a cup of "cold pizen,"
And oh for a resting place in the cold grave!
With a bath in the Styx, where the thick shadow lies on
And deepens the chill of its dark running wave!

Letter From Almonte.

(To the Editor of the BRITISH WHIG.)

DEAR WHIG,—Here I am at Almonte, enjoying myself. What about Almonte? you will, perhaps, say. Where is it? Well, my dear Whig, Almonte is on the Mississippi! Not Uncle Sam's Mississippi, dotted with steamboats, sailing craft, &c., &c.; but the Mississippi of our own Ottawa Valley, down which goes lumber which we sell to Uncle Sam; and on whose banks are raised many articles equally acceptable to that omnivorous nationality. Our Mississippi is an humble river, only about 150 miles long, and is content to bring down logs, sticks of timber, to turn mills, jump down precipices, flow through gorges, and brawl and babble along as fast it may, through woody dell or pleasant meadow, until at last, by main channel above, and "schyns" below the "Chats" Falls, it enters the Ottawa. Almonte is about twenty miles from its mouth, and owes its use to the manufacturing facilities which its position affords. The river here has a fall of about fifty feet, and, by two branches, forms an Island, on which are built a number of mills, &c. Here are cloth factories, flour mills, shingle and sash factories, and machinery for making sundry articles of household and domestic use and ornament. The largest and finest are those owned by the "Rosamond Woollen Company," Bennett Rosamond, Esq., President, with a capital of $300,000. The buildings, with yards enclosed, occupy about four acres, of which, say one-half, is covered with buildings. The motive power, furnished from the river in a fall of forty-seven feet, turns one Jouval Turbine and one Leffel wheel, together giving one hundred and fifty horse-power. The main building is six storeys high, and has twelve sets of machinery, six of English and six of American manufacture. It is lighted, when needed, by gas manufactured by suitable apparatus and appliances in the basement of one wing. The steam, &c., required is furnished by a style of boiler entirely different from anything which I had ever before seen. Globes of iron about eight or ten inches diameter, and cast in pairs, are connected by strong iron rods, and securely fastened, allowing the flames and accompanying heat to pass around and between them, thus securing a very large surface exposed to the action of the furnace. The wool, chiefly South African, Australian and New Zealand, is stored in a long two-story building on your right as you enter. It is picked, washed, scoured, dyed, &c., in the lower storeys of the building, and when thus prepared is hoisted on a large elevator to the various upper stories, to undergo the transitional processes by which it becomes cloth. It is carded, spun, spooled, &c., and then woven into cloths of the required quality or pattern, undergoing the processes of fulling, teazling, smoothing, finishing, packing, tying and labelling, &c., ready for the market. This establishment turns out about three hundred and fifty pieces of cloth a week, furnishing employment to about two hundred and fifty hands, men, women and boys, &c. Everything is in most complete order, the large rooms all as clean and neat as can be with such ponderous machinery, such multiplicity of belts and wheels, and such varied and various processes going on. Each story is supplied with water, always running in and out of a large barrel, and with hose and nozzle arranged so as to enable them to turn on water in any part of the building at a minute's notice. Every other requisite for comfort, order and cleanliness seems close at hand, while the printed rules and regulations, conspicuously placed in every story, enable new hands to know how to act in their various situations. From top to bottom all seems arranged in a neat, complete and satisfactory manner, and has, I should imagine, nothing to equal it in all Ontario.

Next in size to these is the Victoria Mills, owned by Messrs. Elliott, Routh and Sheard, and, though, of course much inferior in size to the Rosamond Mills, they turn out very good cloth. The Hunter Brothers, Baird, Prince & Boothroyd, and Wm. Wylie, &c., have also woollen mills. There are two flouring mills, one shingle factory, a machine shop, cabinet shop, and a saw-mill, &c. There are several substantial stores of brick, stone and wood, all looking full of furniture or other attractive wares. New buildings are constantly in process of erection. This place is a station, and for some years will be terminus of the Brockville and Ottawa Railway, which crosses the Mississippi here. Conspicuous on the opposite bank of the river, and seen from the railway station, is St. Paul's Church, built mainly through the untiring exertions of Jas. Rosamond, Esq., and for the most part at his own expense. It is a handsome stone building of good proportions, and churchly style, cruciform in its ground plan, having nave, proper chancel, organ chamber, and good vestry, &c., has a fair congregation, and is under the energetic pastoral care of the Rev. G. K. McMorgue. Near the Church is the fine stone residence of Dr. Mostyn, a Kingstonian, and well known to your readers. The Romanists, Auld Kirk and Canada Presbyterians have also substantial places of worship. The other usual religious bodies are also represented here. There are three bridges over the river exclusive of the railroad one, one of these is a fine stone structure, the others are of wood, and capable of improvement, which no doubt the energetic Almonters will attend to in due time. The business of this place is rapidly increasing, and so of course is the town, so admirably located, and with such a fine country round.

This place is beautifully situated, and the surrounding scenery is charming. The river, fine and wide, flows between green banks, and past a mill into the town, from which it emerges just a little below the falls. The right bank from this is high, and as you leave the town by the Brockville & Ottawa Railway, crossing the river by a long wooden bridge, you pass several nice suburban residences. The left bank is not so high, and slopes down to the river, affording the traveller by the ordinary road an excellent view of the falls, and the town on the upper side above the falls. There is a good farming country around Almonte, and the place has altogether a lively appearance, mills, factories and stores combining to keep business going on steadily. Almonte is, in short, one of the thriving little towns springing up here and there in the Ottawa Valley, and adding materially to the wealth and resources of this part of Canada. W.

Many Suffer rather than take nauseous medicines. All who suffer from coughs, colds, irritation of the bronchial tubes or tendency to consumption, will find Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry a remedy as agreeable to the palate as effectual in removing disease. The Balsam is a pleasant remedy; it is a safe remedy; it is a powerful remedy; it is a speedy remedy; it is a remedy that cures.

The crown of womanly beauty is an elegant coiffure. As this cannot be obtained without the use of some Hair Gloss or fixateur, even by the most skilful artiste, how much should the ladies feel themselves indebted to the inventor of the Great Hair Dressing of the age, Coco-Glycerine, which nourishes and beautifies the Hair, is delightfully perfumed, and leaves no stain on the gentlemen's waistcoats. Ask for Coco-Glycerine. 14

A gentlemen afflicted with the chronic rheumatism says, "No description of my case can convey the vast amount of benefit I have received from the use of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. I believe it is the best article in the world for rheumatism."

If a horse has a good constitution, and has once been a good horse, no matter how old or how much run down he may be, he can be greatly improved, and in many respects made as good as new, by a liberal use of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders.

"Every pleasure has its necessary pain."—This maxim of the Greek philosopher is daily verified during the summer season, when our pleasure in eating delicious fruits is somewhat dulled by the doleful prospect of colics, cramps, diarrhœ, dysentery, cholera, and other disagreeable consequences of an over-feed. But the pain of anticipation vanishes and the present pleasure alone remains, when we reflect that "every bane has its antidote" and that all diseases of the bowels are checked and cured by the timely use of Arnott's Arnica Anodyne.

Horses Saved.—The lives of thousands of horses have been saved during the past year, and the credit is due to "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." This preparation is being extensively used, and exacts from all the highest praise. Nothing of the kind has ever before been half as successful or given such universal satisfaction; it cannot be equalled. We can confidently recommend it, and would advise all who own horses to keep a supply of it on hand; it may be the means of saving your horse's life. Office of Evans, Mercer & Co., Wholesale Druggists, Montreal November, 1871.—Mr. James I. Fellows. Dear Sir: We have a large and increasing demand for your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and there is no doubt as its valuable properties become more generally known its sale will still further increase. The best proof of the efficiency and high character of the preparation is that medical men are largely prescribing it; and we hear from Dispensing Chemists that prescriptions for Syr. Hypo. C. Fellows are daily on the increase. We are respectfully, EVANS, MERCER & CO.

Everybody Says So.—That is all who have either used by others; all such, and they are only fit to judge, are unanimous in the opinion that "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy" is superior to anything of the kind heretofore or at present in use for coughs, colds, Thick Wind, and all diseases which affect the wind of horses. As a condition medicine it has no equal; there is nothing in it which can injure a horse whether sick or well—nor need the horse be kept from working while using it; it is just the article which all who own horses require, and which they should have constantly on hand.
