Sir John A in Kingston.

Great Phœbus! what a change! years after year rolls on!
Then he was demigod, but here's a demi-John!

A warning to statesmen could not be more pointed. The hand-writing on the wall was not more portentous to Belshazzar, than the meeting of the clans in old Kingston, to Sir John. His arrival there was not as in days of yore. "He passed from the station to the city in a cab," and at his first great gathering in the City Hall, we note the names on the platform of his "old stagers" unassociated with the Liberals except in two instances, and these gentlemen are Aldermen who could not have well remained away—showing that the lines of the Opposition remain intact, and strong, ready and marshalled to meet the veteran apostate face to face, to fight the battle of "right" against the merciless encroachment of a debased political phalanx, bound to usurp power and placeby sacrificing the interests and wealth of Ontario. Well done, Liberals of Kingston! well done! The eyes of the Empire Province of Ontario are upon you, ready to offer any relief in their power, and waiting to accord to you the highest place of honor, whether fortune smiles on your effort or not. But the party west expect you to win.—Ontario.

Sir John's Pugulism.

(Stratford Beacon.)

Bill Powell, the "Carleton Beauty," once disgraced the Canadian Parliament by making a brutal attack on the Hon. George Brown. Not satisfied with calling Mr. Brown a parricide, he foully attacked the other members of his family without regard to age or sex. Whilst decent Conservatives in the House blushed with shame, John A. cheered on the assailant, and afterwards paid him by making him Sheriff of the County of Carleton.

John A. once crossed the floor of the House, while the Speaker was in the act of leaving the chair, and threatened to "slap the ——chops" of a gentleman now occupying a high judicial position in Ontario.

A Household Remedy.—No family should be without some efficacious remedy for the cure of affections so universally prevalent as coughs, colds, sore throat, whooping cough, and croup—some remedy, too, which can be relied upon as safe, sure and certain. Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry combines this desiderata.

☞ Consumption, so prevalent and so fatal, is dreaded as the great scourge of our race, and yet in the formative stages, all pulmonary complaints may be readily controlled by using "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers." They will relieve the worst cough in a few minutes, and have a most beneficial influence on the bronchial and pulmonary organs—but they must be used in time. The relaxing power of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is truly wonderful. Cases are already numerous where long stiffened limbs have been limbered and straightened by it. When used for this purpose, the part should be washed and rubbed thoroughly. Apply the liniment cold, and rub in with the hand.

A crowd of "Horse Men," and others, daily throng the stores in country and town for Sheridans Cavalry Condition Powders. They understand that horses cannot be kept in good condition without them, and with them can be on a much less quantity of grain.

"Every pleasure has its necessary pain."—This maxim of the Greek philosopher is daily verified during the summer months, when our pleasure in eating delicious fruits is somewhat dulled by the dolorous prospect of colics, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera, and other disagreeable consequences of an over-feed. But the pain of anticipation vanishes and the pleasure alone remains, when we reflect that "every bane has its antidote," and that all diseases of the bowels are relieved and cured by the timely use of Anderson's Arnica Anodyne.

Very Natural.—When a person has proved an article and found it good, and answering the purpose for which it is intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtful reputation, or concerning which he knows nothing. We make these remarks owing to the course always pursued by those who have used that celebrated and truly valuable horse medicine known as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other; many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it as a condition medicine, or for any complaint affecting the wind of horses. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co., is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine dealers.
