The Wife's Because.

It is not because your heart is mine—mine only—
Mine alone;
It is not because you choose me, weak and lonely,
For your own;
Not because the earth is fairer, and the skies
Spread above you
Are more radiant for the shining of your eyes,
That I love you.

It is not because the world's perplexed meaning
Grows more clear,
And the parapets of heaven, with angels leaning
Seem more near;
And nature sings of praise with all her voices
Since you spoke,
Since with my silent heart that now rejoices,
Love awoke.

Nay, not even because your hand holds heart and life
At your will,
Soothing, hushing all its discord, making strife
Calm and still;
Teaching Trust to fold her wings, nor ever roam
From her nest;
Telling Love that her security, safest home
Must be rest.

Because this human love, though pure and sweet—
Yours and mine—
Has been sent by love more tender, more complete,
More divine,
That it leads our hearts at last to rest in in heaven,
Far above you,
Do I take thee as a gift that God has given
And I love you!

—[Adelaide Proctor.

BILLINGS' WIT AND WISDOM

KOARSE SHOT.

Whenever yu see a doktor who alwus travels on the jump, yu ken bet he is looking for a job.

The bulk ov mankind are imitators ov very poor originals.

It iz a grate deal easier tew be a philosopher after a man has had a warm meal than it iz when he don't kno whare he is going tew git one.

To never despair may be God-like, but it ain't human.

Affektasshun looks well in a monkey.

Trieing tew define love is like trieing tew tell how yo kum tew brake thru the ice; all yu kno about it iz, yu fell in, and got ducked.

The prinsipal importans ov a mystery is the mystery itself. What makes a ghost so respektable a karakter is that noboddy ever say one.

The pedigree that we receive from our ancestors iz like the money we receive from them. We are not expekted to live on the prinsiple, but on the accumulashun, and transmit the prinsiple unimpaired.

It iz hard work tew define human happiness; the real professor ov it iz the only one who kant define it.

A wise man never enjoys himself so much nor a phool so little, as when all alone.

There iz a grate deal ov virtew in this world that is like jewelry, more for ornament than use.

I am satisfied that courage in men iz more often the effekt ov konstitushun ov prinsiple.

Man's necessities are phew, but his wants are endless.

There are meany people who not only believe that this world revolves on its axis, but they believe that they are the axis.

Self-made men are most alwus a leetle too proud of the job.

I think there is as meany old phools in this world as there is yung ones, and there iz this difference betwen them: The yung ones may outgrow their pholly, but the old ones never do.

The avarishus man iz like the grave; he takes all that he can lay his hands on, and gives nothing backs.

Bashfulness iz either the effekt ov ignorance or modesty—if it iz ignorance' edukashun changes it into impertinence—if it is modesty, it will kling tew a man as long as he has one single virtew left.

The Prize Ring.

The developements of the last few years go to show that "the manly art of self-defence," as practised by professional fighters, is fast falling into disrepute. The strongest enactments of the law have proved insufficient to prevent the meetings of the champions and their admirers; but the natural cowardice of these bullies generally asserts its supremacy, and very little damage is done. It is now quite a while since anything approaching actual brutality has been served up to whet the appetites and gratify the tastes of the crowds who gather to witness exhibitions of "the manly art." From the extent of the preparations, and the bluster of the paragraphs in sporting papers announcing the intended contests, one would suppose that fatal results would succeed the first meeting. The facts, however are widely different for the contestants dispute by the hour about preliminaries, and, if they meet at all, manage to do so just as the police are ready to interfere. The prize fight has thus dwindled into the most disgraceful exhibition of brag and cowardice. No one cares to see it live, except perhaps the betting fraternity, and it makes too many "draws" to suit them. Soon, if not already, any man with a spark of true manhood in him would prefer to be called a game bird than a professional pugilist." This is a consummation devoutly wished for by the decent portion of every community.—Hamilton Times.

A FATAL DUEL.—A duel, with fatal results, was fought at Leghorn, Italy, Aug. 1st, between an American named Frederick Brewster, and Italian Count Benedetto Sella. Brewster occupied a position in the English Bank of Lloyd & Co., at Leghorn. Brewster and Count Sella had been friends, but quarrelled in a restaurant. Count Sella impugned the purity of American institutions, a quarrel ensued, and finally Brewster struck the Count in the face. A duel, with pistols, followed within a week, and the Count fell at the first fire, the bullet piercing the juglar under the left ear. Brewster was unhurt, and has fled from Leghorn.

GOSSIP.

Cheap funerals are now advertised in London, whereby persons can be splendidly buried and buried, with four experienced mourners, for about twenty dollars.

A Minneapolis school-ma'am dogged her pupils by the hour until the directors heard of it, and now she sings, "No one to love, none to caress," and will have to run a sewing machine or starve.

Noses are worn rather shorter than formerly, with an inclination to turn up. Ears are worn on both sides of the head—one on each side—and those of a pink color are preferred. Hair is again fashionable.

The American Government is acquiring a valuable stock of diamonds. Many attempts to smuggle them have been discovered, and the gems have been seized. Costly brilliants have been found in letters sent by mail, in boot heels, in cakes of wax and candy, and plugs of tobacco carried carelessly in the pocket.

A Quaker who has been troubled with rats informs a friend that he has greased a thirty-foot board, filled it full of fish hooks, set it up at an angle of forty-five degrees, and put an old cheese at the top. The rats went up, slid back, and he caught thirty of 'em the first night.

A farmer in Western New York has cleared nine hundred dollars by burying wooden Indian cigar signs for a few months and then digging them up and selling them to colleges as petrified Aboriginals. The rascal should be kicked to death by an infuriated saw-horse.

There still lives in England a clergyman named Cheese, who, more than forty years ago, had as pupils two young men named Tate and Maintay. The former is now primate of the Church of England; the latter is the famous Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster.

The latest argument against capital punishment is furnished by a series of remarkable circumstances which have occurred during the past year. A little over a year ago Charles Baker was hanged at Fonda, N. Y., for the murder of Thomas Burdict. Since then, no less than five persons who witnessed the execution have committed suicide by hanging.

"Every pleasure has its necessary pain." This maxim of the Greek philosopher is daily verified during the summer season, when our pleasure in eating delicious fruits is somewhat dulled by the doleful prospect of colics, cramps, diarrhea, dysentery, cholera, and other disagreeable consequences of an over feed. But the pain of anticipation vanishes and the present pleasure alone remains, when we reflect that "every bane has its antidote" and that all diseases of the bowels are checked and cured by the timely use of ARNOTT'S ARNICA ANODYNE.

A Beautiful Horse. There is nothing that can contribute so much to render the horse beautiful and elegant, to improve his condition and make him all that is desirable, as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy;" it has been used by many persons who own valuable carriage and other horses with decided success, and so well pleased are they with that they always keep it on hand in case of emergency; it may be given at all times with perfect safety. In the winter of 1869 I taken ill with Disease of the Heart, accompanied by violent palpitation, and from that time gradually became weaker, notwithstanding continued professional attendance, up to a few weeks ago, when your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites was recommended to me. The use of it during a very short time enabled me to resume my usual work, and now I am as well, fat and hearty as I could wish to be. Yours very truly, W. Frank Cochran.

The Heart being a great muscular organ, requires vigorous nervous force to sustain it. As Fellows' Hypophosphites restores the nervous element, it will always strengthen the Heart weakened through loss of this element. The Inventor.

A Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic.

Without phosphorus, we thought, say the Gods, the brain might add, no action, since Phosphorus and its compounds are known to be the motive power of the nervous and muscular system. They constitute more than half the material of the human body, being found in every tissue, and their presence is absolutely essential to nutrition, as they promote the conversion of albumen in the food into fibrine, which is the vitalizing agent of pure, healthy blood. They are now coming into universal use in Europe and America in the treatment of Scrofulous, Consumptive and Venereal diseases, which are caused by impoverished or poisoned blood; in pale, puny children, and that condition of nervous and physical prostration resulting from bad habits, excessive use of stimulants and tobacco, and all that train of evils known as fast life. The great reliability and promptness in its effects in immediately and permanently restoring the devitalized condition has made DR. WHEELER'S COMPOUND ELIXIR OF PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA a great favourite with the Physicians and public. Sold at $1.00.
