SONG.

I would be a sunbeam bright!
Not that I might flash with light
On the world's bewildered sight—
No! ah, no!
I would go
Diving through love's blue eye
Down into her inmost soul;
Then from azure deeps arise,
While a pearly tear I stole.
Laughing, I
Then would fly,
Kissing all her golden hair.
Were I but a sunbeam fair,
All things I might do and dare!

THE WONDERS OF THE GRAVE.

A BODY PRESERVED OVER 1,500 YEARS.

The tomb of Edward the First, who died in 1307, was opened Jan. 2, 1770, after 463 years had elapsed. His body was almost perfect. Canute (the Dane), who crossed over to England in 1017, was found in 1776 by the workmen who repaired Winchester Cathedral, where his body had reposed nearly 750 years, perfectly fresh. In 1569 three Roman soldiers, fully equipped with warlike implements, were dug out of a bed of peat in Ireland, where they had lain probably 1,500 years. The bodies were perfectly fresh and plump.

In the reign of James II. of England, after the fall of the church at Astley, in Warwickshire, there was taken up the corpse of Thomas Gray, Marquis of Dorset, who was buried there the 10th of October, 1530, in the twenty-second year of Henry VIII.; and although it had lain there seventy-eight years, the eyes, hair, flesh, nails, and joints, remained as though it had been but newly buried.

Robert Braybrook, who was consecrated Bishop of London in 1381, and who died in 1404 and was buried in St. Paul's, was taken out of his tomb after the great fire of 1666, during the repairs of the Cathedral, and although he had lain there no less than 262 years, his body was found firm as to skin, hair, joints, and nails.

Pietro Rodriguez, a Portuguese jeweler, while pursuing his occupation in the city of Mexico, was, in 1595, accused before the tribunal of the inquisition, and after suffering a variety of tortures was condemned to be buried alive in a vault in the Convent de St. Domingo in that city. He was then 34 years old. The Convent de St. Domingo was lately destroyed in search of treasure supposed to be concealed there, and the body of Rodriguez taken out of the vault exactly as when placed there 270 years before. His daughter, two and a half years of age, was lying under her father's feet, and as perfectly preserved as himself.

MAZZINI.—The anniversary of Mazzini's death was observed with solemn pomp in Genoa. The body of the deceased, which is being embalmed, was exposed to the public gaze. It was quite dressed, with patent leather boots, black trousers, and wrapped up in a large dressing-gown. The corpse was exposed for three days, and was guarded by two members of the Club Pensiero ed Azione, and two members of the Commission of the Anniversary. The crowd of people, Italian and foreigners, who respectfully visited the body, was immense; it is supposed that more than sixty thousand persons entered the chapel during the three days, without reckoning the immense crowds assembled on the day of the commemoration.

Greenville, R. I., can't be a Paradise for a destitute and sick stranger to wander into. Three weeks ago such a poor unfortunate made his appearance there, and was ordered to leave by an officer, as he was "hungry, moneyless, dirty, and had one hand useless from having been frost-bitten." So he dragged himself away into a swamp, and died. He was worth holding an inquest over, however; and so the inquest was held, and after a number of the most substantial citizens had sat upon him it was discovered that he had died of small-pox! Verily, he had his revenge, if it was not a sweet one.

A BIBLICAL THIEF.—A thief entered the Congregational Church at Lawrence, Mass., last week, and carried off the Bible from the pulpit. It was a large and well bound one; and we suppose if the abstractor will only read it, that the defrauded parishioners will charitable forgive him.

End of a Romantic Courtship.

The end of a romantic courtship is told in the Tasmanian papers, and, as in the modern novel, the denouement is far from happy. The hero is a Mr. John Riddle, who lived in happy bachelorhood until he attained the mature age of 89 years. But who is safe from the archer? At the advanced period of life specified love was no enigma to this Riddle. He succumbed to a young lady just turned fourteen, who presented him in due course with sundry hopeful children. But May—or rather April—did not mate kindly with December. Mr. Riddle turned Mrs. Riddle out of doors, and Mrs. Riddle summoned her husband to the police court, and obtained an order for 10s. per week. The bridegroom and father was a man of means, and one would fear a mean man, for he would never pay a penny. He went to prison first, with the intention of rotting there rather than assisting his youthful bride, and he died there this day week, leaving, of course, a gratified widow and two children, who are not likely to miss their sire. If all this were written in a novel, it would not be believed, and yet it stands on record in the law courts of Launceston. The incident, it must be admitted, speaks volumes in favor of Tasmania, its healthiness, the vigor and obstinacy of its older men, and the precociousness of its maidens.

A DELICATE LIBEL.—A quiet, elderly gentleman found himself one of four travellers in a railway carriage. The other three were ladies, who talked from the beginning to the end of the journey—kept up, in fact, so lengthened a conversation, that it was exactly two hundred miles long. When nearly at the terminus, the most voluble of the ladies expressed a hope to the gentleman that the incessant colloquy had not disturbed him. 'By no means, madam,' he said, politely. 'I have been married exactly five and thirty years.'

MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."—Cassell's Household Guide.

Two Questions Easily Answered.—Why should men wear boards? Because they are a great protection to the throat and lungs, and add much to their personal appearance. Why should we use "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers?" Because when used for coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, hoarseness, &c., they act like a charm. Ministers and Lawyers use them, physicians recommend them, and singers and public speakers say they are the very best medicine in existence for the cure of such complaints. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25c. per box.

Extract from a Letter of Messrs. AVERY, BROWN & CO., one of the oldest and most respectable Firms in the Maritime Provinces. Halifax, N.S., Oct. 4th, 1871.—James I. Fellows, Esq.—Dear Sir: Our sale of your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has been very large, and, notwithstanding its high price, has far exceeded that of any other medicine. We have had from you within the past year six hundred cases of one dozen each, which have gone into almost every part of the Province, and given, so far as we know, universal satisfaction.
As it is no "quack medicine," but compounded, as we believe, upon the sound principles of Pharmaceutical science, we trust you will not allow the public to lose sight of a remedy so well calculated to be of permanent value. Very respectfully, Avery, Brown & Co.

Not Quite So.—"It is among the most savage and debased tribes only that the condition and comfort of the horse have been neglected," but we believe there are many in civilized countries who are guilty of the same neglect, and without the excuse of the former; here all may avail themselves of the use of an article which has done more than anything else heretofore known to improve the condition and relieve the suffering of the horse. Those who will not use it will be the losers, their horses the sufferers: to avoid both use "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy," and you will be satisfied with the result. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co., is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine dealers.
