TOWNSHIP CLERK.

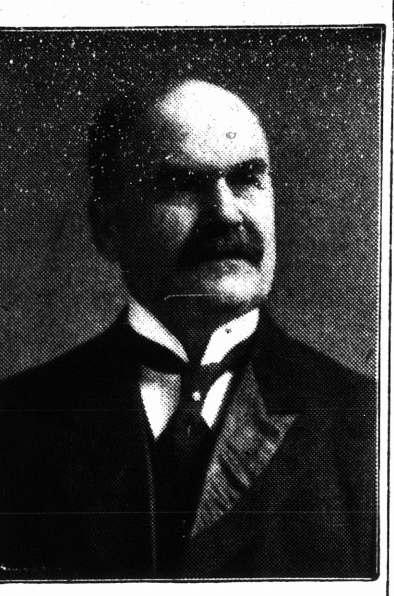

Best Healer in the World.

Rev. F. Starbird of East Raymond, Maine, says: "I have used Bucklen's Arnica Salve for several years on my old army wound and other obstinate sores, and find it the best healer in the world. I use it too with great success in my veterinary business." Price 25c at N. H. Petesch's drug store.

No member of congress has enjoyed friendlier or more intimate intercourse with President Roosevelt than Senator Hopkins. While he was a member of the house and chairman of the census committee of that body the senator was thrown into frequent contact with the president, by reason of the fact that the seemingly eternal question involving the reduction of southern representation became one of the president's earliest hobbies. The president and the senator did not agree upon the desirability of that legislation, but they learned to respect each other's opinions and motives, and presently arrived at a mutual understanding which has caused the question to slumber without awakening ever since.

Very soon after Senator Hopkins' promotion to the upper branch of congress he was called to the White House one day to be present at a conference between the president and certain persons who purported to represent certain commercial and other interests in Chicago. These persons had filed a protest against the appointment of a well known Illinoisan to a federal office in the southern district. Senator Hopkins undertook to explain to the president the reasons which actuated him in advising the appointment of the man in question. He was constantly interrupted by one of the party of dissenters. This particular man was exceedingly irritating in his manner. He was brusque, domineering and insulting. Presently the senator lost patience, and turning upon him with a ferocity that could not be misunderstood, exclaimed:

"You are an impudent puppy, sir. You have come here pretending to represent certain interests and certain bodies. I want to assure the president that you represent nothing and nobody but yourself; and I desire further to assure him that so far as you are concerned you are unworthy of belief or credence."

The senator had advanced within reaching distance of his tormentor and his hand was outstretched as if to seize him. Then a consciousness of his environment—the presence of the president of the United States, his words and his threatening manner, suddenly overwhelmed him. He backed away from his tormentor in some confusion, and turning to the president, exclaimed contritely:

"I beg your pardon, Mr. President; but my temper was sorely tried."

The president, smiling rapturously, almost jumped at the senator, and patting him on the back exclaimed:

"It was fine, Hopkins; you did it splendidly, and I congratulate you upon your self control."

From that day to the present time Senator Hopkins and President Roosevelt have been the closest friends. The president trusts the senator implicitly. He knows him not only to be honest but unselfish. Moreover, he instinctively likes a man who knows how and when to protect himself against wanton insult.

The Lucky Quarter

Is the one you pay out for a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They bring you the health that's more precious than jewels. Try them for headache, biliousness, constipation and malaria. If they disappoint you the price will be cheerfully refunded at N. H. Petesch's drug store.

These Bad Pains

which give you such exquisite suffering, every month, are caused, as you know, by female trouble. Relief seldom or never comes of itself. It is necessary to cure the cause, in order to stop the pains, and this can only be done if you take a specific, female remedy, that acts directly on the woman's organs.

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMAN'S RELIEF

"Cardui did wonders for me," writes Mrs. H. C. Larson, of Olathe, Ia. "I had female trouble for 5 years. I had displacement, which increased my suffering, the doctor could only relieve me at times. Now, I am so much better, I hardly know when my time begins or when it ends."

Odd Use For Bread.

Perhaps the most novel use to which bread is put may be seen in one of our great watch factories, where more than forty loaves of fresh bread are required each day. An official of the watch factory is quoted as saying: "There is no secret regarding the use of bread in this factory, and I am willing to tell all I can concerning it. From the earliest times in the history of watchmaking it has been the custom of watchmakers to reduce fresh bread to the form of dough. This is done by steaming and kneading. They then use this dough for removing oil and chips that naturally adhere in course of manufacture to pieces as small as a part of a watch. There are many parts of a watch, by the way, that are so small as to be barely visible to the naked eye. The oil is absorbed by this dough and the chips stick to it, and there is no other known substance which can be used as a wiper without leaving some of its particles attached to the thing wiped. This accounts for the continued use of bread dough in the watchmaking industry."—American Food Journal.

A Quaint Compliment.

On Mark Twain's seventy-second birthday a Hartford clergyman said of him: "No wonder he finds happiness in old age. All the aged would be happy if they were as sympathetic and as kind as he. He is continually going out of his way to please others, and the result is that he is continually pleasing himself. Listen, for instance, to the quaint compliment he paid me the last time he came to hear me preach. He waited for me at the church door at the service's end, and shaking me by the hand, said gravely:

"I mean no offense, but I feel obliged to tell you that the preaching this morning has been of a kind that I can spare. I go to church, sir, to pursue my own train of thought, but today I couldn't do it. You interfered with me. You forced me to attend to you and lost me a full half hour. I beg that this may not occur again."

Philosophy of Descartes.

Turning the mental vision inward, as Bacon turned it outward, Descartes watched the operations of the soul as an object in a microscope. Resolved to believe nothing but upon evidence so convincing that he could not by any effort refuse his assent, he found as he inspected his beliefs that he could, plausibly doubt everything but his own existence. Here at last was the everlasting rock, and this was revealed in his own consciousness; hence his famous "Cogito ergo sum" (I think, therefore I am). Consciousness, said he, is the basis of certitude. Interrogate it and its clear replies will be science, for all clear ideas are true. Down in the depths of the mind is the idea of the infinite perfection—the mark of the workman impressed upon his work. Therefore God exists.—New York American.

Science and Sound Fact.

"The workings of the human mind when asleep are full of wonder," remarked a scientist who was paying a visit to an acquaintance. "Have you ever started up from a sound dreamless sleep, with every sense on the alert and with your whole being thrilled with a vivid yet indefinite feeling that something was wrong and instant action required?"

"Often," replied his hostess, "and in nearly every case I have found that I was awakened by the fumbling of my husband's key at the front door!"

Impertinent.

Speaking of a man noted for his impertinence, an acquaintance said: "Blank's impudence was second only to that of a waiter I heard about the other day."

"Look here, waiter," said a guest, "this fish is not cooked properly."

"I know it, sir," said the waiter, "but you told me it was for your wife."

"Well, what of that?" asked the surprised guest.

"Why," said the waiter, "I knew that if the lady was your wife she couldn't be very particular."

Realism in Art.

Two artists were boasting how they could paint. "Do you know," said one, "I painted a sixpence on the ground one day, and a beggar nearly broke his fingers trying to pick it up!"

"I painted a leg of mutton on a stone, and it was so realistic that a dog ate half the stone before he found out his mistake!"

His Narrow Escape.

"I tell you, the closing of the Steenth National was a mighty close call for me."

"How was that?"

"Why, a friend had advised me to put my money in it and—"

"And you took his advice?"

"No, but I would if I'd had any money."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Not the Kind He Wanted.

"Little Willie ran away to hunt redskins."

"Yes?"

"But he didn't find any until his father had finished with him."—Harpers Weekly.

Ungallant.

"My face is my fortune, sir," she said.

"Well," he replied, "poverty is no disgrace, but it's awfully inconvenient at times."

The Wicked Husband.

"Why does a man lie to his wife?" asks a woman writer. Dear me, does he?—Duluth Herald.

A moral, sensible, well bred man will not insult me. No other can.—Cowper.

Muscular Rheumatism of the Chest, Back and Neck—Cured in Seven Treatments.

Prof. Leach:

Dear Sir—I suppose you think I am dead and gone. I am enjoying the best of health. I think that I am entirely well now. Your treatments are something wonderful; they helped me at once. The last time I was up to see you you told me to take a vacation for a week, and I was feeling so good that I husked more corn than any of my three men. The men said they did not see how I could derive so much benefit in such a short time.

I have no pains, my neck is not stiff and I can sleep fine; my appetite is very good, and I am thoroughly well.

Anyone wishing to know what you have done for me, tell them to call 3 on Main 1251, Streator phone, or drop a line and I will be glad to answer their wants.

Yours very truly,

Geo. R. Gilbert is now acting as clerk at the depot. George is in every way capable of filling the position and will no doubt prove to be the right man in the right place.

The lid was on tight in McHenry last Sunday and 'tis said that some of our inhabitants were nearly suffocated by night; but still we have not heard of any extra doctor calls.

Nothing like knowing what's going on. We keep you posted locally, but The Weekly Inter-Ocean gives the news of all the world. By our special arrangement you can secure both papers for one full year for the very low rate $1.75.

The roads in the country where snow drifts are still quite prevalent are said to be in very bad condition. In numerous places the public highways are still impassable, but these conditions, it is hoped, will not be experienced very much longer.

Being about to move away I hereby offer for sale at my home in West McHenry on next Friday and Saturday, March 13 and 14, the following articles: Bedsteads, mattresses, springs, pillows, lamps, kitchen utensils and dishes. Mrs. Mary L. Cobb.

In renewing his subscription to The Plaindealer Jos. G. Buss, who is now located at Nachusa, Ill., writes that without The Plaindealer he would feel quite lonesome "out in the wilderness." Jos. is acting as station agent for the C. & N. W. company at the above mentioned point.

PRINTER WANTED—The Plaindealer wants a first-class, country bred printer, one who can set tasty ads and jobs, operate presses and make himself generally useful about the office. Good wages will be paid to the man that makes good. Address The Plaindealer, McHenry, Ill.

A very pleasant meeting of the Ladies' Afternoon Card club took place at the pleasant home of G. W. Beesley last week Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Mayne Lamphere acting as hostess. The afternoon's honors were awarded to Mrs. Nina Sherman. Delicious refreshments were partaken of.

McHenry is now without the services of a regular operator at the depot, Jacob Buss' services in this capacity coming to a close Tuesday evening. The C. & N. W. company has several good positions open for Mr. Buss and it is quite likely that he will accept one of them. The action on the part of the North Western is anything but reasonable and fair and our citizens in general feel that the action taken is quite unjust.

This paper and The Weekly Inter Ocean—$1.75 for one year's subscription to both.
