The Daily News.

THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 4

Gold in New York 100⅜.

☞ The Christian Brothers are selling lithographs (life size) of Bishop O'Brien at one dollar.

RIFLE PRACTICE.—No. 6 Company of the 14th P.W.O. Rifles went over to Barriefield this afternoon for rifle practice. The other Companies had done so before, No. 1 having finished on Good Friday.

☞ We understand that a public trial of reapers will take place on the wheat field of Mr D. Fraser, near Williamsville. Due notice of the time will be given that all farmers and others interested in reaping machines may attend the exhibition.

PROBABILITIES for the next 24 hours: For lower lake region, moderate to fresh winds and fair weather, with local rains. For the St. Lawrence, moderate winds and clear to fair weather. For the Maritime Provinces, moderate to fresh winds and clear to fair weather.

TO CAPE VINCENT.—A large number of citizens went over to Cape Vincent this morning to witness the celebration of the 4th July at that village. This afternoon a very large number went over to see the great sculling race, which was expected to take place about six o'clock this evening, the Maud being literally crammed.

THE LIGHTNING DAMAGE.—The damage to Mr. Pugh's house in Portsmouth is very considerable. The lightning struck the cellar wall, which was of stone, and then rushed up the end of the house, a frame one. It struck the eave trough and splintered it, the wall falling out. The rafters have been split like matches. Fortunately no one was injured by the occurrence.

FLOWER SHOW.—We remind our readers of the summer show of the City of Kingston Electoral Division Society, which takes place to-morrow at the Drill Shed. All articles for exhibition are required to be on the ground before ten o'clock in the morning. In the evening the Band of A Battery will play. We have no doubt the show will be very successful, as the season for flowers has been a good one.

BODY SEEN.—The Captain of the steamer Corinthian reports that when on the trip down this morning, near Four Mile Point, he passed the body of a woman floating on the water. He did not stop to make investigation, but the matter was reported to the Police authorities. Since the foregoing was written the body has been towed down to the harbour, and proves to be that of a man. It is supposed to be that of Robert McClymont, who was drowned off the schooner Ada Medora on the morning of the 10th of June. An inquest will be held.

MASONIC.—The Masons of Prince Edward, through R. W. Bro. Ross, have extended an invitation to the brethren of this city to pay a visit to the Sand Banks next Thursday, July 11th. The invitation was sent to Dr. Henderson, Q.C., as the chief of the Fraternity in this section, and will probably be accepted by a considerable number of the brethren. The scenery at the Sand Banks is very beautiful, and will well repay the visitors for their trouble. The brethren will leave by the Armenia, which leaves Kingston every morning at eight o'clock for Picton and the bay ports.

THE "MARQUIS OF CANADA."—An English weekly journal announces it as certain that Lord Dufferin will be rewarded on his return to England with an Irish marquisate. That will be a good thing for the noble order of marquises, which, by the way, has always flourished, especially in Ireland. The first marquis of English history was Robert de Vere, made Marquis of Dublin in 1386, and Ireland to-day has rather more than her share of marquisates, possessing eleven, against seventeen in England and four in Scotland. If Lord Dufferin accepts this step in the peerage, why should he not take his new title from the New World, and be known as Marquis of Canada? There was a Lord Canada once in the English peerage, and in this case the title would indeed be a title of honour.—N. Y. World.

CAVALRY INSPECTION.—On Tuesday the annual inspection of the Frontenac Cavalry took place at the Crystal Palace by Lieut.-Colonel Straubenzie, D.A.G. The inspection was a rigorous one, and fully tested the powers of the men and horses. The first and fourth troops did everything well, the third troop being deficient in the sword exercise. At the close of the inspection Col. Straubenzie expressed to Col. Duff and the officers his satisfaction at the result of the eight days' drill. While giving general praise to the troops, he referred to the fact that some of the men were in the habit of disobeying commands by leaving the camp improperly dressed. He hoped such a thing would not occur again, as it was subversive of discipline. The Picton men went home on Tuesday afternoon, and the camp has now broke up.

Police Court.

Educational.

THE BISHOP STRACHAN SCHOOL.—We are pleased to learn that at the late examinations at the Bishop Strachan School, Miss Gertrude Morton, of this city, stood remarkably well. In catechism and religious literature, European history, geography, composition, &c., she obtained very high marks, while as to instrumental music, the Lady Principal certifies that she was the best player at the school. We are very glad to find that our Kingston young ladies are able to hold their own—aye, and more than their own—with the young ladies at the Bishop Strachan School, as well as at other public institutions.

THE SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.—The examinations of the pupils of the Public Schools began this afternoon, the classes taken being all the departments of Wellington Street School, Miss Keys' and Miss Gill's departments of Queen Street, and Miss Livingston's and Miss Rees' departments of Johnston Street. These examinations are in a great measure formal, the real examinations having been going on for about a month past. A large number of prizes have been provided by the School Board for the successful pupils, which will be distributed to them. Besides the Board prizes, Mr R. M. Horsey, Chairman of Queen Street School, has generously procured some twenty-five volumes for presentation to the pupils of that school for punctuality and good conduct. The other prizes being for scholarship, Mr Horsey thinks it well that the other qualifications should be recognized as well, and hence the presentation. The examinations will be continued to morrow, when the other schools will be gone through.

HARVEST PROSPECTS.—There is now every prospect of an abundant harvest in the Bay of Quinte section of country, the late rains having done an incalculable amount of good to the growing crops, which were somewhat "put back" by the cool weather and frost in the early part of June. The yield of barley gives promise of being heavier than that of many years past, though the acreage sown is considerably less than that of last year. Yesterday's rain had the effect of "lodging" barley in some localities along the bay shore, but not to an injurious extent. Bay of Quinte barley is a great favourite with American brewers, owing in a great measure to its bright colour and cleanliness, classing A1, a distinction which it certainly deserves. Considerable fall wheat has been sown in Adolphustown, which looks remarkably well at present, and promises an abundant yield. In South Fredericksburgh fall wheat has been sown on some farms as an experiment, which no doubt will prove a success, chiefly due to the favourable winter and spring weather. Other cereals in this great agricultural district are looking remarkably well, and the indications at present are that the harvest of 1878 will be the heaviest for many years past. That great pest, the potato bug, however, is still on the rampage and doing great injury to the young crop, although farmers generally are doing everything possible to destroy them—Paris green being the favourite remedy.

Hanlan in Kingston.

Yesterday afternoon Hanlan, accompanied by the other scullers, arrived here by the steamer Spartan, a large crowd being present on the wharf to greet them. The boat was delayed by having to call at Garden Island with a quantity of rafting material and did not arrive at the dock until after four o'clock. As soon as the Spartan was docked, the crowd rushed on board, and the scullers were the objects of great interest. Of course, the "little champion" was the lion of the party, and he bore the scrutiny with great modesty. Coming into the harbour, he examined the water very closely, and in answer to a question he expressed an opinion that it was very suitable for sculling races. A large number of gentlemen were introduced to Hanlan, who was most cordially congratulated on his recent victories. He spoke very highly of his reception in Brockville, and said he had a good time there.

Immediately after the Spartan had arrived, the Geneva came alongside of her to take the party over to Cape Vincent, where rowing races will take place to-day. The boats were carefully transferred from one steamer to the other, each rower superintending the transferring of his own shell. Hanlan, Plaisted, McKen and Elliott went over. Luther, who came up from Brockville, went up last night on the Spartan, as he wished to get home as soon as possible. He was quite sick in Brockville.

The appearance of the different men would not seem to justify the results of the recent races. Hanlan looked the smallest of the lot, while Plaisted was the tallest. The latter was very slimly built, however. Luther looked a big stout fellow, but his face did not indicate good health. In conversation, Luther, while admitting Hanlan's great superiority, expressed an opinion that in a short time there could be found men in Pittsburg who would show him the way. He believed there were none who could do so at present, but with a few months' training, he thought it could be done.

Great interest is being taken in a proposed match between Hanlan and Courtney. A telegram in yesterday's News said that there was scarcely a probability of the match being made this year; but a number of gentlemen in Kingston are trying to get them to row in our harbour. One gentleman has offered $1,000 for expenses if they will come and row here, and there is not the slightest doubt but that the money for a match could be raised in a very short time. We hope the attempt will be successful, for there is no place in Canada where a better race could be rowed.

The Green-Eyed Monster at a Wedding Feast.

Among many ways of celebrating the 1st of July indulged in by our citizens, getting married is certainly to be counted in, and it is not, it is needless to say, a bad way of expressing one's love for his country generally and his sweetheart in particular. In fact numerous arguments could be adduced to prove that Dominion Day is one of the very best days to be tied in the knot matrimonial, inasmuch as it gives one a holiday as well without extra expense. Be this as it may, it is true that one resident of this city held this view of the matter and was accordingly joined in the holy bonds of matrimony with a young and good-looking girl on Monday forenoon. The usual ceremonies were carried on during the day and in the evening a number of invited friends indulged in the "light fantastic." It is said that meantime the happy man was increasing his felicity with the aid of some liquor, but on this point we have nothing authentic. Now, it appears that among the guests was a young gentleman, of prepossessing appearance who, tradition says, had formerly paid court to the fair bride. No doubt wishing to enjoy one or two last dances with her, this gallant was very attentive to the newly married lady, dancing with her several times. These attentions, it would seem, aroused the green-eyed animal in the bridegroom's breast, and he became very much annoyed with his wife's apparently careless conduct. Once, twice, three times they danced together, and then the "happy man" strode up to his bride and fiercely demanded that she should cease dancing with the objectionable party. She, coming as she does from a land famed for its pretty and determined women, replied that she would not, and further expressed herself very spiritedly regarding what she appeared to have considered her husband's unreasonable request. That gentleman then desisted, and the dance went on, but as subsequent events show, he was meditating a heavy vengeance. The party at length broke up, and the guests left with many good wishes for the happy pair. Scarcely had the last one departed when the man who should have been happy attacked the new partner of his joys and sorrows, and the neighbors say, beat her unmercifully. This brutality would seem to favour the supposition that the man was either a fool or very much under the weather. Of course the lady could not put up with such unbridegroomlike behavior and she left him in company of her two brothers, who also insisted upon this line of action.—Hamilton Times.

M. De Paula Marques, of Marseilles, has discovered a remarkable process for preserving meat. It is dipped for a few seconds in a solution, and will then keep for years, all its flavour and freshness being restored by a plunge in cold water. The nature of the solution is not revealed.

The Vicar of Moresby, England, refused to bury the son of a publican of the neighboring village of Parton, and the service was read by a Congregational minister. His effigy was therefore carried through the streets on a pole accompanied by a band of music, and then publicly burned.

The number of car wheels in use on the railroads in the United States is 3,500,000. The average life of a wheel is about 50,000 miles. On fast passenger trains a wheel lasts about ten months, but on freight cars a wheel will last from three to ten years. The average will be about five years, and 700,000 are therefore renewed annually, at a cost, less the old wheels, of $6,000,000.
