Notes of Travel.

(From an occasional correspondent.)

Leaving Prescott I reached Kemptville which is a lively village on the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway. A few years ago Kemptville was destroyed by a fire and since then the village has been built up rapidly, some of the stores and dwellings would do credit to a large town or city, nor has building ceased. At present there is a fine English Church in course of erection, which will be at once a credit and an ornament to the village. Its erection as you are no doubt aware is largely owing to the great energy of the Rev. Mr Stannage. The Presbyterians have just completed a fine manse for their esteemed minister, the Rev. Mr Clark, but the absorbing topic at present in the village is the coming election. There are three candidates seeking parliamentary honours, Ferguson, Conservative, Jones, Independent, and Smith, the Inspector of Licenses, who announces no political creed.

OTTAWA.

Leaving Kemptville I reached the capital, which at present is unusually dull. The depression in the lumber market and in manufactories generally is telling seriously against the city, several store keepers whose business it was to supply mechanics and other operatives, had to go out of business and instead of life and bustle as formerly, the first thing which meets the eye is "this store to let," notwithstanding this, however, there is still a large business to be done, and in Ottawa one will see stores equal to any in Toronto or Montreal. Among others I may mention that of Mr Buchanan on Sussex street, who keeps a splendid assortment of the finest groceries, wines and liquors, which to see or taste is a strong inducement to buy. I understand that Mr Buchanan is patronised by the best families in Ottawa. He is not only a genial, but a very jolly Scotchman. Mr Buchanan has a snuff-box made out of wood which is 800 years old, and which is, you may be sure, much prized by the owner. Ottawa offers great inducements to fishing and boating parties, and here I met our mutual friend Mr J. L. Morrison, of your city, and Mr Taylor, the popular Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, and Mr Stockand, who demonstrated to our little party what they know about these popular sports, but after a half day's toil we could truthfully say that we "caught nothing." As might be expected politics are running high here at present. The advocates of a "National Policy" are in good spirits, and say they will return two members to support Sir John Macdonald, and that Messrs Currier and Tasse are the coming men. The former is the old member and is as popular as ever. Mr Currier was born in the States, but came to Canada when a boy, and by hard honest industry has risen to his present position. He is besides a large employer of labour. Mr Tasse, his colleague is a young French Canadian, and was employed as a translator of French, his nomination has evoked the greatest enthusiasm among his countrymen, and if he is to be judged by an address, which I heard him deliver on Wednesday evening, I think he will not disgrace his constituents in the House of Commons. Leaving Ottawa I came by the "Canada Central" to which is an incorporated village in the County of Lanark with a population of about 2,000. This is what may be called a "smart" village. It has several good stores and hotels, substantial cut stone churches and schools, except the English Church, which, I regret to notice, is rather shabby in appearance, and is in no respect worthy of such a respectable denomination. The splendid river Mississippi runs through the centre of the village, and by its musical sounds relieves the monotony which at times would be felt. It is also the seat of extensive lumber operations, there being some four or five saw mills, besides other manufactories which are all working full time, and which, to some extent, will compensate the neighbourhood for the failure in the crops, which, I regret to say, is very general in the Ottawa Valley. In this County there will also be a lively time in politics. The Conservatives expect to return two members, Mr Haggart in the South Riding and Mr Jamieson in the North Riding. Mr Haggart is the old member and his election is looked upon as safe with an increased majority. Mr Jamieson is a new man, who comes out to oppose Mr Galbraith in the North Riding, and that too, with every prospect of success. Mr Jamieson is a prominent lawyer in Almonte, who by his addresses is gaining ground rapidly and making hosts of friends. It is confidently expected he will redeem the Riding. The manufacturers and farmers are going unitedly into the contest and are determined to to win. I met an Irish Protestant to-day who has two votes, one of which will be cast in Lanark for Jamieson and the other in Russell for the Hon. John O'Connor. The next town visited was

CARLETON PLACE,

PEMBROKE.

It is the most northerly town in the "valley," and is the terminus of the Canada Central Railway. It is the Assize Town for Renfrew County and has a population of over 3,000. The town is beautifully situated on the banks of the Ottawa River, and stands about 30 feet above the level of the water, it has become a popular summer resort, offering great inducements to "camping" and fishing parties. Besides the usual public buildings to be found in good Canadian towns, there are a large number of mills and factories, which, in times past, have been a source of wealth to the neighbourhood, and the products of which found their way into every part of the Province. At present business is very much depressed here, indeed worse than it is in some of the other towns in the "valley," and consequently there is a great cry for protection. As in other places the Conservatives expect to put in two men and are working hard for this result, and so loud did this protection cry ring, and ring in my ears that I thought I could almost hear the rumbling of the "chariot wheels," which will so triumphantly march on the 17th of September to victory.
