Correspondence.

ARGYLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

Sir,—Neither "MacCallum More" nor "MacCailein Mor" is the right patronymic of Campbell of Argyle—"MacChailein Vhor" is the proper name, and either Mr R. M. Rose or Mr McRae, the grocer, good authorities, will verify this.—Yours respectfully,

A HIGHLANDER.

[The Duke of Argyll spells his name Argyll, not Argyle.]

THE "BOSTON."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

Sir,—May I say a few words of comment on the following strange paragraph, which, I see, is from the Montreal Witness Halifax correspondent:

"An official announcement in the local press states that at the drawing room to be held by the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise the ladies will wear low-necked dresses, with short sleeves, and no court trains. This is supposed by those likely to understand such matters to mean two things—the latter clause, that the Princess does not intend to maintain royal state in Canada; and the former, that at the receptions, drawing rooms, and balls to come the most formal decorum will be preserved, and that such dances as the Boston, the Glide, &c., will be discountenanced."

The correspondent of that paper seems to have taken upon himself the framing of a code of etiquette for our new Governor-General and Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise. I am afraid the writer is scarcely a competent authority upon such questions, nor can I understand the process of reasoning by which he arrived at the conclusion that "the Boston" is destined to be abolished in consequence of short sleeves and no court trains. Doubtless he understands it himself, but that anybody else will do so seems to be beyond hope.

Lest this unguarded writer should provoke a prejudice against a graceful, quiet and harmless amusement, let me say that this shamefully maligned "Boston" is not a war dance; neither does it partake of any of the characteristics of the ballet. In style, it very much resembles the old "German;" and, properly danced, it is not only pretty to see, but gentle, easy, and unobtrusive in the highest degree. Indeed, there is not a word of reproach to be fairly uttered against it. Had there been anything improper in the "Boston," it would surely have been discountenanced long ago, and I think in all countries ladies and gentlemen may always be trusted as the guardians of their own good behaviour.

Of course there are objectionable dances to be found in nearly every ball room, but always among the sterner sex. There is the clumsy man who jumps on your foot, and leaves it in its tiny shoe a crushed, and useless thing. And then, too, there is the volatile young man who has too many elbows, and who ever and anon manages to place one in the incautious eye of his neighbour.

But among the rank and file of society in Canada dancing of all kinds is as properly and perhaps as gracefully done as in the great world of London, and I am sure any reform in this matter must be brought about by some more potent a mentor than the one I have quoted.

Forgive me, Mr Editor, I feel that I am talking too much, but I do hope that the letter of the Montreal Witness will only find favour in the eyes of that limited class who are more ignorant than the writer.—Yours truly,

BELINDA.

Nov. 23, 1878.

EXAMINATION OF TEACHERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

Dear Sir,—As there is a good deal of feeling at present existing among certain members of the City Board of Public School Trustees and City Inspector concerning the examination of candidates for second-class certificates advertized by me to be held on the 16th proximo and following days at the Sydenham High School in compliance with official instructions sent me by the Education Department, Toronto, will you, therefore, please allow me to explain the whole matter to the thinking public through the columns of your paper.

On the receipt of the official instructions from the Education Department, I caused an advertizement for the examination of candidates for second class certificates for the county and city to be held at Sydenham to be put in the DAILY NEWS and CHRONICLE AND NEWS, for the information of all intending candidates. Applications were to be sent to me not later than the tenth instant. On the eleventh instant, I had only received one application from a county teacher, although expecting a number of applications from city teachers, who are at present teaching without legal certificates of qualification.

On the 13th instant, Mr Kidd, city Inspector, called upon me at my office in the Court House, and stated "that the city teachers would not go out to Sydenham but would be examined with the Intermediate candidates of the Collegiate Institute, Kingston." I replied by stating that I did not think they could, as the second class examination was advertized to be held at Sydenham, in order to save unnecessary expenses to the County. I further stated that I would not alter the place of examination as previously advertized, to suit the convenience of the city teachers, as they had as much right to go out to Sydenham to be examined with the County teachers, as the County teachers had to come to Kingston to be examined with them. Were I to change the previous notice of examination and appoint one instead in the city, the County would then be liable for the expenses of the same, which would be totally uncalled for. The city has not paid any share of the cost of the examination of teachers.

On the evening of the 16th instant, on receiving from Mr Knight, Rector of the Kingston Collegiate Institute, a list of the intending candidates for the intermediate examination of said Institute, I found that Mr Kidd had inserted in this list the names of the city teachers applying for examination for second-class certificates, which he had no right to do. Mr Knight and myself, as County School Inspector, only had a right to insert any names on said list. I, therefore, immediately sat down and wrote to the Honourable the Minister of Education protesting against these city teachers appearing for examination before Mr Kidd, he being their private tutor for several years past. I thought and do still think it very unfair on his part to have insisted that these teachers should appear before him, when all teachers and trustees of High Schools are prohibited by the Official School Regulations from entering or being in the room or rooms where the intermediate candidates of their school are being examined.

The following is a copy of the reply to my letters of the 13th and 16th instants, which will speak for itself:

"Toronto, 21 Nov., 1878.

"Sir,—I have the honour to state, in reply to your letters of the 13th and 16th instant, that the following communication has been sent to Mr Kidd, City Inspector: 'The County Inspector reports that you have acted as private tutor to several teachers in the city of Kingston, who desire to be examined before you as candidates for a higher degree of certificate. The Honourable the Minister of Education cannot too strongly express his disapprobation of such a course, and has desired me to intimate to you that unless a substitute be appointed to preside at the examination, none of the persons who have received instruction from you as reported can be permitted to attend at the examination to be held at Kingston. This applies particularly to the following parties reported by the County Inspector.

[The names of the persons are given but we do not consider it necessary to publish them.]

The Minister is desirous of precluding even the appearance of an opportunity in which any partiality might be exercised in connection with Departmental Examinations. He has met with so much difficulty in securing the requisite strictness in all of these examinations, that he feels it his duty to take every precaution."

"In order to obviate the necessity of these persons going to Sydenham for examination, you are requested to nominate a substitute to preside in your stead at Kingston.—I have the honour to be, sir, your obedient servant,

"J. GEORGE HODGINS,
"Deputy Minister of Education.

"John Agnew, Esq., M.D., School Inspector, County of Frontenac, Kingston."

Yours truly,

JOHN AGNEW,
County Inspector.

Miscellaneous.

The steamer Olive has tied up for the winter at Smith's Falls.

The Belleville Mechanics' Institute managers have instituted evening classes for the winter.

A scoundrel on Friday last cut down a number of trees in the Convent yard, Oshawa.

Dr. Holland has contributed 140 volumes to the Alexandria Bay Literary Society Library.

Haverley's minstrel organization is said to have netted $1,200 by one performance in Syracuse.

When you wake up at night and hear the baby crying, look out for danger—for there's a rock ahead.

Sixty-eight casks of beer were lately landed in Peterborough, where the Dunkin Act has been in force for eight months.

All the papers caution the correspondents against writing on both sides of the paper, and yet, it is but fair that both sides should be heard.

The Napanee Beaver informs the young ladies who were smoking cigars on Dundas street on Wednesday, where they will find second hand pantaloons.

The manufacturer's of St. John, N.B., have held a meeting and decided to form a Manufacturers' and Mechanics' Association, similar to the Montreal and other bodies.

The harbor of Montreal is assuming a wintry appearance. Shipping is gradually disappearing. There are only five ocean going vessels and a few small crafts at present in port.

The illuminations in Montreal on the occasion of the arrival of the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise will be very grand. The Bonaventure station will be gorgeously decorated.

A man named William Long, of Peterboro', in the employ of Gilmour & Co., was killed by a tree falling on him on their limits on Saturday. He leaves a wife and child to mourn his untimely end.

The risks of the Canada Agricultural Insurance Company, $28,000 of which required to be placed by the 10th instant, have been reinsured in the Agricultural Insurance Company of Watertown, N.Y.

Fashions.

Black silk is no longer in favour for dressy occasions.

Both flat and bullet shaped buttons are used for trimming.

Satin ribbon with a gay floral border is all the rage just at present.

Plaid scarfs, tied in a knot at one side, is a stylish garniture for girls' hats.

Kid gloves no longer match the dress, but are worn of some contrasting colour.

White barege trimmed with white satin, has come into fashion for bridal dresses.

Winter wrappings are long and ample, and finished by inch wide bands of fur.

Square silk handkerchiefs will be worn around the neck outside the cloak this winter.

Crocheted hoods for little children have a rushing inside, and a silk pompon to ornament the top.

Iridescent beads have appeared again to correspond with the rich colours of the new Exposition fabrics.

Velvet is used for trimming cloth and woolen materials this season, but it is not combined with silk as formerly.

The seal sacques of this season range from 33 to 40 inches long. The shapes are less clumsy, as they are made to fit the figure.

Handsome woolen fringes are made to match all the colours found in the bourette, biege and camels' hair materials used for fall and winter costumes.

Among colours, red is still in great favour in all shades, and has an admirable effect with gray and the different tints of ecru, bronze, beige and brown.

Fur trimmings are very extensively used. Nearly all furs now in use are made into borders so as to match the colours of cloaks and costumes.

A new fancy is to wear very long wristed black kid gloves, with light and dressy costumes of old gold, pink or mastic. White undressed kids are also very popular.

What is called seal-skin fringe is much used in trimming velvet cloaks and costumes. It is composed of fine chenille strands hanging straight without a heading.
