The Daily News.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JAN. 31.

The Ottawa Citizen says:—"Kingston is to Sir John Macdonald what Tiverton, in England, was to Lord Palmerston—his true and constant friend. Through good report and evil report she has never wavered in her attachment to him from the day when she first sent the 'curly headed boy' to Parliament—now nearly thirty years ago. And Sir John has not been underserving of the faith and confidence reposed in him by the leal hearted people of Cataraqui, as has been amply demonstrated when ever opportunity offered. We are reminded of all this on learning that Sir John is once more amongst his constituents, or will in a few hours, and that they intend to improve the occasion by inviting their distinguished member to a public banquet at an early day." The Citizen is slightly astray in this. Sir John is not yet here, but is expected in a few days. The banquet which awaits Sir John is not a "public banquet" but a recherche affair to be given by the Mayor, and to which, in addition to Sir John, the Hon. Alexander Campbell P. M. G. Sir Francis Hincks and the Hon. Alexander Morris have been invited.

At length an exposition has been made of the land and timber policy of the present government of Ontario. In the Legislative Assembly on Monday Messrs Ardagh and Deacon put questions to the Commissioner of Crown Lands in relation to this matter which resulted in an explanation by Mr Scott that it was not the intention of the government to introduce any special legislation, but Ministers intended to exercise the power which they already possessed of enforcing the law as regards the forfeiture of claims held by non-resident and land speculators, but of making such reduction as was right and proper in the case of bona fide settlers. The government had no intention this session to amend the Act at present in force as regards the settler's right of property in the timber, as it felt bound to respect vested interests created by certain payments, and arrangements previously entered into by the late government with those engaged in the lumber trade. Mr Scott said the government had no intention to apply the crown dues derived from timber for the benefit of the districts from which such a revenue was derived; it was not the policy of the government to create special funds for special purposes, but its policy would be to develop all such districts by the formation of Colonization roads and other means. The Commissioner also said it was the intention of the government to repeal the order-in-Council respecting squatters' patents, so that in future they should have them free of charge, and also that it was the intention to remit the balances due to the Crown by actual settlers in what are set apart as free grant townships.

It appears from these explanations that Mr Scott and his colleagues have been prevented from making their changes as extensive and complete as they would have desired, but we are glad to note that as far as they go they are marked by a desire to deal liberally with the actual settler, and to encourage agricultural settlement on the waste lands of the province. Non-residents do great injury to a young settlement by their neglect to carry on improvements, while they hope to benefit ultimately by the increased value of their land as affected by the improvements of others. This species of speculation is the curse of the back townships, and so far as the Crown has the power it should be the policy of the government to discourage it. This professedly the present government is disposed to do.

It is a shortcoming of Mr Scott that he has not declared his intention to give the actual settler the pine timber on his lot. At present the pine is reserved to the timber licensee of the limit, and it is a sore vexation to the settlers to see the lumberer invade his farm and carry off that which by its value would enable the settler to surmount the financial difficulties which beset him in subduing the wilderness to a state of cultivation. The law in force cannot of course be immediately altered, but it could be so altered without detriment to vested interests next year, and notice to this effect, made good by legislation the present session would give a great impulse to settlement.

On the other point, that of giving back to the timber districts in some shape the money which are derived from timber dues, the government has given an adverse decision. It has been a favourite argument with the advocate of railways projected to run in great part through the Crown domain that such public improvements were entitled to be aided out of the revenues which these districts were yielding to the province. The government, however, objects to the creation of special funds for special purposes. The Railway Act of last session embodies the main idea involved in the proposition, and the government besides carrying out this act promises to favour the opening up of the back country by constructing colonization roads, and other improvements to be paid for out of the consolidated Fund. The remission of balances due to the Crown by actual settlers in the townships since set apart for free settlement, is a legitimate collateral of the free grant policy and will be gladly hailed by these settlers. Mr Scott's land policy is all in the direction of liberality whilst his timber policy maintains the statu quo. In this way the member for Ottawa has replied to those who were so ready to charge him with a disposition to neglect the agricultural interests of the province and to favour unduly the interests of the lumberers. We hope the commissioners will go on in the way he has begun, and by his liberality and good judgement make his turn at the Crown lands office an era in the settlement and progress of the back country.

Cataraqui.—Sunday School Festival.—A very interesting meeting was held in the Town Hall, Cataraqui, on Tuesday evening last, the occasion being the annual festival of the children attending the Wesleyan Methodist Sunday School. The Rev. Richard Wilson, minister of the church, occupied the chair, and there was a very fair attendance. The children were on the platform just behind the chairman, and presented a very pleasing appearance. A plentiful tea, with "trimmings," having been partaking off, the business of the evening commenced, and consisted of dialogues, recitations and music by the children, and singing by the choir. Speeches were delivered by the Chairman, by Mr P. McKim, Cataraqui, by Messrs Arthur Chown and McFarlane, of Kingston, and by the Rev. Mr Young, of Pittsburgh, a former colleague of Mr Wilson in Cataraqui. The most pleasing feature of the evening was the distribution of prizes, consisting of Bibles and Testaments, to the children, who evidently received them with great pleasure. After a vote of thanks to the parties who had got up the music for the occasion, the meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

A Lunatic.—Catharine Dazie, a dangerous lunatic, arrived here from Hamilton for confinement in the Asylum last evening. Too late to gain admission to the Institution, the unfortunate woman, in custody of the deputy gaoler of the above mentioned place and a sister, remained in safe keeping at the police station over night, and left for Rockwood this morning.

Police Court, Wednesday.—Before Mr Strange, P.M.—Bridget Hayden, a respectably dressed married "lady" of somewhat refined manners, sailed into court and took her seat in the prisoner's dock with an air of considerable dignity—drunkenness was the charge. Her story was brief: She came from the American side a few days ago, and went on a visit to friends in Sydenham; came to the city yesterday, and feeling chilled and a little numbed, took "something warm"—the police think if only one glass it must have been a regular rozner—and the next sensation she realized was—indulging in balmy sleep in limbo. Being the first offence, she was read lesson No. 1 and dismissed.

Charity Sermon.—On last Sabbath the Rev. Father Langlake, an eloquent Jesuit divine of the diocese of Montreal, preached at the High Mass in St. Mary's Cathedral, and made a stirring appeal for pecuniary assistance on behalf of the funds of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, one of the most useful charitable associations of the city. A collection is usually taken up in the winter season for this object; but owing to the increased cases of indigency, and to the urgent necessity of enlarged supplies of fuel, an united effort was made to solicit assistance from the people. The appeal of the reverend father was productive of a liberal response, the contributions amounting to nearly $200. The reverend gentleman will remain in Kingston for a time, and will inaugurate what is termed "the Mission" on Friday evening next, on which occasion he will deliver an address.

Deputation to Toronto.—In accordance with the resolution passed at the late session of the County Council, the Warden, S. Shibley, Esq., and T. Dawson, Esq., proceeded to Toronto yesterday afternoon, respecting the crown lands of the county.

Professor Melville Bell has been prevailed on by some of his friends here to give two of his "literary evenings" next month. On the 13th and 14th of February he will read some of the pieces which have established his position in Britain and the States as one of the first masters of elocution. From many eulogies contained in old country papers we extract the following relating to Mr Bell's readings:—

The Long Room of the Rotunda was, as on two former occasions, densely crowded, and the Messrs Bell were frequently and warmly applauded. Yesterday was the last evening on which Mr A. Melville Bell intends appearing during the present course. This is much to be regretted, as his powers of elocution cannot be surpassed, and his rendering of the different characters which he undertook to delineate was almost most life-like. —Express (Dublin).

Messrs Bell's "Literary Evenings Extraordinary."—For our own Melville Bell the whole affair was a triumph, and his exquisite reading of "Rab and his Friends," his artistic adaptation of "The Merchant of Venice," and his comic and most amusing condensation of Aytoun's "How I became a Yeoman," was most graphically and ably performed.—Ladies' Journal (Edinburgh).

On Thursday evening Mr Bell gave Readings, Recitations, &c., in the Merchant's Hall. The audience was numerous and respectable, and the entertainment of a very superior order. His introductory lecture was very neat, and very gracefully delivered His Shaksperian Readings were exquisite. The beauties of "Hamlet" were brought out in a manner superior to anything we have heard. —Examiner (Glasgow).

Mr Bell read scenes from the play of "Hamlet," in which he showed great command and modulation of voice, as well as a thorough appreciation of the meaning of the text. Mr Bell's elocution is without affectation, and he displays a very clear perception of the sentiment of his author, which he imparts to his audience in a manner calculated to arrest attention and at the same time to please. It was a rich treat, and the audience listened with the most evident interest and pleasure. Mr Bell is an admirable reader, and his delineations of character are most truthful and effective.—N. B. Daily Mail (Glasgow).

In Boston, Mass., Mr Bell has obtained the highest praise, and as he has, like several old country celebrities, "fallen in love" with this Canada of ours, and made it his home, we hope that Kingston will show her readiness to appreciate the talent of her adopted son when he pays his promised visit.

Public Entertainments.—February is prolific of entertainments calculated to please the fancies and tastes of all classes. Among the latter mentioned are: A soiree in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wolfe Island, on Thursday, the 8th proxime, at which interesting addresses will be delivered by well and favourably known speakers. Music, of course, will enliven the proceedings. A ball is announced to come off on the 8th (Thursday evening) in Ontario Hall, under the management of the young men's Shamrock Benevolent Association, which, on behalf of its charitable object, it is to be hoped will be largely patronized by the benevolently inclined public. Our music-loving citizens will be furnished with treats of the most delectable nature in the grand concert of Prof. T. H. Smith (5th) and that under the auspices of the Masonic body, on the 12th, for both of which extensive preparations are in progress. The balls following each of the above cannot fail to be very attractive. In addition to all these Kingston will probably have a visit from Mr A. Melville Bell, the celebrated elocutionist, and a lecture by the no less celebrated talented orator, the Rev. T. S. Cartwright, of Ancaster, is also spoken of, so that our literary people have something good to look forward to in February.

Power's Marine Railway.—Shipbuilding as alluded to in a late issue, is unusually brisk during the present winter season, and for mechanics versed in that particular kind of work, there seems to be no lack of employment. The Marine Railway, under the energetic supervision of Mr Power, presents a lively business like aspect. There are several matters of which we might speak, but awaiting a more opportune time to enter into details, we will confine our comments to the re-building of the yacht Gorilla, owned by Captain C. Jifford, M.P.P., of Cobourg. Last fall she was hauled out on the ways for improvement (reconstruction would be the proper word.) Mr Jifford desired her remodelled and enlarged, yet wished to retain a portion bearing the name, by which she is so well known among the nautical community. Her former design was materially changed, six feet being added to her length, which makes her now some fifty feet over all. With these alterations little remains of the old Gorilla. Her cabin, 16x9 feet, finished in black walnut and ash, and lighted by windows of stained glass, will be fitted up with a view to comfort, convenience and accommodation, and with the new rigging and canvass, she will rank A 1 for appearance and sailing qualities. She will be completed by the opening of the yachting season.

Reminder.—The Sixpenny Readings at the Victoria Music Hall this evening.

Marched Out.—The Dominion Battery of Artillery, in occupation of Fort Henry and the Tete du Pont Barracks, under the command of Lt.-Col. French—a body of men of fine physical proportions and personnel—marched out to-day, proceeding up Princess street and returning by way of King street, presenting an excellent appearance. They forcibly reminded one of the many parades over the same route of the now disbanded Royal Canadian Rifles; but there was a prominent feature missing—the spirited strains of the band.

The High Price of Wood.—At worst the extremely high price of wood asked and obtained for all kinds of fuel cannot prevail beyond the opening of navigation. Upon inquiry we learn that the Rideau Canal banks are piled in many places with large quantities of excellent cordwood at reasonable rates. Then again a gentleman from Toronto informs us that the railways penetrating the counties in that district, furnish ample supplies of that article for the demands of the western metropolis, so that shipments from here will be unnecessary. We trust the statements will be found correct, and that the bright expectations will be more than realized.

Stage Line.—The Utica and Black River Railroad is progressing favourably, having reached Watertown, and its projectors, it is said, intend pushing the road as speedily as possible to the selected terminus at Cape Vincent. In the interim it is contemplated to establish a line of stages to conduct and share in the traffic between Kingston and Watertown According to accounts the scheme seems feasible.

Tea-Meeting on Wolfe Island.—A very successful entertainment was given last evening in the Town Hall, Marysville (Wolfe Island) in aid of Trinity Church. The attendance was very large, filling the capacious room to its utmost capacity—many persons were present from the city, to whom was afforded the additional luxury of an excellent sleigh drive across the ice by moonlight. After the good things had been disposed of to the satisfaction of the audience, the proceedings were varied by an introductory address by the Rev William Shortt, pastor of the Church and chairman of the evening. Then followed the musical programme, composed of select pieces by the Misses Reyner, Misses Merrick, Captain Swales, Professor Smith, Messrs Spriggs and Keeley, who kindly contributed their assistance. Excellent readings were delivered by Mr Thomas Alexander and Mr J. Muckleston, succeeded by a speech by Dr. Henry Skinner, of a practical character. Everything passed off successfully, which favourable result will no doubt lead to its repetition, in which case a full house may be confidently expected.

FROM TORONTO.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—The Telegraph, in its new dress is received with various degrees of favour. Large savings are expected in the office with at least as good a paper as before.

A merchant named Morran, who has been doing heavily in the pork trade is said to have cleared. His liabilities are said to be very heavy.

Markets firm; No. 1 fall sold at $1,30; No 2. at $1,28; A large lot of No. 1 barley sold at 67 cents.

The Fisheries Returns for the season of 1871 from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick show a large increase in value. The increase is attributed to the protection afforded by the Dominion cruisers against the Americans, and the enforcing of proper regulations for the reclaiming and preservation of the spawning grounds.
