WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 31.

Queen's College—Professor Watson.

Arrangements have been completed for the appointment of Mr John Watson for the Professorship of Logic, Metaphysics and Ethics. Mr Watson is a graduate of Glasgow University. When he took the degree of M.A. it was with the highest honours in the department over which he is to preside in Queen's College. When a student he had no equal in Logic, Metaphysics and Moral Philosophy. The very highest testimony which a well known, distinguished body of men can unite in giving has been borne to his attainments and character. 'Principal Snodgrass has had several interviews with him, and is perfectly satisfied that he will be a decided acquisition to the professional staff of Queen's. Dr. Barclay, Principal of Glasgow University testifies that "in general Literature he is unquestionably an accomplished scholar, and in philosophy he has proved himself to be a profound and original thinker." Mr Veitch, Professor of Logic and Rhetoric, says "he has shown a very remarkable aptitude for speculative investigation," and that he is "fully abreast of the philosophical thought of the time." Mr Caird, Professor of Moral Philosophy, writes of him—"In ten years of teaching Philosophy I have had no equal to him, either in extent and accuracy of knowledge or clearness and depth of thought. His literary skill is very considerable. He has a remarkable power of expressing subtle thought in distinct and accurate language, and of arraying them in natural and logical order." Mr Nichol, Professor of English Literature, says that his command of clear and vigorous English and his accurate knowledge of our leading authors ought to weigh in his favour. Some years ago he was facile princeps in the Logic and Moral Philosophy classes. His work, which has come directly under my notice, is conclusive as to his power of grasping and expounding difficult subjects." The celebrated Dr. Caird gives his opinion in the most emphatic terms, thus: "It is doing Mr Watson no more than justice to say that he is one of the most able and accomplished students I have ever had to do with. Whatever he writes bears the staunch of careful reflection and independent thought. He writes in a clear, simple, and nervous style in never wasting words, yet never obscure. He is not only a vigorous thinker, but equally capable of imparting to others the results of his thought. I have seldom known a man who could present recondite subjects in a form of expression so lucid and simple." Principal Snodgrass, after having repeatedly seen Mr Watson, confirms the opinion, uniformly expressed by those who know Mr Watson, that he is a gentleman of great moral amiability and kindliness of manner. He has been twice appointed examiner of candidates for the civil service. On a recent public occasion the Professors of Philosophy, in Glasgow College, declared his criticism of Hume's Philosophy to be superior to anything they knew of on the same subject in the English language.

The authorities of Queen's University are to be congratulated on the prompt and promising manner in which they have been able to fill up the important vacancy which Mr Watson is engaged to supply.

The City Election in Connexion with the Temperance Cause.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

Sir,—Though, being a life-long Reformer, I cannot conscientiously vote for Mr Carruthers, and I will briefly state why: I am, and have been for many years, interested in a reform which far surpasses in magnitude and importance the question whether John A. or George Brown shall rule—a reform of the drinking usages of society, that when it comes, and it is surely coming, shall change the whole social and political face of society; it will banish crime, destitution and want from our land, and on the ruins of this detestable system, raise a superstructure dedicated to religion, morality and virtue. Temperance reformers had long sought to identify the Government with reform in this direction, and after years of agitation, obtained a restrictive measure dependent on the will of a majority of the people; and taking a step in advance, true social reformers have unmistakeably demanded the abolition of the traffic in fermented liquors altogether.

Well, sir, I ask how can men who have identified themselves with this progressive party,—men who have worked, and spoken, and sung too on our platform, conscientiously support Mr Carruthers, himself a wholesale dealer in this abomination; a man who does not dispense it in driblets, but floods it through the country by the hogshead and the barrel. He has not even the excuse of a retailer, who carries on the business for a living, but this man of wealth sacrifices the lives and the souls of his fellow men to increase his already ill-gotten gains. It was Mr Carruthers and his partner McRae who were instrumental in defeating the Dunkin Bill in Napanee last spring. The latter respectable individual might have been seen dispensing the liquid poison in the streets, and using every means in his power to frustrate the good work of the temperance reformers. Had it not been for him and his organization, the bill would have become law.

I shall narrowly watch the conduct of my friends who have long sat with me at the council board of our order, and I shall be able to judge, who and who are not the true friends of the temperance cause.—Yours, &c.,

ARCHE.

Kingston, July 30.

THAT BAND.—The Y.M.S.B.A. band, arranged to call at the City Hotel and serenade Sir John where he had been holding a meeting. They then agreed to go the British American where Sir John was, the band were unanimous with the exception of one person, who played a leading instrument, and who could not be done without, and who ran away. These are the facts.
