hungry, not being able to tackle the fat pork alone. However, at night some Indians who had been sent for supplies, in canoes, returned, bringing with them two days' provisions.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 17.

INDEPENDENCE OF PARLIAMENT.—The Quebec Legislature is making great strides towards an improved method of doing business in many ways. Principally would we note the bill which has been carried through the Local House for better securing the independence of Parliament. It was brought forward under the full intention of doing away with cases of undue influence by any means in the affairs of Parliament by any person holding or receiving any office of emolument under the crown. The great battle has been fought over two words. The bill as first introduced by M. Chapleau contained the words "any permanent employment," and it was amended by the opposition by inserting after "permanent" the words "or temporary," and in this shape it has passed its final reading, and has been sent up to the Council. In our remarks in Saturday's issue on the action of the Council on the question of dual representation, we stated that if an agitation was to be commenced for the abolition of the Upper Chamber, it must be on a question of grave importance, and the "Lords" will need to look carefully at this measure, for there is no doubt that the time has come when all reasonable men are about tired of having placeman in office, and while the words "or temporary" may seem a small matter, in reality they contain a great deal. The only way to secure absolute safety is by taking all means to prevent injury; and if the Quebeckers are to have a stringent law on the subject, the firmer its enactments are the better it will result for all parties.

The late action of Mr Joly on the question of the right of the Hon. Joseph Cauchon to occupy a seat in the Local House turned mainly on this question, and his resignation was a very strong acknowledgment by him, that his position was not secure. There can be no two opinions on the merits of the question, and the Council will show itself alive to the responsibility of their office by passing the measure as they have received it. They have vindicated their right to a fair and independent action on the machinery of the Province by their rejection of the Dual Bill, but it might not be wise in so short a time afterwards to bring themselves forward too prominently. The measure cannot hurt them in the least by becoming law, and their wisest plan, will be to yield with a good grace to the inevitable, with the consciousness at the same time that their action will gain them a more solid footing than they now have.

In noticing a few events in the life of Viscountess Beaconsfield whose sickness we alluded to in a recent issue and whose death is reported by cable telegram to have taken place on Sunday at noon we remarked that she was the guiding star of her husband. She never faltered in giving him assistance in his most trying hours, and on one occasion when Mr Disraeli was to make one of his masterly oratorical efforts, his wife and he entered a cab to be driven to the Parliament House. In closing the door, the lady's fingers were squeezed to such an extent that for weeks she was unable to use her hand. Although suffering the most acute agony, neither by voice nor gesture did she allow a single movement to escape until Mr Disraeli left the cab at the door of the House. She then could support herself no longer, and after changing a friend who accompanied them not to let her husband know for fear it should disturb him, anything of her trouble, nature gave way and she swooned in very pain. Her husband almost adored her, and although there was a great disparity in their years, their life was the most happy. No child is left to mourn her loss. The great conservative leader has to bear her loss, supported by the sympathy of all classes of her Majesty's subjects.

DAY OF PRAYER.—The need of missionaries for some time past has been keenly felt in the christian world. As early as the month of May last, the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel addressed the Archbishop of Canterbury requesting His Grace to sanction the 20th of December as a day to be observed by the whole Anglican Communion throughout the world "for united intercessions to the Lord of the Harvest who alone can raise up and send forth an adequate number of men fitted to carry the gospel of salvation to the heathen." The Archbishop gladly sanctioned the arrangement, and stated that he considered the day named well chosen for the purpose. The Church Missionary Society were also communicated with and cordially concurred in the matter. The Bishops of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada had the subject under consideration at their meeting at Ottawa on the 6th of November, when they composed a form of prayer suitable for the occasion. It is well known that the want of missionaries for our home missions is very much felt in Canada and in our own diocese of Ontario several missions are vacant, and many more might be opened were the supply of men at all adequate. The church has done well, then, in appointing a special day for intercession at the throne of grace for the appointment of more labourers to the harvest.

On Friday next we learn that there will be a Union Service at St. George's Cathedral at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. At the morning service the Holy Communion will be administered, and the offertory at both morning and evening service will be dedicated to the Algoma Bishopric Fund. We hope there will be large congregations and liberal offerings. This is the first time the Church of England has called upon her members to make such a united effort. It is to be most earnestly hoped that there will be a fervent and universal response to the appeal.

RIDEAU WARD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

SIR,—As the late ward meeting the two ex-Aldermen after airing their own excellencies gave vent to their ill-feeling against the gentlemen now representing Rideau Ward. Those who know Messrs Briggs, Gibson and McIntyre must admit that in business tact and general intelligence they far excel the two ex-aldermen as most had been red herring, and we do hope that the discriminating electors of the ward will show their good judgment by placing them at the head of the poll, as they did at the last election.

We think the ex-Aldermen displayed bad judgment and showed their want of tact by referring to the expense of the "flag staff," as the said flag staff was ordered when one of the ex-Aldermen was Mayor, and the other X— was sitting at the Council Board. So that when they were unwittingly condemning this act they were impugning their own action, and out of their own mouth they stand self-condemned. Now Messrs Briggs and McIntyre had nothing whatever to do with this flag staff expense, be the transaction good or bad, as they were not then members of the City Council. Those ex-Aldermen lay the flattering unction to their souls that they were the Simons pure of the corporation. They should not forget the old adage that "Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones," or it may be shown that they themselves were not over economic of the city funds. It has been rumoured that some ex-Aldermen have taken a large sum from the city funds to which they had no legal claim, and that this money was abstracted without either the sanction or knowledge of the City Council. If this rumour has any foundation, in fact, the Mayor and Council should at once investigate into the matter, and cause the money to be refunded to the City Treasurer, or if the rumour should not be found true, then clear those implicated from all blame.—Yours,

CATARAQUI.

Kingston, Dec. 17.

RIDEAU WARD ELECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY NEWS.

SIR,—I presume you are aware there are six candidates seeking municipal honours from the electors of Rideau Ward. Many things are said just now that are not true, and some that are true, and among the rest is that Mr Laws is not qualified by law to sit as an Alderman, although he should be elected by the people.

Now, sir, I want my vote to tell in the return of some three good men to represent said ward, and would not like to promise my vote to any one of the six, if I thought he were only qualified to run as an opposition to a qualified man.

Would you, then, sir, with your usual urbanity inform myself and others alike situated, if Mr Laws is qualified or not. It may be thought strange that I seek such information from you. Well, sir, I am one of those who believes there are honest men in the Conservative ranks, who would neither cheat, nor lie, to further party purposes, and as one of such I humbly ask the above favour of you, while I shall, in duty bound, remain yours,

A VOTER.

Kingston, 17th Dec., 1872.

[We really cannot tell anything about Mr Laws' qualification. We scarcely think he would seek municipal honours if he had not the necessary qualification. Still our respected correspondent can easily satisfy himself by enquiring at the City Clerk's office.—ED. NEWS.]

POLICE COURT, TUESDAY.—(Before Mr Strange, P.M.)—Nicholas Ellis, for excessive tibulism, was ordered to pick up his traps and walk, which he did. His next offence will be an expensive one. Another tipler paid his $2 and left a sadder but precious little a wiser man.

ANOTHER STAMPEDE.—This morning a farmer's team bolted off the market and indulged in a lively race for several blocks. It is somewhat remarkable that they collided with nothing, or did no damage among the many vehicles and numbers of people on the square where they started they dashed along from King to Princess street, thence up as far as Montreal street, near Geraldi's Hotel, where the runaways were captured. Accidents from this source are attributable in most instances to the owner's indifference. In winter, colts are invariably "broken in," in doing which greater caution should be exercised by the parties having them in charge.

The Treasurer of the Poor Relief Fund acknowledges with thanks the sum of $24.05 from S. Harper, Esq., being the amount collected at the united thanksgiving service held in Chalmers' Church on Nov. 14, 1872.

THE WOOD MARKET.—For several days the fuel market has been plentifully supplied, and besides the great quantity that is constantly arriving, the price has taken a downward tendency, which is a still greater source of rejoicing. Good hard wood averages $4 a load. The sleighing on the country roads is not the best, but will likely hold out until bettered by a fresh fall of snow which appears to be close at hand.

REV. J. P. DUMOULIN.—We omitted to state yesterday that the Bishop-elect of Algoma was a Master of Arts of Queen's College. It is singular that the first graduate of a Canadian University, elected to the high and holy office of a chief pastor in the Anglican Church, should be a graduate of the Presbyterian University of this city. It would be a graceful act if the authorities of Queen's College at their next Convocation should recognise the high position in the Church gained by the reverend gentleman, and honour him, and themselves at the same time, by conferring a more honourable degree.

NEW LOCOMOTIVE.—Another of the many splendid narrow gauge locomotives for the Great West Railway left the Canadian Engine and Machinery Works yesterday. They are greatly admired; the workmanship is simply superb.

Meeting of Medical Students.

A meeting of the students of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons was held in the general lecture room on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of electing a delegate to represent them at the forthcoming meeting of the Medical Council to be held at Toronto.

Dr. Fowler was unanimously chosen to preside and Mr K. N. Fenwick, B.A., was appointed Secretary.

Dr. Fowler in taking the chair, stated the object of the meeting. A telegram had been received, that the Board had signified their intention of considering certain resolutions which had been sent to them from the students of the several medical schools of Toronto, Kingston, and Montreal. He said it was desirable to send a delegate to represent the students, and a letter had been received stating that the delegate should be a final student. The chairman then asked if any one had any motion to make.

Mr Dayward moved, seconded by Mr Hooper that the voting be conducted by ballot.

Mr Claxton moved seconded by Mr Kennedy, that the secretary record the votes for the respective candidates on the blackboard. The motion and amendment were then put to the meeting and the former was carried.

Mr Claxton then moved that Mr Lavell be sent as a delegate, and in proposing him he said that some ill-feeling had arisen as to this gentleman being sent since he was the son of one of the members of the Council, and that, thus he would not be likely to represent the true feelings of the students. He thought this was an unfounded motion, and that Mr Lavell would carry out to the letter, any promises which he should make. They should send a man who was interested in the Council, who also would see to having their grievances removed, and who intended going before the Council; not one who had denounced the Council, and stated on a previous occasion that he did not intend to go before it.

The motion was seconded by Mr Case.

An amendment was then moved by Mr Lane that Mr McLellan be sent as delegate. In bringing forward Mr McLellan he said the charges made against him were unfounded. Mr McLellan did intend to present himself before the Council, but not as it now stood, what he intended was to have the act amended so that it should afford protection against "quacks" &c., but not that the Council should be abolished altogether. The amendment was seconded by Mr McMahon.

The chairman then announced that if any one had anything to say with reference to the respective candidates they would now be permitted to do so.

Mr Walkem said he would like to see the act amended so as to afford protection, and thus give some return for the amount of money which the students had to expend. He thought the onus was put on the students to pay for benefits accruing to the profession at large. He thought Mr McLellan would represent the determined opinions of the students.

Mr Tuttle said that he had a choice, and a reason for that choice. He thought that Mr Lavell was a better man to represent them than Mr McLellan, inasmuch as the former had passed one examination before the council, while the latter had expressed his opinion against the council on every occasion, and his intention of not going before it. He thought Mr Lavell the more proper person of the two to send as a delegate, and that the very fact of his father being in the council was a beneficial rather than an objectionable feature.

Mr Lane said there was no ground for opposing Mr McLellan in the fact of his not having gone up for examination at the end of his 3rd year, that Mr McLellan did intend to go before the Board if the Act should be amended, and that if he passed both examinations at the end of his 4th year he would deserve all the more credit.

Several other gentlemen uttered their sentiments after which the chairman appointed Mr Claxton and Mr Lane to act as scrutineers, and the secretary distributed the ballot papers. These having been collected and examined by the scrutineers, the chairman announced Mr McLellan elected by one of a majority.

Mr McLellan then rose to thank those gentlemen who had elected him, and said he would carry out all the sentiments of the students to the utmost of his ability. He said his remarks at a previous meeting had been misconstrued. He thought the council had been productive of good, but that it might have done more good. Students go up before the Board expecting to get protection from "quacks," and still they meet them in every direction. Every student who goes before the Board has to pay $50, and if he pays this he deserves to receive some recompense, which it is certain he does not now obtain. The Board should extend its wings and afford the protection they so much desired. In conclusion he would be glad to receive any instructions which those present should suggest.

It was then moved by Mr McMahon, seconded by Mr Lane that Mr McLellan should take with him to Toronto a copy of the resolutions which were passed at a previous meeting as his guide.

These resolutions were as follows:—

1st. "Whereas the medical students of Ontario, while recognising the benefits conferred on the medical profession generally through the establishment of a Central Examining Board for the examination of students in medicine, feel that the Act has signally failed in its main object, viz., in securing protection to regularly licensed practitioners (inasmuch as the country is literally filthed with quacks, druggists, and others with questionable qualifications, who, in open defiance of the presumed intention of the said Medical Act, are openly practising medicine, surgery, and midwifery, to the detriment of legally qualified practitioners); it is therefore resolved that they unanimously demand that the Medical Council of Ontario take action during the ensuing session of the Ontario Legislature with a view to secure for the profession the protection so much desired."

2nd. "That, whereas the said medical students of Ontario, considering that the fees charged by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario to be candidates for examination before that body for the license granted by them, are exorbitant, they request that the said fees be reduced to the sum of $30, the said sum to include that for matriculation."

3rd. "That, whereas the said students of Ontario, feeling the great inconvenience arising from the want of printed questions at the said examinations, demand that the questions propounded to candidates be handed to them hereafter in a printed form."

4th. "That the rejected candidates for examination shall have the privilege of either withdrawing the amount usually refunded, or having it in the Treasurer's hands; and in the event of going up for examination again no further fees be demanded from them," that the Medical Council be requested to take such steps as to secure the recognition of Canadian University Degrees in Great Britain, and on the securing of that desired recognition, that licensed practitioners of Great Britain be recognized in Canada and allowed to pursue their profession without undergoing any examination, but simply by paying a registration fee.

Mr Lavell moved seconded by Mr Tuttle, that those students who agreed to the resolutions, and intended to present themselves before the Council at any time, should signify the same by standing up. The result was unanimous.

Votes of thanks were then heartily tendered to the chairman for the very efficient manner in which he had presided; and also to the secretary, the meeting closed.

SMALL-POX.—A PITIABLE CASE.—Late yesterday afternoon a female stole her way to the city from the vicinity of the village of Battersea, to have her admitted into the Kingston General Hospital for treatment of the small-pox with which she was prostrated and in painful suffering. Application was made to the house surgeon of the Hospital, but he referred the anxious and melancholy husband to the Mayor for instructions and advice. His Worship very justly declined to in any way connect himself with the case, and thus the unfortunate man in seeking the authority necessary for to obtain proper medical attendance, carted the patient through several streets, much to the danger of the public, who would have found cause for considerable excitement had they been aware of the fact. It may seem great inhumanity in the estimation of some that the applicant should have found such difficulty in securing the requisite treatment the Hospital facilities afford, and especially so when, as far as we can understand, the unhappy couple concerned were in very humble circumstances; but the city has no right to shoulder an expenditure which is certainly the debt of the county. This case is a pitiable one, one that elicits our sincere sympathy for the parties therein mentioned; and we hope they will receive the cordial hospitality and kindness of the city. But at the same time let us suggest that the county should immediately make adequate provision for the sick—those at least afflicted with small-pox.

Owing to the pressure on our columns we are obliged to hold over until to-morrow a report of the Sabrevois Missionary meeting and communication of "G. S."

Mrs Machar acknowledges with thanks the sum of $50 received from Mr Watkins for appropriation to warm clothing for the female inmates, and additional comforts for the sickly and aged in the House of Industry.

CONCERT.—To-morrow evening the excellent programme, for which we refer our readers to another column, will be rendered in the City Hall. The deserving object of the entertainment, to assist in the purchase of the new organ now being built by the Messrs Warren, of Montreal, in the Queen Street Wesleyan Church, should alone attract an audience. At anyrate the intrinsic merit of the programme will certainly draw a crowded house. The Tandy Bros. will certainly be well sustained by the able staff of assistants which they have secured, and we make no doubt that the concert will prove to be one of the best entertainments of the season.

THE BAY OF QUINTE.—A survey of the Bay at different points above the harbour, with a view of building a bridge connecting Belleville with Prince Edward is now being made. The idea of building a bridge across the Bay is fast taking hold of the public mind, and we should not be surprised to see such a structure before many years, so remarks the Intelligencer.

THE NEW ORGAN.—The new and handsome organ, built by the Messrs Warren, of Montreal, has been shipped, and is daily expected in Kingston. One of the firm and a skilled mechanic arrived in the city to-day in advance of the instrument, although the latter was forwarded some considerable time previous to the departure of these gentlemen. The organ will not be so large in size or powerful in tone as the one in Sydenham Street Church, but it will have a very handsome appearance, and will answer the requirements of the edifice in which it will be placed. The frame and panel work will be of superior quality, and the pipes will be somewhat different—the groundwork being of gilt, elegantly illuminated—the first and only one of this pattern in the Dominion. The gallery for its reception is not completed, but is so far advanced that as soon as the organ reaches here its erection will be commenced forthwith—a task which will only occupy a couple of days. Service, in consequence of these alterations, was held in the basement on Sunday last.
