RICHMOND & BOYDEN are showing a splendid range of light colored silks for evening wear.

THE FERRY.—The str. Pierrepont did not make a start for the Islands to day as expected. She will probably commence running to morrow.

POLICE.—Samuel Costello, drunk, fined $2 or 15 days. Thos. Mercer, drunk, fined $2 or 15 days. Robert Campion, vs. Thomas McCrae, case of wages. Judgment reserved until the 20th.

PORTSMOUTH.—On Tuesday next, the 10th inst., the members of Ontario Lodge No. 80, U.T.A., will hold a private social in the Town Hall, Portsmouth. A very enjoyable time may be expected.

ILLUSTRATED.—The "Canadian Illustrated News" of this week is a spicy number. It has a capital cartoon, portraits of Mayor Beaudry, of Montreal, Rev. W. S. Ransford, President Hayes and Cabinet, and other illustrations, which, with the reading, make it a publication much sought after.

PHILHARMONIC.—It is proposed to organize a Philharmonic Association, which will include the leading local vocalists and instrumentalists. The suggestion is looked upon with favour by some of those to whom the subject has been broached, and success seems certain if the preliminaries are only conducted to most popular opinion.

THE SURETIES.—Tom Allen, the pugilist, who recently visited Kingston, dodged the law and escaped punishment for his prize-fight with Joe Goss, but the property of Farrell Bros., near Covington, Kentucky, has been levied on to satisfy the bail-bond for $3,000, on which they were sureties for the return of him to stand trial.

THE CENTENNIAL AWARDS.—The medals for the Canadian exhibitors at the Centennial Exhibition, and the certificates, have been forwarded to their destinations by Mr. Perrault, the Secretary. Weber & Co. are in receipt of those testimonals of their great success in a line not hitherto a competitive one on Canada's part.

THE CAB STAND.—We fancy the Police Commissioners made a mistake when they appointed Wellington street, from Wellington street to St. George's Hall as a cab stand. The effect was seen to-day; the sidewalk was blockaded in the vicinity of the letter boxes, and ladies have a reluctance and a dislike to squeeze through a body of men in order to reach a given point even on business.

"THE CANADIAN ACCOUNTANT.—Mr. Patient, the agent of the above work, is now canvassing the city and meeting with great success. The work is highly recommended by such leading commercial journals as the Monetary Times, Journal of Commerce, Globe, and Montreal Witness, and our merchants speak highly of it as a reference book for business men. Agents wanted. Apply to T. Patient, Albion Hotel, Kingston.—Adv't.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF HIM?—In our weekly edition an advertisement asks for information of the whereabouts of a young man named George Hardy, who left the house of Mr. Smith, in Storrington, with whom he resided, to set traps, and failed to return. Some accident may have befallen the young man, or he may have gone hence. In any event his friends would be pleased to learn anything of him, and thus relieve their minds of a deal of anxiety.

I.P.B.A.—This evening the concert of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Association will take place in the Victoria Music Hall. It has merit—it has a number of very pleasant features—and we doubt not those who attend it will enjoy themselves in a large measure. We hope the evening will be fine—that the ominous clouds which float across the horizon as we write will not drop and drown us for clad in wet garments the music must be of a peculiarly sweet nature penetrate the inmost recesses of the soul.

HURRAH FOR PITTSBURGH!—The following paragraph is clipped from the Saginaw Courier, and speaks well for Canadian muscle. Three of the young men mentioned are natives of Pittsburgh:

"BIG WORK DONE.—In Dunning & Flynn's camp, on Chippewa river, 600 logs were loaded on sleighs in one day by James Tood and James Gibbons, hauled over one mile by four teams, unloaded, marked and piled on a flat bank by Matthew and Richard Joyce from Kingston, Canada. Joyce brothers have sawed in one day 275 logs on Rifle river and 1,200 in one week. They claim to be the champion sawyers of the valley."

WIND WAFTS.

—Such dark nights!

—One day nearer dry streets and eternity.

—What Kingston wants and must have is a free postal delivery. Agitate for it.

—Who sent the turkeys and who got the turkeys?

—Mr. C. Switzer, of Switzerville, died very suddenly on Monday evening. Heart disease.

—Missionary meetings in Brock street Presbyterian and Chalmers' Churches last evening.

—The snow in the park seems to have just noticed that sign "Five dollars fine for getting on the grass."

—Potatoe bugs now stop reporters on the street corners to ask for favourable notices, or to have their names left out of the paper.

—The Rev. Mr. Allen, of Kingston, will preach in the Methodist Church, Napanee, next Sunday, both morning and evening.

—Of the many who are indifferent to the presence of grandeur or pathos, some sleep, some laugh, and a few yawn candidly.

—Bishop O'Brien and a number of clergymen and gentlemen accompanying him visited the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, Belleville, yesterday.

Father Murphy, of Belleville, was presented with an address and purse, after the presentation to Vicar General Farrelly, on Monday morning.

—The base ball epidemic has broken out in N. Y., State this spring with renewed virulence. Already the exitement is wrought up to the highest pitch, and, what's more, it appears to be catching too.

—It is said that the crop of hand organs this summer will be large. There is a firm in the States that turns out three a day. The latest invention is a rack to hold the music in front of the performer. Oh! Hagony!

—The cabmen have a grievance. The Police Commissioners want them to stand on south side of Ontario street in the mud—there being no sidewalk on which to stand or their patrons promenade.

—One of the most assuring symptoms of sunny weather is the kindly tone in which rural journals refer to tramps. They are no longer dirty, ragged, villainous in expression and conduct; but unhappy wayfarers in whom Providence—after the sparrows have been cared for—may manifest some interest.

Oh! carve me yet another slice,
O help me to more gravy still,
There's naught so sure as something nice
To conquer care, or grief to kill.

I always loved a bit of beef,
When Youth and Bliss and Hope were mine;
And now it gives my heart relief
In sorrow's darksome hour—to dine.

Public Reading Room,

In Kingston nothing is more wanted—at least the want most often asserting itself—than a public reading room and library, where the best and current literature of the day can be read and the mind improved, when the intellectual person is so inclined. The Public School Library is really supplying a purpose for which it was not originally intended—that is, its field of usefulness is extended beyond the schools, and at present we find while books are being continually added to the catalogues, that in the same ratio the demand for books by the reading public is increasing. The Y.M.C.A. rooms are the resort of the friends of the Association, but there are still very many who are not permitted to enjoy the benefits of either place. What is urgently required is an institution to which all can have access, and where all can be accommodated on equal terms. It has been suggested that the Mechanics' Institute and Public School libraries should be amalgamated, and that large and suitable quarters should be selected, say over Wilkinson's shop, where the arrangements could be perfected for giving the citizens the benefit of cheap and free reading. We do not wish to say aught against the Mechanics' Institute, but it has not been supported as it should, and it is a pity it should suspend, because it has yet many features to commend it to the approval and endorsement of the public; but its object would not be impaired by union with the School Board library—on the contrary, both would be improved as the constituent parts of one grand body, and the volumes of valuable books under the direction of the representative institutions would have wider circulation and accomplish a greater amount of good. And it may be that some generous person—following the worthy example of that illustrious Watertown lady recently—may donate a handsome contribution towards the further improvement of the same. Let us hope so at any rate. The School Board will meet this evening. Will some one agitate the question, and let us see whether the proposal is believed to be feasable and advisable?

A BAD STAND.—The cabmen, too, have their grievances over the new stand as well as the public. The Ontario Street stand is a muddy one, and there are no houses or board walk on that side upon which the vehicles are ranged, it being the future esplanade. There is, therefore, no place for the drivers to stand there, and no shelter or fit standing place for the horses. There does not seem to be any very good reason why the drivers should not be better accommodated, by giving them a place on the opposite side of the street, close to the sidewalk, or in giving them permission to occupy part of their old stand, opposite the telegraph office.

A MUCH NEEDED ARTICLE.—All will agree that there is a long standing and well ripened demand for a popular history of Canada; and within the boundaries of the Dominion Tuttle's Illustrated History will not only receive a hearty, enthusiastic welcome in all English reading homes, but will carry into those homes an inspiration that cannot fail to quicken the energies and intensify the loyal pride of every reader. W. W. Field, agent.

MRS. KENT MASON CLAYTON did not succeed well in her lectures in Napanee. The Standard says that what with the demands of the poor, of the church, and of self, the folks have been entertained and lectured to repletion and cannot be expected to respond to every invitation, even though the charge be only ten cents.

"ALL ALONE AND IN THE DARK."

A Visit from a Family of Fairies.

Ever since the comedian sang in comic refrain of the fun it was to be all alone and in the dark, down among the coals, various expedients have been adopted tending to give the seekers of romance and amusement an opportunity to indulge their fancies. We were reminded but two days ago, by the return of one of the parties concerned in the affair, of the hermetic and at the same time thieving life led by two young negroes at Kingston Mills, where, deep down in the recesses of a rocky cliff, the pair of youthful Africans passed their hours by day in dreamy solitude, and the span of time between dusk and dawn in an inspection of the premises of residents of the locality, from whom they managed to pilfer enough to keep them from suffering the pangs of hunger, which is perhaps the greatest weakness with which man is afflicted, whether healthy or unhealthy. But the young lads of whom we speak finally suffered a reverse. They made their raids upon the maternal savings, and then retribution followed. The pair were induced to bid adieu to the hole in the side of the hill, and hied away west, where, in a large and well managed Government institution, they spent five years, and learned something more useful than the art and science of butchering other people's sheep. But this circumstance only leads to the main part of our story. On Saturday last another discovery was made. It was found that beneath a large manufacturing establishment—in which mind you a watchman parades the floor the live long night with a lamp in one hand and a pistol in the other—some persons had burrowed a hole through which they gained access to an apartment in the cellar, which had been for some time unoccupied, and in which were found all that could be considered necessary, under the peculiar circumstances, to afford comfort and contentment. There was an abundance of provisions—a plentiful supply of dainties even—the furnishing, tho' rude in shape, fixture and design, was yet of a nature that would not not be questioned where darkness was the prevailing element and the critical eye of the critical citizen was not ogling around for defects in style. But who lived here? Not a soul knows, and the wisest men that we have consulted have been unable to throw out the least conjecture. The opening in the foundation was traced to the grating in the sidewalk, but no one ever heard or saw man, woman or child appear and disappear in its vicinity. And yet the cake, cheese and wine never found their way into the corner of a celler, and a scrap of music would not be pinned to the stone wall, marked by greasy fingers, unless some of our amateurs sought this retreat wherein to practice their various selections before delivering them in the presence of a long suffering public. There is some mystery connected with the affair, and the more we aim to unravel it the more do we become mystified. It has been suggested that this has been the haunt of fairies—those little people whom nobody can tell anything of excepting that when they are around something uncommon is sure to happen. The idea has been scouted only to be again taken up and conned over with greater interest and curiosity, and when last we heard from the neighbourhood in which the sensation occurred, the opinion was gaining ground that the "wee people" had been there, and that henceforth they were not to be confined to superstitious Ireland—that they are just as liable to emigrate as Patrick and Jamesy and Norah, and that verily a family had settled in the classic confines of Kingston. Fairies have never been known to reside where other folks have intruded, and doubtless they are seeking new, quiet and more reserved quarters. Reader, your cellar may be the chosen paradise, and as you peruse these rambling lines it may be that on noiseless toes these singular little creatures may be lightly passing through the mazes of the giddy dance, and perhaps your larder may be relieved of a portion of your choicest viands. If so blame the fairies, for no matter how much affection one may cherish for them he cannot countenance thieving, especially when the best in the place is taken, and one knows not to whom he is indebted for the visit.

The Canadian Monthly.

The Canadian Monthly for April shows renewed energy and enterprise on the part of the management. The chief attraction is undoubtedly the opening chapter of William Black's new story, 'Green Pastures and Piccadilly.' The story is published for the first time in Canada in the Monthly. Mr. Black as a novelist stands second to George Eliot alone of contemporary English writers. In the instalment of five chapters given in the April number of the Monthly two firmly drawn and interesting characters—Lady Sylvia and Hugh Balfour—already appear, and we also have a capital scene in the author's best vein between Balfour, who is a member of Parliament, and a deputation from his Irish constituents, who desire to force upon him the advocacy of Home Rule. Amongst the graver articles of the number that of Fidelis on 'The Temperance Problem', is a powerful appeal in favor of prohibition; and Mr. J.A. Allen, of Kingston, has an article on 'the Jully Eish,' notes of recent important discoveries in Rudimentary Geology. The writer of 'Lacrosse' argues in favor of a change in the name of what may fairly be considered our national game. Dr. Beers, of Montreal, contributes an amusing sketch, entitled, 'A Land-lubber at Sea,' and Shirley's sketch of life in Bermuda. In 'Round the Table,' various contributors touch upon various interesting topics. 'Current Events displays the usual ability and force, tho' it is impossible to assent to all the views of the writer. The poetry of the Canadian Monthly is above the average. A poem by Alex. McLachlan, displaying much feeling and skill in versification, is called 'My Old Schoolmaster.' An Easter poem, entitled 'Memories,' is also worthy of commendation.

Juvenile Missionary Anniversary.

Last evening the basement of the P. M. Church was filled with the young people and their friends. The services were commenced by singing 'There is a fountain filled with blood,' and prayer by the Rev. N. Welwood. The chairman, Rev. T. Jolliffe, said that he was glad to see so large an audience, and if he had been aware so many would have been present he would have had the meeting upstairs. For the small number that had taken missionary collecting cards, they had done very well, the collections being double what they were last year. Some may say the times are hard, but the missionary spirit is not abated. The total amount collected was $4,267.

The juvenile choir then sung 'Come to the Saviour.'

Rev. N. Wellwood, of Collinsby, addressed them. He was glad to see so great an improvement in the school, in their behaviour and readiness to answer questions. He related some very interesting anecdotes. One was of a little girl in a Sabbath school in London. She had a drunken father, but she had given herself to Jesus. One Sabbath afternoon her father was home and very cross. The little girl sang one or two of her Sabbath School hymns. The father's attention was arrested, and he wanted to know where she had learned it. He asked her to sing it again; he was affected and the tears came; the strong man was broken down; he knelt and desired his little daughter to pray with him to Jesus; the results were he gave his heart to Jesus, became a devoted Christian worker, and he had a son that he gave to the Lord, who is now a servant of God. See the results of one little girl's faithful efforts. Another story was that of a missionary meeting in Mr. Spurgeon's chapel, where so many people can assemble. On the evening of this occurrence the place was overcrowded; the aisles also. When the collectors went around to take up the collection there was a little boy so small that the collectors were passing him by. He desired the plate to be placed low down, which was done. "A little lower," he asked, until it was right opposite him. Then he put his two hands together and said, "Lord Jesus, I have no money to give, but I give my heart to thee; take me please, Jesus, for Thy service." And he was taken into the service of Jesus, for Mr. Spurgeon, hearing of the incident, took the boy, and he is now studying for the ministry in Mr. Spurgeon's Academy. There were many more anecdotes that he related, but it would take up too much space. The choir then sang "Only an armour bearer."

Rev. Mr. Jolliffe having recited a couple of very pleasing incidents, Mr. G. W. Abrams sang "The Drunkard's Dream," assisted by Miss Abrams, very feelingly. The Chairman embraced the opportunity of warning young women never to marry men who were given to drink. He gave an incident of a young lady who was engaged to a young man. One Sunday evening, coming from Church, she happened to get the smell of his breath, which was strong with whiskey. She immediately withdrew her arm from his and stood still, and told him that she would go home alone. He wanted to know the reason. She said she had made a vow never to marry a man that drank liquor. So they separated. She was right. Young ladies should follow her example.

Mr. Lacey then addressed them and he kept them amused. He must be a favorite among the young people, for they were all well pleased with the way he addressed them, especially when he promised to give a reward to the boy and girl who would collect the most next year.

Miss Abrams then sang "In the morn when the mists are cleared away."

Mr. Joliffe delivered prizes to the following collectors in the shape of nice little books:—Lewis Abrams, $10; Frankie Bell, $6,15; Isabella Armstrong, $5; Hattie Lake, $4,41; Maggie Joliffe, $2,30; Walter Carnovsky, 2,50; Sarah Holland, $2,74; Addie Louisa Smith, $3,27; Annie Halls, $2,04; Louisa Johnson, $2,14; Minnie Godwin, $2; Joseph Snyder, $1,12. Total $42,67.

The meeting closed with the doxology and benediction.

Band of Hope next Tuesday evening—the last for the season.

SCHOOL HOLIDAYS.—As some doubt exists as to the state of the new law for holidays, we here produce the official notification:—

"There shall be two vacations during the year for Public Schools. The Summer vacation shall be from the eighth day of July to the seventeenth day of August inclusive; the Winter vacation from the twenty-fourth day of December to the second day of January inclusive. Good Friday is a statutory holiday in rural schools.

There shall be three vacations for High Schools and Public Schools in cities, towns and incorporated villages, the Easter vacation to extend from Good Friday to Easter Monday inclusive; the Summer vacation shall begin on the fourteenth day of July, and end on the thirty-first day of August, and the Christmas vacation shall begin on the 23rd day of December and close on the sixth day of January.

BUSINESS LIKE.—This morning a young man of business air arrived here from Brockville with the announced intention of starting a grocery, and as soon as the fact became known we understand some eleven dealers in Pekoe Souchong, brown sugar and roasted peas, announced their readiness to sell out at cost if not cheaper. All of which encouraged the Brockville business man.

THE NEW WHAT IS IT.—It appears that people do not yet all get a correct idea of the Telephone. The impression seems to be that an orchestra plays in Philadelphia, for instance, the Telephone will reproduce the sound in its intirety in New York. This is not at all the case. The Telephone is a distinct instrument, the keys of which are struck in one city, while the corresponding notes are sounded in another, the attachment between them being by electricity. It not only conveys the sound, but produces it. Its tone is in quality somewhat like that of an oboe or a clarinet, and it is about as loud as a small melodeon or cabinet organ. A Telephone concert is to be given in New York Monday night. It is exciting a great deal of curiosity.

THE Grand Central Hotel, New York, illustrates the wisdom of a full house at reasonable rates, by reducing from $4.00 to 2.50 and $3 00 per day, and leaving its other competitors to bear the brunt of extravagant prices.

St. George's Concert.

Last evening the Concert in aid of St. George's Sunday School came off in St. George's Hall, the attendance being large, and the audience very attentive. The programme was very lengthy as originally designed, but it was rendered more lengthy by the number of encores which were called for. We are conscious that when an audience recalls a vocalist it is intended that the act should be taken to indicate the favor in which his or her singing is held; but, candidly, encoring is a serious tax upon one who has, it may be, in the first instance expended the whole strength in giving effect to a selection of occasional great length. But it is a fashion which cannot be partially mitigated. There must be either an understanding to respond to no encores or else to answer the plaudits of the public, indiscriminately as they be given. But we are digressing. The opening piece last evening was sung by the Sabbath School children—an Easter carol, 'Jesus Christ is Risen'—an enlivening selection which the children sang with great animation and in excellent time, under the direction of Prof. Oldham. Then followed Prof. Oldham, who played with marked skill and gracefulness Weber's 'Der Freyschutz.' In Part Second the Professor also gave two solos, 'Fra Diavalo' and 'Thalia Mazourka,' with equal acceptability; but the happiest efforts in the instrumental line were reached when Mr. Oldham and Major Geraghty, on piano and clarionet, played the duet 'Poet and Peasant,' in which the instruments harmonized beautifully, and in the execution of which the gifted musicians never acquitted themselves better. Major Geraghty also gave a clarinet solo, 'Robert la Diable,' with organ accompaniment by Mr. Oldham, and again the melody was perfect. Unfortunately Miss Geraghty was ill, and at the last moment Miss Davis kindly consented to supply her place on the programme, and not only fill her place but sing the same piece 'Little Footsteps,' a ballad of surpassing sweetness, and given in excellent voice. The accompaniments of organ and clarinet served to make it the more interesting. Mr. R. Tandy gave 'Once again' with a finish perhaps he never exceeded in the rendition of the selection before. Every note was clear and rounded, while the modulation of voice betokened cultivation. He was very warmly applauded, and in reappearing sang 'Good bye sweet heart.' Mr. William Tandy's 'Village Church' was a new piece, and perhaps it was on that account its merits were not as fully esteemed as they should have been, but it was not allowed to pass without an encore, when he sang with fine vigour and in fine style, 'Hearts of Oak,' which was enthusiastically received. Then the Tandy Bros. sang, at a later stage, in duet, 'The Fisherman.' On being encored they contributed "Hear me Norma," and were nearly recalled a second time. Miss Davis and Capt. Wilson sang a very pretty duet, 'Syren and Friar.' They made a very favorable impression, and in acknowledgment of the complimentary applause they repeated a portion of the piece. Capt. Wilson also sang "Alice," which elicited an encore. Miss Davy presided at the piano. Mr. Humphrey, who possesses a fine base voice, made his debut popular in the singing of 'The Sexton,' a part of which he also had to repeat. But two very excellent quartettes, which formed a leading attraction of the evening, were rendered by Misses Davis (soprano), Davy (alto), Capt. Wilson (tenor), and Mr. Humphrey (basso). The selections were "Sweet and Low" and "Good Night," and each part was well taken, while the whole deserved the recognition and eulogy it received. The only remaining piece, the chorus by the choir of the Cathedral, "Gloria in Excelsis," was not equal to its production on Easter, when the chorus was stronger and more complete. All the members of the choir were not present last evening; and considering that their reputation was somewhat at stake they should have been there to sustain their leader on the occasion. Miss Bates was not able to accept an engagement, having been previously partly engaged for a concert in Cobourg, which, however, did not take place.

Easter Vestries.

BATH.—The following were elected: Churchwardens, T. E. Howard and L. Bristol; Lay Delegates, Dr. Kennedy, T. E. Howard and L. Bristol.

TAMWORTH.—The Rev. Mr. Scammell occupied the chair. Thos. Hinchey and C. G. Coxall were appointed Churchwardens, and John Kennedy and R. T. McDonnell Lay Delegates.

Stop That Cough,

or it will terminate in that dreadful disease, consumption. We are aware that a prejudice exists among many persons against medicines which profess to cure a cough or cold when bordering on consumption, or even when the lungs are affected, but we can assure our readers that WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY will do all this; and in making this assertion we speak from experience, having suffered for months from a cough, which after using many remedies without any relief threatened to terminate seriously. We were, however, so fortunate as to secure several bottles of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and are now entirely rid of the cough, and restored to our former health. To those suffering in a like manner we recommend this excellent preparation.

JOHN G. WESTAFER, editor of the Chronicle, Elizabethtown, Pa., March 26, 1874.

50 cents and $1 a bottle; large bottles much the cheaper. Sold by dealers generally.

EPPS'S COCOA.—Some time since, in a series of articles in these columns upon food, we spoke in terms of unqualified praise of Messrs Epps & Co's "Prepared Cocoa." The opinion we then expressed as to its purity and nutritious qualities has been fully endorsed by the public, as shown in its increased and steadily increasing consumption. We believe that Messrs. Epps's manufactories are now the largest of the kind in the three kingdoms, and the total quantity of "Prepared Cocoa" consumed at the present time approaches four millions of pounds annually. This result is not surprising. The dietetic properties of native cocoa are well known, but in the form prepared by Messrs. Epps they are rendered additionally valuable, both on account of their increased nutritive power and digestible character. We rejoice to see the high opinion we originally held to have been so generally confirmed, and we again congratulate Messrs. Epps on the sound and valuable addition they have made to our not over lengthy list of dietetic foods.—Civil Service Gazette.
