THE LATE CAPTAIN DAVIS.

TREMONT PARK RESORT WAS NAMED BY HIM.

His Career in The Marine Business—Steamers He Owned—Lighthouse Keeper And Fishery Overseer.

The Gananoque Reporter, in an obituary notice of the death of the late John Hilliard Davis, says:

"Mr. Davis, or as he was generally known, Capt. Davis, was born in the township of Lansdowne, January 29th, 1837. His father was a farmer, and much given to moving. He moved westward from Lansdowne, settling at various places for short periods, and finally reached the vicinity of Georgian Bay, in which locality the captain spent his younger years. He learned the business of photography at Southampton, and followed it for a number of years. In 1864, being out of health, he came to Gananoque to spend the summer, thinking a change of location and rest from business would improve his physical condition which it did. While here on that occasion he formed acquaintance with men who in former years had been neighbors and friends of his father in Lansdowne. Among them was the late John Bradley, whose daughter, Miss Emily Bradley, the captain afterwards, in 1867, married, and who is now in the prime of life. She is niece of J. A. Bradley, Esq., postmaster, Lansdowne. Of a family of three daughters and two sons, only one daughter is now living, the wife of Dr. W. D. Sharpe, of Lyn.

In 1876 he exchanged the "Sanford Davis" with H. N. Truesdell for Tidd's island, opposite Gananoque, and moved down here. The island business was then just beginning to grow, and camping out was becoming a regular custom. The captain named his island "Tremont park," had it surveyed out in lots, and built a summer hotel on it, with dock, etc. The lots sold readily, and most of them have cottages on them now. He made money out of the enterprise, but was ready to sell out at any time. About fifteen years ago he made a trade with Alexander See, by which he gave up most of his remaining interest in the island, and got the house and land bordering on the Gananoque river, near the swing bridge. Then he was appointed keeper of Jack Straw and the Narrows lighthouses, which position he has held for a few years. Since that time he has been more or less constantly engaged in steamboating. He owned the Lily Nicholson, and did excursion business with her. Then he built the St. Julian for the same business, but sold her to parties in Ottawa, where she is still running. Then, in partnership with George H. Shutliffe, he had the Antelope built, and established the Gananoque-Brockville route. His last venture in that line was an iron boat, which he built himself on his lot here, and equipped with a gasoline engine; afterwards selling it to parties up the Bay of Quinte.

He spent considerable time each year, and some money, in working up illuminations of the islands, and other spectacular and social events for entertainment of visitors. He was also interested in protecting the river fish and for some years was a government fishery overseer for this district.

During the last ten years, however, he did not enjoy good health, suffering from chronic bronchitis. For the alleviation of that disease he made trips to Texas and southern California, and spent two winters in Florida where he obtained a situation. But he was forced by sickness to give up work, and came home in the spring. Since that time he was mostly confined to his home, and steadily failing. The last time we saw him out was on 24th July, when he went to the polls to vote for the bonus by-law.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, the members of the A.O.U.W., of which society he was a member, attended in a body, with badges and appropriate ceremony. He was a member also of Grace Methodist church, the pastor of which, Rev. Mr. Wood, conducted the funeral services."

It is not at all surprising that many people complain of nervous exhaustion, general debility, sleeplessness, etc. Being always on the go, the system requires invigorating at times. "THESE CANADIAN PEOPLE."

United States Tourists Complain About Steamers Blowing.

The Thousand Island park correspondent has this squeal in the Syracuse Post-Standard:

"Summer guests at the park are complaining of the blowing of steamboat whistles during the early Monday morning hours. Saturday night usually sees three or four Canadian steamboats arrive at about seven o'clock in the evening with 150 to 300 excursionists on board each boat. These Canadian people come to the park every Saturday night, spend Sunday and leave at six o'clock Monday morning. Near the hour of departure of these boats their whistles can be heard all over the park, thus disturbing the slumbers of several hundreds of park people.

"The trustees of the association notified the steamboat captains that their whistles must not be blown so vigorously hereafter on Monday mornings. The captains claim that their whistles are blown for the purpose of awakening the Canadian excursionists that they may arise in time to catch their boats back home again, which leave the park at 6 a.m. sharp."

Just take note of the expression, "these Canadian people." United Statesers should not complain about a little "blowing." There's a mighty lot of it done in the land where the eagle is raised on high.

AN ACTION FOR DAMAGES.

Taken Against the Admiral of the British Squadron.

Halifax, Aug. 27.—Some time since Edwin Hooper, a contractor on admiralty work in Bermuda, was arrested in this city at the instance of admiral Bedford, of the British squadron, charged with having stolen government stores. After an enquiry he was discharged and he returned to Bermuda. Now Hooper has retained a lawyer to bring an action against admiral Bedford for £5,000 damages for false imprisonment. Hooper's story is that he purchased the material in question in good faith from Bermuda dock yard officials, who are said to be prominent. They have now, in turn, been arrested.

Canadian Minerals In London.

We understand, says British Mining, a journal published in London, that the dominion government has decided to send the whole of the collection of Canadian mineral specimens, now on view at the Glasgow exhibition, to London, and that these specimens will form the nucleus of a permanent exhibit in this city. This is a step in the right direction, for although the exhibit has proved to be a very effective advertisement at the Glasgow exhibition, there is no doubt that it will be shown in London to much greater advantage. If they are to serve a useful purpose in bringing the mineral wealth of Canada before those who are interested in mining, and capitalists who are anxious to find employment for their money, it is absolutely necessary that they be located within measurable distance of the Mansion house.

A Ruse That Failed.

The Seymour Press tells of a woman who decided to scare her husband who is quite a hard drinker, so that he would reform. To do this she procured a costume of a devil that had been worn at a masquerade. The next time the erring spouse came home feeling happy she quickly donned the terrible costume. As he opened the door she stepped forward and said in sepulchral tone: "Come with me; I am the devil." The result rather startled her, as the response to her greeting was: "Zat so? Shake ol' boy. I'm your brother-in-law; I married your sister."

No Official Sanction.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—Reported peace negotiations for the settlement of the steel strike through the mediation of disinterested parties, officials and members of the national civic federation received a set back when president Theodore J. Shaffer, of the amalgamated association of iron and steel workers, last night, declared absolutely that he had no official knowledge of such proceedings and that if such a measure had been started it did not have the official sanction of the organization.

Insanity, Suicide And Falling Sickness.

Come With the Hot and Depressing Weather—Papers Filled with Records of Sudden Deaths by Heart Failure and Nervous Exhaustion.

It Is Now That Your System Is Most in Need of the Assistance Which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Affords.

An occasional glance at the daily papers is enough to convince almost anyone that summer is the season on insanity, suicides and epilepsy. This year such cases seem to be more numerous than ever. Everywhere people are falling victims of nervous exhaustion, prostration or paralysis. The withering summer heat seems to be more than they can bear. The vitality of the body cannot stand the strain, and overcome by worry, failing health, anaemia, menstrual derangements, overwork or exhausting disease join the immense army of weaklings—wrecked in body and mind.

The approach of serious nervous disorders is usually gradual and at first unsuspected. A tendency to neglect duty and feeling of depression and languor are among the first indications. Insomnia or sleeplessness is a constant and stubborn symptom. There are headache, indigestion, slow and feeble action of the heart, coated tongue, poor appetite, mental anguish or pain, fear of some awful calamity, and growing weakness and debility.

No one would for a moment think of neglecting a disease so dreadful in its results as nervous exhaustion, and yet it is so gradual in its beginning that many recognize it only when it is forever too late. The time to act is when vitality begins to wane, when there are loss of flesh, feelings of fatigue and symptoms of physical decline. A regular course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will soon show a gain in vitality and steady growth towards perfect health and vigor.

There is no getting around the fact that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest nerve restorative and blood builder that this age has known. It helps men, women and children through the trying times in life when an unusual demand is made on the human system. It helps most in summer time, when the withering, debilitating weather is exhausting and enervating.

You cannot liken Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to any medicine you ever used. It should be called a nerve vitalizer, and tissue builder, rather than a medicine. It cures disease, not by tearing down the tissues of the body, but by building them up. Naturally and gradually it rekindles life in the nerve cells and forms new red corpuscles in the blood—the only way to thoroughly cure nervous disorders.

By taking one pill after each meal during the exhausting and debilitating summer weather you can keep in mind and body in perfect health, and avoid the risk of nervous collapse, with its dreadful results. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food adds new flesh to the body, makes the muscles firm, restores color to the cheeks and puts force and power into the nervous system; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto.
