EMMA GOLDMAN

Has Sympathy Only For Mrs. McKinley.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—When shown the dispatch announcing the death of president McKinley, Emma Goldman, the anarchist, carefully adjusted her glasses, read the bulletin, and after a moment's pause, without a change of expression, said:

"Very sorry."

Absolutely no shade of regret or pity showed itself upon her countenance.

"I do not see how that can affect my case," she added, "If it is carried on lawfully and legally. They have no evidence against me. Chief Bull and chief O'Neill have admitted they have no evidence. They are holding me without evidence. The death of McKinley will only lengthen my term of imprisonment if they convict me. I feel very bad for the sake of Mrs. McKinley, outside of that I have no sympathy."

Emma Goldman was spirited away from the woman's annex of the Harrison street police station early this morning, when it was learned that the president was dead. While she was being hurried away a crowd numbering about 100 men started for the annex, loudly threatening to lynch her.

THIRSTED FOR HIS BLOOD.

Frenzied Crowd Proceeded to Storm the Jail.

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 14.—Thousands of people thirsted for the blood of murderer Czolgosz last night, and surrounded police headquarters. When the president's condition grew alarming, it was decided to remove Czolgosz to the Erie county penitentiary. The crowd were prepared to storm the jail, and tear the anarchist to pieces. The wretch, however, was taken by the police through a back entrance, and driven away in a carriage, unknown to those seeking to avenge their ruler.

The case of Czolgosz will go before the grand jury next Monday. He will be sent down for trial on Sept. 23rd, in the supreme court, before justice White.

ARRANGING FUNERAL.

A Simple Religious Service At Buffalo.

BODY GOES TO WASHINGTON.

AND THENCE TO CANTON, OHIO, FOR BURIAL.

Mourning for the Dead President is Universal—Flags Floating Everywhere at Half-Mast—The Pan-American Exposition Has Been Closed Until Monday.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 14.—In regard to the president's funeral, according to present intentions, there will be a simple religious ceremony at the Milburn house. The body will then be escorted to the train by soldiers and will be taken to Washington, where it will lie in state for some time, and, subsequently be taken to Canton, Ohio, for burial. It is said that the body will not be taken from this city until Sunday or Monday.

After her final parting with the president, Mrs. McKinley was urged to go to her room and obtain some rest. She was sleeping when the end came and up to six o'clock this morning had not been informed of her husband's death.

The president realized, almost before the doctors, that there was no hope. He faced the situation with the quiet resignation of a christian man. His face betrayed no fear, no trace of any shrinking emotion. He was a little graver, and that was all. Early in the afternoon he expressed a desire for a short religious service "Call the doctors in," he said, "I would like to have a short prayer." The attending physicians quickly assembled in the room, and with bowed heads and filling eyes, listened to a word of supplication to the Almighty.

Mrs. McKinley is bearing up bravely. This morning secretary Cortelyou reported that she is doing as well as could be expected. She has rallied from the temporary shock, which marked her visit to her husband, and now seems reconciled to her great loss. The apprehension that she would break down under the severe strain has not been dispelled and fears are now entertained.

Mrs. Garrat Hobart, widow of the former vice-president, and Garrat A Hobart, jr., called on her this morning. They had just arrived from the east. Mrs. Hobart came to Buffalo to offer her sympathy and to help Mrs. McKinley, and on account of their friendship her presence will be a great comfort to Mrs. McKinley in her hour of sorrow.

A meeting of the members of McKinley's cabinet occurred this morning at the Milburn house.

An autopsy on the body of president McKinley was performed at the Milburn residence, at 11 o'clock this morning.

Out of respect to the late martyred president the Pan-American exposition is closed to-day and will remain so till Monday. The death of the president cast a gloom over the foreign people at the exposition and they join with the people of the United States in universal mourning. All festivals and celebrations have, accordingly, been postponed.

Regret In Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 14.—Flags are flying half-mast on the government and civic buildings to-day, out of respect to the memory of the late president McKinley. There is genuine and widespread sorrow in the capital, at the sad death of the president.

Montreal, Sept. 14.— Amid brightness and gayety of the decorations for the visit of the duke and duchess of York, flags are flying at half mast on all the leading buildings in the business part of the city, and on many residences out of respect for the memory of the late president McKinley. Several ministers announce that they will hold special services in their churches to-morrow which will be largely in the nature of memorial services.

Woodstock, Ont., Sept. 14.—The news of the death of president McKinley caused profound sorrow here. The mayor ordered that the flags on the city hall and other public buildings be put at half-mast.

London, Ont., Sept. 14.—People thronged the streets until early this morning to hear the latest news from the bedside of the dying president. At six o'clock this morning the city hall bell began to toll and the citizens knew that the end had come. The flags on the city hall and other public buildings were flying at half-mast.

Halifax, Sept. 14.—Flags are flying at half-mast at the citadel and all prominent and many business houses throughout the city. Consul-general Foster is away, but many prominent citizens left their cards at his office. The news of the president's death has roused profound sensation here. General regret is expressed. Gov. Jones, attorney-general Langley, mayor Hamilton and other prominent people, express their feelings in interviews.

Sorrow In London.

London, Sept. 14.—From the towers of Westminster abbey, from the grey buildings, where the government of the empire is administered, from the mansion house, and law courts, from churches, hotels, and business and private houses in London, union jacks are floating at half mast as a mark of sympathy for the murdered president. All the stock and commercial exchanges, are closed.

At the United States embassy a quiet and sorrowful crowd, many of the visitors being in deep mourning, passes in and out recording their last respects for president McKinley.

King Edward telegraphed to ambassador Choate as follows: "Most truly do I sympathize with you and the whole American nation at the loss of our distinguished and ever-to-be-regretted president.—Edward Rex."

Telegrams are pouring in from prominent Englishmen, societies and municipalities expressing sympathy and horror. Everything as yet is rather unsettled, but it is probable that a memorial service of imposing proportions will be held in Westminster abbey, as was done at the time of the death of Gen. Grant.

The Emperor's Orders.

Dantzic, Sept. 14.—When emperor William heard of the death of president McKinley he immediately ordered the German fleet to half-mast their flags and to hoist the stars and stripes at their maintops.

Every Public Place Closed.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 14.—All executive departments of the government have been closed for the day as a mark of respect for the memory of the president and all employees were dismissed for the day. The order was telegraphed to all branches of the executive departments throughout the country.

Notes Gathered Up.

It is quite unlikely that a special session of congress will be convened.

Members of the cabinet officially decided to-day that there shall be a state funeral at Washington.

At 8.27 a.m Roosevelt's train passed through Schenectady, N.Y.; at 9.56 a.m., he was at Rome, N.Y.

Roosevelt is president now. President Arthur took the oath at 2 a.m. after the death of Gen. Garfield. Justice Brady, New York, administering the oath.

President Roosevelt's train arrived at Rochester, N.Y., at 12.15 o'clock and departed for Buffalo at 12.18. His car was tightly locked and no word was given out.

Without unseemly haste the members of the cabinet will tender their resignations and then the new president will be free to initiate his policy and choose his own cabinet.

Mrs. McKinley, broken in health and racked almost to the breaking point with her overwhelming sorrow, walked bravely to the bedside of the president and gave him a farewell kiss.

Coroner Wilson has charge of the official examination of the president's body. This morning he selected the jury, which is comprised of the most prominent citizens. Dr. Stocker and Dr. Hoyer, post mortem examiners, will perform the autopsy.

Coroner Wilson will not hold a formal inquest. The doctors will hold an autopsy to determine the cause of death, and the coroner will issue a permit for the removal of the body. It is thought unlikely that the body will be removed from Buffalo before Monday.

SWORN ON HIS ARRIVAL.

When Roosevelt Arrives He Will be Made President.

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 14.—Arrangements have been made to swear in vice-president Roosevelt, as president of United States, immediately upon his arrival at the Milburn house. The oath will be administered in the Milburn home. The ceremony will be brief. Judge John S. Hazel, Buffalo, has been asked to administer the oath.

News From The Barracks.

The steam yacht V. R. I., with Lieut. Miller and a party of ladies went ashore on Goose Island last evening, and was towed to her wharf by one of Calvin's tugs at one o'clock this morning. Sergt. Lieut.-Col. Hudon has moved to quarters in the city.

Creditable School Work.

The exhibit of the work of the school children was a great help to the fair, and many were the words of praise sounded in its favor. Each teacher in the city deserves a portion of the credit for the fine display, and it is good to know that Kingston has such talented children. Miss Bateman and Miss Gilbert, who had charge of the exhibit and its neat arrangement, were very courteous in their explanations and treatment of the public, and are entitled to considerable credit and gratitude.

Will Go To Toronto.

The officers of the 14th battalion say that the force will go to Toronto to attend review before the duke of York. They never had any other intention for the orders of the government they regard as imperative. The government meets expenses. It was idle talk of privates saying the regiment would not go.

$5.00 Buffalo And Return. $5.00.

Commencing 15th Sept. steamer "North King" will leave Sundays at 5 p.m., for Buffalo via Charlotte, N. Y. Return tickets good for thirty days, $5. J. P. Hanley and J. P. Gildersleeve, agents.

Owing to the president's death the international yacht race has been postponed, but whether for a few weeks, or year, has not been decided.

The doctor was remanded till Friday next and bail was refused. ROBBED AN ASSYRIAN.

Two Men Attack a Pack Peddler Near Wilmur.

Inverary, Sept. 13.—A daring case of robbery is reported from the vicinity of Wilmur, a few miles from this place. An Assyrian pack peddler called at a house to sell his wares, which consisted of notions, cheap jewellry and small dry goods. While there the man of the house, assisted by a relative, began to purloin the jewellry. When the foreigner demanded his goods they not only refused to restore the articles, but became abusive and eventually assaulted the stranger with fists, chairs and clubs. After an exciting fight the assailants overcame the peddler and robbed him of fifteen dollars in cash. They then put his body and packs out on the road.

This morning the Assyrian is after justice. He secured the services of two constables to go to the house in order to get the names of the guilty men, so that warrants might be sworn out for their arrest.

The Jewish New Year.

To-day is the Jewish new year, and according to Hebrew reckoning the beginning of the year 5662. It is one of the great Jewish festivals, and is recognized as a holiday. Services were held in the hall over the public school library, Princess street, and the day marked with most solemn religious ceremonials. Devout Jews will suspend all kinds of work and business for three days. During their continuance there will be many reconciliations of enemies and remissions of debts, with a distribution of alms. The new year observances are among the most impressive and obligatory of the Hebrew church. The reform Hebrews celebrate but one day.
